Tokio, Sept. 1.—(11 a. m.)—The battle of Liao Yang is progressing without appreciable result. Official Japanese dispatches, sent out late yesterday, say that neither contestant has realized any visible results.

Liao Yang, Sept. 1.—The second day's battle commenced at dawn Wednesday. The Russians made repeated bayonet advances on the road directly south of Liao Yang, where the Japanese approached from Sanquaiship and Tan, shelling the positions in the Russian lines until 4 in the afternoon, when the engagement, which was general throughout the south and southeast, narrowed to the main line.

Tried to Take Hill.

The Japanese advance on the southeast was by way of the Feng Wang Cheng road. Immediately in front of Chiao-Fantun the Japanese stubbornly attempted to occupy a round-topped hill which was literally shaved by Russian shells, making repeated attempts the entire day where apparently it was impossible for anything to live. The cannonading continued from this point to the vicinity of Wangpaotai until in the evening without apparent advantage to either side. The Japanese dropped shells within two or three miles of the railroad station and in the plain of Wentshu mountain, which is the most important eminence around Liao Yang, but the Japanese abandoned aggression there. Cannon fire is expected nightly.

Considering the scale of the day's operations, the number of Russian wounded is apparently small, while the Japanese losses are believed to be great, especially where they were repulsed on the south road. Developments are expected west and northeast.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 1.—(1 a. m.)—With the knowledge that Russian and Japanese armies about Liao Yang are locked in a death struggle, the tension in St. Petersburg is strained to the utmost. It is believed here that the fight cannot stop short of the crushing defeat of one side or the other.

All reports so far are favorable to the Russians.

Critical Stage Not Reached.

The highest military authorities here consider that the most critical stage of the battle has not yet been reached and they believe that the fight may continue for some time before either side acknowledges defeat. It is thought here that, in view of the numbers engaged, the desperateness of the assaults and the length of the line, about seven miles, the losses in the two days' fighting cannot fall short of 10,000 on each side. Both sides are straining every nerve, realizing that the fortunes of war for a whole year are in the scale, and neither side is in the mood or the position to spare men in the effort to achieve a final victory.

The battle of Liao Yang will probably rank as one of the great sanguinary battles of history.

Remarkable Endurance.

In the preliminary fighting of Monday the Russians captured 200 prisoners, who have already arrived at Harbin, and the report persists that they captured forty Japanese guns Tuesday.

One of the surprising phases of the situation is the endurance of the men. They have been engaged desperately for two days after more or less severe fighting under unfavorable conditions every day since Aug. 24.

The Japanese are using balloons to locate the Russian guns and trenches.

The dispatches estimate the Japanese force at about 240,000 men and the Russian at from 170,000 to 200,000 men, with from 600 to 1,000 guns engaged on each side. No news regarding the Liao Yang battle has been received from Japanese sources.

NEGLIGENT TRAINMEN

Caused Collision in Which Nine Persons Were Killed.

TWENTY-THREE OTHERS HURT

Terrible Catastrophe Near Richmond, Que.—Regular and Excursion Trains Met Head-on—Engineers and Firemen Jumped Before They Met.

Montreal, Sept. 1.—Nine people were killed and twenty-three others injured in a head-on collision on the Grand Trunk railroad near Richmond, Quebec. The trains involved were a special excursion from Montreal, bound for Sherbrooke, and passenger train No. 5, running between Island Pond, Vt., and Montreal. The collision, it is claimed, was due to neglect of orders on the part of the train crew of the excursion train, which left Richmond without awaiting the arrival of the passenger train.

The excursion train was running as first section of the Portland express, which usually crosses the Island Pond train at Richmond, and was running on its time. This makes it all the more inexplicable why Conductor Atkinson, in charge of the excursion train, did not wait to make the usual crossing. Atkinson disappeared shortly after the wreck occurred.

Rounding a Curve.

The excursion train, made up of ten coaches and a baggage car, carried about 1,000 persons bound for the exhibition at Sherbrooke. The Island Pond train was composed of five coaches and a baggage car and had only a small number of passengers. The excursion train had barely cleared the Richmond yard when, rounding a curve, it met the Island Pond train running at a high rate of speed. Both engineers reversed and with their firemen jumped, escaping with minor injuries. The shock of the collision was plainly heard in Richmond, more than a mile away.

Both engines were locked firmly together. The baggage car of the excursion train was picked up and dropped on top of the car following it, a smoker, and it was in these two cars that the greater number of fatalities occurred.

Grand Haven, Mich., Aug. 31.—Francis B. Little, aged 77, hailing from Chicago, where he was a retired lumberman, is dead at Highland Park, where he had been stopping several days. Little was engaged in a game of flinch with a party of friends in his cottage when he dropped dead from heart disease.

Lord Minto at Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 31.—Lord and Lady Minto were the guests of the Canadian Soo Tuesday, and a big crowd of citizens turned out to receive them. Speeches were made by prominent citizens. Lord Minto is making a farewell trip before giving up his seat as governor-general, and will visit the entire Dominion.

Lunatic Chased Senator Clark.

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 31.—United States Senator W. A. Clark was attacked here by an insane man, known on the streets as Joe Peg, who thought the senator had been breaking the game laws and was carrying a grouse in his pocket and who threatened to take the senator's life. Peg followed Senator Clark several blocks, persistently calling upon him to hand over the grouse. Senator Clark ran panting into the lobby of the Florence hotel and demanded protection. He was sure that Peg had a gun, for several times the latter had made motions to pull it and threatened to shoot unless the senator would give up his game bird. Several persons sprang to his assistance and the insane man was overpowered.

What is life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in constipation, headache or liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly re-adjusts this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25c at C. A. Famous Marathon Race Pulled Off at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Aug. 31.—The Olympic marathon race, the third foot race contest of the kind ever held and the first ever held on American soil, participated in by thirty-one men classed among the fleetest runners of the world, was won Tuesday by Thomas I. Hicks of Cambridge, Mass., who is the first American to win this event celebrated in the revival of olympic games. Albert J. Corey of Chicago, a native born Frenchman, crossed the goal line second, and A. L. Newton of New York city crossed third. The distance of the race was forty kilometers, equal to twenty-four miles and 1,500 yards. This distance was run by Hicks in the officially announced time of 3 hours 28 minutes and 53 seconds; Corey 3 hours, 34 minutes and 16 seconds; Newton 3 hours, 47 minutes and 33 seconds.

The first olympic marathon race was held at Athens, Greece, in 1896, and won by Loues, a Greek, in 2 hours and 55 minutes; the second olympic marathon race was held in Paris in 1900 and won by Teato of France in 2 hours and 59 minutes. The winner of yesterday's race received a cup presented by President Francis of the exposition and an olympic championship gold medal, the second a silver medal, and the third a medal of bronze.

FROM LIFE IN PRISON

Ex-Sulton Murad Is Relieved by Hand of Death.

Constantinople, Aug. 31.—Former Sultan Murad V. is dead of diabetes, frim which he had long suffered.

Murad V. was born in 1840 and ascended the throne after the murder of the sultan, Abdul Aziz, May, 1876. In July of that year Murad was placed under the regency of his brother, the present sultan, Abdul Hamid II., and on Aug. 31 he was dethroned. Outwardly this act was performed legally by the council of ministers on the ground that he was insane. The facts in the case, however, will probably never be known, but it has been claimed that Murad was a good deal more sane than his brother, and one of the greatest terrors of Abdul Hamid's existence was the fear that this Turkish "man with the iron mask," as he has been termed, might escape.

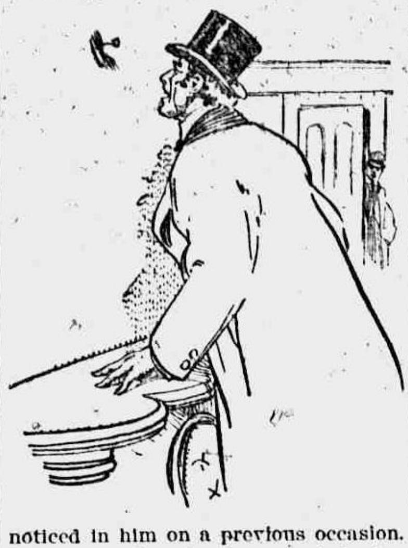
CHAPTER VII.

"Well, what now?" he inquired, with the same exaggerated courtesy I had noticed in him on a previous occasion. "You have the air of a man bringing news. Has anything fresh happened in the old house?"



The picture nail excites curiosity

I assumed a frankness which seemed to impose on him.

"Do you know," I sententiously informed him, "I have a wonderful interest in that old hearthstone, or, rather, in the seemingly innocent engraving hanging over it of Benjamin Franklin at the court of France. I tell you frankly that I had no idea of what would be found behind the picture."

I saw by his quick look that I had stirred up a hornets' nest. This was just what I had calculated to do.

"Behind it!" he repeated. "There is nothing behind it."

I laughed, shrugged my shoulders and backed slowly toward the door.

"Of course you should know," I retorted, with some condescension. Then as if struck by a sudden remembrance: "Oh, by the way, have you been told that there is a window on that floor which does not stay fastened? I speak of it that you may have it repaired as soon as the police vacate. It's the last one in the hall leading to the negro quarters. If you shake it hard enough, the catch falls back, and any one can raise it even from the outside."

"I will see to it," he replied, dropping his eyes, possibly to hide their curious twinkle. "But what do you mean about finding something in the wall behind that old picture? I've never heard"—

But, though he spoke quickly and shouted the last words after me at the top of his voice, I was by this time too far away to respond save by a dubious smile and a semipatronizing wave of the hand. Not until I was nearly out of earshot did I venture to shout back the following words:

"I'll be back in an hour. If anything happens, if the boys annoy you or any one attempts to enter the old house, telephone to the station or summon the officer at the corner. I don't believe any harm will come from leaving the place to itself for awhile." Then I walked around the block.

When I arrived in front again it was quite dark. So was the house, but there was light in the library, I felt assured that I should find Uncle David there, and I did. When after a noiseless entrance and a careful advance through the hall I threw open the door beyond the gilded pillars it was to see the tall figure of this old man mounted upon the chair I had left there peering up at the nail from which I had so lately lifted the picture. He started as I presented myself and almost fell from the chair. But the careless laugh I uttered assured him of the little importance I placed upon this evidence of his daring and unappeasable curiosity, and he confronted me with an enviable air of dignity, whereupon I managed to say:

"Really, Mr. Moore, I'm glad to see you here. It is quite natural for you to wish to learn by any means in your power what that picture concealed. I came back because I suddenly remembered that I had forgotten to rehang it."

Involuntarily he glanced again at the wall overhead, which was as bare as his hand save for the nail he had already examined.

"It has concealed nothing," he retorted. "You can see yourself that the wall is bare and that it rings as sound as any chimney piece ever made." Here he struck it heavily with his fist. "What did you imagine that you had found?"

I smiled, shrugged my shoulders in tantalizing repetition of my former action upon a like occasion and then answered brusquely:

"I did not come back to betray police secrets, but to restore this picture to its place. Or perhaps you prefer to have it down rather than up? It isn't much of an ornament."

He scrutinized me darkly from over his shoulder, a wary gleam showing itself in his shrewd old eyes, and the idea crossed me that the moment might possess more significance than appeared. But I did not step backward nor give evidence in any way that I had even thought of danger. I simply laid my hand on the picture and looked up at him for orders.

He promptly signified that he wished it hung, adding as I hesitated these words: "The pictures in this house are supposed to stay on the walls where they belong. There is a traditional superstition against removing them."

I immediately lifted the print from the floor. No doubt he had me at a disadvantage, if evil was in his heart, and my position on the hearth was as dangerous as previous events had proved it to be. But it would not do to show the white feather at a moment when his fate, if not my own, hung in the balance; so, motioning him to step down, I put foot on the chair and raised the picture aloft to hang it. As I did so he moved over to the huge settle of his ancestors, and, crossing his arms over its back, surveyed me with a smile I rather imagined than saw.

Suddenly, as I strained to put the cord over the nail, he called out:

"Look out! You'll fall!"

If he had intended to give me a start in payment for my previous rebuff he did not succeed, for my nerves had grown steady and my arm firm at the glimpse I had caught of the shelf below me. The fine brown powder I had scattered there had been displaced in five distinct spots, and not by my fingers. I had preferred to risk the loss of my balance rather than rest my hand on the shelf, but he had taken no such precaution. The clew I so anxiously desired and for which I had so recklessly worked was obtained.

But when, half an hour later, I found an opportunity of measuring these marks and comparing them with those upstairs I did not enjoy the full triumph I had promised myself, for the two impressions utterly failed to coincide, thus proving that whoever the person was who had been in this house with Mrs. Jeffrey on the evening she died it was not her Uncle David.

CHAPTER VIII.

Let me repeat. The person who had left the marks of his presence in the upper chamber of the Moore house was not the man popularly known as Uncle David. Who, then, had it been? But one name suggested itself to me—Mr. Jeffrey.

It was not so easy for me to reach this man as it had been for me to reach his singular and unimaginative uncle. In the first place, his door had been closed to every one since his wife's death. Neither friends nor strangers could gain admittance there unless they came vested with authority from the coroner. And this, even if I could manage to obtain it, would not answer in my case. What I had to say and do would better follow a chance encounter. But no chance encounter with this gentleman seemed likely to fall to my lot, and finally I swallowed my pride and asked another favor of the lieutenant. Would he see that I was given an opportunity for carrying some message or of doing some errand which would lead to my having an interview with Mr. Jeffrey? If he would I stood ready to promise that my curiosity should stop at this point and that I would cease to make a nuisance of myself.

I think he suspected me by this time, but he made no remark, and in a day or so I was summoned to carry a note to the house in K street.

MILITARY SHOULD ACT.

When Evil Element In Philippines Attacks Soldiers, Says Gen. Carter.

Washington, Sept. 1.—In his annual report Brig.-Gen. William H. Carter, commanding the department of the Visayas in the Philippines, strongly urges the encouragement of athletic sports among the soldiers to supply the present lack of means of recreation and carefully regulated and abundant employment as the most wholesome antidote for the effects of Philippine service in time of peace.

He holds that no insurrection or invasion can succeed if deprived of the control of Manila and the principal seaport cities, and that their recuperation is a military necessity. Temporary construction and makeshifts of every kind only serve, he says, to develop and confirm in the minds of Filipinos the idea that Americans do not intend to hold the islands permanently, so the matter is properly one for the study of the general staff.

A considerable portion of the report deals with the operation of Ladrones in this department during the past year, and Gen. Carter says: "I am of the opinion that it is of no benefit to the good people of these islands and will delay in their ultimate Americanization if the evil element is allowed to threaten, harass and openly attack American soldiers without immediate action by the commanding officer nearest to the place where the offense is committed." The reason of this complaint is a general order which leaves only the civil authorities to deal with such offenders. Gen. Carter closes his report with this tribute to the soldier in the Philippine:

"It would be impossible to find in the ranks of any army a more self-respecting, intelligent, physically fit and professionally trained body of men than those serving in the organization assigned to duty in this department."

PRINCESS HAS FLED.

Daughter of King of the Belgians Skips With Her Lover.

Berlin, Sept. 1.—Princess Louise of Coburg, daughter of the king of the Belgians, whose relations with Keglevich Mattasitch, the former lieutenant in the Austrian army, caused a great scandal in European royal circles seven years ago, and who has since been kept under the closest restraint, has vanished from Bad Elster, where she has been taking the cure. It is presumed that the princess is in the company of Mattasitch and is seeking to gain an asylum where she will be safe from recapture.

Dr. Thomas Herran Dead.

New York, Sept. 1.—Dr. Thomas Herran, who represented Colombia at Washington for several years, up to the time of the Panama incident, is dead at Liberty, N. Y.

Burglars Ransacked the House.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 31.—Burglars broke into the residence of Dr. Alexander Walter, 1136 Third avenue, the other night and secured $375 in cash and a quantity of silverware and clothing. They visited nearly every room in the house, ransacking drawers and chests, and leaving everything in chaotic mass on the floor.

Bliss to Parole Bennett.

Bay City, Mich., Aug. 31.—Governor Bliss is expected shortly to parole Edwin T. Bennett, former politician and newspaper owner and editor, who was sentenced to seven years in Jackson for manslaughter in connection with the death of Agnes Eberstein. The prison board recommended Bennett's parole Sept. 23.

JUMPED OFF A STEAMER.

Tragedy Occurred Off Shore of Detroit's Beautiful Belle Isle.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 31.—Several passengers on the hurricane deck of the steamer Tashmoo reported having seen a woman jump overboard as the boat was off Belle Isle returning to Detroit last night.

She was seated in the stern of the steamer in company with a man, and the other passengers said the couple were quarreling, when without a word of warning and before anybody could prevent her, she leaped into the river and was not seen again.

A black hat, black walking jacket and purse, apparently the property of the woman, were found on the deck. The purse contained the name of Florence B. Edwards. The hat and jacket were turned over to the steward of the steamer, but the purse failed to reach him.

Capt. Baker of the Tashmoo was not apprised of the supposed suicide and knew nothing of it until he came down on deck after the boat arrived at her Griswold street dock.

Cleaning Out Sporting Joints.

Bessemer Mich., Aug. 31.—Governor La Follette of Wisconsin is after the "sporting" gang at Hurley, across the Montreal river from Ironwood, and that nest of infamy is at last in a fair way of being purged of its open defiance of all decency and shame these many years. Prosecuting Attorney Foster and Sheriff Sealey are under charges of "standing in" with the various gambling and other resorts; testimony as to these charges has been taken during the week. A startling condition of affairs is brought out Governor Luce, away back in the '80s made a similar clean-out on this side of the Montreal and this is what drove the whole sporting gang across that stream into Wisconsin, where it has nested ever since.

ROSE WON HONORS.

U. of M. Student Broke World's Shot Put Record.

St. Louis, Sept. 1.—Again have the athletes competing in the track and field events of the Louisiana Purchase exposition revival of the Olympic games demonstrated that they are the peers of any previous aggregation of international character.

Wednesday the third of the 1904 Olympiad, one world's record fell before the prowess of an American, three Olympic records were broken, the laurels going to two Americans and a Greek, and one Olympic and world's record was broken, but owing to an unfortunate accident the time will not be allowed in the latter as the official record.

Something of interest to Michigan readers is the knowledge that Ralph W. Rose of the Chicago Athletic association played ducks and drakes with the Olympic and world's records in the 16-pound shot put. His first essay buried the Olympic record and came within two inches of the world's record. He tried twice more bore he succeeded in smashing the latter with a put of 48 feet 7 inches. The former Olympic record was 46 feet 3½ inches, made by R. Sheldon of the New York Athletic club at Paris in the 1900 revival of the Olympic games, and the former world's record was 48 feet 2 inches. Rose is a University of Michigan student.

The Mystery Increases.

Orion, Mich., Sept. 1.—There are likely to be some interesting developments when the inquest into the death of Maynard Bixby, the young man whose mangled body was found on the railroad track, is held. The failure to find Bixby's watch has been one element in the mystery. Now it is learned the watch has been found. It was picked up at the next station above here on the railway line. Who found it the authorities will not tell, but they claim that it was carried there by the train that killed Bixby, and then dropped. The rings missing from the dead boy's fingers, it is also learned, have been traced. They were removed from his fingers before he went to his death, is the claim.

Delegates to Prison Congress.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 1.—The following delegates have been named by Gov. Bliss to attend the annual congress of the National Prison association, to be held in Quincy, Ill., Oct. 15-20, 1904, to serve as such without expense to the state: Philip A. Snyder, Three Rivers; Levi L. Barbour, Detroit; J. Morris Fisher, Detroit; Tracy McGregor, Detroit; Rabbi Leo M. Franklin, Detroit; Rt. Rev. John S. Foley, Detroit; Mrs. Winifred H. Cooley, Grand Rapids; H. J. Hollister, Grand Rapids; Rev. John Munday, Port Huron, Rev. R. E. MacDuff, Jackson; Prof. V. H. Lane, Ann Arbor; F. A. Nims, Muskegon, Nathan B. Hayes, Muir; W. H. Mattison, Ionia; Rev. Fr. F. A. O'Brien, Kalamazoo.

She Got Worst of It.

Port Huron, Mich., Sept. 1.—S. F. Bridgeman and his wife of Ottumwa, Iowa, coming in from Montreal on a Grand Trunk train, insisted that the customs officers should not examine their baggage. A row ensued. Mrs. Bridgeman attacked Officer John Myron with a big pocketknife. He used the satchel as a shield and buckler, and the blade of the knife cut the woman's wrist. As nothing dutiable had been found in the satchel the woman was allowed to take it and go.

Moon Office Scorched.

Battle Creek, Mich., Sept. 1.—Fire in the Daily Moon newspaper office here did damage of at least $5,000. The two linotype machines were badly damaged and the forms for the weekly edition were melted into a solid mass. Loss on stock covered by insurance and building about half covered.

Bitten by Rattlesnake.

Standish, Mich., Sept. 1.—A little girl of Wesley Lowe, a pattern maker employed in a factory here, was bitten by a rattlesnake at the bay while at a picnic. By the prompt use of whisky her life will be saved, though she is very sick.

Burned by Bonfire.

Port Huron, Mich., Sept. 1.—Edna Hurst, aged 12 years, was severely burned here by her clothing catching fire from a bonfire. It is thought her injuries may prove fatal.

Is a Philippine Scout.

Constantine, Mich., Aug. 31.—Lieut. H. M. Joss of the Philippine scouts, a Constantine young man, is visiting friends here. Lieut. Joss was graduated at the Orchard Lake military academy in 1889. His company is part of a battalion composed of Tagalogs, Maccabebes, Visayans and Ilacanoes, and he says they make first rate soldiers and are satisfied with their pay and treatment. Clara Gilliger, aged 18 years, ran away from her home in Stockbridge a few days ago, arriving in Jackson Monday. Chief of Police, Starmount, of Lansing, telegraphed Chief Boyle that the girl's detention was desired, and she was arrested in the McNaughton block Monday afternoon by Officer Frank Watson and conveyed to the jail, where she is still being held. A Lansing juvenile officer arrived Tuesday and escorted the girl to Lansing today. Before coming to Jackson she was in Marshall where she had gone to see a carnival, which was holding forth in that city. Perfect Health for All Women.

Zoa Phora Will End Your Troubles and Make Your Life a Joy—It Has Always Done This for Women and Always Will.

FREE TRIAL BOTTLE TO ALL WOMEN.

No matter how many doctors have tried and failed; no matter how many remedies you have used without results, Zoa Phora will cure you and your cure will mean something. It will be complete and perfect and permanent. It always has done this and always will. All the women who have suffered from any of the diseases peculiar to their sex and who have used Zoa Phora are to-day rejoicing in the security of perfect health and all the happiness it brings.

Zoa Phora cures all diseases and irregularities of women, misplacements, leucorrhea, suppressed and painful periods, flooding, piles, kidney, bladder and liver troubles and regulates the change of life. Not a mail arrives that does not bring letters from women who have been cured of some of these terrible diseases and whose lives have been made happy by the noble and wonderful work of Zoa Phora.

Mrs. George Sidle, McClure, Ohio, R. F. D. No. 1, says: "I was so nervous and broken down that I could not do my work. I doctored with two of our home doctors, and they said I had heart trouble. I had spells with my heart when it would beat so hard and then I would faint away. I received a sample bottle of Zoa Phora, which I took according to directions, and thought it was just what I needed, so I threw the doctor's medicine away and got a large bottle of Zoa Phora. It helped me so much that I bought two more bottles, and now I am well and strong. I do not have the spells with my heart since I took Zoa Phora and I am regular now, where before I took Zoa Phora I was very irregular and had severe pain at monthly periods. I have found it to be truly a 'Woman's Friend.' "If anyone calls in person or writes to me, I will give them the particulars in my case. I hope this will help induce some suffering woman to try Zoa Phora."

Write the Zoa Phora Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., for a free trial bottle and copy of their illustrated medical book, "Dr. Pengelly's Advice to Women." The doctor will gladly give free medical advice when needed. Zoa Phora is for sale at $1.00 a bottle by

"The two little Waifs."

"The Two Little Waifs," that sterling piece of stage property written and produced by no less a sterling character in theatrical life, Lincoln J. Carter will be seen at the New Bradley opera house on Labor day, Sept. 5, for one night only. The play will always be new as it has something in it that thrills, enthuses and makes one think. It has a theme of mistaken identity that is as old as the drama itself but told in a delightful and interesting manner. This dual role is one of the novel features of the play but beyond that it is well devised and well arranged with the pathos oozing from the attic home of the tortured mother and her two waifish children and the humor drawn from several comedy characters that are well drawn and human. A home of wealth and luxury is transformed into a tenement where poverty reigns and the rent is always due. Through it all two little tots give a beautiful rendition of characters such as are found in every day life and their naturalness of their lines is something wonderful—as children as a rule, seen behind the footlights, become frightened and speak in a forced intonation.

GEORGE NISSLEY

A week ago Thursday Geo. Nissley, a boiler maker, who was working at his trade at the car shops, was hit in the eye by a piece of steel, flying from his hammer. Almost immediately he lost the sight of it but he went to Adrian that afternoon and Dr. Morden did all he could to save the eye. Growing worse on Monday morning in company with Mrs. Nissley, he left for Detroit, where he consulted Dr. Kloffenham at Harper's hospital. At the hospital the steel was extracted from his eye, but it is still very painful.

The losing of the sight of the eye is very unfortunate and Mr. Nissley has the sympathy of every one in his affliction. He was a good workman, has been here for several years and the loss of his work at the shops can scarcely be afforded.

"The Two Little Waifs."

This play is one of the most successful ever written and staged by Lincoln J. Carter and will be seen at the New Bradley opera house on Labor day, Monday, Sept. 5, 1904. It is without doubt one of the strongest and most stirring plays that will be seen in Tecumseh this season. It comes under the personal management of James L. Buford, formerly manager of the Wardner Grand and Gillis Theatres, Kansas City. The story itself is full of strong heart interest. The villain, in order to win the love of another man's wife, breaks up the home and kidnaps one of the children. The mother is reduced to abject poverty, but in her direst need refuses aid from the man who brought trouble at the door of her home by his base plotting. The piece is full of pathos and tears, but is not without some good comedy.

LITERARY NOTES.

Following its "Western," "Fiction" and "Midsummer Holiday" numbers, the September number of The Century will likewise have a special character. It is called a "Round-the World" number and the name is justified by the geographical distribution of the text and pictures. Appropriate to this idea are two drawings by Castaigne, "The Flying Dutchman" and "The Wandering Jew," which are printed as frontispieces.

* * *

The Metropolitan Magazine for September presents a capital new "soldier" story by Rudyard Kipling, entitled "Mrs. Bathurst." In this new tale all of the author's earlier strength and fancy and all of his later skill and mastery of narrative, are happily combined to make a piece of short fiction unsurpassed by any of the recent achievements of the foremost story-tellers in the English tongue. This virile new story will prove of unusual charm to every one who loves a good story well told.

* * *

In the September installment of the "House of Fulfilment" in McClure's magazine, Geo. Madden Martin reaches the dramatic climax of her story. It is full of the tragedy of hope deferred and and love unspoken yet the reader feels that the time of fulfilment of craving must come to these real people she has brought into the lives of her many readers.

* * *

No feminine taste has been disregarded in the Designer for September. For the lover of out door sports there is an account of "Two girl camera gunners at Cape Cod;" for one fond of pictures, are two pages of most interesting reproductions from life of the "Equipages of the World" not to speak of the many artistic illustrations accompanying nearly every article presented this month.

* * *

The secret method of multiplying millions by which the enormous fortunes of Standard Oil and other big financial institutions were created veritably out of nothing is the text of the September installment of "Frenzied Finance," by Thomas W. Lawson, in Everybody's Magazine. It is no exaggeration to say that the article is of the most sensational interest and importance.

* * *

In the Review of Reviews for September the effect of the opening of the great rapid-transit subway on the social and commercial interests of Greater New York, is analyzed in an illustrated article by Herbert Croly, who has made a special study of the interrelations of transportion and housing problems in the metropolis

The September Atlantic opens brilliantly with the first chapters of Isidore a romantic serial novel bp Mrs. Mary Austin, the scene of which, is laid in southern California and which is full of unusual attractive incidents of love and adventure, of vivid description and imaginative narrative.

SIMPLE WAY TO CURE DYSPEPSIA

"Take a Mi-o-na tablet after each meal," says C. A. Wright.

With Mi-o-na there is no bother of guessing at the dose or using so many spoonsful or anything of that kind. This valuable remedy for the cure of dyspepsia is in tablet form and is the simplest way to cure the disease.

"Just take one Mi-o-na tablet after each meal," says Druggist C. A. Wright, "and in a few days you will find digestion improved, health returning and good, solid flesh added." This remarkable remedy is not a mere digestive; it mingles with the food and is readily assimilated by the system. It aids digestion and regulates and strengthens the whole digestive tract, so that after its use for a short time healthy and natural action is restored to the stomach and bowels.

Mi-o-na may properly be termed a flesh-forming food, as when it is used every part of the body fills out with solid flesh and all the outlines become beautiful and symmetrical.

Mi-o-na is not an ordinary pepsin preparation to simply aid digestion, but it is a scientific remedy that gives health and strength, firm muscle and pure blood.

No one runs the slightest risk in purchasing it, for C. A. Wright will give his personal guarantee with every 50c. box he sells to refund the money if it does not cure.

Several of our business men have exhibited considerable anxiety of late on account of their insurance. The electric light wiring has been very imperfectly done and the insurance companies have given notice that it must be changed in accordance with regulations, but there is a delay in the work. The village has also been without a fire department for several weeks and merchants are fearing that rates will be increased or policies canceled. Something should be done to correct the matter at once.—Manchester Enterprise.

An officer from Ohio came to Hudson Friday night, and Saturday went to Toledo arrested Byron Palmer on the charge of having stolen a horse at or near Delta, Ohio, a few days ago. Palmer is an old offender and was formerly a resident of Hudson. He has a prison record, having served time before for horse stealing. The last time he was sentenced to the penitentiary he was given a five year term by Judge Yaple in the Branch county circuit court, at Coldwater, and his term for that offense expired about two months ago.—Hudson Gazette.

Boy's wild ride for life.

With family around expecting him to die and a son riding for life, 18 miles, to get Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs, and colds, W. Brown of Leesville, Ind., endured death's agonies from asthma, but this wonderful medicine gave instant relief and soon cured him. He writes, "I now sleep soundly every night." Like marvelous cures of consumption, pneumonia, colds bronchitis and grip prove its matchless merit for all throat and lung troubles. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at C. A. Wright's drug store.

WHAT IS CATARRH?

Hyomei cures catarrh by the simple method of breathing it into the air passages and lungs. It kills the germs of catarrhal poison, heals and soothes the irritated mucous membrane and effectually drives this disease from the system.

If you have any of the following symptoms, catarrhal germs are at work somewhere in the mucous membrane of the throat, bronchial tubes or tissues of the lungs.

Offensive breath, dryness of the nose, pain across the eyes, pain in back of the head, pain in front of the head, tendency to take cold, burning pain in the throat, hawking to clear the throat, pain in the chest, a cough, stitch in side, losing of flesh, varible appetite, low spirited at times, raining of frothy mucous, expectorating yellow matter, difficulty in breathing, frequent sneezing, huskiness of voice, discharge from the nose, stoppage of the nose at night, aching of the body, droppings in the throat, mouth open while sleeping, tickling back of the palate, formation of crusts in the nose, dryness of the throat in the morning, loss of strength, spasms of coughing, cough short and hacking, cough worse nights and mornings, loss in vital force, a feeling of tightness across the upper part of the chest.

Hyomei will destroy activity of all catarrhal germs in the respiratory organs and in a few weeks the cure will be complete.

This is a strong statement, but C. A. Wright emphasizes it by agreeing to refund your money if Hyomei does not cure.

An Open Letter to the Public
FROM A WELL-KNOWN DRUGGIST

To Whom It May Concern:

Of late there has been a good deal of discussion in regard to advertised medicines and their value. We want to say to every man, woman and child in this vicinity that the most valuable preparation of cod liver oil,—the best tonic reconstructor, health restorer and strength-creator we have ever sold in our store is Vinol.

Vinol is not a patent medicine; it contains no injurious drugs, and it actually does contain all of the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil, taken from fresh cods' livers, but without a drop of oil, and is delicious to the taste.

Vinol is recognized throughout the world as the greatest strength-creator for old people, weak, sickly women, children, nursing mothers, and after a severe sickness.

Vinol cures hacking coughs, chronic colds, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Unequalled to create an appetite, and make those who are too thin, fat, rosy and healthy.

For sale by C. A. Wright.

Trust not the woman that thinketh more of herself than another. Mercy will not dwell in her heart.

IT MUST BE TRUE.

Tecumseh Readers Must Come to That Conclusion.

It is not the telling of a single case in Tecumseh, but scores of citizens testify. Endorsement by people you know bears the stamp of truth. The following is one of the public statements made in this locality about Doan's Kidney Pills:

S. Erskin, proprietor of the wellknown barber shop, says: "For ten years off and on I had a dull pain in my back, imperfect action of the kidneys, and often I could hardly stoop or get up again. I think it was caused by standing so much at my work. I was in bad shape. I used a great many medicines, but without receiving much benefit until Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my notice and I got a box at C. A. Wright's drug store. I must confess that I was agreeably surprised, for after using one box I was much relieved. After the use of two boxes my back is stronger and better than it has been in a long time. Doan's Kidney Pills are the best medicine I have ever used and I have such faith in them. I believe I will be conferring a kindness on those suffering from kidney trouble in making known their merits."

For sale by all dealers: Price 50 cents per box, Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

If all women who look back were turned into salt pillars the streets would be full of statues.

A blessing alike to young and old: Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Nature's specific for dysentery, diarrhoea and summer complaint.

THREE JURORS CURED

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Clebourne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some souse meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlin's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." Just a Moment, Please!

Why not let The Royal Tailors of Chicago make your fall suit or overcoat? When delivery is made, there will also be delivered a direct guaranty covering the quality of goods, the style and fit of the garments and the workmanship.

And that guaranty is worth one hundred cents on the dollar to you. It means that you are to be satisfied with the garments when you get them—satisfied that they were made expressly for you, to your own measure—and it means that they will wear well, give you good service, and hold their shape as rightly-tailored garments should.

The cost of Royal tailoring is so low that you might almost think price was the first consideration. But it isn't. Value is first. Value-giving is at the basis of The Royal Tailors' success. The best for the money always—that is the Royal idea.

Customers of The Royal Tailors are invited to guess how many people will attend the World's Fair at St. Louis. They offer prizes consisting of ten Automobiles, to be given to the ten persons making the closest guesses. The cost of these Automobiles is $13,700. There are also eight cash prizes of $100 each, making the total value of the prizes $14,500. For every dollar you pay on an order for Royal tailoring you can make one guess; on a $15 suit you can make fifteen guesses, and on a $20 suit you can make twenty guesses, and so on—a guess for every dollar.

The Royal Tailors carry a million-dollar stock of woolens—something sure to please everybody; suits and overcoats for men and boys—ladies' man-tailored skirts and coats—all made strictly to measure at an actual proven cash saving of fully twenty-five per cent.

But the thing to do is to see the goods and get the prices. You can do that by calling on

RUSSIA IS IN GLOOM

Kuropatkin's Retreat Has Caused Nation to Lose Confidence.

LIAO YANG HAS BEEN TAKEN.

Japanese Crept Up on Retreating Russians and Inflicted Terrible Losses—Troops Are Exhausted—Tokio Is Joyful.

St. Petersburg, September 5,—(2 a. m.)—There is bitter disappointment, probably the keenest of the whole land campaign, over the situation at the front.

Up to Liao Yang the retreating from and the abandonment of positions had been expected and that much of the public and the officials thought they knew of Gen. Kuropatkin's plan of campaign. Had Liao Yang been abandoned without a fight the public at least would have looked forward patiently to a decisive stand at Mukden, but after a desperate battle with victory for the instant apparently in sight, to find Liao Yang abandoned, its immense stores captured, or destroyed and the retreat continued under the most adverse conditions, severely tries public confidence in the commander-in-chief.

Stackelberg Extricated.

Gen. Stakelberg's first Siberian army corps, which was reported Saturday by Gen. Kuropatkin as having been cut off to the westward of Liao Yang had been safely extricated.

Gen. Kuropatkin telegraphed at 7 o'clock Saturday evening that the greater portion of his army was then south of Yentai, about ten miles northeast of Liao Yang and that the other portion of it was crossing the Taitse river and taking up a position on the right bank.

This message, which was received by the emperor early Sunday morning, threw a more hopeful light on the position of the Russian army and the authorities gave sighs of relief.

It is not clear from the latest telegram whether the Russians are continuing their retreat or if they have been compelled to face their foe.

The report says that after the decisive engagement between the armies of Gen. Kuropatkin and Kuroki large numbers of Japanese, perfectly concealed in the Chinese corn and grass, stealthily crept up on the retreating Russians and inflicted heavy losses.

These same tactics had previously been adopted with terrible results against Maj.-Gen. Orloff's mixed detachment, which was assailed in the midst of the grass with a completely unexpected fire. A panic ensued, and one regiment alone lost 1,500 men, half of its total strength.

Tokio, September 6.—Beyond a dispatch from Field Marshal Oyama, reporting the occupation of Liao Yang and the commencement of Gen. Kuroki's turning movement against the Rusian left, nothing further concerning the battle of Liao Yang has reached Tokio within the past twenty-four hours. The meagre reports received indicate that the soldiers of both armies went to the limit of human endurance and suffered terribly. It was impossible constantly to supply them with food and water and the men have fought for days past starving and parched with thirst.

One of Greatest Battles.

Although full details are lacking, the duration of the fighting, the numbers engaged and the losses so far reported indicate that Liao Yang will prove to be one of the greatest battles of history.

The dispatch received from Field Marshal Oyama, announcing the fall of Liao Yang, had the effect of cheering all of the subjects of the mikado.

Field Marshal Oyama's dispatch says:

"After the fighting of last night and this morning Liao Yang fell into our hands. Our casualties are believed to be very heavy. No report has been received concerning conditions on the right bank of the Taitse river."

BIG TRAFFIC TIE-UP

That Is What New York Is Facing at Present Moment.

IT'S A QUESTION OF WAGES

Elevated, Steam Road and Street Car Employes Vote to Strike if Wages Demanded by Motormen of New Subway Are Not Paid.

New York, Sept. 3.—President William L. Jencks of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has announced that the elevated railroad employes of Manhattan and the Bronx, at their all-day meeting Friday, voted as a unit to strike if such action is deemed necessary.

E. P. Bryan, vice-president and general manager of the Interborough Rapid Transit Co., which controls the elevated lines and the subway, gave out a signed statement, in which he reviewed the trouble of the Interborough company with the elevated road employes, growing out of the company's decision to pay motormen in the subway, when it opens, $3 a day for ten hours' work, instead of $3.50 for nine hours, which motormen on the elevated road receive.

From 10 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock last night the members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen voted on the question of a strike, with the result announced by Mr. Jencks.

Amalgamated Favors It.

An all-day meeting of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes of America was also held, and the members of that association voted to support the executive committee of the amalgamated if the committee should decide to stand by their agreement to support the engineers and firemen in the event of a strike.

"The vote was a unit to strike," President Jencks said. "That does not mean a strike, but it means that the men declare for strike if no concessions are forthcoming."

He said that 750 or more members of the engineers' and firemen's unions had voted on the strike proposition, either personally or by proxy. The Amalgamated vote was nearly 4,000.

A delegate from the Central Federated Union notified the members of the Amalgamated association today that no matter what their action might be as a result of the present difficulties, the Ceneral Federation Union would stand by the men.

It was also stated authoritatively that there will be in all probability another conference between representatives of the men and officials of the Interborough company looking toward a peaceable solution of the questions at issue.

COL. CLEM REPRIMANDED.

He Funded Money to Treasury That War Department Needed.

Washington, Sept. 3.—Col. John L. Clem, chief quartermaster of the Philippine division, has been reprimanded by Gen. Humphrey, quartermaster-general, for his action in turning into the United States treasury the sum of $423,000 as "unexpended balances of the appropriations for the last fiscal year, when it was stated at the war department the money was actually needed to meet necessary expenses for army transportation and other work of the quartermaster's department. It is said that the service will be embarrassed by Col. Clem's action, as it seriously interfered with the work of the quartermaster's department.

Gen. Humphrey has informed Col. Clem that his action is disapproved and would not have been taken if he had had a proper conception of his duties. The money, having been turned into the treasury, is now beyond the control of the war department and officials and will have to be reappropriated by congress to meet existing obligations. It is not unlikely that Col. Clem will be relieved of his present duties and recalled to the United States. Col. Clem is one of the heroes of the war of the rebellion and is known as "The Drummer Boy of Chickamauga" because of his gallant conduct during that battle while serving as a drummer in the Twenty-second Michigan volunteer infantry.

LINDEN HARD HIT BY THEM

Seven Stores and Postoffice Burglarized in One Night—Traverse City, Hartford and Caro Inhabitants Fall Victims to Their Practices.

Linden, Mich., Sept. 3.—This village was visited by burglars during the night and one of the most complete clean-ups ever known in the county was made. Seven stores were entered, besides the postoffice. The thieves forced an entrance with a crowbar and cold chisel.

All business mail was carried from the postoffice and opened. Whatever money was in the letters was taken and the envelopes and other things the robbers did not want were thrown into the river, where they were found lodged in the apron of the dam. Some stamps were also taken. Sheriff Rust and Postoffice Inspector Parcell of Flint are working on the case. Local talent is suspected.

Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 3.—Burglars at night visited this city and several places in the vicinity, securing about $100 in all.

A number of business places here had their tills tapped and at Cedar the safe of Jerry Sullivan, mill owner and leading business man, was blown open and $40 taken. The mill of George E. Habbeler at Lake Ann was robbed of about $50, and at Solon the Manistee Northwestern station was entered and $7 taken from the safe.

Hartford, Mich., Sept. 3.—When Mrs. C. Dillon, proprietor of a restaurant here, went to an alley door to empty garbage, she was attacked by a man, who held his hand over her mouth to prevent her screams being heard, while he took about $10 from a chatelaine bag hanging from her belt. The thief escaped.

Caro, Mich., Sept. 3.—A burglary was perpetrated at night in Watrousville, eight miles from this place. Dr. John E. Handy was on a collecting tour and on retiring laid his trousers on a chair as usual.

When the doctor awoke in the morning he could not find his trousers, but finally he spied them out on the lawn, and on investigation found that his cash, amounting to $115, had all disappeared. Although he had a valuable watch and other articles in the trousers pockets, these were left, presumably as they could be easily identified. There is no clue for officers to work on.

PHYSICIANS MYSTIFIED.

Russian From Chicago Has a Musical Heart.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 3.—Benton Harbor physicians are mystified over the case of Edward Lewis, a Russian, who carries in his breast the most wonderful heart of any human being in the world. Lewis called on the physicians and allowed them to examine his enlarged heart, which gives out musical sounds with each beat. Mr. Lewis tells the story that twelve years ago he was stabbed by a Cossack while trying to escape from the Siberian mines. The scar of the wound is clearly visible and Dr. C. N. Somers of this city, who made an examination of the heart, said the heart extends across the chest and the sounds that come from each beat are clear, full of harmony and very musical.

Mr. Lewis was a student in a Russian school when a bridge near the university was blown up by nihilists who laid the crime to the students, and twenty-one of them were exiled to Siberia. It was in their efforts to escape that the wound was received. Lewis was left in the snow for dead and was later rescued by fellow students, with whom he escaped. His home is now in Chicago.

What is life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in constipation, headache or liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly re-adjusts this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25c at C. A. Wright's drug store.

CAUGHT ON CROSSING

Woman Killed and Man Fatally Hurt Near Battle Creek.

TRAIN STRUCK THEIR CARRIAGE.

Mrs. Alvin Russell Met Instant Death—Were Driving Home From Visit to Son—Mr. Russell a Prominent Farmer—Occurred Near Brothers Home.

Battle Creek Mich., September 5.—Mrs. Alvin Russell was struck and instantly killed and her husband probably fatally injured by a fast westbound Grand Trunk train last night at Renton, a small station nine miles west of this city.

The Russells were driving home from a visit with a son when they were caught on the crossing and their buggy smashed to kindling wood and they thrown for several feet. The woman was dead when picked up and the man was suffering from a fractured skull and had his left arm and right hip broken. He was brought to Battle Creek and taken to the Nichols hospital, where he is still in an unconscious condition.

Mr. Russell is a prominent farmer and is about 50 years old.

The accident occurred near the home of one of Mr. Russell's brothers, who heard the commotion and went out to see who had been hurt, and found that it was his own brother and his wife.

Gaylord Mill On Fire.

Gaylord, Mich., September 5.—A fire, supposed to be set either by hoboes or by malicious intent, broke out at Frank Buell & Son's lumber yard just south of town, late last night. It is burning fiercely at this hour (2 a. m.) and promises to clean up everything. The fire department of Gaylord is working at a great disadvantage on account of the long distance from town. Only one line of hose can be gotten to the scene of the fire and this is of a very light pressure on account of the long line of hose used. There are over 5,000,000 feet of finished lumber in the yard, valued at $75,000. Beside the lumber there is a large quantity of wood and logs in the mill yard. The mill, which is a new one, is valued at between $6,000 and $7,000.

Roller Broke Through Street.

Ishpeming, Mich., September 5.—The steam road roller broke through the surface of West Pearl street, near Main, lodging in an old cistern, which was used before the present waterworks system was installed. The roller dropped nearly four feet, but it would have gone deeper if the rear end of the tank had not held it up. The crusher weighs 21 tons, so it was no easy task to get it out of the opening. Blocks and jack screws were used, it requiring about four hours' work to raise it to timbers from which it moved by its own power.

Train Made Sudden Stop.

Lansing, Mich., September 5.—The exposition flyer on the Grand Trunk bound east, due here at 5:10 p. m., was brought to an alarmingly sudden stop three miles west of Lansing by a slight accident to the engine machinery, which applied the air to the brakes. The train stopped with a jolt, tumbling the passengers about in their seats and thoroughly frightening them. No one was more than bruised.

Wound May Prove Serious.

Adrian, Mich., September 5.—L. H. Foster, the former busines man who was shot in the left knee by an unknown assailant one week ago, is in a serious condition and the doctors fear a collapse at any time. The bullet, a 32-calibre revolver ball, was removed from the joint by the aid of the X-rays, but it is reported that blood poisoning has set in. The man who did the shooting has not yet been apprehended.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address:

He could hardly get up.

P. M. Duffy of Ashley, Ill., writes, "This is to certify that I have taken two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure and it has helped me more than any other medicine. I tried many advertised remedies but none of them gave me any relief. My druggist recommended Foley's Kidney Cure and it cured me. Before commencing its use I was in such a shape that I could hardly get up when once down."

The pills that are potent in their action and pleasant in effect are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. W. S. Philpot of Albany, Ga., says: "During a bilious attack I took one. She says. "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Sold by C. A. Wright.

How to Make a Campfire.

An absurd and reprehensibly destructive practice is the building of fires beneath a tree "in order to get the draft." The fools that do this kill great trees for nothing but a campfire. There is no sense in that wretched practice. A fire for camp cooking should be built in the open, and nothing is easier. A bare rock is the best place, and if you are to cook by it put up a barrier of loose stones just extensive enough to make a fire as large as a kitchen stove would hold, put a flat stone over these walls, and you will have all you want. You can fry bacon and your corn cakes and boil your coffee on that stone. This is as good for winter as for summer. And if you want a hot old campfire clear a place of all combustibles and begin small, gradually adding a stick or two, and the heat beneath will soon grow so strong that you can keep it up for as many hours as you please. But be sure that you let it get down to the ashes before you leave. Nobody knows what may happen after you leave a blazing fire.—Springfield Republican.

Shorthand and Mental Discipline.

The mental discipline which may be derived from the practice of stenography is permanent. Speed may be lost, word signs may slip away, but the power of concentrating the attention persists. Nor is the increased power of analysis confined to the analysis of spoken words. It is brought into play in all kinds of mental work. Possibly the truth may be that only persons with minds naturally analytic can become expert stenographers and that the faculty is a cause rather than an effect of such proficiency. However that may be, the man who has a mind of that sort can select a topic at random, analyze it rapidly into its natural subdivisions and make a speech or write an essay on it while the other men would be groping around for an introduction. The value of this sort of discipline to a lawyer or preacher or writer is obvious. Mathematics is the only study that can be compared to a scientific system of shorthand for the development of analytical powers.—The World Today.

A Fine Gentleman.

The Duc de Richelieu, the beloved of ladies, the breaker of hearts, was the perfect fine gentleman of a studiously elegant epoch. The suave repose of his manner was immovable. When his second wife lay dying he came in to see her, stepping softly, hat in hand. Though she was expiring, her fading eye lit up at the sight of him.

"How sweet it would be for me to die in your arms," she murmured.

He held her as she wished till she died, then went out again, stepping softly, hat in hand. One of his spiteful chroniclers—a woman, needless to say—suggests that he was off to a rendezvous with the lady of the moment, and that the graceful manner in which he bore the delay caused by his wife's death was proof of the perfect breeding of one of the finest gentlemen in Europe.—Geraldine Bonner in The Reader.

Paganini's Idea of the Sabbath.

An incident in the life of Paganini comes to us from Liverpool. The great violinist was visiting friends in the suburbs of that city at the house of a lady whose religious ideas were severely strained by her guest venturing to play on the Sabbath day.

"Vy," asked the musician, "eef ze Sabat mos be so holie that nosing mos be done at all, vy does Proveedence permit ze leetel birds to sing on dat day and ze leaves of ze forest to clap zere hands for joy, making ze rustling music, and ze vaters of ze great deep to sound zeir mysterious harmonies?"

Paganini's stay at that house, we are told, was brief.—London News.

The Blooming Thorn Tree.

There is a legend to the effect that the thorn blooms on Christmas day. It is said that St. Joseph of Arimathæa landed near Glastonbury and stuck his staff in the ground. It took root, grew and blossomed every Christmas day thereafter. The tree was hewn down by a Puritan of the time of Cromwell, but in doing this deed he cut his leg, and chips flying from his ax blinded him. The trunk, though separated from the root, grew and flourished, and for many years slips and blooms from the tree of St. Joseph were sold by the merchants of Bristol.

The Safeguard of Ideals.

To live in the presence of great truths and eternal laws, to be led by permanent ideals—that is what keeps a man patient when the world ignores him and calm and unspoiled when the world praises him.—Honore de Balzac.

John Ruskin.

Ruskin had every advantage in the happiest domestic environment, and when he exhibited his treasures—a manuscript of Scott or a drawing by Turner—one could fancy him to be a calm connoisseur with hobbies enough to secure ample and delightful occupation. He received one with the courtesy of a polished gentleman of the old school and talked delightfully without the least assumption of superiority. I remember how on my first visit he gave me a recent number of "Fors," in which, he said, I should be interested because it spoke of Alpine traveling. So it did. But he had quite forgotten that he had taken an unfortunate article of mine for a text to illustrate the vulgarity of modern scramblers. He remarked that I thought the Alps improved by the odor of my tobacco smoke. I adhere to that heresy; they were gently improved for me. I might have claimed to be a disciple and told him that their beauty had been interpreted to me by "Modern Painters," though increased by my tobacco, but I thought it better to drop the subject.—Sir Leslie Stephen in Atlantic.

Thieves and Bibles.

Bibles are said by detectives to be more rarely stolen than any other objects. This is not because Bibles are worthless to a thief, but because few criminals are sufficiently depraved to steal the good book. A detective said recently that in an important case which he had followed up some years ago a thief had entered the house, stolen some valuable jewels and left untouched a Bible bound in white chicken skin and studded with pearls. The detective caught the thief, and the man who had been robbed, a dealer in curios, visited his despoiler in jail, took an interest in him because he had not taken the Bible and eventually reformed him and got him a good job.

"I knew," the thief said, "that if I took that Bible it would do me harm and if I didn't take it it might do me good. I let it alone, and now, thank heaven, I'm an honest and a righteous man."

The detective added that in another case where a thief had stolen a Bible the book had been returned. "Another thing few thieves will take," he added, "is a child's savings bank."—Chicago Tribune.

The Useful Sunflower.

It is a common joke to call inferior cigars "cabbage leaves," but, as a matter of fact, some very good "weeds" are made from the leaves of the sunflower. These leaves can also be smoked in the place of tobacco, forming quite a passable substitute.

The stalks and leaves make excellent food for various animals, while the former can also be employed as fuel. Sunflower cake is made from the seeds of this useful plant after the oil has been extracted, this oil being very nearly equal to olive oil and used in cooking. The seeds not only serve as food for cattle; they are mashed and kneaded into bread by the poor peasants of certain parts of Russia, and they find it very palatable.

Potash is obtained from the ash of the stalks. The proportion is about one-third of potash to the total ash left after burning. A yellow dye is made from the flower of the plant. The fiber can be worked into a silk material.

When Two Rainbows Are Seen.

When two rainbows are sometimes seen at once, one outside the other, the inner or primary bow, as it is called, is always the brighter, and the red band of color is always on its outside. The outer or secondary bow is much fainter in color, and the red band is always on its inside. This is because in the primary bow the sun's rays are only reflected once, while in the secondary bow they are reflected twice, which makes them fainter in color and turns them upside down. In one rainbow we see the rays of the sun entering the raindrops at the top and reflected to the eye from the bottom, while in the other we see the rays entering the raindrops at the bottom and reflected from the top, whence they reach the eye.

The Veil In Persia.

J. D. Rees, a lecturer on Persia, says that the veils worn by Persian ladies are more of a privilege than a punishment. Screened behind it woman may walk wherever she pleases, and even her own husband dare not question her movements. Doubtless many Persian ladies make the most of their opportunities. The Persians, as a rule, do not think it right to take wine, but as nearly all their poetry is in praise of the flowing bowl it will be inferred that they frequently do violence to their conscience. Occasionally, however, they are seized with remorse, whereupon they destroy the wine of their Armenian neighbors.

Pawning Wives and Daughters.

They have a curious way of utilizing wives and daughters in some parts of India. If a man wants money he puts these members of his establishment in pawn, and his creditor detains them until the debt is discharged. The custom varies in different localities. In Mellore the Yercalls pledge their daughters to creditors who may either marry them or give them away, and a man who has to go to jail deposits his wife with another family of her tribe until his return. In North Arcot unmarried daughters are frequently mortgaged and become the absolute property of the holder until liquidation.

Easy Reading For Infants.

He proposed, conjointly with his father and brother, to blast the stone as the most expeditious mode of gaining access to her arcana, and this in the open daylight, in order that any tutelary protection she might be disposed to extend to her favorite haunt might, as she was a thing of darkness and night, be effectually countervailed.—Extract From Child's Fairy Book.

Three Men.

There are three sorts of men in the world—three, and no more. And of women only one. There are happy men and there are knaves and fools. Hybrids I don't count. And to my mind knaves and fools are very much alike.—"Love and Mr. Lewisham."

A Scotch Sentence.

Lord Braxfield admitted the abilities of a criminal who was undoubtedly an accomplished murderer, for the judge said, "Y're a clever chiel, but y'll be nane the waur of a hanging, my man."—Hard Scotch.

His Disappearing Pulse.

"My!" exclaimed the doctor. "You've hardly any pulse today!"

"Well, don't you remember, doctor," replied the patient, "you took it when you were here yesterday?"—Yonkers Statesman.

He who has no vision of eternity will never get a true hold of time.—Carlyle.

Daniel Webster's Wit.

When a lad Daniel Webster was one day called up by the teacher for punishment. His hands happened to be very dirty. Knowing this, he wet the palm of his right hand, wiping it off on the side of his pantaloons. "Give me your hand," said the teacher very sternly. Out went the right hand partially cleansed. The teacher looked at it a moment and said, "Daniel, if you will find another hand in this room as soiled as that I will let you off this time." Instantly came from behind his back his left hand. "Here it is," was the ready reply. "That will do," said the teacher. "For this time you can take your seat, sir!"

Franklin's Fate Prefigured.

The fate of Franklin, the explorer, was unwittingly prefigured, and on the eve of his starting on his last voyage, at the hands of his own devoted wife. As he lay dozing on a sofa Lady Franklin threw something over his feet, on which he awoke in consternation, saying: "Why, there's a flag thrown over me! Don't you know that they lay the union jack over a corpse?"

French Leave.

The origin of the phrase "French leave" is traced back to a custom begun in France and imitated in England, common enough in the eighteenth century, of going away from a social gathering without taking formal leave of host and hostess.

This is abundantly clear from two extracts written in 1775. The first is from Chesterfield's "Principles of Politeness:" "As the taking what is called a French leave was introduced that on one person's leaving the company the rest may not be disturbed, looking at your watch does what that piece of politeness was designed to prevent."

So also Jekyll: "French etiquettes are precise to a degree. I will allow that taking French leave is easy and natural; but, on the contrary, there is more formality in entering one assembly here than in taking the round of routs for a whole winter in London."

As a disclaimer to this derivation the French, on their part, have the phrase, "se retirer a l'Anglaise"—"to take English leave"—with the same significance.

Profits of a Blockade Runner.

Hobart Pasha during his adventurous career took part in the American civil war under the name of Captain Roberts as a blockade runner. He had an exciting time, and many of his escapes were truly marvelous, as described in his book, "Never Caught." According to his statement, forty ships were captured out of sixty-six that left England and New York to run the blockade during the war. Some idea of the profits may be formed from the fact that women's stays bought in England for 13 pence sold in Wilmington, one of the principal blockade running ports, for 12 shillings, and cotton bought at twopence a pound in Wilmington sold for half a crown a pound. The number of ships captured does not give an adequate idea of the loss sustained, as many were burned, sunk or run ashore to prevent them from falling into the hands of the cruisers.—Chambers' Journal.

A Crash of Colors.

"I can stand a lot," said the artist, "but there are times when my patience is sorely tried.

"The other evening I went into a restaurant where the walls are tinted a soft red, most pleasing to the eye. It is a place I frequent not so much because the cooking is good as that it has a most restful color scheme. I had been having a hard time at the studio, and I felt the need of a little relaxation. The band was playing a seductive air, and I was feeling at peace with the world, when I chanced to look across the room, and my evening was spoiled for me completely.

"There against the red background was a woman in a glaring blue waist sipping a creme de menthe of vivid green under a hat of a most assertive shade of yellow!"—New York Press.

Flat Wheels.

"Flat wheel," growled the old retired conductor as the trolley car in which he sat went thumping along at twelve miles an hour, shaking the passengers uncomfortably at every revolution of the wheels.

"What makes flat wheels?" asked the man sitting next to the conductor.

"Fools," said the conductor. "It's this way: If a man doesn't know how to stop his car he makes a flat wheel. On the steam roads some brakemen flatten a wheel every time they put on a brake. When the wheel suddenly stops revolving and the momentum of the train carries it along the wheel slides along the track, and a flat is started. Next stop makes it worse, and so it goes until the wheel is no good. If a brakeman knows his business he need never make a flat wheel unless he has to suddenly avoid an accident. If he keeps his wheels turning slowly they don't flatten. Now, these fellows on the trolleys take no care at all, and every other car in some places has a flat wheel."—Washington Star.

The Khyengs' First Woman.

The Khyengs of Burma are probably the only race or tribe of people that have any tradition of the origin of the human race that do not have a man or male human being in some way connected with that important event. The Khyeng genesis opens in this wise: "In the beginning of the world, after the sun, moon and stars had appeared, the earth by its own inherent power of productiveness brought forth a female creature, which was called Hleeneu. She laid 100 eggs and hatched them in cotton wool, and from them sprang 100 human beings, the progenitors of the different races." The least that can be said of this curious belief is that it is a fine illustration of the multiple theory as applied to the origin of the human race

An investigator who lived during two years in a tomb at Gizeh collected evidence to prove that the tools used in working stone 4,000 years ago had jeweled cutting edges like modern tools. He says that the builders of the pyramids used solid and tubular tools, straight and circular saws and many other tools supposed to be modern. In some specimens of granite a drill had sunk one-tenth of an inch at each revolution, indicating that the pressure was at least two tons. Nothing is known of the material of the tools. As the diamond was scarce then, it is probable that corundum was used.

Two Expensive Banquets.

The costliest meal ever served, according to history, was a supper given by Ælius Verus, one of the most lavish of all the Romans of the latter days, to a dozen guests. The cost was 6,000 sestertia, which would amount to $242,500. A celebrated feast given by Vitellius, a Roman emperor of those days, to his brother Lucius cost a little more than $200,000. Suetonius says that the banquet consisted of 2,000 different dishes of fish and 7,000 different fowls besides other courses.

Crossroads Burials.

Formerly it was a general custom to erect crosses at the junction of four roads on a place self consecrated according to the piety of the age. Suicides and notoriously bad characters were frequently buried near to these, not with the notion of indignity, but in a spirit of charity, that, being excluded from holy rites, they, by being buried at crossroads, might be in places next in sanctity to ground actually consecrated.—Westminster Gazette.

Balm of Gilead.

The real balm of Gilead is the dried juice of a low shrub which grows in Syria. It is very valuable and scarce, for the amount of balm yielded by one shrub never exceeded sixty drops a day. According to Josephus, the balm or balsam of Gilead was one of the presents given by the queen of Sheba to King Solomon. The ancient Jewish physicians prescribed it evidently for dyspepsia and melancholia.

HELEN ADAIR

Discusses Paris fashions.

Silk that catches the French fancy.

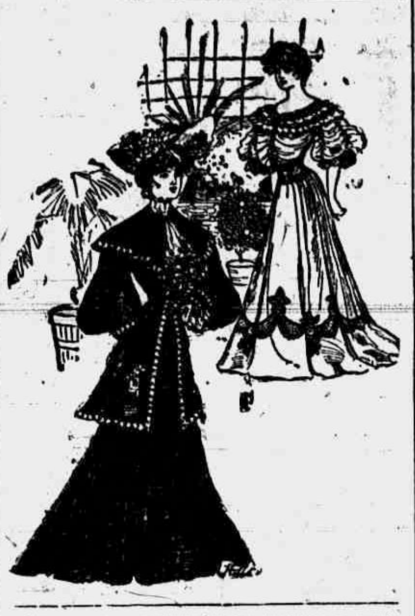
Paris modistes are excelling all their former efforts, and woman is so gowned today that it would require but a slight stretch of the imagination to fancy that one is looking upon an embodiment of a beauty painted by an old master, for indeed nothing of beauty in dress of other eras escapes the arbitors of fashion of this period.

The lovliest toilets now worn at fashionable resorts are, nearly all of the Louis XVI order, although the Directoire style is distinctly noticeable.

Trimmings are more ornate and gorgeous than ever, a note of extravagant luxury marking them all. While the cult of the needle will in no wise diminish, trimmings cleverly woven copied from many countries and eras have all the air of handwork, and will be extensively used.

An excellent example of artistic weaving is shown as a border on the brown Burlingham Louis XVI coat in my illustration. It is woven as a self-trimming for the Burlingham, and is an acorn design in bright orange silk, running through the creams and deep red yellows to tobacco color, the tones blending with and brightening the gown with true high art affect.

In Paris half the gowns one sees at the fashionable restaurant dinners are of silk, the skirts ruffled tucked and lace-inserted, and the waists treated likewise, the acme of fashion being reached in the Rajah dinner gown I have illustrated for you. In color it is robin's-egg blue, the shirred Marie Antoinette corsage and full skirt being exquisitely lace-inserted.



Comparisons of to-days fashions with the fashion pictures of the periods from which we are now copying are decidedly in favor of the modern dressmaker and designer. With our progression and a more general understanding of the fundamental principals of art milady's wardrobe is more truly artistic than that of her sister of the earlier periods. And so it is with fabrics. Our manufacturers are making the best of all countries and all times, their own, and giving the progressive touch to fabrics as well as to other artistic productions.

Old fashioned colors have arrived with the old fashioned fabrics and designs and in Rajah which name by the way is printed on the selvedge, we see lavender, Bordeaux red, ecru, olive, shrimp pink and in fact any color that is of the old school is fashionable for that reason if no other. The shades are charming and invariably becoming, all soft in tone, however bright the color.

Waist lines no longer pouch, but will be well befined. So will the outlines of the bodice. The fashionable bodice of ultra cut has a long pointed stomacher and is either draped or cleverly fitted to give a higher bust line and in these innovations makers of the best corset such as the C—B a laSpirite are keeping pace and every intelligent woman while she may doubt that the corset makes the woman any more than the man is made by the coat, knows that the coat and corset properly cut have much to so with the appearance of the man or woman and in these days fairness to the contrary not withstanding, esteem is measured largely by appearances yardstick.

Crushed Between Cars.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 3.—J. H. Sharkey, a Lake Shore brakeman, was crushed between freight cars at Dix avenue crossing. He was taken to Harper hospital, where he died at 4 o'clock. Sharkey's injuries were internal, and although suffering agonies he was conscious almost to the end.

State Encampment Bills.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 3.—Quartermaster-General Kidd has signed checks aggregating $44,000 in payment for the expenses incurred by the state at the Michigan national guard encampment at Ludington.

Be Tried In Washington.

San Francisco, Sept. 3.—Judge De Haven of the United States district court has given his decision in the Hyde-Dimond case, granting the application for an order removing the defendants to Washington for trial. The indictment against the accused men, Frederick A. Hyde and Henry P. Dimond, contains forty-four counts, only the first one being considered by the court in rendering the decision. They are accused of conspiring in the District of Columbia at John A. Benson and J. H. Schneider to defraud the United States out of a large tract of public lands.

BOTTLE TELLS SHIP'S FATE.

La Morna Likely Sunk Off Vancouver Island In a Storm.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 3.—In a bottle, washed up on the beach at Bartow, a little town on the west shore of Puget Sound, this not was found:

"March 6, 1904. Ship La Morna in sinking condition; no hope for crew. (Signed) "JAMES SLOANE."

On the reverse of the note was the name of W. E. R. Notman and wife, Norfolk, Va.

The bottle and note were brought to Seattle. The British ship La Morna, Capt. Carmack, sailed from Tacoma, wheat laden, for Queenstown, Feb. 27 and is supposed to have been wrecked in a storm off Vancouver Island prior to March 22.

Young Plants

Every farmer knows that some plants grow better than others. Soil may be the same and seed may seem the same but some plants are weak and others strong.

And that's the way with children. They are like young plants. Same food, same home, same care but some grow big and strong while others stay small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion offers an easy way out of the difficulty. Child weakness often means starvation, not because of lack of food, but because the food does not feed.

Scott's Emulsion really feeds and gives the child growing strength.

Whatever the cause of weakness and failure to grow—Scott's Emulsion seems to find it and set the matter right.

Mrs. Ella M. One of the passenger trains on farmer's picnic day was stopped between Hudson and the lake, because what was supposed to be the corpse of a man was lying very near the rail and it was thought he had been killed by some train which had passed. It was soon discovered, however, that he was drunk and had found a resting place only a few inches from the rail. He was given a good shaking and directed to be more careful when he needed sleep in the day time.—Hudson Post.

DEATH

Reaps a grim harvest. The bodies of three

TECUMSEH RESIDENTS

Have been prepared for burial.

The community was shocked yesterday morning to learn of the terrible death of Charles M. Doolittle, who was employed by the Wabash company. About midnight Sunday, he was braking on the midnight freight between Detroit and Adrian. Soon after leaving Romulus the crew missed Doolittle and went back to find him, lying on the track dead.

Just how his death happened, will never be known, but it is thought that he was walking on top of the cars and fell between them. The wheels passed over his head crushing it beyond recognition. He was taken to Detroit where the inquest was held at two o'clock yesterday afternoon. The remains were taken to Britton over the Wabash last evening and brought in here at 7:35 over the Lake Shore. He was taken to the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Marshall, where the funeral will be held tomorrow at 2 o'clock.

Marshall Doolittle was born Oct. 21, 1876, in Detroit and when quite young he came to Tecumseh, where he lived with his grandmother until a short time ago, when with his wife he moved to Toledo. He was well known and well liked by every one. He was always cheerful and willing to do anything for his friends.

When the Spanish war broke out, he being a member of Co. C. went to Cuba for a year. Soon after returning, he was married to Miss Helen Carpenter of Adrian, September 4, 1901. One child was born to them, who died in infancy. They had lived in Detroit but a short time. The news comes with crushing force to the young wife and to th grandmother.

The remains will be laid at rest in Brookside.

MRS. NANCY GAMBLE.

Mrs. Nancy Gamble died last evening at seven o'clock, aged 65 years. Services were held this afternoon at the house at 4 o'clock. The remains will be taken to New York for burial tomorrow morning. An obituary will appear later.

MRS. ALFRED JAMES.

Mrs. Alfred James died this morning after an illness of several months duration.

A unique and very enjoyable reunion was held last Friday at the home of Mrs. C. M. DeWolfe, when there gathered for the afternoon the teacher and some of the surviving pupils of school district No. 6, known then as the "Banner district," of the year 1851.

There were present Mrs. Peter Coller, of Palmyra, Mich., the teacher and of the "children," Mrs. Stephenson, (formerly Betsy Thompson), of Napoleon, Mich., Mrs. M. J. Cameron, (formerly Mary J. Culbertson) of Portland, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Goheen and Miss M. E Goheen of Clinton, and Mr. and Mrs. Christian Coller, Mrs. Emma Millis, Miss Julia Hough, Mr. and Mrs. James Aten, Miss Franc Aten, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Gillespie and Mrs. C. M. DeWolfe of this village.

Dinner was served on the lawn and delightful reminiscences filled the time until evening. Despite the ancient tradition, the big boys didn't "lick" the teacher, though the vigor with which this genial gentleman carrys his years may account for the omission of this performance from the programme. An effort will be made to hold the reunion annually hereafter.

"The Devil's Lane."

Amidst the vast number of dismal failures along theatrical line, it is a pleasure as well as a surprise to witness such a performance as that given by the Devil's Lane Comedy Co. at the New Bradley Friday night. The company was exceptionally good. Possibly some of its inspiration was derived from the fact that the cast included Eunice Fitch, the authoress of the clever composition.

The play was noticible for its lack of anything that would tend to vulgarize or destroy the pleasure of the evening. The work of Miss Jennie Elmore, the "enfant terrible" of the cast, stood out in brilliant relief. Her dancing as well as that of her sister was cleverly done and well received.

The songs were entirely original some of them being very tuneful and pleasingly rendered. The interpolated grand opera travesty was uproarously funny. The company is sure of a welcome on its return to this city.

Anderson & Mead.

Faron Anderson and Richard Mead have rented of Webster Anderson the east store so long occupied by S. W. Anderson and will about October 1, open with a full line of clothing, gentlemens' furnishing goods, hats and caps.

The stock will be as complete as any in the county, and will be fitted with new fittings. The proprietors are both young men of Tecumseh, who will start with complete capital to successfully run a business, and the HERALD wishes for the new firm of Anderson & Mead all success.

"His Last Dollar."

Joe Braxton (the hero), started in life as a Jockey for Col. Downs of Kentucky, but at the opening of the play we see him a millionaire in New York. Tom Linson is Braxton's broker and most trusted friend, but, betraying his friend and employer, he conspires with a designing woman, who has entrapped Braxton into a proposal of marriage, to rob Braxton of everything, after which the guilty ones will elope. But Eleanor Downs comes East with her race horse, and a woman's intuition sees through the plot. Joe is warned—Eleanor's jockey is disabled—Joe rides her horse to victory, outwits the plotters and marries Eleanor. Incidentally to the above there is an abundance of clean, bright comedy.

WORLD'S GREATEST CONTRALTO

Mme. Hienk to appear in Comic Opera at Detroit beginning Sept. 12.

"Love's Lottery" the new Stange and Edwards comic opera, in which Mr. F. C. Whitney is starring Mme. Schumann-Heink is placed on the morning and afternoon of an early summer day in the village of Deanswold, England, in the time of George III, about the year 1818. It is divided in two acts, the first taking place in the courtyard of a house in the pretty village and the second in a secluded part of Deanswold Park. The principal characters are Lina, Mme. Schumann-Heink, Sergeant Bob Trivet, Wallace Brownlowe, Sir Hervey Aston, George L. Tallman, Squire Marmaduke Skeffington, W. H. Thompson, Laura Skeffington, Louise Gunning, Sally Lunn, Delight Barsch, Barney O'Tool, John Slavin, Ponsonby Damocles Twiller, Molly Muggins, Tekla Farm, Ivy Clyde, Jane Jones, Gill Poorman, Lucia Nola, Heathe Gregory, Jack Kite, Bill Butler, Joe Costar, Lionel Robsarte.

The principal object of "Love's Lottery" is to give several hours filled to the brim with rollicking fun and melodious tunefulness. But to attain this prime requisites to operatic success Mr. Whitney and the author and composer have not considered it necessary to do without merit as to book or score or to be penurious with regard to costumes, scenic accessories, light effects and other first-class embellishments which combine to make a great big successful operatic venture. These admirable features are much in evidence throughout the action of the opera.

"His Last Dollar."

The fourth act of "His Last Dollar" is one of the kind that has a tendency to arouse an audience to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. In it we see the brave Kentucky girl who has striven so hard to see her horse run in the Great Futurity, the winning of which means so much to her—then we hear her taunted, taunted by a villain whom she has repulsed and unmasked, her jockey is disabled by this cur in human form. Our brave little woman seeks in despair for some one to ride her horse, but no one has confidence in the unknown Mongrel. Then comes Joe Braxton, the one time jockey, who throws himself into the breech taking the colors to ride and with them a promise to ride the hearts out of the others. Then we have the start described in such a vivid manner that one unconsciously rises in his seat there is a sudden darkening of the scene a swish of scenery and the tumultuous crowd at the finish of a race bursts upon us with its cheers and cries, its babel of noise and excitement, it is but a momentary scene when we see the actual racers and realize that the race is being run in our presence. It is not to be wondered that a boy in the gallery whistles or the ladies in the boxes burst their gloves while time after time the curtain goes up in the response to the outbreak that follows. This is one of the most exciting scenes ever staged and will be seen when David Higgins and Eleanor Montell and company come to the New Bradley, Sept. 8, 1904.

ROUND ABOUT US.

Kate McGinnis, daughter of a farmer living near Deerfield was badly injured by having her head caught in a revolving shaft when passing too near a windmill that was being used to grind feed. Her hair was torn out by the roots and her scalp severely injured.

Practical all right enough up at Lansing. The Knights of Columbia offered as a prize in the lean mans' race a bale of hay. It was won by Jim Talmage, who is built on the tallow candle order. He had no horse, ox or ass to which he could feed hay. Louis Driscoll offered him 50 cents for the prize and Jim accepted it. When the committee heard of it they fixed up a 10 ounce bale, put it on exhibition in a store window and Driscoll was notified to send a dray for his hay. He bought the drinks and tried hard to bribe the newspapers to say nothing about his fodder.—Adrian Press.

While engaged in loading brick onto a wagon at his lumber yard last Friday afternoon, R. F. Birch fell from a brick pile, striking the back of his head on the wagon box with such force as to cause a slight concussion of the brain. The mishap was so severe that he was rendered unconscious and remained in that condition for several hours. He soon rallied from the effects to such an extent that he was able to sit up for a short time Sunday, and Tuesday was able to come down town. At present Mr. Birch suffers some pain as a result of the fall, but as no bones were broken he feels that he will be "as good as new" again in a few days. Considering the position in which he fell the attending physician says it is a fortunate accident. —Hudson Gazette.

To those who beheld it, what seemed like instant death for Dr. Perkins of this village, and his brother, Willard Perkins, was avoided by a miracle and they are both uninjured. This happened last Friday when the runaway team belonging to Porter Jacox came tearing down the street and collided with Dr. Perkins rig, knocking the occupants skyward, and trampling upon the horse. The doctor suffered some painful bruises at the time and was carried into a store but is now fully recovered. The team started from the elevator, being frightened at the train and were caught near the church.—Onsted News.

Trains were late Saturday night on the Lake Shore Ry. because of a wreck at Sturgis in which several persons were injured some of them seriously. It was a head end collision and was due to the failure of Engineer David Hinkley to take his yard engine to a siding to let the west bound passenger train No. 155, consisting of a small car and coach pass. When the engine reached the curve east of town, the train came bowling along westward at its customary speed. Engineer Hinkley reversed the lever, but too late to prevent the collision. Both engines were badly wrecked. A relief train with surgeons was sent from this place and the injured placed in a hospital at Elkhart.—Hudson Post.

A couple of farmers had a little celebration all by themselves in Davis' grocery store this morning and they came very near not being in a position to attend the picnic tomorrow. Mr. Davis had just made a deal in potatoes with the two men, who were bringing them into the store in bushel baskets and loading them into the elevator. Just as both men, each bearing a loaded basket, stepped into the elevator, one of them hit the trip rope and the elevator started down, while the weight went up. So rapid was the trip that neither man had time to set down his basket and the landing was equally sudden. Whereupon the cable which held the 100-pound weight snapped and the latter. which was then at the top of the three-story building, started on a return trip alone. The weight struck the elevator within a foot of where one of the men stood and the wonder is that he was not killed instead of being mere badly frightened.—Ypsilanti Press.

STOMACH DOSING WILL NOT CURE

Ask any physician if catarrh is a blood disease and he will tell you that it is a diseased condition of the mucous membrane and that it cannot be cured by blood purifiers, pills, tablets, or other forms of stomach dosing. The only sensible and scientific way of curing catarrh is by the use of Hyomei.

Breathed for a few minutes, four or five times a day, through a hard rubber inhaler that is so small that it can be carried in the vest pocket, Hyomei will absolutely destroy all catarrnal germs and cure the disease. Catarrh can never exist where Hyomei is used. It has a two-fold action, destroying the disease germs in the air passages and lungs and soothing and healing the inflamed mucous membrane.

C. A. Wright, one of the most reliable firms in Tecumseh is giving his personal guarantee with every package of Hyomei he sells, that it will effect a cure or he will return the money. He has had scores of reports of remarkable cures of both acute and chronic cases of catarrh by Hyomei.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs $1.00 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime; and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

The Human Lottery

"Ah, if only I were beautiful how happy life would be."

Many a forlorn maid has said this as she looked into the mirror. It is the one possession in the lottery of human life which woman would not refuse.

BRADFIELD'S Female Regulator

for young girls on the threshold of womanhood is invaluable. When they become pale and languid, the eyes dull, aching head, feet and hands cold, appetite gone or abnormal, obstructed periods and painful menses, and their systems generally run down, they need a tonic, building up and their blood cleansed.

Bradfield's Female Regulator for women is particularly valuable and useful owing to its tonic properties and as a regulator of the menstrual flows. Painful, obstructed and suppressed menstruation is permanently relieved and all diseases peculiar to her genital organs are cured by it.

Regulator clears the complexion, brightens the eye, sharpens the appetite, removes muddy and blotched conditions of the skin and cures sick headache at once.

If I took cold it always settled in my back and I could not get relief. Procuring Doan's Kidney Pills at C. A. On Lookout For Forger.

Owosso, Mich., Sept. 3.—All of the officers of Shiawassee county are on the lookout for an alleged forger who tried to pass a bad $500 note on the bank at Elsie. The note was made payable to Luther Leavitt and was drawn against Joel Leavitt of Fairfield township. The bank officials were suspicious when the note was presented for discount and secretly sent it out to Joel Leavitt, who declared the paper a forgery. The man who presented the note at the bank is described as being about 30 years old, tall and smooth-shaven and was seen late last evening driving toward Owosso with a farmer. It is believed that he cannot escape capture.

Strange Case of Ypsi Woman.

New York, Sept. 3.—The arrest of Harriet Barnes in Central park has developed a peculiar case of destitution. The woman is 33 years old, a stenographer, claims her home was formerly in Ypsilanti, Mich., and says her parents reside in Toledo, O. Three weeks ago she ran out of funds and since then had lived in the park, subsisting on scraps thrown away by picnickers. When arrested for vagrancy she was almost famished and slightly out of her mind.

FLINT COUNCIL DIVIDED.

Warm Time Expected Over Fair Ground Saloon.

Flint, Mich., September 5.—The Flint council last Monday night granted Willard Van Blaricum permission to maintain a saloon at the fair grounds during the Genesee county fair held here next week. The ministers of the city, together with many others, have petitioned the city dads to reconsider the action and Mayor Macdonald has called a special meeting of the council for tonight for that purpose.

Van Blaricum has already secured new bondsmen and has ordered lumber for his stand and declares that he will sell liquor at the grounds just the same. The council is divided regarding the matter and a warm time is looked for at tonight's meeting.

Man Was Stealing Her.

Battle Creek, Mich., September 5.—About 1 o'clock in the morning a sanitarium nurse who rooms in one of the cottages near that institution awoke to find herself in the arms of a man, who was carrying her out of the room. She set up a series of terrific yells, which caused the man to drop her on the floor and flee. The other occupants of the cottage were also aroused. The police were notified and went to the scene of the excitement in an automobile, and made a diligent search for the intruder. The act of the man is shrouded in mystery, as it cannot be conjectured what his motive was.

Good Showing in Fire Losses.

Adrian, Mich., September 5.—Adrian claims to have the lowest rate and average of fire losses of any town of approximate size in the state. Since the beginning of the calendar year there have been twenty-one fires here, an average of less than three per month. The total fire loss has been $3,790, an average of $180 per fire. It is believed that for a town of 12,000 population, with a large factory district and three steam railroads, this is the lowest ever.

A Big Beanery.

Pontiac, Mich., September 5.—The C. E. DuPuy Co. will have a new elevator on Jackson street, adjoining the tracks of the Grand Trunk, completed next week, and the company will at once begin the handling of two cars cars per day. The concern came here from Stockbridge, believing Pontiac a more advantageous location for the bean industry. Sixty women and girls will be employed in picking beans by hand and in addition machines will be used.

Linden, Mich., September 5.—The burglars who looted the postoffice and several stores and offices on Thursday night are still at large and no trace of them has been found. Sheriff Rust, of Flint, spent the entire day Saturday endeavoring to get track of the thieves, but returned home without success. He, however, refused to give up search and will return to Linden in the morning. He is convinced that the robbery was the work of tramps.

The men who made their way to liberty by drawing up the sill of a window and knocking the bricks from around the ends of the bars are as follows: William Rose of Okemos, charged with criminal assault, and William Hattour, James Taylor and John White, the three latter being sent up from Lansing on a charge of abusing a small boy. All had been bound over to the September term of the circuit court for trial.

There was considerable blood on the bars and around the window, showing that one of the men must have been wounded in his efforts to get away, and a shirt with blood on it was picked up a short distance from the jail. The four men were seen about four blocks from the jail by several persons, who paid no attention to them. It is thought they took a northeasterly course from here and officers all over Ingham and surrounding counties have been notified to watch for them.

MOTHER AND SON DIE.

Drowned by Capsizing of Sailboat in Detroit River.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 3.—The Detroit river in the vicinity of Fox island, in the American channel some little distance below Detroit, claimed two more victims Friday afternoon when Mrs. Martha Thrasher, wife of Charles Thrasher, and her 14-year-old son Wesley of Amherstburg, just across the river, were drowned by being thrown from their sailboat during the cycloneic squall which struck that section at about 3:30 o'clock.

The father, mother and son were just returning from an after-dinner sail when the storm struck them. Mr. Thrasher was an expert sailor and immediately stripped his boat of all rigging and started to row, heading the boat into the storm. His efforts were in vain. The boat was literally lifted from the water and turned completely over. Though all three clung to it, their cries for help were not heard, and finally the mother and child were forced to let go. Near by campers finally came to Mr. Thrasher's rescue, though he was exhausted and nearly out of his mind owing to the fate his wife and child had met before his very eyes.

Kicked Over a Gun.

Standish, Mich., Sept. 3.—As Frank Early, aged 10 years, came out of his home here he knocked over a shotgun left standing beside the door by Louis Ireland, son of Nelson Ireland, editor of the Independent. The gun was discharged, the contents going into the calf of Early's leg and up into the knee. It is thought his leg will have to be amputated at the knee. The boys were about to go out hunting.

Fifteenth in Reunion.

Erie, Mich., Sept. 3.—The thirteenth annual reunion of the Fifteenth Michigan Infantry association was held here Friday, the program embracing a business meeting in the morning, exercises which began at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and a campfire at night. Samuel W. Burroughs of Detroit was the orator of the day.

Bixbee Not Murdered.

Orion, Mich., Sept. 3.—At an inquest held Friday before Justice John Fox over the remains of Maynard Bixbee, the Orion young man whose body was found in a mutilated condition on the Michigan Central tracks Sunday morning, the coroner's jury was unable to find any evidence of foul play.

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflames the mucous membranes lining the stomach and exposes the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete mucin instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

relieves all inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the stomach, protects the nerves, and cures bad breath, sour risings, a sense of fullness after eating, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles.

And that guaranty is worth one hundred cents on the dollar to you. It means that you are to be satisfied with the garments when you get them—satisfied that they were made expressly for you, to your own measure—and it means that they will wear well, give you good service, and hold their shape as rightly-tailored garments should.

The cost of Royal tailoring is so low that you might almost think price was the first consideration. But it isn't. Value is first. Value-giving is at the basis of The Royal Tailors' success. The best for the money always—that is the Royal idea.

Customers of The Royal Tailors are invited to guess how many people will attend the World's Fair at St. Louis. They offer prizes consisting of ten Automobiles, to be given to the ten persons making the closest guesses. The cost of these Automobiles is $13,700. There are also eight cash prizes of $100 each, making the total value of the prizes $14,500. For every dollar you pay on an order for Royal tailoring you can make one guess; on a $15 suit you can make fifteen guesses, and on a $20 suit you can make twenty guesses, and so on—a guess for every dollar.

The Royal Tailors carry a million-dollar stock of woolens—something sure to please everybody; suits and overcoats for men and boys—ladies' man-tailored skirts and coats—all made strictly to measure at an actual proven cash saving of fully twenty-five per cent.

IN WILD CONFUSION

Mukden Is Over-Crowded and Food Is Scarce.

FAMILIES FLEEING TO HARBIN

Soldiers Not Disheartened Though—War News Held Back—Kuropatkin Has Reached Mukden and His Army Is Likely Safe.

Mukden, Sept. 8.—A correspondent has just arrived here. He says. "The whole country is aflame with the wildest and most contradictory rumors.

"Mukden itself is over-crowded and it is almost impossible to get food or a place to sleep.

"Everywhere there is the greatest uproar and confusion and many families are leaving in the direction of Harbin. The soldiers, however, are not at all disheartened at the result of the fight and they say that the Japanese losses are so tremendous as to seriously weaken them."

New York, Sept. 8.—[Associated Press.]—There is no news from the far east, either from Russian or Japanese sources. For the world-watchers of the great tragedy the curtain has been dropped, and all is conjecture. Not even an expression of opinion comes from Japanese sources, but from St. Petersburg it is indicated that the authorities are confident the critical stage of the Russian retreat is past and that Kuropatkin is no longer in danger of losing any part of his forces to the pursuing Japanese.

Rushing Northward.

The Russian commander has arrived at Mukden and it is given out in St. Petersburg that the bulk of his army is now near there, while a dispatch from Mukden to the Associated Press, filed Tuesday, says that the main Russian army is pushing northward and evacuating that place. It is indicated that the Japanese are still harassing the Russian rear. Further than this nothing is known. An absolute news-silence prevails.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 8.—The general staff is not displaying great anxiety over the alarmist reports that Gen. Kuropatkin is in serious danger of being cut off, but if they had any information from the front Wednesday they have not revealed it. The members also decline to say, even if they know, whether Gen. Kuropatkin purposes taking his army north of Mukden.

Great Waves Rolling In.

Los Angeles, Sept. 8.—From many points along the southern coast comes reports of damage by great billows which are rolling in from the sea, occasioned by some peculiar phenomenon, possible volcanic disturbances far out in the ocean. While there is scarcely a cupful of wind, enormous waves, in some instances forty feet high, roll ceaselessly against the shores. Word comes that the wharf at Hueneme is doomed to total destruction. At Terminal Island the waves has wrought considerable havoc and hundreds of men are at work piling up sacks of sand to form breakwaters. Several cottages are inundated.

Sues Secretary Taft.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Major Peter R. Egan, surgeon in the United States army, has brought suit against W. H. Taft, secretary of war, to compel him to remove from the record of court-martial proceedings adjudging him (Egan) not guilty on charges of neglect of duty. The endorsement on the court's finding of Col. Sanno, the reviewing officer, then commanding the department of Colorado and which endorsement the complainant says is in effect punishment for alleged offenses of which he was not guilty at Fort Douglas, Utah, in December, 1901.

FOR SUPREME BENCH

Republicans Nominate Ostrander, Blair and McAlvay.

NINE CANDIDATES IN FIELD

An Interesting Convention—Held at the Casino, Near Saginaw—Judge Shepard Withdrew—State and National Platforms Indorsed.

Saginaw, Mich., Sept. 8.—Russell C. Ostrander of Lansing, Attorney-General Charles A. Blair of Jackson and Circuit Judge Aaron V. McAlvey of Manistee were nominated by the Republican state judicial convention Wednesday for justices of the supreme court in a convention which was replete with interesting features. There were nine active candidates for judicial honors, and only one, Judge Theodore F. Shepard of Bay City withdrew. After the second ballot, however, the strength of Candidates Chester, Wolcott, Coolidge, Shepard and Blair combined for Judge McAlvay and thus brought about his victory.

The nominating session was held in the Casino at Riverside park, a summer amusement place six miles from this city. It was largely attended Oscoda county alone failing to be represented. The contests were entirely of an individual nature, free from combinations until after the first ballot, when a general shift was made.

The first ballot would have been futile had not a number of counties changed their vote before the announcement was made to Ostrander, who was nominated by a bare majority of two votes. There was a stampede for Attorney-General Blair on the second ballot, and he had over 700 votes. The third ballot was a stampede to McAlvay. Their terms are for seven, five and three years in the order of nomination.

The resolutions were brief, lauded Roosevelt, candidate for governor, Warner, and endorsed the platforms of the last state and national conventions.

LAYING THE CORNERSTONE.

Thousands of People at Port Huron to Witness Maccabee Ceremonies.

Port Huron, Mich., Sept. 8.—Trainload after trainload of humanity are pouring into Port Huron today to take part in the laying of the cornerstone of the new Modern Maccabee temple. The city is in gala attire, flags and bunting waving from every building. When the ceremonies take place it is expected fully 50,000 persons will be assembled about the chosen spot.

Stands have been erected at every point of vantage and the grand reviewing stand has been built at the front of the courthouse. The procession of Maccabees and other bodies will be the largest ever seen in the city.

She Fooled the Reporters.

Battle Creek, Mich., Sept. 8.—Mrs. Ellen G. White, the Adventist prophetess, fooled the newspapermen last night by not showing up at the tabernacle, where she had been announced to address the Adventists. Hundreds of Adventists were rounded up in the tabernacle during the afternoon and given the inspired word instead. The congregation petitioned Mrs. White to remain till Saturday and she has agreed. There was nothing sensational in the afternoon meeting.

Played a Fatal Joke.

Newport, Mich., Sept. 8.—Frank H. Bondy, an aged and respected citizen and pioneer of Old Port, lost his life here in trying to play a joke on a friend. The friend had tied his horse near Allor's shipyard after having been to Valade's drug store after half a pint of carbolic acid for a sick horse. In the absence of his friend Bondy mistook the acid for whisky and took a drink. He was brought to Dr. Valade's office at Newport, but died before he reached here.

State Health Report.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 8.—Reports to the state board of health indicate that diarrhea, rheumatism, neuralgia and cholera morbus, in the order named, caused the most sickness in Michigan during the past week. Meningitis was reported present at 5 places, pneumonia at 10, whooping cough at 12, measles at 15, scarlet fever at 29, diphtheria at 34, smallpox at 42, typhoid fever at 93 and consumption at 287.

DETROIT ON RECORD

Council Passes Ordinance Prohibiting Use of Trading Stamp.

VOTE WAS ALMOST UNANIMOUS

May Put Big Free Newspaper Enterprize Out of Business—Legality of Ordinance Must Yet Be Tested—Much Litigation Is Probable.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 7.—Detroit has put itself on record in a no small way as being one city in the state opposed to the trading stamp. Last evening the city council, by a vote of 21 to 4, passed an ordinance prohibiting its further use in the city of Detroit. The ordinance takes immediate effect.

Probably no city in the country contains more trading stamp institutions than Detroit, and the organization of several others is under way. In fact, this city is the location of the pioneer institution of this kind, namely, the Shelly Hutchinson company.

Made Mint of Money.

For several years this concern has thrived to such a remarkable degree that the principal stockholders are now rated pretty high in the financial world. This concern is now preparing to put before the public a new scheme, the distribution of a newspaper to the public free of charge; that is, free to customers of stores who shall co-operate with the stamp firm. The plan is, that by purchasing a certain amount of goods at these stores the customer shall receive a paper free. Attached to the corner of the paper there was to be a stamp printed in another color, and when the customer had secured a certain number of stamps they were to be redeemable in goods to the value of a fixed amount.

Buying Newspaper Plant.

Into this new stamp enterprise thousands of dollars have been invested. Two handsome buildings in the city are being refitted for occupancy; full equipment for a large newspaper office has already been ordered, and even much of the help for conducting the paper has been engaged.

It now remains to be seen whether this ordinance just passed by the council shall legally stand and put this big enterprise out of business. It is said that the plans of the trading stamp company was to establish similar newspapers throughout the country. If successful there is little doubt that newspapers generally would suffer greatly. An unending amount of litigation will doubtless be the outcome.

Must Be Investigated.

In conjunction with the report sent to the council a lengthy brief was submitted from the corporation counsel, in which he cited a number of cases affecting the legislation. The gist of the cases cited and the supreme court decisions upon the legislation of several states, was in effect that the legislation was illegal, so far as the conduct of the trading stamp business was concerned in those states. The corporation counsel did not hold, however, that the legislation before the council was illegal, declaring that the trading stamp business in Detroit should first be investigated to determine whether it contained an element of chance or lottery.

The aldermen, however, were satisfied that the business as conducted in Detroit does contain the element of chance, as was evidenced by the almost unanimous vote by which the ordinance was passed. Furthermore, it was thought best to give the supreme court of Michigan an opportunity to pass upon the legislation in this state.

Took Morphine.

Adrian, Mich., Sept. 8.—Harriett Perry, aged 24 years, is dead from the effects of a dose of morphine believed to have been taken with suicidal intent. Ill-health is thought to have been the cause of her act, as she is said to have told her sister several times of late that it would be better if she were dead.

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. THIRTY BADLY INJURED.

Fast Train on Chicago, Rock Island Line Wrecked.

Princeton, Ill., Sept. 8.—The Kansas City fast passenger train on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad was wrecked one-half mile east of Tiskilawa last night and more than thirty persons were badly injured, two of whom have since died.

The passenger train collided with a freight train that had broken in two. The engineer escaped injury and the fireman was seriously hurt. Half a dozen passenger cars were wrecked and the passengers thrown in every direction, eight landing in a cornfield at one side of the track. Many of the injured have been taken to Tiskilawa and others to hospital at La Salle.

Physicians and nurses have been summoned from many of the surrounding towns. The full extent of the disaster will not be known for several hours.

ON UNFAIR LIST

Chicago Strikers Propose to Put All Meat.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Having voted to continue the stockyards struggle until better terms can be secured, the strike leaders are in a quandry as to what the next move shall be.

When the result of the vote of the men, defeating the proposition to return to work, was announced it was stated by the union officials that a second ballot would be ordered at once. Shortly after the announcement was made, however, the plan was abandoned and efforts were begun to secure another conference with the packers. In this the strikers were unsuccessful and then a second announcement was made that the order issued last week placing all meat on the unfair list would go into effect at once.

Named Theo. Roosevelt Parker.

Washington, Sept. 8.—The bureau of navigation has just received a request from Rep. Bell of the Second congressional district of California for the enlistment in the navy and assignment to the battleship Ohio of a constituent of his named Theodore Roosevelt Parker. The applicant, it appears, really bears the name of Theodore Roosevelt Parker and it was not recently assumed, as is shown by the fact that the records of the marine corps disclose his enlistment under that name at Seattle, Wash., July 13, 1901. Parker was born in San Francisco and was a machinist when he enlisted in the marine corps. His father bore the same name. It is said the family is a branch of the old Pennsylvania family of Roosevelts, not connected in any way with that of President Roosevelt. Rep. Bell's request will be granted.

Massacre Cost 3,500 Lives.

Washington, Sept. 8.—The American consul at Harput has reported to the state department that he has visited Bitlis and is now in Moush. The consul states that the district of Sassun is tranquil and pacified, and the strategic points are garrisoned by infantry detachments and permanent barracks erected. The survivors of the massacre are in a destitute condition, but are attempting to rebuild their burned villages with a little government aid. The consular corps at Bitlis estimates the number massacred and dead from exposure and hunger, etc., as 3,500.

Ex-Gov. Taylor Weds Again.

Bristol, Tenn., Sept. 8.—Former Gov. Robert L. Taylor of Tennessee was married to Miss Mamie St. John of Chilhowie, Va., Wednesday afternoon. Gov. Taylor has been married three times, having been divorced only a few months ago from his second wife at Knoxville.

Japs Made Big Purchase.

Pittsburg, Sept. 8.—Agents of the Japanese government have just closed a contract with the Carnegie Steel Co. for an order of 7,500 tons of the finest grade nickel steel plates. The plates are for use on Japanese battleships. The order will keep the 84- and 184-inch mills of the Homestead plant busy for three months.

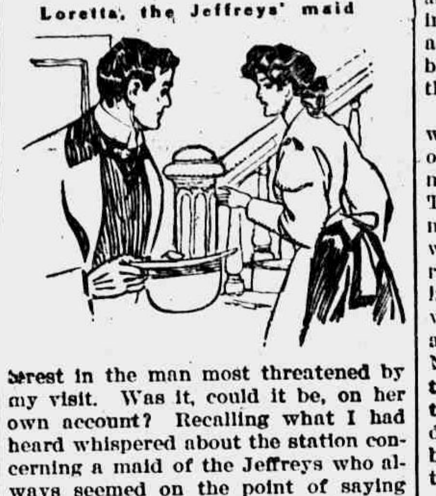
CHAPTER VIII.

Mrs. Jeffrey's funeral had taken place the day before, and the house looked deserted. But my summons speedily brought to the door a neat looking but very nervous maid, whose eyes took on an unmistakable expression of resistance when I announced my errand and asked to see Mr. Jeffrey. The expression would not have struck me as peculiar if she had raised any objection to the interview I had solicited. But she did not. Her fear and antipathy consequently sprang from some other source than her interest in the man most threatened by my visit. Was it, could it be, on her own account? Recalling what I had heard whispered about the station concerning a maid of the Jeffreys who always seemed on the point of saying something which never really left her lips, I stopped her as she was about to slip upstairs and quietly asked:



Loretta, the Jeffreys' maid

"Are you Loretta?"

The way she turned, the way she looked at me, as she gave me a short affirmative and then quickly proceeded on her way, convinced me that my colleagues were right as to her being a woman who had some cause for dreading police interference. I instantly made up my mind that here was a mine to be worked and that I knew just the demure little soul best equipped to act the part of miner.

In a moment she came back, and I had a chance to note again her pretty but expressionless features, among which the restless eyes alone bespoke character or decision.

"Mr. Jeffrey is in the back room upstairs," she announced. "He says for you to come up."

"Is it the room Mrs. Jeffrey used to occupy?" I asked, with open curiosity, as I passed her.

An involuntary shudder proved that she was not without feeling. So did the quick disclaimer:

"No, no! Those rooms are closed. He occupies the one Miss Tuttle had before she went away."

"Oh, then, Miss Tuttle is gone?"

Loretta disdained to answer. She had already said enough to cause her to bite her lip as she disappeared down the basement stair. Decidedly the boys were right. An uneasy feeling followed any conversation with this girl. Yet, while there was slyness in her manner, there was a certain frank honesty visible in it, too, which caused me to think that if she could ever be made to speak her evidence could be relied on.

Mr. Jeffrey was sitting with his back to the door when I entered, but turned as I spoke his name and held out his hand for the note I carried. He appeared to shrink from observation and shifted uneasily as long as I stood in front of him, though he said nothing and did not lift his eyes from the letter he was perusing till he heard me step back to the door I had purposely left open and softly closed it. Then he glanced up with a keen if not an alarmed look, which seemed an exaggerated one for the occasion—that is, if he had no secret to keep.

"Do you suffer so from drafts?" he asked, rising in a way which in itself was a dismissal.

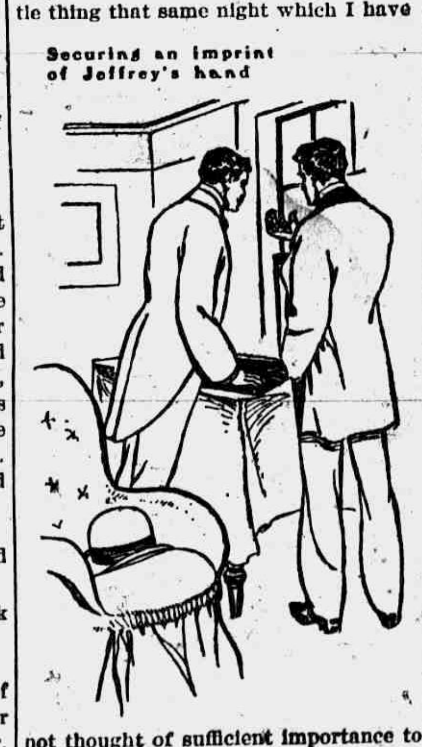
I smiled an amused denial, then, with the simple directness I thought most likely to win me his confidence, entered straight upon my business in these plain words:

"Pardon me, Mr. Jeffrey, I have something to say which is not exactly fitted for the ears of servants." Then as he pushed his chair suddenly back I added reassuringly: "It is not a police matter, sir, but an entirely personal one. It may strike you as important, and it may not. Mr. Jeffrey, I was the man who made the unhappy discovery in the Moore mansion which has plunged this house into mourning."

This announcement startled him and produced a visible change in his manner. His eyes flew first to one door and then to another, as if it were he who feared intrusion now.

"I beg your pardon for speaking on so painful a topic," I went on as soon as I saw he was ready to listen to me. "My excuse is that I came upon a little thing that same night which I have not thought of sufficient importance to mention to any one else, but which it may interest you to hear about."

Securing an imprint of Jeffrey's hand



Here I took from a book I held a piece of blotting paper. It was white on one side and blue on the other. The white side I had thickly chalked, though this was not apparent. Laying down this piece of blotting paper, chalked side up, on the end of a large table near which we were standing, I took out an envelope from my pocket and, shaking it gently to and fro, remarked:

"In an upper room of the Moore house—you remember the southwest chamber, sir?"

Ah, didn't he! There was no misdoubting the quick emotion—the shrinking and the alarm with which he heard this room mentioned.

"It was in that room that I found these."

Tipping up the envelope, I scattered over the face of the blotter a few of the glistening particles I had collected from the place mentioned.

He bent over them, astonished; then, as was natural, brushed them together in a heap with the tips of his fingers and leaned to look again just as I breathed a heavy sigh which scattered them far and wide.

Instinctively he withdrew his hand, whereupon I embraced the opportunity of turning the blotter over, uttering meanwhile the most profuse apologies. Then, as if anxious not to repeat my misadventure, I let the blotter lie where it was, and, pouring out the few remaining particles into my palm, I held them toward the light in such a way that he was compelled to lean across the table in order to see them. Naturally, for I had planned the distance well, his finger tips, white with the chalk he had unconsciously handled, touched the blue surface of the blotter now lying uppermost and left their marks there.

I could have shouted in my elation at the success of this risky maneuver, but managed to suppress my emotion and to stand quite still while he took a good look at the filings. They seemed to have great and unusual interest for him, and it was with no ordinary emotion that he finally asked:

"What do you make out of these, and why do you bring them here?"

My answer was written under his hand, but this it was far from my policy to impart. So, putting on my friendliest air, I returned, with suitable respect:

"I don't know what to make of them. They look like gold, but that is for you to decide. Do you want them, sir?"

"No," he replied, starting erect and withdrawing his hand from the blotter. "It's but a trifle—not worth our attention. But I thank you just the same for bringing it to my notice."

This time I accepted it as such without question. Carelessly restoring the piece of blotting paper to the book from which I had taken it, I made a bow and withdrew toward the door. He seemed to be thinking, and the deep furrows which I am sure had been lacking from his brow a week previous became startlingly visible. Finally he observed:

"Mrs. Jeffrey was not in her right mind when she so unhappily took her life. I see now that the change in her dates back to her wedding day; consequently any little peculiarity she may have shown at that time is not to be wondered at."

"Certainly not," I boldly ventured, "if such peculiarities were shown after the fright given her by the catastrophe which took place in the library."

His eyes, which were fixed on mine, flashed, and his hands closed convulsively.

"We will not consider the subject," he muttered, reseating himself in the chair from which he had risen.

I bowed again and went out. I did not dwell on the interview in my own mind, nor did I allow myself to draw any conclusions from it till I had carried the blotter into the southwest chamber of the Moore house and carefully compared the impressions made on it with the marks I had scratched on the surface of the mantelshelf. This I did by laying the one over the other after having made holes where his finger tips had touched the blotter.

The holes in the blotter and the marks outlined upon the shelf coincided exactly.

CHAPTER IX.

I HAVE already mentioned the man whom I secretly looked upon as standing between me and all preferment. He was a good looking fellow, but he wore a natural sneer which for some reason I felt to be always directed toward myself. This sneer grew pronounced about this time, and that was the reason, no doubt, why I continued to work as long as I did in secret. I dreaded the open laugh of this man, a laugh which always seemed hovering on his lips and which was only held in restraint by the awe we all felt of the major.

The deputy coroner is interested

Notwithstanding, I made one slight move. Encountering the deputy coroner, I ventured to ask if he was quite satisfied with the evidence collected in the Jeffrey case.

His surprise did not prevent him from asking my reasons for this question.

I replied to this effect:

"Because I have a little friend winsome enough and subtle enough to worm the truth out of the devil. I hear that the girl Loretta is suspected of knowing more about this unfortunate tragedy than she is willing to impart. If you wish this little friend of mine to talk to her I will see that she does so and does so with effect."

The deputy coroner looked interested.

"Whom do you mean by 'little friend,' and what is her name?"

"I will send her to you."

And I did.

The next day I was standing on the corner of Vermont avenue when I saw Jinny advancing from the house in K street. She was chipper, and she was smiling in a way which made me say to myself:

For Jinny's one weakness is her lack of power to hide the satisfaction she takes in any detective work that comes her way. I had told her of this and had more than once tried to impress upon her that her smile was a complete give away, but I noticed that if she kept it from her lips it forced its way out of her eyes, and if she kept it out of her eyes it beamed like an inner radiance from her whole face. So I gave up the task of making her perfect and let her go on smiling, glad that she had such frequent cause for it.

This morning her smile had a touch of pride in it as well as of delight, and, noting this, I remarked:

"You have made Loretta talk."

Her head went up, and a demure dimple appeared in her cheek.

"What did she say?" I urged. "What has she been keeping back?"

"You will have to ask the coroner. My orders were strict to bring the results of my interview immediately to him."

"Does that include Durbin?"

"Does it include you?"

"I am afraid not."

"You are right. But why shouldn't it include you?"

"What do you mean, Jinny?"

"Why do you keep your own counsel so long? You have ideas about this crime, I know. Why not mention them?"

"Jinny!"

"A word to the wise is sufficient." She laughed and turned her pretty face toward the coroner's office. But she was a woman and could not help glancing back, and, meeting my dubious look, she broke into an arch smile and naively added this remark: "Loretta is a busybody ashamed of her own curiosity. So much there can be no harm in telling you. When one's knowledge has been gained by lingering behind doors and peeping through cracks, one is not so ready to say what one has seen and heard. Loretta is in that box and, being more than a little scared by the police, was glad to let her anxiety and her fears overflow into a sympathizing ear. Won't she be surprised when she is called up some fine day by the coroner! I wonder if she will blame me for it?"

Jinny seeks further evidence

"She will never think of doing so," I basely assured my little friend, with an appreciative glance at her sparkling eye and dimpled cheek.

The arch little creature started to move off again. As she did so she cried, "Be good, and don't let Durbin cut in on you," but stopped for the second time when half across the street, and when, obedient to her look, I hastily rejoined her, she whispered demurely: "Oh, I forgot to tell you something that I heard this morning and that nobody but yourself has any right to know. I was following your commands and buying groceries at Simpkins' when, just as I was coming out with my arms full, I heard old Mr. Simpkins mention Mr. Jeffrey's name and with such interest that I naturally wanted to hear what he had to say. Having no real excuse for staying, I poked my finger into a bag of sugar I was carrying till the sugar ran out, and I had to wait till it was put up again. This did not take long, but it took long enough for me to hear the old grocer say that he knew Mr. Jeffrey and that that gentleman had come into his shop only a day or two before his wife's death to buy—candles!"

The archness with which this was said, together with the fact itself, made me her slave forever. As her small figure faded from sight down the avenue I decided to take her advice and follow up whatever communication she had to make to the coroner by a confession of my own suspicions and what they had led me into. If he laughed—well, I could stand it. It was not the coroner's laugh nor even the major's that I feared. It was Durbin's.

CHAPTER X.

JINNY had not been gone an hour from the coroner's office when an opportunity was afforded for me to approach that gentleman myself.

With few apologies and no preamble I immediately entered upon my story, which I made as concise and as much to the point as possible. I did not expect praise from him, but I did look for some slight show of astonishment at the nature of my news. I was therefore greatly disappointed when after a moment's quiet consideration he carelessly remarked:

"Very good, very good! The one point you make is excellent and may prove of use to us. We had reached the same conclusion, but by another road. You ask, 'Who blew out the candle?' We, 'Who tied the pistol to Mrs. Jeffrey's arm?' It could not have been tied by herself. Who was her accessory, then? Ah, you didn't think of that."

I flushed as if a pail of hot water had been dashed suddenly over me. He was right. The conclusion he spoke of had failed to strike me. Why? It was a perfectly obvious one, as obvious as that the candle had been blown out by another breath than hers; yet, absorbed in my own train of thought, I had completely overlooked it. The coroner, observing my embarrassment, smiled, and my humiliation was complete, or would have been had Durbin been there, but fortunately he was not.

"I am a fool," I cried. "I thought I had discovered something. I might have known that there were keener minds than mine in this office"—

"Easy—easy," was the good natured interruption. "You have done well. If I did not think so I would not keep you here a minute. As it is, I am disposed to let you see that in a case like this one man must not expect to monopolize all the honors. This matter of the bow of ribbon would strike any old and experienced official. I only wonder that we have not seen it openly discussed in the papers."

Taking a box from his desk, he opened it and held it out toward me. A coil of white ribbon surmounted by a crisp and dainty bow met my eyes.

"You recognize it?" he asked.

Indeed I did.

"It was cut from her wrist by my deputy. Miss Tuttle wished him to untie it, but he preferred to leave the bow intact. Now lift it out. Careful, man; don't soil it. You will see why in a minute." As I held the ribbon up he pointed to some spots on its fresh white surface. "Do you see those?" he asked. "Those are dust marks, and they were made as truly by some one's fingers as the impressions you noted on the mantelshelf in the upper chamber. This pistol was tied to her wrist after the deed; possibly by that same hand."

It was my own conclusion, but it did not sound as welcome to me from his lips as I had expected. Either my nature is narrow or my inordinate jealousy lays me open to the most astonishing inconsistencies, for no sooner had he spoken these words than I experienced a sudden revulsion against my own theory and the suspicions which it threw upon the man whom an hour before I was eager to proclaim a criminal.

But Coroner Z. gave me no chance for making such a fool of myself. Rescuing the ribbon from my hands, which no doubt were running a little too freely over its snowy surface, he smiled with the indulgence proper from such a man to a novice like myself and observed quite frankly:

"You will consider these observations as confidential. You know how to hold your tongue; that you have proved. Hold it, then, a little longer. The case is not yet ripe. Mr. Jeffrey is a man of high standing, with a hitherto unblemished reputation. It won't do, my boy, to throw the doubt of so hideous a crime upon so fine a gentleman without ample reason. That no such mistake may be made and that he may have every opportunity for clearing himself I am going to have a confidential talk with him. Do you want to be present?"

I flushed again, but this time from extreme satisfaction.

MME. SHUMANN-HEINK □

World's geatest contralto

To appear in comic opera in the Detroit opera-house week of Sept. 12.

Mr. F. C. Whitney, who is in the foremost rank of play producers in the world, and who will introduce Mme. Schumann-Heink to Detroit audiences for her comic opera debut in America during the week of Sept. 12, is winning much success by his close adherence to a well defined business rule. Even as early as the days of "The Fencing Master" when he fully made up his mind to go extensively into the theatrical business as a play producer he mapped out the course which he has followed to the letter. He resolved that he would exercise all his energies and managerial experience each succeeding season in raising the standard of his attraction and in engaging for them the best players and in making for them more and more elaborate productions. For the dramatic season of 1904-5 he has devoted most of his time to perfecting the tour of Mme. Schumann-Heink in the new Stange and Edwards play "Love's Lottery" and in making his latest musical comedy "Piff Paff Pouf" the most successful production of that character before the American public. He has succeeded splendidly with "Piff Paff Pouf" which is now in the sixth month of its record-breaking run at the Casino, New York. Recently he has been giving the closest attention to perfecting all the many details of the Schumann-Heink's great talents both as an operatic singer and comedienne, Mr. Whitney is taking more than a business interest in aiding her to achieve notable success in her venture into the field of comic opera. Every detail in the construction of "Love's Lottery" has received his personal attention. From the day Mr. Stanislaus Stange submitted the scenario of "Love's Lottery" both opera and production have received the most careful study and consideration. The scenic models, costume plates, properties, light effects, and orchestration were made under his personal direction, and the performance when it is seen in this city will give eloquent testimony to the weal of his experience and artistic taste. Mme. Schumann-Heink than whom there is no greater artist in the world, has grown most enthusiastic in praise of the play, production and management. The Schumann-Heink company goes almost direct from this city to the Broadway Theatre in New York City for a long run. It was necessary to secure this theatre with the largest seating capacity of any first class New York City theatre because of the great interest in the star and opera aroused in that city and because it is the most expensive company which will appear before the American public this season.

Young Plants

Every farmer knows that some plants grow better than others. Soil may be the same and seed may seem the same but some plants are weak and others strong.

And that's the way with children. They are like young plants. Same food, same home, same care but some grow big and strong while others stay small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion offers an easy way out of the difficulty. Child weakness often means starvation, not because of lack of food, but because the food does not feed.

Scott's Emulsion really feeds and gives the child growing strength.

Whatever the cause of weakness and failure to grow—Scott's Emulsion seems to find it and set the matter right.

MRS. ELLA M. SNYDER, Canton, Ohio.

Mrs. Ella M. Snyder, Canton, Ohio, says "About 20 months ago I gave birth to a little baby girl; during pregnancy I suffered greatly with bearing down pains and had a miserable feeling all the time; I was weak and could not gain strength, and in three months was almost down with nervous prostration, falling of the womb swelled and diseased ovaries, pain in back and sides, and dizziness. I doctored with several doctors, and for five months I was confined to my bed; I could not walk. One day my husband saw your advertisement and sent at once for a sample bottle. I used the sample and also got a large bottle, and continued using it until now I feel entirely well. Can walk all day and if I feel tired at night I take one dose of Zoa Phora to keep me from getting run down. Many thanks for what you have done for me, and may God add his blessing."

Write the Zoa Phora Co., Kalamazoo, Mich. for a free trial bottle and copy of their illustrated medical book, "Dr. Pengelly's Advice to Women." The doctor will gladly give free special advice when needed. Zoa Phora is for sale at $1.00 a bottle by

His Last Dollar.

His Last Dollar, presented by David Higgins and a worthy company at the opera house last night, presents elements of intense interest to most of the theatre goers. Although the play is an old one the company showed some little evidences of not having played together for long, which will probably wear off as the season advances.

In the male part of the cast the star whose work has put him in the ranks of the better known divided honors with Thomas Reynolds whose protrayal of Kaufman the Jewish broker, was absolutely satisfactory. David Reynolds, the youngest of the company, played with a great deal of sangfroid, the part of the twin.

Mr. Carmichael, as the villian, displayed a tendency to rant, and mouth, which was probably due to his youth. Eleanor Montell was her own pleasing self, while Chas. Fleming, as the swell, deserves commendation. The company was hampered somewhat by the limits of the stage.

Mrs. Alfred James.

DeSpelder officiating.

J. M. JONES.

ROUND ABOUT US.

About six o'clock Monday evening, while assisting in the construction of a silo for Allen Forsythe, living three miles west of this place, Claude, the nineteen-year-old son of I. B. Hale and wife, met with a peculiar and very serious accident, which came near costing his life. The young man was on a scaffolding and wishing to descend to the ground grasped one of the ropes which were hanging from the top of the building. Unfortunately this particular rope had not been securely fastened and he fell to the hard cement floor of the silo, a distance of 20 feet, dislocating his elbow, breaking his wrist and otherwise severely bruising him. He was brought to his home here, where the fractures were reduced and the patient is doing far better than could have been hoped.—Milan Leader.

One of the passenger trains on farmer's picnic day was stopped between Hudson and the lake, because what was supposed to be the corpse of a man was lying very near the rail and it was thought he had been killed by some train which had passed. It was soon discovered, however, that he was drunk and had found a resting place only a few inches from the rail. He was given a good shaking and directed to be more careful when he needed sleep in the day time.—Hudson Post.

Forward, as occasion offers. Never look around to see whether any shall note it.

KILLED.

DETROIT SOUTHERN

Edwin Jones was killed at the car shops this morning about 8 o'clock, by the Detroit Southern freight. He was fixing a coupler on a car and the engine started up a little too soon, squeezing him between the two cars.

Mr. Jones had just started to work at the shops this morning, having been formerly employed by the town and worked on the street.

He leaves a wife, formerly Miss Rosa Mull, who is nearly crazed with grief. Mr. Jones was about 30 years of age and carried insurance with the Maccabees and A. O. U. W. The couple had one child.

Funeral Sunday at 2 o'clock at the Presbyterian church. Maccabees will have charge.

IRVING LOWE.

Lowe, being about 20 years of age. Mrs. Lowe spent the greater part of the summer here with relatives. The family have the sympathy of all their Tecumseh friends in their great sorrow.

FOURTH REUNION.

Of the Patterson family held at Macon Aug. 27.

A more pleasant day could not have been wished for and by 11 a. m. nearly all the guests, 65 in number, had arrived, bringing with them the viands that comprise a good square meal in the country, with dainties intermingled.

Dinner was served at noon on the lawn under a large canvas, and all did justice to the many good things furnished, after which the tables were cleared away and chairs arranged for the program. The meeting was called to order by the president, Chas. Hinds, announcing the opening song "America." Prayer was then offered by Rev. J. A. DeSpelder.

Songs and recitations by the little folks with an essay on the subject "What are we here for" by Miss Minnie Buck, of Monroe, were rendered, Miss Ethel Schreder read a letter of regrets from Roswell Phillips and wife, of Portland, Oregon.

Pres.—Samuel T. Stewart.
Vice Pres.—David Linton.
Sec. and Treas.—Ora Stewart.
Program Com.—Lizzie Stewart, Lottie Craig, Dolly Hindes and Nellie Craig.

The meeting was then adjourned to meet the last Saturday in Aug. 1905, at Samuel T Stewarts.

Base ball and other games followed till the shadows of evening began to gather, when they all wished the host and hostess a pleasant farewell.

Those from away who attended were Rev. and Mrs. J. A. DeSpelder, of Tecumseh, Mrs. C. Buck, Archie and Minnie, of Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Chester E. Smith and baby Gladys, of Napoleon, Ohio.

Brown of Leesville, Ind., endured death's agonies from asthma, but this wonderful medicine gave instant relief and soon cured him. He writes, "I now sleep soundly every night." Like marvelous cures of consumption, pneumonia, colds bronchitis and grip prove its matchless merit for all throat and lung troubles. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at C. A. WEDDINGS.

The marriage of

RALPH BIDWELL

to,

ALICE DAUBENBIS

Was quietly solemnized Aug. 1.

A quiet wedding was solemnized last evening at Calvary Episcopal Rectory, when with the impressive Episcopal service Miss Alice Daubenbis, of Capitola, was married to Ralph J. Bidwell, of Tecumseh, Michigan.

Rev. W. T. Githens, of Beaufort, S. C., was the officiating clergyman and the bride was attended by her friend, Miss Livingstone, of San Francisco, the groom by W. E. Crossman, of Stanford University, both of whom are members of the Theta Deltia Chi fraternity.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Daubenbis, and since a child has resided at Capitola, with the exception of several extended eastern trips. She is a pretty brunette and by her affable manner has won hosts of friends who extend congratulations.

The groom is with Flett & Cole and came to California from Tecumseh. He is from the U. of M. at Ann Arbor.—Santa Cruz Surf.

Ralph Bidwell is one of the best known young men in Tecumseh, born and brought up here, and liked by everybody. He spent his entire school days here, except one year in Military school and one at Ann Arbor, and is in every way a representative Tecumseh boy. The young lady in question has indeed done well, and Tecumseh friends hope to see the young couple in Tecumseh soon.

Gilkey-Boyd.

The marriage of Miss Jennie Gorsuch Gilkey, elder daughter of Mrs. Margaret Gilkey, to Frank T. Boyd, was solemnized Wednesday evening at seven o'clock at the bride's home, on Chandler street in Adrian, the ceremony being witnessed by about 85 relatives and most intimate friends of the couple.

The impressive ring service was performed by Rev. O. V. W. Chandler, a former pastor of the M. P. church of Adrian, of Tiffin, O. The wedding march was executed on the piano and violin by T. F. Rinehart, of Adrian, and Miss Blanche Wheeler of Lansing. The bride and groom were attended by Miss Florence Swift and Dr. Esli T. Morden, Miss Jessie Gorsuch and Clarence Wilcox.

The bride was becomingly attired in white Aeolian over white silk, with Duchess lace, and wore a handsome pearl brooch, a gift of the groom, and carried red roses.

After the wedding supper, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd departed on a several weeks' trip going to Detroit and St. Louis, Mo. The bride was a successful teacher here and made many friends during her stay in Tecumseh. The best wishes of her many friends go with her. The groom is in partnership with his father, R. W. Boyd, one of the leading grocers in that city.

They will reside with the bride's mother this winter. Among those from Tecumseh were Miss Edith Cotton, Lester Heesen and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Voegele.

Library Notes.

A fine new Natural History of five volumes has recently been added to the public library.

The library welcomes all school pupils who need reference work or helps along their line of study especially those, who coming from the country have not had the privileges of a public library, will endeavor to teach them how to use the reference books to the best advantage and will be glad of suggestions from superintendent or teachers in advance, that the work may be ready without unnecessary delay.

When you draw a new or popular book from the library remember to read and return it as promptly as possible. While you have the right to keep your book two or even four weeks in a small library where it is not possible to have duplicate copies, if each one keeps his book two weeks or even more a comparatively small number can have the privalege of reading the new books during the year and many do not get them at all until they have been through the hands of the binder.

Librarians and others interested in good reading are noting with much satisfaction an increasing demand especially among the young people for books, other than fiction. Nature books, anything on outdoor life, scientific books, that are not too technical, those on electricity are eagerly read and enjoyed. The schools have done much and can do much more to foster a taste for good literature and the parents as well as those who are taking an intelligent interest in what the children are reading.

Leonard Green, a brakeman on the Pere Marquette railroad at Lake Odessa Ionia county, has showered himself with laurels as a hero and gained the everlasting gratitude of the parents of little Naomi Cooley of that village, for saving the little curly headed tot, who was playing with her doll and cab on the track, from being crushed by the freight. At the risk of his own life Mr. Green stood on the cow catcher, snatched the child as it were from the jaws of death to a place of safety.—Reese Review.

STOMACH DOSING WILL NOT CURE

Ask any physician if catarrh is a blood disease and he will tell you that it is a diseased condition of the mucous membrane and that it cannot be cured by blood purifiers, pills, tablets, or other forms of stomach dosing. The only sensible and scientific way of curing catarrh is by the use of Hyomei.

Breathed for a few minutes, four or five times a day, through a hard rubber inhaler that is so small that it can be carried in the vest pocket, Hyomei will absolutely destroy all catarrhal germs and cure the disease. Catarrh can never exist where Hyomei is used. It has a two-fold action, destroying the disease germs in the air passages and lungs and soothing and healing the inflamed mucous membrane.

C. A. Wright, one of the most reliable firms in Tecumseh is giving his personal guarantee with every package of Hyomei he sells, that it will effect a cure or he will return the money. He has had scores of reports of remarkable cures of both acute and chronic cases of catarrh by Hyomei.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs $1.00 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime; and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

REASONS

Why our Vinol is the Greatest Health Restorer and Strength Creator Known to Medicine.

Because Vinol contains in a concentrated form ALL of the medicinal curative elements found in cod liver oil, but without a drop of oil to nauseate and upset the stomach; therefore, wherever old-fashioned cod liver oil or emulsions will do good, Vinol will do far more good.

Because we have never sold anything in our store equal to Vinol to restore health and create strength for old people, weak, sickly women and children, nursing mothers, and after a severe sickness.

A prominent physician writes:

"Vinol is the most palatable and valuable preparation of cod liver oil ever compounded. I now use it entirely in all cases where I formerly depended upon old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions."

Try Vinol on our guarantee to return your money if you are not satisfied.

Doan's Kidney Pills make work easier.
They cure every kidney ill.

Mrs. E. D. Fryer, who lives in the northwestern section of Tecumseh says: "I suffered from my kidneys off and on for about two years. During an attack the pain was worse along in the afternoon and I often felt like giving up but I kept working in my misery, for stooping or straightening my back felt as if it were breaking in two. If I took cold it always settled in my back and I could not get relief. Procuring Doan's Kidney Pills at C. A. Wright's drug store I took them and they did me more good than all other medicines I ever used. Pain in back was relieved. I take great pleasure in recommending them at every opportunity."

McHugh has a long criminal record, having served several prison terms and has been arrested twenty-seven times in Detroit. Frank McFadden, the young man who last spring fired upon a charivari party in Bruce township, wounding several persons, was sentenced to from nine to twelve months at Ionia. Charles Snow, larceny, got six to nine months in Ionia.

Caught in the Act.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 8.—James H. St. Clair, aged 33, who claims his home is in Baltimore, was arrested as he was attempting to remove a pane of glass from a window in the rear of the book store of F. W. Curran. He is suspected of having committed a number of burglaries here within the past few weeks. Several residences and stores have been burglarized.

STATE FORESTRY REPORT.

Is Being Prepared For Submission to the Governor.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 8.—At its meeting here Wednesday the state forestry commission prepared its annual report for submission to the governor. The commission states that it has tried to give exact and valuable information regarding the care of the woodlot and the utilization of thin and waste lands in the production of timber. It has also endeavored to enlist the sympathy of individuals and corporations in the treatment of timber production as a co-ordinate occupation with agriculture.

The commission also states that through a misunderstanding of the purposes of the commission there was much opposition on the part of residents in the vicinity of the state forest reserve at first. This opposition has been turned into hearty co-operation as the purpose of the work has come to be understood and the people see that their lands will increase in value as reforestration becomes more general. The effects of the forests upon floods and droughts is being brought to the attention of the public through the commission.

State tax lands, the commission is convinced, should be turned over to the commission and those suited to agriculture should be placed on sale through the state land commissioner and the rest remain under the control of the state with reference to developing a crop of timber.

TO RAISE THE PRICE.

Bean Growers of Washtenaw County Organize an Association.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 8.—The Washtenaw County Bean Growers branch of the American Society of Equity was organized Wednesday at a meeting of 150 Washtenaw bean growers at the courthouse here.

The objects of the association are to enlist every farmer in the county in the society for their mutual benefit; to gather all data and crop reports possible and tabulate the same if necessary; to place as far as possible an equitable price on the bean crop and to ascertain the best markets and, if necessary, to ship the output to the best advantage and to aid as far as possible the organization of the bean growers of Michigan and of the United States.

George Winans of Hamburg and J. P. Lockwood of Livingston county spoke, saying that the reason the price of beans is kept down is that the farmers do not show judgment in marketing their crop. They put their entire output on the market as soon as the beans are harvested, and the result is that the market is glutted and the price forced down. With an association an elevator can be built and part of the crop stored until the price assumed a fair figure. The association will set a minimum price below which no member will be allowed to dispose of his crop.

Will Continue to Sell Pools.

Flint, Mich., Sept. 8.—There has been a hot fight on here as a result of the orders given to Chief Wells by Mayor MacDonald to stop any betting game at the races of the Northeastern Industrial fair. The fair is now on in full blast. There are seventy-five horses here for the races, and every owner threatened to withdraw his entry unless the officials allowed pool selling. A special session of the police commission was called. The result was instructions given to the chief of police were rescinded. There will be pool selling and the horses will remain for the speed contests.

A Terrible Mistake.

Menominee, Mich., Sept. 8.—Frank Loeffler of Escanaba and John Benning of Green Bay went from Escanaba to Harris, Menominee county, to inspect timber, and Loeffler, who is a crack shot, took his rifle with him. He started to shoot a partridge, and mistaking Benning's cap for a bird fired and shot Benning through the head, killing him instantly. An inquest was held under the new Michigan law providing that the killing of a person by a hunter is a state prison offense.

School Children on Strike.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—A strike of upward of 200 school children has been declared at the Longfellow school because the principal had been transferred since the close of the last term. The children say they will not go to school until the teacher comes back.

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflames the mucous membranes lining the stomach and exposes the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete mucin instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

CORN NEEDS THE SUN

So Do Many Other Yet Unharvested Crops.

OUTLOOK IS PRETTY GOOD

Frost at This Time Would Do Much Damage, Though—Secretary Warner Says Prospects Are Good For Large Bean and Potato Crops.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 12.—In the official report for September, just issued, Secretary of State Warner says:

The temperature during August was quite uniform throughout the state but was somewhat cooler than usual, the departure being two and a half degrees below the normal. Weather was favorable for corn, beans, sugar beets and potatoes, but warm, dry weather is a necessity for three or four weeks in order to ripen these crops before a frost.

Wheat Report.

The final estimate for wheat will be made in October. The average estimate yield per acre in the southern counties is 7 bushels, in the central and northern counties, 9 bushels, and in the state 8 bushels. The quality in the southern and central counties, as compared with an average is 63, in the northern counties 57, and in the state 62. The per cent of wheat of the crop of 1903 still in farmers' hands is, in the southern counties, 7; central counties, 5; northern counties, 4, and in the state 6.

The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by farmers in August was 148,928 bushels, which is 233,639 bushels less than reported marketed in the same month last year.

Oats have done fairly well this year, the yield being up to the average and the quality good. Some damage has been done by rust, but in most localities the crop will be a good one.

The estimated average yield per acre in bushels is 32 in the state.

Corn and Beans.

The weather during August was favorable for the growth of corn, the crop in many cases regaining what was lost by a late start last spring. However, the situation at the present time is rather critical since from two to three weeks of warm, dry weather is necessary to ripen it. Just now a hard frost would do immense damage; if conditions continue favorable the yield will be fair for this year.

Conditions so far this season have been reasonably favorable for beans. On heavy soil they continue to grow through August so that dry weather is needed to ripen the crop; in other localities bean harvest is begun. However, it will be unsafe to make predictions until the crop is secured in good condition, since in very recent years a good crop was ruined by wet weather at harvest time.

Potatoes and Cloverseed.

Potatoes promise to be a good crop this year. In only a few instances has the crop suffered from drought. If frost holds off for some time the yield ought to be up to the average.

The crop of cloverseed will be very short this year owing to the fact that old meadows were practically ruined by cold weather last winter.

Live stock is in good condition at the present time, pastures having been good in most parts of the state.

Let Baby Sink In Cistern.

Bay City, Mich., Sept. 12.—Hilda, the 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davis of the south end, while playing about the yard in the rear of the home of her parents, fell into an open cistern, and owing to the fact that her disappearance was not promptly reported, nearly lost her life. The accident was witnessed by a neighbor, it is claimed, who is on bad terms with the Davis family. Instead of aiding the child or calling its parents, the neighbor walked leisurely to another neighbor's residence and informed the inmates of the occurrence. It took two hours' work to restore the baby to safety.

ONLY FOUR KILLED

One Train Fell on Top of Another Through Trestle.

BUT MANY RECEIVED INJURIES

Accident Happened on Seaboard Air Line Railroad, Near Portsmouth, Va. —Indications Are That Someone Disconnected the Rails.

Portsmouth, Va., Sept. 10.—Shortly after 1 o'clock in the morning train No. 11 on the Seaboard Air Line railroad, consisting of an express car, a mail car, two day coaches and a Pullman sleeper, was derailed at a trestle just south of the Catawba river, South Carolina, and twenty-two miles southwest of Monroe, S. C., followed by the wreck of a light engine and caboose, resulting in the death of four persons and the injuring of thirty-five others.

The killed are: Engineer E. Barksdale, Abbeville, S. C.; Fireman Ed Roberts (colored), Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Black; unknown woman.

The dead and injured were brought back to Monroe. J. M. Barr, first vice-president and general manager of the road, said that there was evidence of a malicious attempt to wreck the train, a number of joints having been found disconnected.

Drawn Backward.

The wrecked train was running about forty miles an hour when the trestle, which is about 300 feet long spanning a meadow near the Catawba river, gave way. The engine and some of the cars passed over, but were drawn backward into the abyss and upon the other cars, and then to add to the disaster a light engine and caboose ran on top of the train of wreckage before it could be flagged.

The accounts of the survivors are terrible. When the train went crashing over the embankment every light went out, passengers were thrown heads over heels against the sides of the coaches, bleeding and bruised. Some were rendered unconscious for a moment. As the scrambling and shouting went on in the dark above the noises a brakeman, with his head half way out of a window, was heard to shout: "My God, the freight train is coming upon us."

One Man a Hero.

In less than a minute the freight, which had left Monroe fifteen minutes behind the passenger train, struck the open space where the bridge had fallen and plunged its way through the passenger cars.

Mr. Black, whose wife was killed beside him, was the last man to leave the coaches, and the very first thing he did was to walk, in his bruised condition, to Catawba Junction, two miles away, and send a telegram to Monroe for help.

Railroad men said today that they had never seen such a complete demolishment of engines and coaches as made by the wreck. George S. Fitzwater, chief detective of the Seaboard Air Line, said that he had found some spikes and bolts and two angle bars which had been removed from the track with claw bars, and he said he was confident that criminal work had been done. He expressed his belief that someone had disconnected the joints in the lower half of the bridge.

Clara Ward In Vaudeville.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—After several years of spectacular experiences in Europe Clara Ward of Detroit, who became the Princess Chimay and later the wife of Janos Rigo, a gypsy violinist, whom she deserted for Giuseppe Ricciardo, a canvasser for a tourist agency, has resolved to return to America as a vaudeville actress. According to Adolph Marks, a Chicago lawyer, who has made a specialty of theatrical law, she has signed for forty weeks at $1,000 a week.

Boys Robbed County Treasurer.

Pomeroy, O., Sept. 10.—Two youthful strangers during the day entered the county treasurer's office, covered Treasurer Chase with revolvers and robbed the safe of $14,000. They then locked Chase in the vault and escaped. Mr. Chase was locked up nearly three hours before he was found and released.

Hanged Himself to Tree.

Bessemer, Mich., Sept. 12.—Jim Hanson, a man employed by Alfred Johnson on a farm two miles south of this city, hanged himself to a tree. He has no family in this country.

BALTIC FLEET SAILS

Leaves Cronstadt to Take Part in War In Far East.

CZAR WITNESSED DEPARTURE

Japanese Estimate Their Losses at Liao Yang Were Less Than Those of Russians—Reported Alexieff Has Resigned—All Quiet at Mukden.

Cronstadt, Sept. 12.—The Baltic fleet sailed Sunday for the far east. The vessels of the fleet are as follows: The battleships Souvaroff, Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's flagship; the Navarin, Sissoi Veliky, Borondino, Alexander III, Orel, Oleg and the Osliaba, Rear Admiral Voelkersam's flagship; the cruisers Admiral Makhimoff, Mmitri Donskoi, Aurora and the Almaz, Rear Admiral Enqust's flagship, and several torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers. The fleet will merely touch at Libau, where it will be joined by twelve transports, colliers and supply ships already waiting there and will then proceed direct to the orient.

Royalty Present.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the time set for the departure of the fleet, the imperial yacht with the emperor, Grand Duke Alexis, the high admiral and other high naval officers on board, put out from Peterhof on the other side of the bay, with an escort of three torpedo boats. Admirals Rojestvensky, Voelkersam and Enquist went on board the imperial yact and personally said farewell to the emperor.

Then, with destroyers ahead and abeam, the Souvaroff led the squadron down the Finnish gulf.

Tokio, Sept. 12.—An approximation of the Japanese casualties in the battle of Liao Yang, based upon reports of the chiefs of the medical corps of the three Japanese armies, has been concluded. It covers the fighting from Aug. 26 and shows that the Japanese killed and wounded amount to 17,539 men, divided as follows:

Russians Lost 25,000.

Telegraphic reports just received here from the headquarters of the Manchurian army declare the Japanese to be in full possession of the coal mines; estimate the Russian losses up to the fall of Liao Yang at over 25,000 men, and give additional details of the disposition of the Russian forces around Liao Yang during the battle. The estimate of losses does not include those suffered by the Russians in the rear guard actions fought after the evacuation of Liao Yang.

London, Sept. 12.—A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from St. Petersburg says it is understood that Viceroy Alexieff, in view of the paramount military exigencies in the far east, has placed his resignation in the hands of the emperor, but that no decision with regard to it has yet been made.

Mukden, Sept. 12.—All is quiet in this region. It is understood that the main force of the Japanese has returned to Yentai.

Negro Hanged at Oxford, N. C.

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 10.—Jesse Allen, a negro, was legally executed at Oxford, N. C., Friday for criminally assaulting a little girl some months ago. The hanging was private. The negro showed wonderful nerve.

Beasts Driven From Forests.

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 10.—Forest fires are raging violently on the shores of Spirit lake and near Coeur d'Alene City and Rathdrum, all in Kootenai county, Idaho. Wild beasts are being driven from the timber into the open, and five bears, fleeing from the flames, were killed near Athol, Idaho.

What is life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in constipation, headache or liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly re-adjusts this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25c at C. A. Wright's drug store.

EIGHT WERE DROWNED

Launch and Steamer on Delaware River Collided.

LITTLE BOAT WAS CUT IN TWO

Four Occupants Rescued—Tragic Termination of a Day's Pleasure Trip—Captain of Steamer Says Accident Was Unavoidable.

Philadelphia, Sept. 12.—The Delaware river steamer Columbia, on its way from this city to Bristol, Pa., last night crashed into a steam launch about ten miles north of here, grinding it to pieces and causing the drowning of eight of the dozen occupants of the small boat. All of the party were Philadelphians.

The dead: Joseph Fortescue, Wade Auday, Thomas Duffy, Thomas Corvesier, Anna Young, Joseph Pfromer, Mrs. Joseph Pfromer, Engineer James Briggs.

The accident was the tragic ending of a day's pleasure trip on the river. The launch was owned by Joseph Fortescue and the party had been made up from among a few of his friends. The day was spent in a cruise up the river.

Thrown Into the Water.

When a point was reached near Andalusia, on the return trip, the Columbia suddenly loomed up in the darkness. The big steamer struck the launch square in the middle and cut it in half, throwing all the occupants into the water.

A terrible shriek went up as the boats struck, which almost caused a panic among passengers on the Columbia. Dozens of life-preservers were thrown overboard to those in the water and a boat was quickly lowered. When the rowboat reached the spot only four persons could be found in the darkness. It is believed that several of the victims were crushed by the paddle-wheels of the Columbia.

The survivors of the launch claim the launch was burning the necessary river lights, as does also Capt. Campbell. The latter declared that the accident was unavoidable.

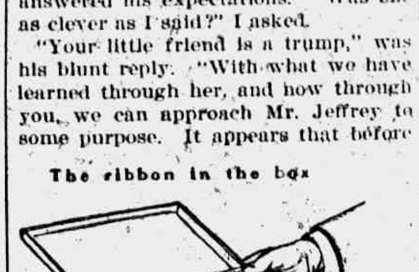
CHAPTER X.

"I am obliged for your confidence," said I. Then, with a burst of courage born of his good nature, I inquired, with due respect, if my little friend had answered his expectations. "Was she as clever as I said?" I asked.

"Your little friend is a trump," was his blunt reply. "With what we have learned through her, and how through you, we can approach Mr. Jeffrey to some purpose. It appears that before leaving the house on that Tuesday morning he had an interview with his wife which ought in some way to account for this tragedy. Perhaps he will tell us about it, and perhaps he will explain how he came to wander through the Moore house while his wife lay dying below. At all events, we will give him the opportunity to do so and if possible to clear up mysteries which provoke the worst kind of conjecture. It is time. The ideas advanced by the papers foster superstition, and superstition is the devil. Go and tell my man out there that I am going to K street. You may say 'we' if you like," he added, with a humor more welcome to me than any serious concession.

The ribbon in the box



Did I feel set up by this? Rather.

Mr. Jeffrey was expecting us. This was evident from his first look, though the attempt he made at surprise was instantaneous and very well feigned. Indeed, I think he was in a constant state of apprehension during these days and that no inroad of the police would have astonished him. But expectation does not preclude dread—indeed, it tends to foster it—and dread was in his heart. This he had no power to conceal.

"To what am I indebted for this second visit from you?" he asked of Coroner Z., with an admirable presence of mind. "Are you not yet satisfied with what we have been able to tell you of my poor wife's unhappy end?"

"We are not," was the plain response. "There are some things you have not attempted to explain, Mr. Jeffrey—for instance, why you went to the Moore house previous to your being called there by the death of your wife."

It was a shot that told, an arrow which found its mark. Mr. Jeffrey flushed, then turned pale, rallied and again lost himself in a maze of conflicting emotions, from which he only emerged to say:

"How do you know that I was there? Have I said so, or do those old walls babble in their sleep?"

"Old walls have been known to do this," was the grave reply. "Whether they had anything to say in this case is at present quite immaterial. That you were where I charge you with being is evident from your own manner. May I then ask if you have anything to say about this visit? When a person has died under such peculiar circumstances as Mrs. Jeffrey, everything bearing upon the case is of interest to the coroner."

"Mrs. Jeffrey's death was a strange one," her husband admitted, with tardy self control. "I find myself as much at a loss to understand it as you do and am therefore quite ready to answer the question you have so openly broached; not that my answer has any bearing upon the point you wish to make, but because it is your due and my pleasure. I did visit the Moore house, as I certainly had every right to do. The property was my wife's, and it was for my interest to learn if I could the secret of its many crimes."

"Ah!"

Mr. Jeffrey looked quickly up. "You think that an odd thing for me to do?"

"At night—yes."

"Night is the time for such work. I did not care to be seen pottering around there in daylight."

"No? Yet it would have been so much easier. You would not have had to buy candles or carry a pistol or"—

"I did not carry a pistol. The only pistol carried there was the one with which my demented wife chose to take her life. I do not understand this allusion."

"It grew out of a misunderstanding of the situation, Mr. Jeffrey. Excuse me if I supposed you would be likely to provide yourself with some means of defense in venturing alone upon the scene of so many mysterious deaths."

"I took no precaution."

"And needed none, I suppose."

"And needed none."

"When was this visit paid, Mr. Jeffrey—before or after your wife pulled the trigger which ended her life? You need not hesitate to answer."

"I do not." The elegant gentleman before us had acquired a certain fierceness. "Why should I? Certainly you don't think that I was there at the same time she was. It was not on the same night even. So much the walls should have told you and probably did, or my wife's uncle, Mr. David Moore. Was he not your informant?"

"No. Mr. Moore has failed to call our attention to this fact. Did you meet Mr. Moore during the course of your visit to a neighborhood over which he seems to hold absolute sway?"

"Not to my knowledge. But his house is directly opposite, and as he has little to do but amuse himself with what he can see from his front window I concluded that he might have observed me going in."

"You entered by the front door, then?"

"How else?"

"And on what night?"

Mr. Jeffrey made an effort. These questions were visibly harassing him.

"The night before the one—the one which—ended all my earthly happiness," he added in a low voice.

Coroner Z. cast a glance at me. I remembered the lack of dust on the nest of little tables from which the upper one had been drawn forward to hold the candelabrum and gently shook my head. The coroner's eyebrows went up, but none of his disbelief crept into his voice as he made this additional statement:

"The night on which you failed to return to your own house."

Instantly Mr. Jeffrey betrayed by a nervous action, which was quite involuntary, that his outward calm was slowly giving way under a fire of questions for which he had no ready reply.

"It was odd your not going home that night," the coroner coldly pursued. "The misunderstanding you had with your wife immediately after breakfast must have been a very serious one, more serious than you have hitherto acknowledged."

"I had rather not discuss the subject," protested Mr. Jeffrey. Then as if he suddenly recognized the official character of his interlocutor he hastily added, "Unless you positively request me to do so, in which case I must."

"I am afraid that I must insist upon it," returned the other. "You will find that it will be insisted upon at the inquest, and if you do not wish to subject yourself to much unnecessary unpleasantness you had better make clear to us today the cause of that special quarrel which to all intents and purposes led to your wife's death."

"I will try to do so," returned Mr. Jeffrey, rising and pacing the room in his intense restlessness. "We did have some words. Her conduct the night before had not pleased me. I am naturally jealous, vilely jealous, and I thought she was a little frivolous at the German ambassador's ball. But I had no idea she would take my sharp speeches so much to heart. I had no idea that she would care so much or that I should care so much. A little jealousy is certainly pardonable in a bridegroom, and if her mind had not already been upset she would have remembered how I loved her and hopefully waited for a reconciliation."

"You did love your wife, then? It was you and not she who had a right to be jealous? I have heard the contrary stated. It is a matter of public gossip that you loved another woman previous to your acquaintance with Miss Moore, a woman whom your wife regarded with sisterly affection and subsequently took into her new home."

"Miss Tuttle?" Mr. Jeffrey stopped in his walk to fling out this ejaculation. "I admire and respect Miss Tuttle," he went on to declare, "but I never loved her—not as I did my wife," he finished, but with a certain hard accent, apparent enough to a sensitive ear.

"Pardon me, it is as difficult for me to put these questions as it is for you to hear them—were you and Miss Tuttle ever engaged?"

I started. This was a question which half of Washington had been asking itself for the last three months.

Would Mr. Jeffrey answer it, or, remembering that these questions were rather friendly than official, refuse to satisfy a curiosity which he might well consider intrusive? The set aspect of his features promised little in the way of information, and we were both surprised when a moment later he responded with a grim emphasis hardly to be expected from one of his impulsive temperament:

"Unhappily, no. My attentions never went so far."

Instantly the coroner pounced on the one weak word which Mr. Jeffrey had let fall.

"Unhappily?" he repeated. "Why do you say 'unhappily?'"

Mr. Jeffrey flushed and seemed to come out of some dream.

"Did I say 'unhappily?'" he inquired. "Well, I repeat it—Miss Tuttle would never have given me any cause for jealousy."

The coroner bowed and for the present dropped her name out of the conversation.

"You speak again of the jealousy aroused in you by your wife's impetuosities. Was this increased or diminished by the tone of the few lines she left behind her?"

The response was long in coming. It was hard for this man to lie. The struggle he made at it was pitiful. As I noted what it cost him, I began to have new and curious thoughts concerning him and the whole matter under discussion.

"I shall never overcome the remorse roused in me by those few lines," he finally rejoined. "She showed a consideration for me"—

"What!"

The coroner's exclamation showed all the surprise he felt. Mr. Jeffrey tottered under it, then grew slowly pale, as if only through our amazed looks he had come to realize the charge of inconsistency to which he had laid himself open.

"I mean," he endeavored to explain, "that Mrs. Jeffrey showed an unexpected tenderness toward me by taking all the blame of our misunderstanding upon herself. It was generous of her and will do much toward making my memory of her a gentle one."

He was forgetting himself again. Indeed his manner and attempted explanations were full of contradictions. To emphasize this fact Coroner Z. exclaimed:

"I should think so! She paid a heavy penalty for her professed lack of love. You believe that her mind was unseated?"

"Does not her action show it?"

"Yes."

"You really think that?"

"Yes."

"By anything that passed between you?"

"Yes."

"May I ask you to tell us what passed between you on this point?"

"Yes."

He had uttered the monosyllable so often it seemed to come unconsciously from his lips. But he recognized almost as soon as we did that it was not a natural reply to the last question, and, making a gesture of apology, he added, with the same monotony of tone which had characterized these replies:

Consumption

People are learning that consumption is a curable disease. It is neglected consumption that is so often incurable.

The use of Scott's Emulsion at once, has, in thousands of cases, turned the balance in favor of health.

Their genuine letters of thanksgiving and rejoicing prove it and prove it conclusively.

You will rejoice as others now rejoice in perfect health and happiness if you use Zoa Phora.

Mrs. Wm. B. Knapp, 621 E. 8th St., Traverse City, Mich., says: "I write this hoping that it will be the means of helping some suffering sister who has any weakness or trouble peculiar to women. Seventeen years ago last fall I was taken sick abed with weakness, and was in bed all winter. Just as soon as I would get up I would faint and fall. Three of the best doctors in our town could not help me; then my husband wrote to that dear old Dr. Pengelly and he sent medicine and advice. The first dose helped me, and in one month I was up doing my work after being sick in bed from the 21st of November until the next May. The medicine he sent me was Zoa Phora, and if it hadn't been for dear old Dr. Pengelly and Zoa Phora, I would not be here to write this."

Write the Zoa Phora Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., for a free trial bottle and copy of their illustrated medical book, "Dr. Pengelly's Advice to Women." The doctor will gladly give free special advice when needed. Zoa Phora is for sale at $1.00 a bottle by

A new and original love story entitled "The Moonshiner's Daughter" is a really dramatic surprise as well as a scenic treat. There is nothing of the cheap melodrama about this production, all the players are of the higher order and the scenic effects superior in every detail and no expense has been spared to make the production high class in every particular. The public may expect something out of the ordinary and well worth seeing. The engagement here is for Sept. 16.

STRUBLE-CALHOUN.

The wedding of Miss Maud Struble of this city, and Henry Clay Calhoun of Clinton, took place this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Struble, at 1002 Stephenson avenue.

The young couple will leave this evening for their future home at Lewiston, Idaho.

The bride has lived in this city all her life and is held in high esteem by all who know her. In 1902 she graduated from Kalamazoo college and attended the University of Chicago and has since been a teacher in the public schools of this city. Mr Calhoun is also a graduate of Kalamazoo college and it was at this institution that the young people met several years ago. He has for the past year been an instructor in the public schools at St. Louis but will take up work next year as a professor in the state normal school of Idaho at Lewiston, Idaho.

The bridesmaids were Miss Kate Chamberlain of Muskegon, a college friend of Miss Struble's and Miss Myrtle Wells of this city. The groomsman was Roy Hornbeck of Kalamazoo and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Purkiss of Green Bay assisted by the Rev. Shoemaker of this city. Messrs. Hornbeck and Perkiss are both college friends of the young people.

Miss Struble was attired in a gown of white silk mulle over white silk and carried a fine linen handkerchief which was of great age and value. She also wore the groom's gift a gold chain and locket. Miss Kate Chamberlain wore a gown of white de'esprit over pink silk and Miss Wells a gown of white silk.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion and the ceremony was performed under a bower of sweet peas and china asters in the parlor.

About sixty guests were present at the wedding. A wedding dinner was served after the wedding and an informal reception was held.—Menominee Herald—Leader of September 1.

Paul Edwin Jones.

One of the largest funerals held in Tecumseh for some time, was held here Sunday over the remains of Edwin Jones, who met death Friday morning at 8:15 at the car shops while coupling cars, death being instantaneous.

Paul Edwin Jones was born in Ohio, Dec. 30, 1871, and was 32 years, 8 months and 10 days of age at the time of his death. At the age of 28 years he married Mrs. Rosa Spaulding with whom he has lived four happy years. One child was born to them, who with the wife and one step-daughter, Madge, are left to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at the Presbyterian church, the Knights of Maccabees, of which order he was a member, attending in a body. Rev. W. F. Jones conducted the services at the church, and the Maccabees at the grave, but owing to the storm the services at the grave were short. The bearers were chosen from the lodge. There were a number of floral offerings.

Those present from out of town were, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Friedrickson of Genoa, O., father and mother of the deceased, Milton Jones, wife and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Barrett of Marshall, David Mull of Lansing, Adam Mull and wife, Fred and Jule Hayes, Wm. The Best Business College.

ROUND ABOUT US.

Down in New Jersey a woman had a man arrested for kissing her and was awarded a judgement of one cent. He passed up a quarter and said he would take the balance in trade.—Hudson Post.

While digging a trench in Adrian last Friday, two men had a narrow escape from death on account of a cave-in. One of them was buried in the earth up to the hips while the other was out of sight, the dirt being about a foot above his head. Assistance was near and with their hands the rescuers uncovered the head of the buried man, after which he was dug out.—Hudson Post.

John Schairer of Ann Arbor, father of Geo. Schairer of this place, was killed at Lakeland Monday evening by the train which was then coming in to bring home the reunion party which had been spending the day at the lake. As the train pulled in he, was on the opposite side of the track from the party, he attempted to cross and in so doing caught his foot in a wire and fell across the track.—Saline Observer.

During the thunder shower Thursday last the horse of Mr. Lane of Somerset, who with his family and friends had been spending the day at the lake, became frightened and the occupants were thrown out. Mrs. Lane's collar bone was broken in three places and she sustained severe cuts and bruises. She was cared for at the home of Ward McCready and was acle to be taken home after some time.—Brooklyn Exponent.

An acre of light soil planted to sunflowers would furnish oven wood for a year for the family and seed enough to feed 50 hens, while laying 400 dozen eggs. The plants will flourish in fence corners or in waste places all over the premises and all through the orchard, even where the hogs run in it they won't harm the plants until the seed ripens, then almost all fowles and animals like them and thrive on them letter than on the same amount of other seed and grain.—Ex.

Some mischievous lads in the city have been telling of a joke they played on an automobileist recently. The lads sought to have some fun with travelers in this vicinity by the way of placing a danger signal in the center of the road, but being unable to find a red lantern, they rigged up a box with thin red paper on one side then being minus of a candle on so short a notice, one lad was placeb behind the box to light matches. The first vehicle to come was an automobile and so real seemed the danger signal that the driver stopped for several minutes or until the boy was out of matches.—Hillsdale Leader.

The prohibitionists of Hillsdale county have nominated a complete county ticket and will keep right on sawing wood regardless of the two old parties. Well, this is one thing they have a license to do. Alvin Wilson of Wright, is named for sheriff, Bill Wright of Adams, for probate judge while Bill Boyd of Wright is clerk and that's all right. Mr. Chinn is the nominee for register. He will face the situation fearlessly without doubt, as he can furnish Chinn music during the campaign. We'll wager a years subscription that Chinn gets more votes than Parker will in Hillsdale county.—Adrian Press.

During the electric storm last Friday afternoon, lightning struck the house on the farm of A. Richard's on the turnpike and tore off considerable of the cornice. Also a barn belonging to Andrew Slayton on the Macon road and a barn belonging to Andrew Bird in London township were struck and burned to the ground with contents. It was by far the fiercest electrical storm of the season.—Dundee Reporter.

KNOWS MI-O-NA WILL CURE.

C. A. Wright has such faith in this remedy that he guarantees it.

It is an unusual thing for a druggist to sell a medicine under a guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure. Yet this is the way C. A. Wright, the popular druggist is selling Mi-o-na, the standard dyspepsia remedy.

Never before has he had so large a number of customers tell him that a medicine has cured as with Mi-o-na. People who a few months ago looked like walking skeletons have put on flesh and today are ruddy and vigorous with perfect digestion and good health, solely due to the use of this remedy.

There is no longer any need of anyone suffering or making their friends suffer on account of dyspepsia for Mi-o-na can be relied upon to cure. The percentage of cures is so nearly 100 per cent. that there is little to risk to C. A. Wright in guaranteeing to refund the money if the medicine does not cure and he stands ready to do so without any questions.

Headaches, all forms of indigestion, specks before the eyes, poor sleep, ringing in the ears and all forms of liver trouble are cured by Mi-o-na, price 50c.

These days are the best in the whole year for the enjoyment of good health. And Mi-o-na will put you in such perfect condition that you can enjoy every minute of them.

Republican Convention.

The Republican reprresentative convention for the first Lenawee district was held here on Saturday afternoon in the opera house. J. W. Wightman was elected chairman and W. F. Rogers of Raisin Center, secretary. Three names were presented, Warren J. Parker, of Woodstock; W. F. Baldwin, of Palmyra; and Dr. L. G. North, of Tecumseh. Parker was chosen on the first ballot, receiving 46 out of 81 ballots cast. Both the loseing candidates and the winning one made speeches. About 200 were present at the convention.

WHAT IS CATARRH?

Hyomei only guaranteed cure for this common and disagreeable disease.

Hyomei cures catarrh by the simple method of breathing it into the air passages and lungs. It kills the germs of catarrhal poison, heals and soothes the irritated mucous membrane and effectually drives this disease from the system.

If you have any of the following symptoms, catarrhal germs are at work somewhere in the mucous membrane of the throat, bronchial tubes or tissues of the lungs.

Offensive breath, dryness of the nose, pain across the eyes, pain in back of the head, pain in front of the head, tendency to take cold, burning pain in the throat, hawking to clear the throat, pain in the chest, a cough, stitch in side, losing of flesh, varible appetite, low spirited at times, raining of frothy mucous, expectorating yellow matter, difficulty in breathing, frequent sneezing, huskiness of voice, discharge from the nose, stoppage of the nose at night, aching of the body, droppings in the throat, mouth open while sleeping, tickling back of the palate, formation of crusts in the nose, dryness of the throat in the morning, loss of strength, spasms of coughing, cough short and hacking, cough worse nights and mornings, loss in vital force, a feeling of tightness across the upper part of the chest.

Hyomei will destroy activity of all catarrhal germs in the respiratory organs and in a few weeks the cure will be complete.

This is a strong statement, but C. A. Wright emphasizes it by agreeing to refund your money if Hyomei does not cure.

PRISONER FLED

But Was Overtaken by Deputy Sheriff on His Wheel.

Flint, Mich., Sept. 12.—Matthew Orr, an inmate of the Genesee county jail in this city, picked up all the rags available and, together with his coat and what papers there were in the jail, got enough material together for a good sized bonfire. He then touched a match to it and caused the jail to become filled with smoke.

Deputy Sheriff Keyport who was in the office watching William Ouderkirk while the latter was talking with his attorney, went to learn the cause of the smudge and Ouderkirk, seeing his chance, made a rush from the office and out of the building. The officer was notified and pursued upon his wheel, overtaking his prisoner a few been in jail for some time charged blocks from the jail. Ouderkirk has with the larceny of several watches and other articles from farm dwellings while going through the country.

Mystery of Milkman's Disappearance Is Solved.

South Haven, Mich., Sept. 12.—The body of Charles Larson, proprietor of the Jersey Milk Company, has been found on the beach four miles north of here, the heavy sea having washed it ashore. Larson disappeared last Monday and no trace was found of him until the body was discovered by John Hair, a farmer, who was walking on the beach.

Larson left his home Monday evening as usual and was last seen by a neighbor near his house. No inquest has been held, although there is a feeling that Larson either was pushed into the lake and drowned or else committed suicide.

Diamond Robbery at Saginaw.

Saginaw, Mich., Sept. 12.—Two young, smooth-faced men entered the jewelry store of William Stols during the noon hour and asked to be shown some diamond rings. They were waited on by the proprietor. He showed them a package containing fourteen stones and noticed that one was missing when the men finished examining them. He instructed his assistant to telephone for the police while he continued talking with the men. They became uneasy, however, and left before the police arrived, taking with them a stone valued at $75. One of the men was arrested shortly after but the diamond was not found on him.

Girl Tramp From Michigan.

Laporte, Ind., Sept. 12.—Mary Smith of Coldwater, Mich., aged 11 years, a girl tramp, was taken in custody by the police at Elkhart, Ind., and taken to the county jail. The girl ran away from Coldwater six weeks ago and made the statement to the officers that she had lived by tramping and beating her way on freight trains, and during this time she covered nearly the entire states of Ohio and Indiana.

Battle Creek, Mich., Sept. 12.—Sunday worshipers were given a bad shock here when the Capitol Amusement Company kept its carnival at Lake Goguac in full operation. Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 12.—The Canadian Pacific railroad westbound transcontinental express was held up by four masked men Saturday night at 9:30, four and a half miles west of Mission Junction. The robbers escaped to the bush and are supposed to have crossed the boundary. They secured about $6,000 from the express safe.

My Breath.

Shortness of Breath Is One of the Commonest Signs of Heart Disease.

Notwithstanding what many physicians say, heart disease can be cured. Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure has permanently restored to health many thousands who had found no relief in the medicines (allopathic or homoeopathic) of regular practicing physicians.

It has proved itself unique in the history of medicine, by being so uniformly successful in curing those diseases.

Nearly always, one of the first signs of trouble is shortness of breath. Whether it comes as a result of walking or running up stairs, or of other exercises, if the heart is unable to meet this extra demand upon its pumping powers—there is something wrong with it.

The very best thing you can do, is to take Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. It will go to the foundation of the trouble, and make a permanent cure by strengthening and renewing the nerves.

"I know that Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is a great remedy. For a number of years I suffered from shortness of breath, smothering spells, and pains in my left side. For months at a time I would be unable to lie on my left side, and if I lay flat on my back would nearly smother. A friend advised using Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, which I did with good results. I began to improve at once, and after taking several bottles of the Heart Cure the pains in my side and other symptoms vanished. I am now entirely well. All those dreadful smothering spells are a thing of the past."—F. P. DRAKE, Middletown, O.

If the first bottle does not help you, the druggist will refund your money.

THREE JURORS CURED

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Clebourne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some souse meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixure, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlin's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." For sale by all druggists, Tecumseh, Mich.

A Swinton-Dana Story.

The crux of the newspaper question was touched by a brilliant journalist, the late John Swinton, for many years managing editor of the New York Sun, in a retort on Mr. Dana. "Swinton," said Mr. Dana one day. "I need a first class editorial writer. Have you one to recommend?" "How much are you willing to pay, Mr. Dana?" asked Mr. Swinton. "For a first class man $125 a week," was the reply. "But you cannot get a first class man for that," protested Mr. Swinton. "Why not?" asked Mr. Dana. "That is what I pay you, and don't you consider yourself a first class man?" "No, Mr. Dana," rejoined Mr. Swinton. "If I were a 'first class man' I should be paying you $125 a week." That $125 a week practically marked the limit of Mr. Swinton's opportunity, as it may be said to mark the limit of the same quality of brains in journalism today—and also the limit of something far more vital, for the difference between a Dana and a Swinton defines status.—Arthur R. Kimball in Atlantic.

A Scotch Story.

The following example of a quaint, philosophic Scotch character is related in the Scottish American: The season had been an exceptionally bad one for farming, but in a country church not far from Arbroath the officials had resolved, according to custom, to hold the annual harvest thanksgiving service. It was noticed that on that particular occasion Mr. Johnstone, a regular attendant and pillar of the church, whose crops had miserably failed, was not in attendance. The minister in the course of the following week met Mr. Johnstone and inquired of him the reason of his absence from church on such an important occasion. "Well, sir," replied Mr. Johnstone, "I dinna care aboot approachin' my Maker in a speerit of sarcasm."

History of the Three Balls.

Lombard street, noted in history as the great London street for bankers, derived its name from the Longobards, a race of rich bankers who settled there in the reign of Edward II. and whose badge, the three golden balls, taken from the lower part of the arms of the dukes of Medici, continues to this day to be the sign of pawnbrokers—money lenders. The balls on the rich crest of the Medici were blue, and only since the middle of the nineteenth century have they, in the pawnbrokers' signs, been gilded. The position of the balls is popularly believed to indicate that there are two chances to one that what is brought there will not be redeemed. —St. Nicholas.

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 10.—Henry Shellberg, aged 13 years, lost his right arm in a sausage grinder at the meat shop of Richard Wirsing, 110 Cooper street. Bay City, Mich., Sept. 10.—Frank Springer, a Pole, 65 years old, the other night purchased a 38-caliber revolver and a box of cartridges and proceeded to Fr. Kozlowski's parish residence with the avowed intention of shooting the priest. He also declared that he would put an end to his own life. All this was because the St. Stanislaus parish school was inadequate to accommodate all his children. The superintendent of police took Springer to the lockup and he was given fifteen days in jail, and in the meantime he will be examined as to his sanity.

Scared Her Into Arresting Him.

Battle Creek, Mich., Sept. 10.—H. A. Knickerbocker, a respectable painter, aged 33, is in jail for attempting to get a bead on his wife's head with a revolver. Mrs. Knickerbocker makes the claim, substantiated by neighbors, that her husband made the fourth attempt to frighten her out of her wits with a loaded revolver. She finally became so scared that she swore out a warrant. Patrolmen Converse and Billington, who arrested Knickerbocker, failed to find the gun.

Says He Was Doped and Robbed.

Battle Creek, Mich., Sept. 10.—It has cost Joseph Fleignier, farmer, just $50 to see the sights. Fleignier says a large, attractive woman in black infatuated him and lured him to the Commercial house, a second-rate hotel, and that they had some drinks together. AT LAST HE REPORTS

Kuropatkin Finally Relieves Terrible Strain at St. Petersburg.

WHY HE LOST AT LIAO YANG

Failure of Gen. Orloff to Hold Position at Yentai Mines Broke Down Whole Plan of Battle—Great Difficulties Encountered on Retreat.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 16.—An official report from Gen. Kuropatkin was given out last night and comes as a considerable relief as setting at rest alarmist stories of the loss of guns, the cutting off of divisions and the death or capture of prominent commanders, which have been freely circulating here.

The report, which is a very long one, enters at considerable detail into the various phases of the battle of Liao Yang and entirely bears out the declaration of the Associated Press at the time that Gen. Orloff's failure to hold the vital position at the Yentai mines was responsible for the breaking down of the whole of Kuropatkin's plan of battle and turned a potential victory into defeat. The manner in which the retreat was carried out in the face of the terrible condition of the country and the determined pressure of the Japanese armies does much to restore Gen. Kuropatkin's prestige in military circles.

Terrible Difficulties.

The report dwells upon the terrible difficulties encountered during the retreat at Liao Yang from positions on the southern front, when twenty-four horses and a whole company of infantry harnessed to a single gun were not able to remove a gun from a quagmire. It is shown that the retirement from Liao Yang to the north bank of the Taitse river was carried out in good order and with celerity under cover of night on Aug. 31, when it had become evident that Gen. Kuroki was making a determined drive at the Russian communications north of Liao Yang.

Gen. Kuropatkin pays tribute to the courage and devotion of every arm of the service under his command, and especially to the bravery of the troops to whom was set the task of recapturing the Sykwantun hills, on the north bank of the Taitse river. The engagement of the night of Sept. 2 was productive of some of the most severe fighting of the whole battle. It was practically a company commander's fight, commands becoming separated in the darkness and independent units acting upon their own initiative, with the one object of carrying out the commander's orders to retake the heights.

This account puts the Russian soldier in a very different light from the generally accepted belief that he is a mere military automation, capable only of acting in a mass under specific instructions.

Lost a Whole Day.

The necessity of retaking the Sykwantun heights formed the first break in Gen. Kuropatkin's plan and lost him a whole day Sept. 2, and thus delayed launching the blow against Kuroki; and when the Russians had just regained a foothold on the coveted position Orloff's failure to hold the Japanese advance against the Yentai mines threatened the envelopment of Kuropatkin on the north, crippled the whole Russian scheme and forced the now historic retreat to Mukden.

The report as given out does not state the casualties, but the Associated Press is authoritatively informed that they were under 17,000.

The war office is extremely reticent regarding the present situation and future plans at the front. It is stated in general terms that the army is concentrated around Mukden, leaving the inference that it is ready to make another stand.

The greater portion of the business portion of St. Helen, the county seat of Columbia county, Oregon, was destroyed by fire Wednesday. Loss, $50,000.

INCREASES EACH YEAR

Trend of State Tax Levy Continues Steadily Upward.

AUDITOR GENERAL'S REPORT

Comparison Drawn With 1902 Shows Increase of Over $250,000—1903 Was Legislative Year—List of Objects of Taxation and State Debtors.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 15.—The trend of the state tax levy continues to be steadily upward. Auditor General Powers has completed the annual apportionment of the state tax to be paid in December, and while the total is less than it was last year, a comparison with last year does not give an accurate idea of the trend, as last year was a legislative year. Last year's levy should be compared with that of 1901, when the legislature was last before the session, and this year's with 1902, when there was no legislative session. Comparing this year's with 1902 shows:

State tax levy, 1902, $2,669,943.65.

Likewise, if the levy of the legislative year of 1903 is compared with the levy of the legislative year of 1901 it will be seen that this also shows why the trend is upward.

State tax levy, 1903, $4,003,024.82.
State tax levy, 1901, $3,835,844.97.

Objects of Taxation.

The purposes for which this tax is levied are as follows: University, $397,525; agricultural college, $100,000; Michigan Normal college, $103,210; Central Normal school, $55,560; Northern Normal school, $37,985; Western State Normal school, $7,000; Michigan college of mines, $55,450; state library, $14,000; Michigan soldiers' home, $134,875; home for feeble minded, $192,300; state public school, $35,000; school for deaf, $88,200; school for blind, $32,000; employment institution for the blind, $25,000; industrial school for boys, $76,250; industrial home for girls, $66,000; state fish commission, $32,100; compiling soldiers' records, $1,250; food and dairy department, $25,000; State Dairymen's association, $300; state library commission, $800; national guard, $126,500.80; naval brigade, $12,650.08; state board of health, $6,500; state weather service, $1,000; state agricultural society, $5,000; state horticultural society, $1,500; forestry reserve, $7,500; geological survey, $1,750; state pioneer and historical society, $3,370; state highway department, good roads, $5,000; current expense of prisons, $116,000; current expense of asylums, $694,117.10; general purpose of state government, $500,000.

State Debtors.

The following counties are indebted to the state in the sums named: Alcona, $45.09; Allegan, $604.67; Alpena, $489.46; Antrim, $892.21; Barry, $266; Bay, $11,046.64; Branch, $540.87; Calhoun, $1,470.18; Cass, $328.05; Chippewa, $1,255.11; Clinton, $284.01; Dickinson, $1,909.11; Eaton, $233.67; Emmett, $787.50; Genesee, $1,026.62; Gratiot, $603.46; Hillsdale, $241.42; Huron, $244.20; Ionia, $441.50; Isabella, $960.64; Jackson, $2,190.94; Kalamazoo, $1,723.54; Kent, $4,999.12; Keweenaw, $685.16; Lapeer, $342.27; Leelanau, $448.06; Lenawee, $1,263.25; Livingston, $289.68; Macomb, $508.71; Manistee, $1,351.88; Marquette, $2,226.96; Mason, $743.19; Mecosta, $1,618.57; Menominee, $3,227.91; Monroe, $395.86; Montcalm, $683.47; Oakland, $3,046.12; Oceana, $1,475.23; Osceola, $362.16; Ottawa, $1,154.32; Sanilac, $526; Schoolcraft, $481.60; Shiawassee, $1,321.05; St. Clair, $5,936.27; St. Joseph, $571; Tuscola, $826.24; Washtenaw, $1,293.64; Wawne, $44,181.01.

Pursued by Fire Hoodoo.

Battle Creek, Mich., Sept. 15.—For the third time within two years the three firms of M. M. Lewis & Son, general contractors; Rathbun & Craft Lumber Co., and the Consolidated Boat Co., all located in the same block on South Jefferson avenue, were burned out Wednesday morning. The building was only a temporary one erected after the fire of last February, but the total damage to belts and machinery will be about $1,500. The companies feel that there is a fire hoodoo following them and will move to a new location.

FOR NORTH POLE.

Commander Peary Will Make Another Dash Next Year.

New York, Sept. 15.—Commander R. E. Peary, the Arctic explorer, announced last night that a contract had been signed for a new Arctic ship which he is to use in another attempt on the north pole, and that he expects to start north again next summer.

The announcement was made at a dinner tendered by the American Geographical society to those in attendance upon the eighth International Geographic Congress, which is being held here this week.

McWADE REMOVED.

Washington, Sept. 15.—Notice of the removal of Robert M. McWade as consul-general at Canton has been expected for a long time. Before Third Assistant Secretary Peirce started last winter on his visit to the Chinese consulate so many charges had been lodged with the state department, though not generally in official form, that the removal of the consul-general was certain if only a small portion of them were established.

Following the rule in such cases the department declines to make public any statement as to the nature of the charges.

Couldn't Find Missing Ship.

Washington, Sept. 15.—The navy department is informed that the cruiser Tacoma, commanded by Commander R. F. Nicholson, has arrived at Rio de Janeiro, having cruised from San Francisco down the west coast of South America and around to the Brazilian port in search of the missing merchantman Conemaugh, which has not been heard from since her departure from a Chilean port several months ago. The Tacoma failed to find any trace of the missing steamer and has practically abandoned the search. She, however, will continue her cruise northward to the West Indies and possibly may be attached to the Caribbean squadron.

A Unique Society.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—To check the growth of the casuality list, resulting from the rush of modern industrial life, the First Aid Society of Chicago has been organized to instruct workers how to deal with injuries in emergencies. Free classes for the employes of commercial and industrial establishments will be conducted. It is not the aim to produce amateur doctors and surgeons, but to impart such instruction that when an accident occurs the victim may be intelligently handled and life preserved until the arrival of a doctor.

Soldiers Killed by Balloon.

Vienna, Sept. 15.—During military ballooning exercises at St. Hulweissenburg a sudden puff of wind lifted a balloon, with a number of soldiers hanging to the ropes. Eight of the soldiers were hurled against a rock and two of them were killed outright, and six were fatally injured. The balloon disappeared.

Unknown Woman Dropped Dead.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 14.—An unknown woman, supposed to be a dressmaker, dropped dead, presumably of heart failure, on Joseph Campau avenue, a few steps north of Atwater street, just after leaving the Walkerville ferry, about 7:30 Tuesday morning. Coroner Toepel ordered the body removed to the undertaking establishment of Forth & Masch, at 682 Gratiot avenue.

What is life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in constipation, headache or liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly re-adjusts this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25c at C. A. Wright's drug store.

GRANGERS DIDN'T RALLY

But There Was Large Attendance at State Fair on Third Day.

Pontiac, Mich., Sept. 15.—Not once since the organization of the Michigan State Agricultural association has the attendance on the third day of the fair been so great as it was Wednesday. The wind and the rain and the frigidity of the atmosphere had no terrors for the men, women and children who chose the day for the annual visit to Michigan's great event. Fully 20,000 persons were in attendance.

Wednesday was Grange rally day, but unfortunately the great meeting of that organization did not materialize. Secretary Freeman of the National Grange, who was down for the principal address and who was expected to discuss direct voting and other prominent issues of the present campaign in the state, was prevented from coming by sickness, and George B. Horton, the master, telegraphed J. K. Campbell of Ypsilanti to take his place, but that gentleman did not show up and the great meeting was a fizzle.

Much [illegible] resulted from this significan[illegible] as Master Horton was at [illegible] and doubtless could have co[illegible] the rally had he chosen [illegible]

THREE INSANITY CASES.

Port Huron Court Having More Than Its Share.

Port Huron, Mich., Sept. 15.—Three insanity cases came up before the probate court here Wednesday, those of Bernard Ward of Port Huron township and Mrs. Stephen Hascall and Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson of this city.

Ward insists that a member of the customs force has hypnotized him. Physicians have decided that he is insane, but he demands a jury trial. The husband of Mrs. Hascall, who is said to have attacked little Gladys Waters with a handsaw a short time ago, was granted permission to send the woman out of the city to live with relatives. Mrs. Anderson, who is insane on the subject of religion and who attempted to kill herself with a razor, was ordered sent to the Pontiac asylum.

In the Supreme Court.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 15.—The supreme court has disposed of the following cases: Affirmed—Hosts vs. Dalton; Herring vs. City of St. Joseph; McLean vs. Pere Marquette Railroad Co.; Bending vs. Auditor General; Quirk vs. Rapid Railway; Becker vs. Hedsten; Van Camp vs. Michigan Central Railroad Co.; Pluchak vs. Crawford; Dean vs. Ann Arbor Railroad Co.; Prochaska vs. Fox. Reversed—King vs. Ann Arbor Railroad Co.; People vs. Hutchins; Newaygo Portland Cement Co. vs. Township of Sheridan. In the matter of John J. Ludwick, writs of habeas corpus were dismissed and the petitioner remanded.

The supreme court handed down the following opinions Wednesday: Affirmed—Sudworth vs. Wolverine Land Co. et al., reversed; Comstock vs. Township of Georgetown; Barbour vs. Hurlbutt, Murphy vs. Dobben.

Appropriation For Jackson Prison.

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 15.—Warden Vincent of the state prison has prepared a bill of appropriations which he will present to the next legislature for the disposal of the prison here. It includes $1,000 for stationery and blank books, $13,000 for general repairs, $6,908 for tool-proof grating for the main building, $1,200 for garden and lawn, $800 for fire hose, $750 for detention cells, $13,296 for a new shop and $20,478 for new machinery.

Alleged Bigamist Escaped.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Sept. 14.—David Seeley, 83 years old, and an alleged bigamist, escaped jail Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. He walked west on the Michigan Central railroad and was captured at 3 o'clock in the afternoon by Sheriff Shipman three miles west of Lawton. He had walked about twenty-three miles. Seeley will be tried in the circuit court here Wednesday. He is said to have nine wives. He was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Julius Blanchard of this city, the last woman he married.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address:

CHAPTER X.

"She spoke of her strange guest's unaccountable death more than once, and whenever she did so it was with an unnatural excitement and in an unbalanced way. This was so noticeable to us all that the subject presently was tabooed among us, but though she henceforth spared us all allusion to it she continued to talk about the house itself and of the previous deaths which had occurred there till we were forced to forbid that topic also. She was never really herself after crossing the threshold of this desolate house to be married. The shadow which lurks within its walls fell at that instant upon her life. May God have mercy"—

He presented the aspect of one who is quite done with life, even its sorrows.

But men in the position of Coroner Z. cannot afford to be compassionate. Everything the bereaved man said deepened the impression that he was acting a part. To make sure that this was really so the coroner, with just the slightest touch of sarcasm, quietly observed:

"And to ease your wife's mind—the wife you were so deeply angered with—you visited this house and, at an hour which you should have spent in reconciliation with her, went through its ancient rooms in the hope—of what?"

Mr. Jeffrey could not answer. The words which came from his lips were mere ejaculations.

"I was restless, mad. I found this adventure diverting. I had no real purpose in mind."

"The old picture in the southwest chamber. You took a look at that, didn't you—got up on a chair on purpose to do so?"

Mr. Jeffrey winced, but he made a direct reply.

"Yes; I gave a look at that old picture; got up, as you say, on a chair to do so. Wasn't that the freak of an idle man, wandering, he hardly knows why, from room to room in an old and deserted house?"

His tormentor did not answer. Probably his mind was on his next line of inquiry. But Mr. Jeffrey did not take his silence with the calmness he had shown prior to the last attack. As no word came from his unwelcome guest, he paused in his rapid pacing and, casting aside with one impulsive gesture his hitherto imperfectly held restraint, he cried out sharply:

"Why do you ask me these questions in tones of such suspicion? Is it not plain enough that my wife took her own life under a misapprehension of my state of mind toward her? Why should you feel it necessary to rake up these personal matters, which, however interesting to the world at large, are of a painful nature to me?"

"Mr. Jeffrey," retorted the other, with a sudden grave assumption of dignity not without its effect in a case of such serious import, "we do nothing without purpose. We ask these questions and show this interest because the charge of suicide which has hitherto been made against your wife is not entirely sustained by the facts. At least she was not alone when she took her life. Some one was in the house with her."

It was startling to observe the effect of this declaration upon him.

"Impossible!" he cried out in a protest as forcible as it was agonized. "You are playing with my misery. She could have had no one there; she would not. There is not a man living before whom she would have fired that deadly shot unless it was myself—unless it was my own wretched, miserable self."

The remorseful whisper in which those final words were uttered carried them to my heart, which for some strange and unaccountable reason had been gradually turning toward this man. But my less easily affected companion, seeing his opportunity and possibly considering that it was this gentleman's right to know in what a doubtful light he stood before the law, remarked with as light a touch of irony as was possible:

"You should know better than we in whose presence she would choose to die—if she did so choose; also who would be likely to tie the pistol to her wrist and blow out the candle when the dreadful deed was over."

The laugh which seemed to be the only means of violent expression remaining to this miserable man was kept down by some amazing thought which seemed to paralyze him. Without making any attempt to refute a suggestion that fell just short of a personal accusation, he sank down in the first chair he came to and became, as it were, lost in the vision of that ghastly ribbon tying and the solitary blowing out of the candle upon this scene of mournful death. Then, with a struggling sense of having heard something which called for answer, he rose blindly to his feet and managed to let fall these words:

"You are mistaken. No one was there, or, if any one was, it was not I. There is a man in this city who can prove it."

But when Mr. Jeffrey was asked to give the name of this man he showed confusion and presently was obliged to admit that he could neither recall his name nor remember anything about him, but that he was some one whom he knew well and who knew him well. He affirmed that the two had met and spoken near Soldiers' home shortly after the sun went down and that the man would be sure to remember this meeting if we could only find him.

As Soldiers' home was several miles from the Moore house and quite out of the way of all his accustomed haunts, Coroner Z. asked him how he came to be there. He replied that he had just come from the Rock Creek cemetery; that he had been in a wretched state of mind all day, and, possibly being influenced by what he had heard of the yearly vigils Mr. Moore was in the habit of keeping there, had taken a notion to stroll among the graves in search of the rest and peace of mind he had failed to find in his aimless walks about the city. At least, that was the way he chose to account for the meeting he mentioned. Falling into reverie again, he seemed to be trying to recall the name which at this moment was of such importance to him. But it was without avail, as he presently acknowledged.

"I cannot remember who it was. My brain is whirling, and I can recollect nothing but that this man and myself left the cemetery together on the night [illegible] was being closed. As it closes at sundown, the hour can be fixed to a minute. It was somewhere near 7, I believe; near enough, I am sure, for it to have been impossible for me to be at the Moore house at the time my unhappy wife is supposed to have taken her life. There is no doubt about your believing this?" he demanded with sudden haughtiness, as, rising to his feet, he confronted us in all the pride of his exceptionally handsome person.

"We wish to believe it," assented the coroner, rising in his turn. "That our belief may become certainty will you let us know, the instant you recall it, the name of the man you talked with at the cemetery gate? His testimony, far more than any word of yours, will settle this question which otherwise may prove a vexed one."

Jeffrey tells his story

Mr. Jeffrey's hand went up to his head. Was he acting a part or did he really forget just what it was for his own best welfare to remember? If he had forgotten, it argued that he was in a state of greater disturbance on that night than would naturally be occasioned by a mere lover's quarrel with his wife.

Did the same thought strike my companion? I cannot say; I can only give you his next words:

"You have said that your wife would not be likely to end her life in presence of any one but yourself. Yet you must see that some one was with her. How do you propose to reconcile your assertions with a fact so undeniable?"

"I cannot reconcile them. It would madden me to try. If I thought any one was with her at that moment"—

"Well?"

Mr. Jeffrey's eyes fell, and a startling change passed over him. But before either of us could make out just what this change betokened he recovered his aspect of fixed melancholy and quietly remarked:

"It is dreadful to think of her standing there alone, aiming a pistol at her young, passionate heart, but it is worse to picture her doing this under the gaze of unsympathizing eyes. I cannot and will not so picture her. You have been misled by appearances or what in police parlance is called a clew."

Evidently he did not mean to admit the possibility of the pistol having been fired by any other hand than her own. This the coroner noted. Bowing with the respect he showed every man before a jury had decided upon his guilt, he turned toward the door out of which I had already hurried.

"We hope to hear from you in the morning," he called back significantly as he stepped down the stairs.

Mr. Jeffrey did not answer; he was having his first struggle with the new and terrible prospect awaiting him at the approaching inquest.

CHAPTER XI.

The days of my obscurity were over. Henceforth I was regarded as a decided factor in this case—a case which from this time on assumed another aspect both at headquarters and in the minds of people at large. The reporters, whom we had hitherto managed to hold in check, now overflowed both the coroner's office and police headquarters, and articles appeared in all the daily papers with just enough suggestion in them to fire the public mind and make me, for one, anticipate an immediate word from Mr. Jeffrey calculated to establish the alibi he had failed to make out on the day we talked with him. But no such word came. His memory still played him false, and no alternative was left but to pursue the official inquiry in the line suggested by the interview just recounted.

No proceeding in which I had ever been engaged interested me as did this inquest. In the first place, the spectators were of a very different character from the ordinary. As I wormed myself along to the seat accorded to such witnesses as myself I brushed by men of the very highest station and a few of the lowest and bent my head more than once in response to the inquiring gaze of some fashionable lady who never before, I warrant, had found herself in such a scene. By the time I reached my place all the others were seated, and the coroner rapped for order.

I was first to take the stand. What I said has already been fully amplified in the foregoing pages. Of course, my evidence was confined to facts, but some of these facts were new to most of the persons there. It was evident that a considerable effect was produced by them, not only on the spectators, but upon the witnesses themselves. For instance, it was the first time that the marks on the mantelshelf had been heard of outside the major's office or the story so told as to make it evident that Mrs. Jeffrey could not have been alone in the house at the time of her death.

A photograph had been taken of those marks, and my identification of this photograph closed my testimony.

As I returned to my seat I stole a look toward a certain corner where, with face bent down upon his hand, Francis Jeffrey sat between Uncle David and the heavily veiled figure of Miss Tuttle.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Remember you must die. Let this not startle you, but let it soften you while there is yet time to do some good in the world.—Schoolmaster.

A LETTER.

From Dr. J. F. Brown of Riverside, Cal., who has been in ITALY

On board the North German Lloyd Steamship "Konig Albert," June 29, 1904.

We are sailing along famously, with a sea as smooth as glass, apparently. A rowboat could go without capsizing. We expect to see the Azores islands tomorrow afternoon. We have on board in round numbers, about two hundred first, one hundred second and three hundred steerage passengers, or about six hundred in all. The captain is a jolly fellow. He goes around and says something to everybody, and chucks the babies under their chins. There is opportunity for those who wish to eat five times a day; a lunch in the middle of the foren on and tea in the middle of the afternoon. The bell rings about every three hours. In our room on ship are two young men, one by name of Smith, who is a college man, and Mr. Caswell, whose father was at one time Methodist presiding elder for the San Diego district and lived in Riverside since he went there. This young man married T. H. B. Chamberlain's daughter, who formerly lived at Riversdale. I had never met him, but learned who he was in our stateroom. He lives in Brooklyn and is pastor of a church called "The Tabernacle." I met Mr. Arthur Bird of Sidney, N. Y., editor of a paper, who is on his way to Spain to present a large engraved tablet or something of that sort to Admiral Cervera, a testimonial from American people to him, expressing their appreciation of generosity to Hobson at the time Hobson sunk the Merrimac and was picked up with his companions from the sea by the Spaniards.

We also have on board an Italian musical composer, Guiseppe Ferrata by name. I had a long visit with him and his wife in the cabin last night. He is writing on his compositions almost incessantly. His home is now at Beaver, Pa. He is on his way to Italy to have an opera of his brought out.

Friday, July, 1.

I was up at 5:30 this morning to see the Azores—first land since leaving New York. The first island in sight is Fayal, with its town of Fayal on its eastern shore. The whole side of the island next the sea is dotted with white houses, scattered among small ranches—as we call them in California. From appearances at a distance, I think the ranches are mostly vineyards. There are also many golden-yellow grain fields apparently ready for the reaper. In other localities are groups of trees, possibly olives or trees similar in size. Other larger trees are also in evidence here and there. The first island on the right, as stated, is Fayal; then across a channel one or two miles comes Pico on the right of the ship. On the left of us and across a channel, five or six miles wide, is another island fifteen or twenty miles long, whose name I have not yet learned. That is also thickly populated and well cultivated. We passed so near Fayal that we could see some people and tell the color of their dress. We could see two with red dresses, who saluted us. We are now coming in view of St. Michael, another of the same group, after about six hours from the first.

St. Michael is receding from view and I shall write a little about it. We came up to it about 3 p. m. and were sailing by its side for three hours or more. It must be about sixty miles in length. In about the middle of the side next to us—the north side—is the city of Ponta Delgardo, where the Govenor of the Azores resides. The town houses, like most all the other houses on the island, show white outside. Quite a number, however, show cream, brick or other light colors. Ponta Del Garda is a landing place for ships of small size. I believe the French ships call here: ours does not stop at any point on the islands. My view of this island has repaid me for taking this trip. Such an object lesson in high class cultivation! The islands are very uneven in surface, very much like the foot-hills of California in contour, but there the comparison ceases. These hills are cultivated and green, or yellow where grain seems ripe enough to be cut. From the ship the land seems to be divided up, giving much the appearance of a great checkerboard, by hedges. The ranches, or vineyards, seem to be from one or two to five acres in size. Of course, the convents and buildings devoted to church purposes, are in evidence everywhere, or at least, what we took to be such buildings.

We ran along at about what would seem a mile from the shore. One of the ship's officers told us that out of about twenty-five trips he has not seen this island more than three times, as the ship usually passed in the night or the island would be enveloped in fog or mist. So we consider ourselve particularly fortunate. They say that our St. Michael oranges orginated here.

I expect to mail this at Gibraltar as we are to land there on the Fourth and spend two or three hours.

We are on the Mediterranean sea. We arrived at Gibralter at 10 a. m.; hired a one-horse cab for a drive of two hours. We were taken to about all the points of greatest interest, among them was a place across the line and Neutral zone into Spain. We visited there the quaint town of Lima. At this time a fair is in progress. It is quite a town. Low buildings of stone or adobe, narrow streets, well paved with stone blocks.

We met a great many Spanish people going and coming from Gibraltar in their coaches. Many burros were being driven between the places with such big loads on their back that all you could see was their noses, tails and legs. On one I counted six bales of hay or straw. When we came through the gate of the Spanish town, a soldier was pacing back and forth. We drove through the streets of Gibraltar until we had enough of it and then dismissed the driver and walked. We met people of many nations, the Moorish Mohammedans being the most interesting to us, because of their peculiar dress, twisted turbans, different colored cloths wrapped about the body, bare legs, sandals on the feet. Of course, their swarthy faces, curly beards and otherwise peculiar features are striking.

The main street of Gibraltar is a long winding one, about twenty-five feet wide. The sidewalks are two and one-half or three feet wide. The streets and sidewalks are paved with stone. The stores are mostly small booths, and kept by the people of many nations. English or American money will buy goods. Some Moors went about selling Moorish money. In the harbor at Gibraltar were several gun-boats, cruisers and men-of-war, among which I noticed "Baltimore." There were several British boats there also.

Tuesday, July 5.

It is very warm today, although a fine breeze is blowing. No land in sight. Last night the passengers gave a concert in the dining room, which was of a high order. Four young women sang, one young French lady played, but as well as they rendered their parts, they were entirely eclipsed by the Italian composer, Ferrata. That, however, they need not feel bad about as he has been several years musician to the Italian King, and also knighted by the King of Portugal, as a reward of special merit. Among the pieces he played was a rhapsody, by Liszt, and a piece of his own composing. I like his own composition as well as any. He was a student with Liszt for three years.

Naples, July 7.

We arrived here in Naples at about 9:30 this morning. I started immediately to hunt up Pension Suisse, found it and engaged room and board at seven francs a day for each of us. We sailed into the Bay of Naples with Capri on our right and Ischia on our left and Vesuvius smoking away ahead and to the right of where we landed. The bay was full of natives, by the time the ship was anchored and they were peddling from boats and singing and dancing—of course expecting "centesimi" in return. Two or three "old ducks" would dive for money thrown in the water, but the real fun began when we got on shore. We hung to our baggage, however, and did pretty well for "tenderfeet." I bargained with the cab driver to take us to the Pension for one franc and after we got there I added twenty centesimi to it for a "tip."

Tomorrow we expect to take a drive to the ruins of Pompeii. Our hostess has a carriage engaged for us. We visited the museum today, said to be the greatest museum in the world. I can tell you I made the most of my time, while in there, I shall not attempt to describe it; suffice it is to say that it is a big thing without wheels. I was very much interested in the Pompeiian relics a collection sufficient to fill a good sized museum of themselves.

The old churches, priests and monks are in evidence everywhere. Our room, a very large one, with stone mosaic floor, fronts on the bay, and is on the ground floor; and as I write I can look through the window on the waters of the bay with nothing between but the street, "Via Coracciolo," and a stone wall, it is cool and breezy and the street is sprinkled, so here we have no dust.

July 8, 6:30 p. m.

We put in the day riding to and from the ruins of Pompeii and examining them. It is a fifteen mile ride. We went by cab and Dago. I was intensely interested in the examination of the ruins; could not be more so in anything I will see. The city of Naples practically extends clear around the bay to the ruins. It cost us two and one half francs apiece to enter the ruins. It is free on Thursdays but I consider it fortunate that we did not hit that day, they are infested by a promiscuous crowd that would bother the life out of one but by getting in on other days you only have a few official Dagos to hold you up. If I get into an Italian "prigione" for getting into a row with some of their barefooted, bare-legged, no-shirt-on population, you need not be surprised. If we go to take a street car the cabman will nearly run over us begging us, to ride with them. We have not had a cab yet but that we did not almost have to kick the driver to get rid of him. He insists on having more than agreed upon and more than we can give him and will not be satisfied.

Tomorrow we go to Rome.

Consumption

People are learning that consumption is a curable disease. It is neglected consumption that is so often incurable.

The use of Scott's Emulsion at once, has, in thousands of cases, turned the balance in favor of health.

Zoa Phora certainly does do wonders for women. Every woman who has tried it says so and there are multiplied thousands of them. From all parts and corners of the land come their words of praise and joy and gratitude. Their genuine letters of thanksgiving and rejoicing prove it and prove it conclusively.

You will rejoice as others now rejoice in perfect health and happiness if you use Zoa Phora.

Mrs. Wm. B. Knapp, 831 E. 8th St., Traverse City, Mich., says: "I write this hoping that it will be the means of helping some suffering sister who has any weakness or trouble peculiar to women. Seventeen years ago last fall I was taken sick abed with weakness, and was in bed all winter. Just as soon as I would get up I would faint and fall. Three of the best doctors in our town could not help me; then my husband wrote to that dear old Dr. Pengelly and he sent medicine and advice. The first dose helped me, and in one month I was up doing my work after being sick in bed from the 21st of November until the next May. The medicine he sent me was Zoa Phora, and if it hadn't been for dear old Dr. Pengelly and Zoa Phora, I would not be here to write this."

Write the Zoa Phora Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., for a free trial bottle and copy of their illustrated medical book, "Dr. Pengelly's Advice to Women." The doctor will gladly give free special advice when needed. Zoa Phora is for sale at $1.00 a bottle by

A minstrel show, with its beautiful first part setting, ballad singers, comedians, coon shouters, dancers and olio of specialty artists, comes nearer satisfying theatre goers of the present day than any other effort on the part of theatrical caterers. James Dunseath of Phoenix, Arizona called on the HERALD yesterday. Jim, is a versatile chap. He was for many years a printer for John F. Now Jim was born in Ireland, spent his boyhood days in Tecumseh and now is located way out in Arizona. 'Tis said he speaks Spanish and Indian like a native almost as good as north of Ireland Irish and no doubt with his training as a printer, and he is a right good printer, will wind up before long in Washington, D. C.

The big melodramatic sensation of the past two seasons, "The Moonshiner's Daughter" is to be the offering at the New Bradley tonight. There is a romantic love story woven througout the play, immense comedy and some marvelous and surprising stage effects as every act is mounted with an entirely new and novel manner with special scenery. A most realistic fight between Moonshiner's and Revenue men, plenty of jovial comedy, a hair raising lynching scene, specialties and singing by a quartette are the features of this sterling attraction.

Mrs. J. Q. Look was called to Buffalo, last Tuesday upon receiving a telegram telling her of the sudden death of her brother, Harry B. Root, of the brokage firm of Hall & Root of Buffalo. Mr Root was an old Tecumseh boy and his many friends here were pained beyond expression to hear of his death. He had been ill but a few days with a light attack of lumbago as was supposed, but suddenly passed away Monday evening. Mrs. Look, together with her mother, Mrs. Root, left for Buffalo Tuesday afternoon and Mr. Root's son Lyman followed Wednesday afternoon to attend the funeral services which wer conducted Friday at 3 p. m. by the Rev. Dr. Hall at the house and at the grave by the Masons. Interment at Buffale.

Mrs. Nancy Gregg Gamble.

On Sept. 5th, just two weeks later than her mother, Mrs. Esther Gregg, Mrs. Gamble passed peacefully away in her 66 year. She had been ill for about three weeks and her friends had been hoping for her recovery, when the end came.

Mrs. Gamble was born in county Anerim, Ireland on Jan. 15, 1839. At the age of three her parents brought her to America, settling in New York state. There she was married on Feb. 28, 1865. Five years later her husband died. In 1884 she removed to Tecumseh, where she bought a home and resided until her death. With her she made a home for her parents. Her father died about 12 years ago and her mother preceded her by only two weeks.

Mrs. Gamble united with the Presbyterian church in Groveland, N. Y., many years ago and so great was her attachment to the old home church that she never took her letter from it though faithfully attending the church in Tecumseh. She was one of the quiet unobtrusive christians, who make no great stir but who are genuinely missed. By her request her remains were carried to Groveland to be laid to rest in the old church cemetery.

Two sisters, Mrs. Robert Service, and Mrs. Eugene Gamble, and a brother, Henry Gregg, survive to mourn her loss.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to express our grateful thanks to the kind friends who rendered loving assistance to us daring the recent illness of our mother and sister, also to Miss Parker for her gracious ministry.

MRS. EUGENE GAMBLE.
MRS. ROBERT SERNICE.
HENRY GREGG.

H. B. Root.

Great big free hearted, good natured Harry Root was buried in Buffalo, N. Y., yesterday. He was in reality a Tecumseh boy although born in the state of Ohio. Raised here, spent his school days in Tecumseh, in fact all the time of his life until he went to Buffalo about 20 years ago.

I went to school with Harry Root and as Harry Root I knew him to be one of the kindest hearted, best natured fellows in the world. His smile was always cheerful and this great big boy was loved by every one.

In after years as time goes on "out of sight, out of mind" is apt to be the case with every one, but now we all see him as a boy again. After serving a clerkship in Buffalo for some time he formed a partnership in the Insurance and Vessel agents business under the name of Hall & Root and together they became a firm of affairs. At the time of his death he was about 42 years old, just in the prime of life, full of ambition and days work. He had suffered slightly from lumbago for about a week but thought in nothing serious. Monday night the pain went to his heart and that was the end.

I am free to confess that I lack both religion and brains to think that a strong, healthy, good man like H. B. Root should be taken in the prime of life and that it exemplifys the saying "God's will be done." He was buried by the Masons and lived like his father, Jerry Rott, always a democrat, always a Mason, always to the cent an honest man. He leaves a widow, one son, Lyman; mother, Mrs. Jerry Root; sister, Mrs. John Q. Look; and brother, M. L. Root, to mourn his loss.

ROUND ABOUT US.

Fine barns have recently been built on and near the town line road, northwest of town for Wm. Monk, Ernest Lentsky, W. Hiser and W. Cilley, the latter two having cement floors in the horse and cattle stables. Mr. Cilley has a late improved hay sling and is building a silo to hold 101 tons. Orrin Bunce has also rebuilt the barn that was blown down last June. All these barns have hip roofs and they are painted in the prevailing color, red, with white trimmings. These improvements prove that the farmers in this locality are prosperous and enterprising.—Dundee Reporter.

The Lake Shore had a slight wreck a little east of Ottawa lake Sunday, Extra No. 750 was coming up from Toledo. The air hose between two cars broke, thereby setting the brake on the train, causing the cars loaded with steel and coal to be derailed and four totally demolished. The engine crew ran to Blissfield, sent the news to headquarters, got both section crews located at this point and returned to the wreck. They took the Ottawa agent, M. B. Knight, who was visiting his parents here, back with them. The wreck delayed traffic for at least five hours.—Blissfield Advance.

KNOWS MI-O-NA WILL CURE.

C. A. Wright has such faith in this remedy that he guarantees it.

It is an unusual thing for a druggist to sell a medicine under a guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure. Yet this is the way C. A. Wright, the popular druggist is selling Mi-o-na, the standard dyspepsia remedy.

Never before has he had so large a number of customers tell him that a medicine has cured as with Mi-o-na. People who a few months ago looked like walking skeletons have put on flesh and today are ruddy and vigorous with perfect digestion and good health, solely due to the use of this remedy.

There is no longer any need of anyone suffering or making their friends suffer on account of dyspepsia for Mi-o-na can be relied upon to cure. The percentage of cures is so nearly 100 per cent. that there is little to risk to C. A. Wright in guaranteeing to refund the money if the medicine does not cure and he stands ready to do so without any questions.

Headaches, all forms of indigestion, specks before the eyes, poor sleep, ringing in the ears and all forms of liver trouble are cured by Mi-o-na, price 50c.

These days are the best in the whole year for the enjoyment of good health. And Mi-o-na will put you in such perfect condition that you can enjoy every minute of them.

Mic[illegible] Report.

The temperature during August was quite uniform throughout the State but was somewhat cooler than usual, the departure being two and one-half degrees below the normal. There was a deficiency of rain-fall in the northern part of the state, the departure being one half inch below the normal; in the southern counties the precipitation was one inch above the normal while the departure for the state was 0.34 of an inch above the normal. Most of this rain fell in the latter part of the month, it being very dry in many counties in early August. This weather was favorable for corn, beans, sugar beets and potatoes, but made warm, dry weather a necessity for three or four weeks in order to ripen these crops before a frost.

Boy's wild ride for life.

With family around expecting him to die and a son riding for life, 18 miles, to get Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs, and colds, W. Brown of Leesville, Ind., endured death's agonies from asthma, but this wonderful medicine gave instant relief and soon cured him. He writes, "I now sleep soundly every night." Like marvelous cures of consumption, pneumonia, colds bronchitis and grip prove its matchless merit for all throat and lung troubles. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at C. A. Wright's drug store.

A Friendly Letter.

The following letter explains itself, but Fred answers and says "nit." No Florida for me.

Fred P. Deuel:—Old friend, come to Florida, there are several G. A. R. men here enjoying the mild climate, they can live cheaper here than in the north as $5. will pay for a years wood. You and Geo. Spafford cad live in my house free and if you like I will trade you a 10 acre orange grove for your house and lot and it will double in value within two years, oranges on the trees now and the crop doubles every year. Come and see.

WHAT IS CATARRH?

Hyomei only guaranteed cure for this common and disagreeable disease.

Hyomei cures catarrh by the simple method of breathing it into the air passages and lungs. It kills the germs of catarrhal poison, heals and soothes the irritated mucous membrane and effectually drives this disease from the system.

If you have any of the following symptoms, catarrhal germs are at work somewhere in the mucous membrane of the throat, bronchial tubes or tissues of the lungs.

Offensive breath, dryness of the nose pain across the eyes, pain in back of the head, pain in front of the head, tendency to take cold, burning pain in the throat, hawking to clear the throat, pain in the chest, a cough, stitch in side, losing of flesh, varible appetite, low spirited at times, raining of frothy mucous, expectorating yellow matter, difficulty in breathing, frequent sneezing, huskiness of voice, discharge from the nose, stoppage of the nose at night, aching of the body, droppings in the throat, mouth open while sleeping, tickling back of the palate, formation of crusts in the nose, dryness of the throat in the morning, loss of strength, spasms of coughing, cough short and hacking, cough worse nights and mornings, loss in vital force, a feeling of tightness across the upper part of the chest.

Hyomei will destroy activity of all catarrhal germs in the respiratory organs and in a few weeks the cure will be complete.

This is a strong statement, but C. A. Wright emphasizes it by agreeing to refund your money if Hyomei does not cure.

An Open Letter to the Public
FROM A WELL-KNOWN DRUGGIST

To Whom It May Concern:

Of late there has been a good deal of discussion in regard to advertised medicines and their value. We want to say to every man, woman and child in this vicinity that the most valuable preparation of cod liver oil,—the best tonic reconstructor, health restorer and strength-creator we have ever sold in our store is Vinol.

Vinol is not a patent medicine; it contains no injurious drugs, and it actually does contain all of the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil, taken from fresh cods' livers, but without a drop of oil, and is delicious to the taste.

Vinol is recognized throughout the world as the greatest strength-creator for old people, weak, sickly women, children, nursing mothers, and after a severe sickness.

Vinol cures hacking coughs, chronic colds, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Unequalled to create an appetite, and make those who are too thin, fat, rosy and healthy.

Some years ago I was an expert at sheep shearing and did a lot of that work. Everybody knows that it is hard on the back and it finally caused a severe pain across my loins. Nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a box and they gave immediate relief. They are a reliable remedy and I consistently recommend them." Just such emphatic endorsement is plentiful in Tecumseh. Call at C. A. Wright's drug store and ask him what his customers report.

THREE JURORS CURED

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Clebourne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some souse meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlin's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." RESOLUTIONS,

Whereas Raisin Grange, No. 214, has once more been called upon to chronicle the death of one of its members, viz., Brother Horace Holdridge, and whereas we deem this a fitting time to give a proper expression of our sorrow and sympathy, with those that mourn.

Therefore be it resolved, that in the death of our brother, we feel that Raisin Grange has lost one of its most efficient members, one who was first and foremost in any and all things for the good of the order, also the community a good neighbor and respected citizen, the family a loving husband and kind father. That we extend to the family of our deceased brother our most heartfelt sympathy in this their great sorrow. That while we thus sympathize with them in their grief we bow to the "Divine will" and point them to him who tempers the wind to the shorn land, as one who alone is able to bind up the wounded and sorrowing heart.

Resolved that a copy of these resolutions be presented to the bereaved family and the same be spread upon our Journal. Also that the secretary of this Grange be instructed to cause the same to be published in the papers of Adrian and Tecumseh.

Alpena, Mich., Sept. 15.—There was a jail delivery at Rogers City the other night. Frank Mattie, alias Walter Marks, aged 25, and Thomas Avery, 19, awaiting trial on a charge of burglary, escaped. They broke the bars, climbed a stone wall and are now in hiding in the woods along the railroad. A reward of $50 is offered for their capture.

DROUGHT IN EUROPE.

Crops a Failure and Rivers Are Running Dry.

Boston, Sept. 14.—A report to the American board from Rev. J. S. Porter, its missionary in Schemmel, Bohemia, states that the whole heart of Europe, particularly Bohemia and Moaravia, is suffering from the most severe drought within the memory of any one living. Potatoes and many other crops are a failure. The sugar beet crops are so light that many sugar factories will not be opened this year. Flour has increased from 30 hellers to 40 hellers per kilogram and milk is increased in price. Forest fires are of frequent occurrence. The Elbe is so low that for six weeks no steamers have been able to move, and in many places one can wade across the river.

Considerable long lost treasure is being found in the river bottom. Mills and factories stand idle and thousands who usually find employment on all sorts of boats on the Elbe are now out of work.

TO VISIT NEW YORK.

Parker Will Leave Rosemount For His First Political Visit.

Esopus, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Judge Parker expects to go to New York on Thursday and to return on Friday. No announcement has been made as to the arrangements for the trip, and Judge Parker's reason for leaving Rosemount was not known. It is understood that he will take apartments in some New York hotel and confer with political friends.

For several days it has been rumored that the judge was planning a visit to New York to call on the members of the national committee and other managers of the campaign. It was said also that he might remain there and take a hand in the running of the campaign for the purpose of bringing about more harmonious relations between the men at headquarters, but it is believed here that the candidate, instead of straightening out real or imaginary differences has under consideration important plans of campaigning intended to change completely the working methods in some sections of the country. Judge Parker's trip to New York on Thursday will be the first visit of a political character since his nomination.

Surely a Wonderful Horse.

Berlin, Sept. 14.—The learned horse, Hans, has just stood a successful examination before a scientific commission, including physiologists, psychologists, pedagogues, naturalists, animal trainers and others. Their report sets forth that the evidences he gave of comprehending handwriting, his musical and color discrimination and mathematical work were performed under circumstances excluding the possibility of a trick. The methods of the horse's owner, Herr Von Osten, are pronounced to be those of a pedagogue rather than an animal trainer. The case appears to them to be wholly exceptional and to deserve thorough scientific study.

The passengers were not molested.

INHERITS MILLIONS.

George Witten, Coachman of Saginaw, Is the Lucky Man.

Saginaw, Mich., Sept. 14.—George Witten, the well-known coachman of T. E. Dorr, the millionaire lumberman, is happy these days in anticipation of receiving $4,000,000 legacy as his share of his grandfather's estate. G. W. Weadock is forcing Mr. Witten's claim.

The estate from which the legacy comes consists of two blocks of eight story office buildings in the heart of London. While living Mr. Witten's grandfather gave a life lease of the buildings to one Purdy, a prominent lawyer of London. When he died, thirty-one years ago, he willed the property to an only son, and the son, dying recently, the estate falls to his sons, George and Clement Witten, of this city, as the only heirs. Purdy has recently died, and the lease has been forfeited, but his son still takes care of the property and uses its revenues. It is to set aside this action that Weadock will turn his efforts.

GREATEST EVER HELD

Michigan's State Fair Was a Grand Success This Year.

BUTTERFIELD IS WELL PLEASED

Pontiac, Mich., Sept. 17.—It is all over. The spirited Percherons have been led away; the fat hogs have been shipped home to their familiar sties, where they will spend the few remaining weeks of their lives in peace; the tents have been struck; the restaurants closed and the fakirs have dropped out of sight as though the earth had opened and swallowed them.

The greatest state fair ever held in Michigan is a thing of the past. Secretary Butterfield, as he was about to put on his coat and lock up his office, expressed himself well pleased with the general result, saying:

"The attendance this year was fully equal to that of last year, and probably larger. The exhibits were more numerous and upon the whole of better quality. Things have run very smoothly this year and everybody, both visitor and exhibitor, seems to be well satisfied."

Beautiful weather brought out fully 15,000 people Friday.

An Exciting Race.

The race between the Flint and the Pontiac fire departments was the last event on the program. Each department sent to the field a pair of magnificent animals hitched to its lightest wagon. The distance traveled was half a mile. The first race was declared a dead heat. After resting for an hour the contestants were called out for another race.

Flint was almost within grasp of victory when Michael Guinan, the Pontiac driver, leaned far over and said something to his horses that made them almost leap into the air.

On they thundered, while the multitude held its breath for excitement. Just as the wire was reached, the Pontiac horses poked their noses in ahead of the Flint horses and won by half a neck. It was a wonderful race. Pontiac partisans rent the air with cheers and the big crowd started for the gates. The fair was over.

Some Fine Horses.

The most interesting part of the horse show at the fair was pulled off Friday in connection with the awards in the Hackney classes. There were many meritorius entries in this department, which had not been registered, a fact which barred them from competition. The bulk of the prizes were taken by Lew W. Cochran of Crawfordsville, Ind., who made an exhibit of eighteen head of Hackneys and Percherons. The Cochran entries captured eighteen prizes, of which thirteen were blues. Mr. Cochran showed at St. Louis, where his horses won forty-five ribbons, including eight medals.

The poultry show was one of the best exhibits ever made in the state, nearly every known breed being represented with birds of the finest quality. The duck and goose exhibit was the best ever seen in the state and there were several coops of fine turkeys.

Relief Expedition Failed.

Tromsoe, Norway, Sept. 19.—W. S. Champ, secretary to William Ziegler, and who was in charge of the relief expedition sent to search for the Arctic exploration steamer America, has just arrived here on board the steamer Frithjof. The Frithjof reached latitude 79 degrees 10 second north. Mr. Champ, in a statement given out here, says: "I regret to report my failure to reach Franz Josefland. The ice conditions were insurmountable and the approaching winter and the heavy frost compelled us to abandon further effort to get north."

THE HORRORS OF WAR

Prince Radzivil Brings Details From Port Arthur.

FLAGS OF TRUCE NOW IGNORED

Japs Fire on Their Own Men For Surrendering—Stench From Dead Bodies is Terrible—Plenty of Provisions and Stoessel in Good Spirits.

Chefoo, Sept. 19.—Students of the situation at Port Arthur, basing their deductions upon recent developments there, are of opinion that another grand assault is either occurring at the present time or is imminent. This opinion is based on the very heavy bombardment of the Russian stronghold that occurred on Sept. 15, for such a bombardment formed the usual prelude to an assault.

Prince Radzivil, another Russian officer, two civilians and one woman, the wife of a Russian officer, left Port Arthur the night of Sept. 16 on a junk and arrived here last night. Prince Radzivil got into Port Arthur a fortnight ago, carrying dispatches from Gen. Kuropatkin to Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel. According to Lieut. Prince Radzivil, the commander-in-chief of the forces of the Russian stronghold to Gen. Kuropatkin, the temper of the belligerents at Port Arthur has reached an absolutely merciless stage.

Nurses Wouldn't Leave.

Prince Radzivil declares that the men of both armies are absolutely venomous in their antagonism. Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel is making to object to civilians leaving Port Arthur. When the three hundred women who are in Port Arthur engaged in hospital work were advised to leave, they replied that they would rather face the possibility of massacre than desert their posts.

In consequence of the fact that flags of truce are ignored, numbers of Japanese dead who have been lying on the slopes of the hills of the northeast defences for weeks past are still unburied, and the stench in Port Arthur from decomposing bodies when the wind is in the right direction is almost unendurable. The Russian soldiers, who are in some cases posted only fifty paces from heaps of decaying dead, have constantly to wear over their noses handkerchiefs soaked in camphor, as otherwise they would be unable to remain at their posts.

Between Friend and Foe.

In the course of the assaults which took place in the last four days of August, two companies of Japanese soldiers, according to Prince Radzivil, found themselves at the mercy of the Russians and hoisted a white flag. To this, however, the Russians paid no attention and continued to volley rapidly into the helpless ranks of the enemy. In the meantime Japanese troops in the rear of the companies that had raised the white flag saw what their comrades had done and expressed their disapproval of the surrender by firing into their rear. As a result of this fire from friend and foe, 600 men were annihilated.

The dead fell among the decomposing bodies of previous assaults. For days afterward the wounded men in this area raised fluttering handkerchiefs in their hands in pleas for help, but the Russians were afraid to venture out to give succor. Within a week the last arm had made its last unregarded prayer for help and the shambles was a quiet but ghastly field of horror. Among the heaps of dead the prince saw two soldiers, one a Russian and the other a Japanese, lying locked in a death embrace. The teeth of the Japanese were sunk in the Russian's throat, while the Russian had forced two of his fingers into the eye sockets of his antagonist.

Stories Not True.

Continuing his interview with the correspondent, the Prince said:

"The stories in circulation concerning the shortage of ammunition and provisions at Port Arthur are not true. There is an abundance of ammunition for both large and small arms and plenty of preserved food. The use of Chinese shells was merely a saving measure. I left Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel in the best of spirits. There has been no fighting since Sept. 1 with the exception of artillery and outpost exchanges."

BOY WRECKED AUTO.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 17.—Five men, Gerhard Dickhoff, Otto Schmidtke, Robert Menninger, Joseph Muer and John Blankert, started out Friday afternoon for an automobile ride on the northern Boulevard.

Shortly after passing Canton avenue Dickhoff, who was operating the machine, saw a boy on a bicycle hurrying at the top of his speed toward them. The automobile was humming along at a high rate and a collision seemed imminent.

The boy would not give an inch and seemed to be endeavoring to show how close he could come to the automobile without crashing into it. Dickhoff, in an effort to avoid the collision, ran too near the ditch and in a moment the disaster happened.

Flying one over the other, the five occupants of the machine were thrown many feet upon the roadway. The machine turned a complete somersault and landed in a mass in the ditch.

But the boy, the cause of all the trouble, sped on. Seeing the accident he had caused, he humped his back and scorched down the roadway until out of sight. His identity is unknown.

Dickhoff and Schmidtke were seriously, perhaps fatally, injured. The others received minor injuries.

IS HE THE MAN?

Battle Creek Police Have Hard Proposition on Their Hands.

Battle Creek, Mich., Sept. 17.—The sheriff and one or two assistants have brought a man all the way from Yankton, S. D., to answer a charge of forgery—and now seemingly cannot prove his identity.

Some time ago a smooth swindler, J. M. Fisher, swindled a Marshall woman out of several thousand dollars on a real estate matter, and soon after the supposed culprit was located at Yankton. He maintained his innocence so firmly that Calhoun county sent witnesses to Yankton to identify him, and finally, after much legal trouble, he was brought here.

The man claims to be James Bechman and says he was registered at hotels in Parkersburg, W. Va., on the date when he was supposed to be in Marshall. He also rented a room from a woman there, he claims, and she says he certainly did stop at her house during the early part of January. Bechman's attorney has gone to Parkersburg to take depositions.

The officers still maintain that Bechman is Fisher, claiming that a friend of his "fixed" the people at Parkersburg.

The worst of it is that Bechman, if acquitted, threatens to sue the county for heavy damages for false imprisonment for several weeks.

Prominent Minister Retires.

Ypsilanti, Mich., Sept. 17.—The retirement of Rev. C. T. Allen from the pastorate of the Ypsilanti M. E. church is a source of deep regret to people of all denominations, who hold Dr. Allen in the highest esteem and affection. Dr. Allen has for many years been identified with churches in the Detroit district. He is one of the best known men in Detroit conference, his magnificent presence and snowy head being familiar to all attendants of the conference. Cut Her Throat With Razor.

Lake Odessa, Mich., Sept. 17.—Mrs. Will Wilson, 23 years old, arose early Friday morning and cut her throat from ear to ear. She cannot live. Mrs. Wilson's home is near Ionia, and she came here last week to take care of her mother, who is very ill. The strain under which she was placed is believed to have affected her mind. She arose at 4 o'clock in the morning, and awakening her father asked him for a razor with which to trim a corn that she said was troubling her. When her father arose at 5 o'clock he was horrified to see the body of his daughter lying on the back porch and her throat cut from ear to ear.

What is life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in constipation, headache or liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly re-adjusts this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25c at C. A. Wright's drug store.

PRINCE BISMARCK DEAD.

Son of Germany's Distinguished Statesman Passes Away.

Friedrichsruhe, Sept. 19.—Prince Herbert Bismarck died Sunday morning at 10:15 o'clock. The end was painless.

Since he ceased to be foreign minister on the retirement of his father in 1890, Prince Bismarck had taken part in public affairs only as a member of the reichstag. His attitude had been that of a man not appreciated by his sovereign and who was waiting in the background for an opportunity to resume his career.

His delivery as a parliamentary speaker improved year by year. He always declined to join any political group, steadfastly calling himself an independent. His haughty and imperious manners in early life, when he was ever conscious of the fact that he was the son of the most powerful statesman in Europe, softened in later life.

Prince Bismarck's father trained him for his successor as chancellor of the German empire and advanced him rapidly in the diplomatic service until at the age of 40 he was minister of foreign affairs, in which position he took part in nearly every important international transaction.

An incident that nearly wrecked Prince Herbert's career and that caused the old chancellor great annoyance was Prince (then count) Herbert's elopement with Princess Carolath Beuten, the wife of Prince Karl, the head of that distinguished Silesian house. The princess was of the Hatsfeldt family and young Bismarck at the time was his father's private secretary. Count Herbert lived with the princess in southern Italy for a few weeks and then, at the command of his father, returned to Germany. The princess afterwards was divorced and has since died.

Rebels Plan to Attack Asuncion.

Buenos Ayres, Sept. 19.—According to dispatches received here, the revolutionists of Paraguay are concentrating their land forces at towns parallel with the railway and have cut off supplies and communications with Asuncion. It is evident that the revolutionists are planning to make an early attack upon the capital or to starve the government into submission. Advices received here from Uruguay state that Basilio Munoz, successor to General Aparicio Saraiva as the head of the revolutionary forces, has written to President Ordouez of Uruguay expressing his belief in the futility of further bloodshed now that Saraiva is dead, and asking the president to propose conditions of peace. President Ordouez replied that, while desiring a cessation of the struggle, the government was not prepared to make conditions, though it stood ready to entertain reasonable proposals. Delegates representing both parties are now negotiating a basis of peace, but owing to the many previous failures the public has little faith in a successful issue of these negotiations.

During a band concert at Cleveland Sunday evening a lead pipe loaded with powder or dynamite was exploded with malicious intent, the police believe, and a man and boy were probably fatally injured. The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address:

Every thing is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co of Chicago, discovered some years ago how to make a salve from witch hazel that is a specific for piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases, DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner, Marion, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says, "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Sold by C. A. Wright.

CHAPTER XI.

I was followed by the other detectives who had been present at the time and who corroborated my statement as to the appearance of this unhappy woman and the way the pistol had been tied to her arm. Then the doctor who had acted under the coroner was called. After a long and no doubt learned description of the bullet wound which had ended the life of this unhappy lady—a wound which he insisted, with a marked display of learning, must have made that end instantaneous or at least too immediate for her to move foot or hand after it—he was asked if the body showed any other mark of violence.

To this he replied:

"There was a minute wound at the base of one of her fingers, the one which is popularly called the wedding finger."

This statement made all the women present stare with renewed interest; nor was it altogether without point for the men, especially when the doctor went on to say:

"The hands were entirely without rings. As Mrs. Jeffrey had been married with a ring, I noticed their absence."

"Was this wound which you characterize as minute a recent one?"

"It had bled a little. It was an abrasion such as would be made if the ring she usually wore there had been drawn off with a jerk. That was the impression I received from its appearance. I do not state that it was so made."

A little thrill which went over the audience at the picture this evoked communicated itself to Miss Tuttle, who trembled violently. It even produced a slight display of emotion in Mr. Jeffrey, whose hand shook where he pressed it against his forehead. But neither uttered a sound nor looked up when the next witness was summoned.

This witness proved to be Loretta, who, on hearing her name called, evinced great reluctance to come forward. After the coroner had elicited her name and the position she held in Mr. Jeffrey's household he asked whether her duties took her into Mrs. Jeffrey's room. Upon her replying that they did, he further inquired if she knew Mrs. Jeffrey's rings, and could say whether they were all to be found on that lady's toilet table after the police came in with news of her death. The answer was decisive. They were all there; her rings and all the other ornaments she was in the daily habit of wearing, with the exception of her watch. That was not there.

"Did you take up those rings?"

"No, sir."

"Did you see any one else take them up?"

"No, sir; not till the officer did so."

"Very well, Loretta. Sit down again till we hear what Durbin has to say about these rings."

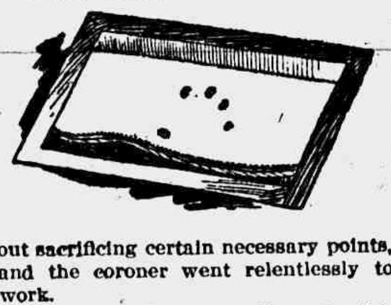
And then the man I hated came forward, and, though I shrank from acknowledging it even to myself, I could but observe how strong and quiet and self possessed he seemed and how decisive was his testimony.

But it was equally brief. He had taken up the rings and he had looked at them; and on one, the wedding ring, he had detected a slight stain of blood. He had called Mr. Jeffrey's attention to it, but that gentleman had made no comment.

This remark had the effect of concentrating general attention upon Mr. Jeffrey. But he seemed quite oblivious of it; his attitude remained unchanged, and only from the quick stretching out and withdrawal of Miss Tuttle's hand could it be seen that anything had been said calculated to touch or arouse this man. The coroner cast an uneasy glance in his direction; then he motioned Durbin aside and recalled Loretta.

And now I began to be sorry for the girl. It is hard to have one's weaknesses exposed, especially if one is more foolish than wicked. But there was no way of letting this girl off without sacrificing certain necessary points, and the coroner went relentlessly to work.

The photograph of the finger marks



"How long have you been in this house?"

"Three weeks—ever since Mrs. Jeffrey's wedding day, sir."

"Were you there when she first came as a bride from the Moore house?"

"I was, sir."

"And saw her then for the first time?"

"Yes, sir."

"How did she look and act that first day?"

"I thought her the gayest bride I had ever seen, then I thought her the saddest, and then I did not know what to think. She was so merry one minute and so frightened the next, so full of talk when she came running up the steps and so struck with silence the minute she got into the parlor, that I set her down as a queer one till some one whispered in my ear that she was suffering from a dreadful shock—that ill luck had attended her marriage and much more about what had happened from time to time at the Moore house."

"And you believed what was told you?"

"Believed?"

"Believed it well enough to keep a watch on your young mistress to see if she were happy or not?"

"Oh, sir!"

"It was but natural," the coroner suavely observed. "Every one felt interested in this marriage. You watched her, of course. Now, what was the result? Did you consider her well and happy?"

The girl's voice sank, and she cast a glance at her master which he did not lift his head to meet.

"I did not think her happy. She laughed and sang and was always in and out of the rooms like a butterfly, but she did not wear a happy look except now and then when she was seated with Mr. Jeffrey alone. Then I have seen her flush in a way to make the heart ache. It was such a contrast, sir, to other times when she was by herself or"—

"Or what?"

"Or just with her sister, sir."

The defiance with which this was said added point to what otherwise might have been an unimportant admission.

"You refer to Miss Tuttle?" observed the coroner.

"Mrs. Jeffrey's sister? Yes, sir." The menace was gone from the voice now, but no one could forget that it had been there.

"Miss Tuttle lived in the house with her sister, did she not?"

"Yes, sir, till that sister died and was buried; then she went away."

The coroner did not pursue this topic, preferring to return to the former one.

"So you say that Mrs. Jeffrey showed uneasiness ever since her wedding day. Can you give me any instance of this—mention, I mean, any conversation overheard by you which would show us just what you mean?"

"I don't like to repeat things I hear, but if you say that I must I can remember once passing Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey in the hall just as he was saying: 'You take it too much to heart! I expected a happy honeymoon. Somehow we have failed'— That was all I heard, sir. But what made me remember his words was that she was dressed for some afternoon reception and looked so charming and so—and so, as if she ought to be happier."

"Just so. Now, when was this? How long before her death?"

"Oh, a week or so. It was very soon after the wedding day."

"And did matters seem to improve after that? Did she appear any better satisfied or more composed?"

"I think she endeavored to, but there was something on her mind, something which she tried to laugh off, something that annoyed Mr. Jeffrey and worried Miss Tuttle, something which caused a cloud in the house for all the dances and dinners and goings and comings. I am sorry to speak of it, but it was so."

"Something that showed an unsettled mind?"

"Almost. The glitter in her eye was not natural; neither was the way she looked at her sister and sometimes at her husband."

"Did she talk much about the catastrophe which attended her wedding? Did her mind seem to run on that?"

"Incessantly at first; but afterward not so much. I think Mr. Jeffrey frowned on that subject."

"Did he ever frown on her?"

"No, sir—not—not when they were alone or with no one by but me. He seemed to love her then very much."

"What do you mean by that, Loretta; that he lost patience with her when other people were present—Miss Tuttle, for instance?"

"Yes, sir. He used to change very much when—when—when Miss Tuttle came into the room."

"Change toward his wife?"

"Yes, sir."

"How?"

"He grew more distant, much more distant; got up quite fretfully from his seat, if he were sitting beside her, and took up some book or paper."

"And Miss Tuttle?"

"She never seemed to notice, but"—

"But?"

"She did not come in very often after this had happened once or twice—I mean into the room upstairs where they used to sit."

"Loretta, I regret to put this question, but after your replies I owe it to the jury, if not to the parties themselves, to make Miss Tuttle's position in this household thoroughly understood. Do you think she was a welcome visitor in this house?"

"I can only repeat what I once heard said about this by Mr. Jeffrey himself. Miss Tuttle had just left the dining room and Mrs. Jeffrey was standing in one of her black moods, with her hand on the top of her chair, ready to go, but forgetting to do so. I was there, but neither of them noticed me; he was staring at her, and she was looking down. Neither seemed at ease. Suddenly he spoke and asked, 'Why must Cora remain with us?' She started and her look grew strange and frightened. 'Because I want her to,' she cried. 'I cannot live without Cora.'"

These words, so different from what we were expecting, caused a sensation in the room and consequently a stir. As the noise of shifting feet and moving heads began to be heard in all directions, Miss Tuttle's head drooped a little, but Francis Jeffrey did not betray any sign of feeling or even of attention. The coroner, embarrassed, perhaps, by this exhibition of silent misery so near him, hesitated a little before he put his next question. Loretta, on the contrary, had gathered courage with every word she spoke and now looked ready for anything.

"It was Mrs. Jeffrey, then, who clung most determinedly to her sister?" the coroner finally suggested.

"I have told you what she said."

"Yet these sisters spent but little time together?"

"Very little; as little as two persons could who lived together in one house."

This statement, which seemed such a contradiction to her former one, increased the interest, and much disappointment was covertly shown when the coroner veered off from this topic and brusquely inquired:

"Did you ever know Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey to have any open rupture?"

The answer was a decided one.

"Yes. On Tuesday morning preceding her death they had a long and angry talk in their own room, after which Mrs. Jeffrey made no further effort to conceal her wretchedness. Indeed, one may say she began to die from that hour."

Mrs. Jeffrey's death had occurred on Wednesday evening.

"Let us hear what you have to say about this quarrel and what happened after it."

SOFT CORE

Like the running brook, the red blood that flows through the veins has to come from somewhere.

The springs of red blood are found in the soft core of the bones called the marrow and some say red blood also comes from the spleen. Healthy bone marrow and healthy spleen are full of fat.

Scott's Emulsion makes new blood by feeding the bone marrow and the spleen with the richest of all fats, the pure cod liver oil.

For pale school girls and invalids and for all whose blood is thin and pale, Scott's Emulsion is a pleasant and rich blood food. It not only feeds the blood-making organs but gives them strength to do their proper work.

While riding on a wagon with his father last Friday, Harold, the 4 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alda Boveq, of Clayton fell to the ground and one of the wagon wheels passed over his body. The injury was so severe a nature that Dr. Wilcox, who was sent for called Dr. E. Felch of this city in consultation on the case. He announces that the little boy was seriously bruised by the unfortunate mishap but thinks his chances for recovery are good.—Hudson Gazette.

Two poultry transportation cars stood on the sidetrack of the Pere Marquette railroad, near main street Sunday. Evidently a philanthropist invented them. The sides of the car are protected by iron lattice work and the chickens or other poultry are stored on wooden shelves to the top of the car. The whole load of poultry is seen from either side of the track. One of the cars was filled with a thousand chickens, and the roosters crowed, the hens cackled, laid eggs or attended to such business as hens are made for. A grist of chickens were loaded here Monday and they were shipped to eastern points.—Reese Review.

Richard Tappen, wife and daughter Ethel met with what might have been a serious accident last Sunday. Just as they were driving home from this village an automobile whizzed by them, frightening their horse. Mr. Tappen tightened on the reins but the hold back gave away and the buggy ran against the horse frightening her still more. She started to run and kicked twice but the occupants of the buggy kept good courage and by cool headedness brought the frightened horse to a standstill after a run of about 40 rods. This is only another illustration of don't-care-cussedness of automobile drivers and if more care is not used by those men who use the highway for the purpose of showing the speed of their machines the public will call for a reform and will get it because life is endangered by such recklessness.—Deerfield Times.

"Under Southern Skies."

Few plays of recent years have been as successful as "Under Southern Skies" which will be seen in our city for the first time at the New Bradley Friday, Sept. 23.

This play is described as "the most original, diverting and unhackneyed play of southern life ever written. "The story is an absorbing one and it is told with all the fascination that has made the same author's play of "Way Down East" so successful. Many even prefer "Under Southern Skies" for its spirit of gayety, its romance and beauty are more alluring than the homlier attributes of "Way Down East." The story woven about an aristocratic family of the south and their high born friends. These characters are all types of southern people and display their chivalry, their hot-headedness and their spirit of lavish, unstudied hospitality. The darkey servants furnish their own characteristic comedy "Uncle Joshaway," "Aunt Doshy" and a modern Topsy called "Anner Liser," forming a trio who create a great deal of amusement. One of the great features of the play, which has contributed largely to its success, is a Hallowe'en celebration, in which the young people play many amusing games and wind up with a "pumpkin dance."

A FEW

This Morning of Interest to our Readers.

A few of the appointments made this morning at the M. E. conference in Adrian are as follows:

Adrian, E. M. Moore of Hudson; Tecumseh, E. Sedweek; Ridgeway, J. H. Palmer; Clinton, H. Colvin; Tipton, E. Rice: Blissfield, N. Eldridge; Dundee, J. F. Lowry; Hudson, J. F. Halladay; Weston, G. Taylor; Morenci, J. W. Campbell; Manchester, E. L. Moore; Monroe, D. F. Shier E. E. Bancroft of Ann Arbor, presiding elder.

First Visit.

Our theatre goers are fortunate in having an opportunity of seeing one of the most talked about plays of the present day. "Under Southern Skies" which will be seen here for the first time on Sept. 23, Friday, at the New Bradley, is from all that can be learned about it, one of the treats of the season and should not be missed by anyone who enjoys a first class play presented in a first class manner. Although "Under Southern Skies" is new to our city it is not an untried quantity. This is the fourth season for this delightful picture of Southern life, but so great has been the demand for it in the east that the past three seasons have been devoted entirely to that territory, many of the eastern cities being visited three and four times. Large and fashsonable audiences have been the rule for this successful play and no doubt this city will show an equal interest in this splendid attraction. Special scenery, representing the old fashioned stately homes of the southern aristocracy and the beautiful flower bedecked landscapes of the south are carried by the company and twenty-three people are required for the speaking parts, thus making this attraction one of the largest and most expensive of travelling dramatic organizations. The plot of "Under Southern Skies" is a very interesting one and it is told by the author with so many amusing and entertaining touches that the play never flags or loses its interest.

Big Minstrel Show To-night.

The Gus Sun American Minstrels will appear at the New Bradley tonight. The company is composed of 35 people this season and is said to be not only the best minstrel organization that has ever appeared here, but is now among the best on the road. The scenic offering in the first part this season is entitled a "City of Splendor," which presents a city at night, illuminated with its myriads of electric lights, moon and star effects. The picture is so nearly drawn to life that the audience almost forgets that they are in a theatre and imagine themselves on the principal street of some foreign city. The singing, both ballad and chorus work is better this season than ever before and each comedian has a large number of laugh producers. This superb first part is followed by the strongest olio ever carried by this company.

ROUND ABOUT US.

A naughty Marshall youngster recently evaded punishment at the hands of his mother by crawling under the barn, where she could not reach him. His father arriving home soon after was informed of the state of affairs and crawled on his hands and knees in search of his son and heir. The lad had fallen asleep in the corner of the barn basement and when awakened by his father exclaimed: "Is she after you too, papa?"—Ex.

Carlos Benton White has been arrested at Vancouver, Wash. He belongs to a respectable family in Toledo, but is an expert forger, who for two years has been dodging the National Bankers Association, Ohio Hotel Men's Association and Pinkerton dectectives. He is wanted for many forgeries and for beating hotel keepers, and is also a fugitive from justice in Michigan for an alleged victimizing of the Ancient Order of United Workmen at Adrian out of a considerable amount. White, who is about 36 years of age, has a wife and two children in Toledo, but he has neglected his family for the past two years. He is wanted in many places, but the chief of police of Logan, Ohio, will have him first.—Hudson Post.

IT COSTS YOU NOTHING.

C. A. Wright will refund your money if Mi-o-na does not cure you.

There are hundreds of people in Tecumseh who were not the least bit surprised when they read in the HERALD that C. A. Wright was selling Mi-o-na on a guarantee to refund the money in case it did not cure. This marvelous dyspepsia remedy will cure the worst case of indigestion, headache, dizziness or the general played out condition that afflicts everyone suffering with stomach trouble.

Mi-o-na does not simply relieve, it cures. C. A. Wright can tell you of many well known people in this city that this remedy has restored to health often after they have tried many other methods of treatment with no benefit.

Best kind of advertising is the praise of a pleased customer. And there are hundreds in Tecumseh to-day praising Mi-o-na because it cured them. A few months ago they could eat nothing without [illegible] would be. Since using Mi-o-na they eat what they want with no fear of suffering.

This medicine is in the form of small tablets, pleasant to take and costs only 50c a box. It is a pure medicine that permanently cures all forms of stomach trouble and is the only one that can be sold under a positive guarantee without any restriction, to refund the money if it does not cure.

Popular Cartoons.

The art of newspaper illustration in its present form is a development of recent years. Newspaper cartoons have become a most popular feature of up-to-date metropolitan daily papers. The unique and catchy drawing now appearing daily on the front page of The Chicago Record-Herald is one of the many special features of the great paper. The Record-Herald has been fortunate in securing one of the best young artists in the country to carry out its popular policy of presenting each day a humorous and good-natured cartoon. Mr. Ralph Wilder is one of the coming men in newspaper work. His success has been as pronounced as it has been rapid. He shows all of the good-natured humor and the brighter side of everyday common life which has carried his work to a very popular success. His drawings are on all of the various subjects of popular interest, political and otherwise. Current events are vividly portrayed in a way that pleases, yet often giving just criticism in a way that does not offend. Through his excellent work on eastern magazines Mr. Wilder first attracted universal attention. The Record Herald recognized in him at once a cartoonist of unusual promise and congratulates its reader on having been fortunate enough to engage him.

Harriett Barnes, a former Dundee girl, found starving in Central park, New York, two weeks ago, is a sister of Chas. I. Barnes of Toledo, senior member of the lumber firm, Barnes & Mauk, with offices in the Gardner building. Last Saturday Mr. Barnes was in New York and went to Bellevue hospital, where he saw his sister. The meeting between brother and sister, who had been seperated for many years was very affectionate. He brought his sister home with him to Toledo assuring the authorities in New York that she should never more see want as long as she settled down with him. He declines to discuss the matter how he and his sister came to be seperated. The young woman was found by the New York police in an exhausted and starved condition. She told the police that she had existed in the park several weeks by gathering remnants of lunches left by picnicers. —Dundee Reporter.

STOMACH DOSING WILL NOT CURE

Ask any physician if catarrh is a blood disease and he will tell you that it is a diseased condition of the mucous membrane and that it cannot be cured by blood purifiers, pills, tablets, or other forms of stomach dosing. The only sensible and scientific way of curing catarrh is by the use of Hyomei.

Breathed for a few minutes, four or five times a day, through a hard rubber inhaler that is so small that it can be carried in the vest pocket, Hyomei will absolutely destroy all catarrnal germs and cure the disease. Catarrh can never exist where Hyomei is used. It has a two-fold action, destroying the disease germs in the air passages and lungs and soothing and healing the inflamed mucous membrane.

C. A. Wright, one of the most reliable firms in Tecumseh is giving his personal guarantee with every package of Hyomei he sells, that it will effect a cure or he will return the money. He has had scores of reports of remarkable cures of both acute and chronic cases of catarrh by Hyomei.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs $1.00 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime; and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

BEAUTY TRIUMPHS,

'Tis a Priceless Treasure.

Beauty is woman's greatest charm. The world adores beautiful women. A pretty woman dreads maternity for fear of losing this power. What can be done to perpetuate the race and keep women beautiful? There is a balm used by cultured and uncultured women in the crisis. Husbands should investigate this remedy in order to reassure their wives as to the ease with which children can be born and beauty of form and figure retained.

Mother's Friend is the name by which this preparation is known. It diminishes the pain allied to motherhood. Used throughout pregnancy it relieves morning sickness, cures sore breasts, makes elastic all tendons called upon to hold the expanding burden. Muscles soften and relax under its influence and the patient anticipates favorably the issue, in the comfort thus bestowed.

Mother's Friend is a liniment for external application. It is gently rubbed over the parts so severely taxed, and being absorbed lubricates all the muscles.

Druggists sell it for $1 per bottle. You may have our book "Motherhood" free.

A HELPING HAND

Is gladly extended by a Tecumseh citizen.

There are many enthusiastic citizens in Tecumseh prepared to tell their experience for the public good. Testimony from such a scource is the best of evidence and will prove a "helping hand" to scores of readers Read the following statement:

Veteran C. Austin, who lives with his son in the northeast section of Tecumseh, says: "I am more than thankful that Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my notice for they did me a great deal of good, in fact they stopped a dull aching pain in my back which annoyed me for years, and also rendered the action of the kidney secretions normal which at times were too frequent and highly colored. I tried a number of so-called kidney cures but I did not receive any benefit, before I learned about Doan's Kidney Pills and I knew people who had used them so I went to C. A. Wright's drug store and got them. To say I entertain a very favorable opinion of them as a kidney medicine is putting it in mild terms. They are all and more than represented to be."

For sale by all dealers: Price 50 cents per box, Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

Suddenly he was caught in one of the pulleys and revolved hundreds of times before the engine could be stopped. Both feet and one arm were torn off and nearly every bone in the body crushed.

Perry Man Missing.

Laingsburg, Mich., Sept. 17.—John McClintock, aged 56, who lives near Perry, left his home on Sept. 3, ostensibly to visit his daughter at Sciota. He failed to reach his destination and his family are worried for his safety, as he is subject to fits of insanity. He was seen near Bennington on the afternoon of the day he left home, but has not been seen since.

Chinese Boys May Remain.

Port Huron, Mich., Sept. 17.—U. S. Commissioner Harris has decided that Moy Ning Yen and Moy Wing Fong, two minor Chinese, have a right to remain in Uncle Sam's country, and the two youths are now at liberty to roam wherever they may choose. Moy Kee, the father of the two young men, is an Indianapolis merchant, and was a picturesque witness at the trial. He swore that Yen and Fong were born in San Francisco, but that they were sent to China to study when very young. They remained in the flowery kingdom until last spring, when they skipped and made their way to America, without his knowledge, the father testified. The boys were arrested in a box car at Wyandotte July 16.

ASSERTION DENIED.

Locomotive Firemen Sympathize With Western Federation of Miners.

Buffalo, Sept. 19.—The delegates to the ninth biennial convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen visited Syracuse Sunday.

The officers are very much wrought up over a published interview purporting to come from a grand officer of the organization in which he was quoted as saying that members of the Western Federation of Miners were not desirable citizens.

Grand Master Hannahan gave out the following statement: "Whoever made the statement that the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen is not in sympathy with the Western Federation of Miners and looks upon them as law-breakers was not speaking for the organization. In the first place, he had no authority to make any statement on the attitude of this organization, and in the second place the attitude of the brotherhood is not as he expressed it. At Saturday's session of our convention $2,000 was voted for their aid and resolutions of sympathy were passed. Anyone who says we are in a hostile attitude to the miners is not voicing the sentiments shown, as every member of this order voted in favor of the appropriation and for the resolution."

Robbed of $2,900.

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 19.—B. F. Cassell, cashier of the Great Western distillery, was held up on one of the principal streets of the city by three unknown men, who struck him over the head with a club and made away with a satchel containing $2,900, which was to have been used to pay off the employes of the company. Police and deputy sheriffs are now scouring the country in search of the fugitives.

SHELLING MUKDEN.

Dispatch From Tokio Says Japs Are Doing So.

London, Sept. 19.—It is asserted in a dispatch from Tokio to the Express that the Japanese are vigorously shelling the Russian position at Mukden, preparatory to a general advance and endeavoring, by a wide turning movement, to cut off Gen. Kuropatkin's retreat. The Japanese armies, the dispatch adds, are disposed in the same relative positions as in the fighting before Liao Yang.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 19.—The reports that Gen. Kuroki is pushing on northeast of Mukden are not borne out by official telegrams that have been received here. According to the latest advices, the Japanese forces continue to increase at Bianiupuza and Yentai. A decisive advance in the direction of Mukden is, therefore, not expected to occur for some days.

STRANGLED ON MEAT.

Detroit Man Came to His Death While Eating Dinner.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 19.—Death by strangulation occurred yesterday noon when Michael Janurz, aged 16, living at 583 Farnsworth avenue east, choked on a piece of boiled beef at the dinner table and succumbed before medical aid arrived.

Dr. S. J. Lachajewski was summoned and hastily responded. The victim had lapsed into a state of unconsciousness by that time and was rapidly giving up the struggle for life. The physician extracted the meat from the man's throat so that normal breathing could be restored and then felt the victim's pulse, which by that time had entirely stopped. The doctor worked for some time but finally gave it up.

Coroner Toepel was called to the house shortly after death occurred, but upon learning the circumstances decided that an inquest would be unnecessary.

The deceased is survived by a widow and five children. He was a carpenter by occupation.

CONSCIOUS FOR TIME.

Mysterious Patient in Detroit Hospital Reveals His Identity.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 19.—After lying on a cot at Grace hospital for five days, perfectly unconscious of the desperate efforts made to learn of his identity, the man who was sandbagged last Tuesday night on Washington avenue revived about 2 a. m. Sunday morning and talked rationally for a few minutes. He is G. M. Gibbs, a baker living in Grand Rapids, who came to Detroit in search of work.

It was only for a few brief minutes that the patient revived sufficiently to talk to the nurse who is nightly stationed beside his bed. He gave his name and the additional information that he had a wife and baby in Grand Rapids, having been married eighteen months ago. He failed to remember just how he came into his present condition and before many questions could be asked again relapsed into the comatose state which so worries the doctors at the hospital.

First State Library Institute.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Sept. 19.—The first library institute ever held in the state of Michigan will be held at Kalamazoo Sept. 22 and 23. Among the librarians to be here will be H. M. Utley of the Detroit public library, president of the association; Miss C. F. Waldo, Jackson; Miss Phoebe Parker, Sage library, West Bay City, and Miss G. M. Walton of the State Normal college at Ypsilanti. Several other towns will be represented.

Burned Her Home.

Lake Odessa, Mich., Sept. 19.—Mrs. Charles Brooks, living eight miles northwest of this city, near Morrison lake, poured kerosene over the furniture in her house and then set fire to it. The house and its contents were entirely destroyed when her husband, who had been absent, returned. The woman has been insane, but was recently released from the asylum at Kalamazoo as cured.

Hospital Bed For Children.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 19.—To raise money to go towards permanently endowing a Detroit Children's Maccabee bed in the Children's Free hospital, a fair will be held by the Maccabees in conjunction with the American confectioners' exhibit at Detroit Light Infantry armory during the week of Nov. 28. It is necessary to have $3,000 to permanently endow a bed in the hospital. Of this amount $1,500 has been raised.

Cruel Hoax on a Cripple.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 19.—In the hope that he might obtain an artificial leg, Ed Lozon of 210 Crane avenue has worked for several months collecting union labels from tobacco packages. Now that he has about 18,000 of the little blue slips, he is unable to discover the whereabouts of the concern which was reported to be giving out prizes.

Drank Solution of Arsenic.

Saginaw, Mich., Sept. 19.—Joseph Lindlau, an aged cigarmaker, who lived alone at 224 South Second street, has taken his life. He was found lying on his bed, partially dressed, and by his side was a cup containing a solution of arsenic. To aid the poison in producing death he had cut his left wrist with a knife.

Wreck Narrowly Averted.

Adrian, Mich., Sept. 17.—Lake Shore paper train, due here from the west at 7:51 a. m., had a very close call from being ditched between Hillsdale and Jonesville. While running at a high rate of speed a tire broke on the engine. But for the prompt action of the engineer in applying the full brake power instantly the train would probably have been ditched.

Five Sentenced.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Sept. 19.—Judge Adams has sentenced five men who have been convicted of various crimes. Ambrose Boyle, for burglary, was given three years at Marquette; Jack Beauregard, burglary, four to five years at Marquette; Clarence Russell, larceny, six to eight months at Ionia; Charles Carey, burglary, two to three years at Ionia, and Ernest Moore, larceny, six to seven months at Ionia.

Notable Event For Negroes.

Battle Creek, Mich., Sept. 17.—The most notable event of the year for Michigan negroes will occur in Battle Creek next Thursday—the meeting of the Michigan Co-Operative league, of which Robert C. Barnes of Detroit is president. Its object is to advance the standing of the negroes' civic status. Speakers will include Judson W. Lyons of Georgia, register of the United States treasury; Hon. R. M. Henshaw, Washington, D. C., and Hon. D. Augustus Straker, Detroit.

He Was Not Murdered.

Big Rapids, Mich., Sept. 17.—Some time ago Charles Holt, a farmer living between here and Rodney, died suddenly and there was talk of murder or suicide. Prof. Pearson of the Ferris institute has completed an examination of the stomach and states that there was no poison in it. A coroner's jury found that Holt came to his death by natural causes, and the idea of foul play or suicide now has few if any supporters.

Great Danger in Bad Kidneys.

A POSITIVE, GUARANTEED CURE.

Kidney trouble is a danger signal not to be ignored. One of the worst features of kidney diseases is the fact that they creep on without warning; and the subject is on really dangerous ground before he knows that there is anything wrong. At the very first indication—any ache or pain in the region of the kidneys—the subject should not lose a moment in seeking a reliable and certain cure.

Dr. Colwell's Egyptian Kidney and Bladder Cure cures permanently and absolutely inflammation of the kidneys, congestion, Bright's disease in its early stages, brick dust deposits, cloudy urine, pains in the back, retention, and incontinence of urine, diseases of the bladder and urinary tract, sexual weakness in both men and women, restoring to health and imparting to the genito-urinary organs renewed vitality and vigor.

A Chicago business man says: "I was in a bad way with my kidneys. I had constant, severe pains, my urine was cloudy and filled with sediment and the doctors told me that I was threatened with Bright's disease. They succeeded in frightening me thoroughly; but their prescriptions did me no good. I was persuaded to try Dr. Colwell's Egyptian Kidney and Bladder Cure. One bottle did me so much good that I stuck to it till I had taken three bottles which cured me perfectly. I have been well for three years and feel sure I would be in my grave now but for that great remedy."

STREET CAR BLOWN UP

Frightful Accident In Melrose, Mass., Causing Nine Deaths.

STRUCK A BOX OF DYNAMITE

Stuff Had Fallen From Express Wagon In Crossing Tracks—Nearly a Score Severely Injured—Youth Who Drove the Wagon Under Arrest.

Melrose, Mass., Sept. 22.—An outward bound electric car containing thirty-two persons, was blown to pieces in this city last night by striking a fifty pound box of dynamite that had fallen off an expres wagon. Six persons were killed outright, three more died of their injuries within an hour and nineteen others on the car were taken to the two hospitals suffering from severe injuries. At least a score of persons in the immediate vicinity of the explosion were hurt by flying glass and splinters.

The car contained mostly workmen on their way to their homes in this city, but among the dead was a woman and her babe.

When rescuers reached the scene of the accident the sight was appalling. The ground was covered with torn and mangled bodies of the dead and writhing forms of the injured. All the doctors in the vicinity were summoned and others called from nearby towns of Medford, Everett and Malden, as well as some from Boston. The injured were taken to hospitals in wagons, carriages and automobiles. Others who appeared to be at the point of death were removed to nearby houses, while the police began the grewsome work of collecting the dead.

Within fifteen minutes after the accident a crowd of two or three thousand persons gathered about the scene. Relatives and friends of victims were rushing about endeavoring to find their missing ones, while others, suspecting some of their families might have been on the car, were equally excited.

The police arrested Roy Fenton, driver of an express wagon. Fenton, it was learned, was carrying two 50-pound boxes of dynamite on his wagon and did not know until he reached the express office that one of the boxes had dropped off. He hurried back in the hope of picking it up, but the electric car reached the box first. The force of the explosion was terrific and the report was heard many miles.

MURDER, NOT SUICIDE,

Is Believed the Kaher Sisters Were Slain by Someone.

Bucyrus, O., Sept. 22.—Citizens of New Winchester, near here, are investigating the case of Misses Mary and Lizzie Kaher, who were found dead on the Ohio Central railroad tracks yesterday. The women were supposed to have committed suicide, but no wounds were found on the body of Mary and none on the body of the other woman except that her legs had been cut off.

It is now believed that they were murdered and their bodies placed on the track. Their breakfast was found prepared in their farm house and a man's necktie was found on the track near where the bodies were found.

New Power For Union City.

Union City, Mich., Sept. 22.—The city council has secured an option on a water power several miles south of this city owned by Fred Olds, the purchase price to be $7,000. It will be used to operate the municipal water works and electric lighting plants of this place, and it is thought that by this means there will be a saving in coal bills of $3,000 per annum. New pumps will have to be purchased, as well as electrical generators, entailing an additional expense of $5,000 or $6,000. Taxpayers are heartily in favor of the investment.

Steamer Louisiana May Have Gone Down In Lake Michigan.

NOW THREE DAYS OVERDUE

Owners Unable to Gain Any Trace of Her Since Departing From Escanaba For Cleveland—Carried Crew of Sixteen Men.

Nothing has been heard from the steamer or crew since the Louisiana left Escanaba, although the owners have telegraphed to every port where the boat might be sheltered. Had the steamer sought shelter at some harbor at the north end of the lake during the storm, there has been plenty of time to have ventured out now that it has passed over. Thereis now but little room for doubt that the vessel has joined the long list of craft which have mysteriously disappeared on Lake Michigan.

Her Running Time.

The last report of the missing boat was that she had left Escanaba with a cargo of iron ore at 7 o'clock last Saturday morning. Figuring on the ordinary running time of the boat, she should have passed through the straits of Mackinac some time in the evening. That she was not reported at that point on time caused little uneasiness, as boats frequently get through the straits during bad weather without being signaled. Monday the steamer was due in Cleveland, but did not arrive, although the steamer John Eddy, towing the barge Pennington, which left Escanaba after the Louisiana, reached port.

No Hope For Crew.

Horace Robbins, manager of the missing boat, then commenced sending telegraphic inquiries in all directions, without effect. It is believed by marine men that in crossing the end of the lake in the furious cross seas either the machinery became disabled or the cargo shifted, putting the vessel at the mercy of the seas. There is hardly any hope that the crew could have escaped in the life boats in the storm which was the most severe of the present season.

Capt. Thomas A. Ellery of St. Clair, Mich., was in command of the missing boat, and George Edmonson of this city was chief engineer. The other members of the crew are not known.

The Louisiana was a wooden vessel of the older type, 267 feet in length, and registering 1,929 tons. It was owned by F. M. Obsorne of this city and had been engaged in the coal and iron ore trades. The boat was built in 1887.

Charges Against the President.

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 22.—The second day of the annual convention of the Michigan State Federation of Labor was marked by charges being preferred against President W. H. Marrin of Grand Rapids by David Boyd of Detroit. A previous convention elected Boyd state organizer. In a communication to the convention Boyd contends that his removal by the executive board at the instance of Marrin was high-handed and that the executive board superceded itself in removing an official elected by the convention. He also charges that Marrin has been dilatory in duties and that reports have not fully accounted for all moneys. Investigation of the charges is being pursued by a committee of five. Many resolutions are being considered.

Thieves Steal Horse Blankets.

St. Joseph, Mich., Sept. 22.—The carnival of petty crimes in this county has not let up, but is now of a different nature from that in the summer months, when hold-ups and burglaries were in vogue. At present there seems to be an organized gang of robbers at work between this city and Niles, who are not seeking money or valuable gems, but are preparing for cooler weather by stealing horse blankets, robes and carriage cushions. Sunday night two barns in this city were entered and Tuesday night barns in Royalston township were entered and all the harness, robes and blankets stolen.

KILLED HIM WITH GUN

Quarrel of Several Years' Standing Ends In Murder.

BETWEEN CALHOUN FARMERS

No Witness to Terrible Deed—Men Had Been In Village Drinking—Corunna Men Locked Up For Murderous Assault on Man In Saloon.

Union City, Mich., Sept. 21.—A quarrel of several years' standing between William A. Engle and Charles Barrington, farmers residing several miles northeast of this city, terminated by the former shooting the latter with a shotgun, the entire charge entering his breast and severing the arteries to the heart, death being instantaneous.

Both men had been in Burlington village and were drinking. Barrington followed Engle to the latter's farm home, two miles west of the village, and began a quarrel in the barn. Engle went to the house for a gun and returning met Barrington near the house and fired, then ran to a neighbor's and screamed that he had killed a man. There were no witnesses to the murder.

Engle, a widower, lived all alone. He has two daughters married and one who, it is said, refuses to live at home. Engle is 45 years old and is said to be of a quarrelsome disposition, but not a drinking man. He had been attacked several times by Barrington, and claims he shot in self-defense.

The two men have been on bad terms for several years, and this was not their first quarrel. Barrington has several times attacked Engle and the latter has threatened to shoot him. Barrington was single, 29 years old, and lived at the home of his father, Albert Barrington, four miles from Engle's place. He was well liked except when drinking, when he was inclined to be quarrelsome. When his body was found there was a bottle full of whisky in his pocket.

Marshall, Mich., Sept. 21.—Sheriff Furner and party arrived here from Burlington last night with William A. Engle, accused of the murder of Charles Barrington, and at once swore out a warrant before Justice Jenkins, charging him with murder. Engle will be arraigned today.

Big Hole In His Body.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict to the effect that Charles Barrington met his death from a gunshot wound fired by Engle. A hole as large as a silver dollar was blown in Barrington's body. Engle was not on the stand, but tells several stories. He has not a friend in the village and is partially insane.

Owosso, Mich., Sept. 21.—Duncan Graham, Jr., and Cleveland Hatch of Corunna are locked up in the city jail here because of an alleged murderous assault upon Abram Snyder of Owosso township. The men quarreled last evening in a local saloon and Graham is accused of throwing Snyder against the bar. Snyder is unconscious with a bad wound over the temple and concussion of the brain is feared.

After the assault Graham was set upon by the saloonkeeper in whose place the fight occurred and is badly disfigured. Snyder is 40 years of age and married. Hatch is alleged to have been mixed up in the fight.

Saved Her From Suicide.

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 21.—Mrs. Mary Lane was despondent because her husband had deserted her, and she sought relief from her troubles in death. She purchased a bottle of carbolic acid and was about to drink it when her actions were noticed by friends, who rushed up to her just as she was placing the bottle to her lips. They succeeded in knocking it from her hand.

Clio Mill Burns.

Clio, Mich., Sept. 21.—The large roller flour mill owned by J. R. Sissins burned to the ground at noon and 500 bushels of wheat and 50 barrels of flour were consumed. There was $4,000 insurance on the mill.

What is life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in constipation, headache or liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly re-adjusts this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25c at C. A. Wright's drug store.

ATTACKED DA PASS.

Reported Japanese Are Endeavoring to Take Important Position.

Berlin, Sept. 22.—A dispatch from Mukden Sept. 21, 9:18 p. m., to the Lokal Anzeiger, says: "The Japanese Tuesday attacked Da Pass, fifty miles southeast of Mukden, with what result is not known.

"The Red Cross institutions here are making ready for general engagements."

Shanghai, Sept. 22.—A Chinese who left Port Arthur last Monday reports that owing to the incessant bombarding of the harbor by the Japanese, the Russian fleet is determined to break out this week and endeavor to reach Tsingtau, the German port on the Shantung peninsula.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 22.—There is further delay in the receipt of decisive news from the front. The situation at Port Arthur remains a blank though it is felt that important developments may be even now occurring there. The movements in the north are still of a tentative and preparatory character on both sides, which have not yet crystalized into a definite clash of forces at any one point. A resumption of the Japanese advance is now expected to occur any day.

The Japanese probably will attempt to capture the passes of the Da mountain range running half way between the Hun and Taitse rivers. The possession of these passes is important for the Japanese, as it will not only enable them to march north but also screen the movements of their troops from the prying gaze of Russian scouts.

It is fully appreciated here that the Japanese must try for the possession of Mukden, as otherwise it will be difficult for them to provide the army with winter quarters.

Mrs. Mansfield Seriously Hurt.

New London, Conn., Sept. 22.—Mrs. Richard Mansfield, wife of the actor, was seriously injured by being thrown from her horse near her summer home in this city. An automobile frightened her horse, it stumbled and pitched her to the ground, falling on her. Mr. Mansfield, who was in New York, started on a special train, accompanied by a specialist, who said last night that Mrs. Mansfield's spine is seriously wrenched and that she is badly bruised about the body.

President Newman Resigned.

Cleveland, Sept. 22.—The Plain Dealer today states that William H. Newman, president of the Lake Shore, New York Central and other Vanderbilt roads, tendered his resignation to the executive officers of these roads six weeks ago, but that it had not been accepted. Mr. Newman's reasons for retiring as the head of the Vanderbilt properties is said to be entirely for a rest, having served a long and arduous career as a railroad man.

Dog Had Right to Bite.

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 22.—Police Judge Hamilton has ruled that a dog had a right to bite a street orator who is making a harangue in front of a store and blocking the sidewalk. The dog in the case ran out of the store, bit the speaker and dispersed the crowd. The owner of the dog was arrested. The judge discharged the defendant and praised the dog for his good judgment.

Whose Horses Are These?

Adrian, Mich., Sept. 22.—S. Sanford of Adrian wants to know what he shall do with a pair of bay mares that wantered upon his premises five weeks ago. He has advertised in the local papers but cannot find the owner. It is surmised that they must have come from a long distance.

Old Newspaperman Dead.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Sept. 22.—Charles H. Lee, aged 67, was found dead in his room in the old Lee mansion here. Lee was one of the three Lee boys who several years ago were prominent in newspaper circles in Michigan. His brother Walter was located here, Fred in Monroe and Charles in Saginaw. He was a descendant of Christian Clemens, founder of this city, and was born in the house in which his body was found.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address:

What's in a name?

Every thing is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago, discovered some years ago how to make a salve from witch hazel that is a specific for piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases, DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner, Marion, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says, "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Sold by C. A. Wright.

Bedridden, alone and destitute. Such in brief was the condition of an old soldier by name of M. J. Havens, Versailles, O. For years he was troubled with kidney disease and neither doctors nor medicines gave him relief. At length he tried Electric Bitters. It put him on his feet in short order and now he testifies. "I'm on the road to complete recovery." Best on earth for liver and kidney troubles and all forms of stomach and bowel complaints. Only 50. Guaranteed by C. A. Wright, druggist.

P. M. Duffy of Ashley, Ill., writes, "This is to certify that I have taken two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure and it has helped me more than any other medicine. I tried many advertised remedies but none of them gave me any relief. My druggist recommended Foley's Kidney Cure and it cured me. Before commencing its use I was in such a shape that I could hardly get up when once down."

CHAPTER XI.

The girl, with a renewed flush, cast a deprecatory look at the mass of faces before her, and, meeting on all sides but one look of intense and growing interest, drew up her neat figure with a relieved air and began a story which I will proceed to transcribe for you in the fewest possible words.

Tuesday morning's breakfast had been a silent one. There had been a ball the night before at some great place on Massachusetts avenue; but no one spoke of it. Miss Tuttle made some remark about a friend she had met there, but as no one listened to her she soon stopped and in a little while left the table. Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey sat on, but neither said anything. Finally Mr. Jeffrey rose and, speaking in a voice hardly recognizable, remarked that he had something to say to her, and led the way to their room. Mrs. Jeffrey looked frightened as she followed him; so frightened that it was evident that something very serious had occurred or was about to occur between them. As nothing of this kind had ever happened before, Loretta could not help waiting about till Mr. Jeffrey reappeared, and when he did so, and she saw no signs of relief in his face or manner, she watched, with the silly interest of a girl who had nothing else to occupy her mind, to see if he would leave the house in such a mood and without making peace with his young bride. To her surprise, he did not go out at the usual time, but went to Miss Tuttle's room, where for a full half hour he remained closeted with his sister-in-law, talking in excited and unnatural tones. Then he went back for a few minutes to where he had left his wife in her own boudoir. But he could not have had much to say to her this time, for he presently came out again and ran hastily downstairs and out, almost without stopping to catch up his hat.

As it was Mary's business, and not the witness', to make Mrs. Jeffrey's bed in the morning, Loretta could think of no excuse for approaching her mistress' room at this moment; but later, when letters came, followed by various messages and some visitors, she went more than a dozen times to Mrs. Jeffrey's door. She was not admitted, nor were her appeals answered, except by a sharp "Go away!"

Nor was Miss Tuttle received any better, though she tried more than once to see her sister, especially as night came on and the hour approached for Mr. Jeffrey's return. Mrs. Jeffrey was simply determined to remain alone, and when dinner time arrived, and no Mr. Jeffrey, she could be induced to open her door only wide enough to take in the cup of tea which Miss Tuttle insisted upon sending her.

The witness here confessed that she had been very much excited by these unusual proceedings and by the effect which they seemed to have on the lady just mentioned, so she was ready to notice that Mrs. Jeffrey's hand shook like that of an old and palsied woman when she reached out for the tray.

Gladly would Loretta have caught one glimpse of her face, but it was hidden by the door; nor did Mrs. Jeffrey answer a single one of her questions. She simply closed her door and kept it so till toward midnight, when Miss Tuttle, coming into the hall, ordered the house to be closed for the night. Then the long shut door softly swung open; but, before any one could reach it, it was again pulled to and locked.

The next day brought no relief. Miss Tuttle, who had changed greatly during this unhappy day and night, succeeded no better than before in getting access to her sister, nor could Loretta gain the least word from her mistress till toward the latter part of the afternoon, when that lady, ringing her bell, gave her first order.

"A substantial dinner!" she cried. And when Loretta, greatly relieved, brought up the required meal she was astonished to find the door open and herself bidden to enter. The sight which met her eyes staggered her. From one end of the room to the other were signs of great nervous unrest and of terrible suffering. The chairs were pushed into corners as if the wretched bride had tramped the floor in an agony of excitement. Curtains were torn, and the piano cover was hanging half on and half off the open upright, as if she had clutched at it to keep herself from falling. On the floor beneath lay several pieces of broken china—vases of whose value Mrs. Jeffrey had often spoken, but which, jerked off with the cover, had been left where they fell—while immediately in front of the fireplace lay one of the rugs, tossed into a heap, as if she had rolled in it on the floor or used it to smother her cries of pain or anger.

So much for the state in which the witness found the boudoir. The adjoining bedroom was not in much better case, though it was evident that the bed itself had not been lain in since it was made up the day before at breakfast time. By this token, Mrs. Jeffrey had not slept the night before, or if she had laid her head anywhere it had been on the rug already spoken of.

These signs of extreme mental suffering, so much more extreme than any Loretta had ever before witnessed, frightened her so that the tray shook in her hand as she set it down on the table among the countless objects Mrs. Jeffrey always had about her. The noise seemed to startle her mistress, who had walked to the window after opening the door, for she wheeled impetuously about and Loretta saw her face. It was as if a blight had passed over it. Once gay and animated beyond the power of any one to describe, it had become in twenty-four hours a ghost's face, with the glare of some awful resolve on it; or so it would appear from the way Loretta described it.

Loretta, who was evidently accustomed to seeing her mistress arrayed in brilliant colors and much begemmed, laid great stress on the fact that, though it was on the verge of evening and she was evidently going out, she was dressed in black cloth and without even a diamond or a flower to relieve its severe simplicity. Her hair, too, which was always her pride, was piled in a careless mass upon her head as if she had tried to arrange it herself and had forgotten what she was doing while her fingers were but half through their work. There was a cloak lying on a chair near which she was standing and she held a hat in her hand, but Loretta saw no gloves. As the maid's glance and that of her mistress crossed, Mrs. Jeffrey spoke, and the effort she made in doing so naturally frightened the girl still more. "I am going out," were her words. "I may not be home till late— What are you looking at?"

Loretta declared that the words took her by surprise and that she did not know what to say, but managed to cover up her embarrassment by intimating that if her mistress would let her touch up her hair a bit she would make her look more natural.

At this suggestion Mrs. Jeffrey cast a glance in the glass and impetuously declared, "It doesn't matter." But she seemed to think better of it the next minute; for, throwing herself in a chair, she bade the girl to bring a comb and sat quietly enough, though evidently in a great tremor of haste and impatience, while Loretta combed her hair and put it up in the old way.

But the old way was not as becoming as usual, and Loretta was wondering if she ought to call in Miss Tuttle when Mrs. Jeffrey jumped to her feet and went over to the table and began to eat with the feverish haste of one who forces herself to take food in spite of hurry and distaste.

This was the moment for Loretta to leave the room, but she did not know how to do so. She felt herself fixed to the spot and stood watching Mrs. Jeffrey till that lady, suddenly becoming conscious of the girl's presence, turned, and in the midst of the moans which broke unconsciously from her lips said with a pitiable effort at her old manner:

"Go away, Loretta; I am ill; have been ill for two days. I don't like people to look at me like that!" Then, as the girl shrank back, she added in a breaking voice, "When Mr. Jeffrey comes home"— and said no more for several minutes, during which she clutched her throat with both hands and struggled with herself till she got her voice back and found herself able to repeat: "When Mr. Jeffrey comes, if he does come, tell him that I was right about the way that novel ended. Remember that you are to say to him the moment you see him that I was right about the novel and that he is to look and see if it did not end as I said it would. And, Loretta"— here she rose and approached the speaker with a sweet, appealing look which brought tears to the impressionable girl's eyes—"don't go gossiping about me downstairs. I shan't be sick long. I am going to be better soon, very soon. By the time you see me here again I shall be quite like my old self. Forget how—how"— and Loretta said she seemed to have difficulty in finding the right word here —"how childish I have been."

Of course Loretta promised, but she is not sure that she would have had the courage to keep all this to herself if she had not heard Mrs. Jeffrey stop in Miss Tuttle's room on her way out. That relieved her and enabled her to go downstairs to her own supper with more appetite than she had thought ever to have again. Alas, it was the last good meal she was able to eat for days! In three hours afterward a man came from the station house with the news of Mrs. Jeffrey's suicide in the horrible old house in which she had been married only two weeks before.

As this had been a continuous narrative and concisely told, the coroner had not interrupted her. When at this point a little gasp escaped Miss Tuttle and a groan broke from Francis Jeffrey's hitherto sealed lips the feelings of the whole assemblage seemed to find utterance. A young wife's misery culminating in death on the very spot where she had been so lately married! What could be more thrilling or appeal more closely to the general heart of humanity? But the cause of that misery! This was what every one present was eager to have explained. This is what we now expected the coroner to bring out. But instead of continuing on the line he had opened up he proceeded to ask:

"Where were you when this officer brought the news you mention?"

"In the hall, sir. I opened the door for him."

"And to whom did he first mention his errand?"

"To Miss Tuttle. She had come in just before him and was standing at the foot of the stairs"—

"What! Was Miss Tuttle out that evening?"

"Yes; she went out very soon after Mrs. Jeffrey left. When she came in she said that she had been around the block, but she must have gone around it more than once, for she was absent two hours."

"Did you let her in?"

"Yes, sir."

"And she said she had been around the block?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did she say anything else?"

"She asked if Mr. Jeffrey had come in."

SOFT CORE

Like the running brook, the red blood that flows through the veins has to come from somewhere.

The springs of red blood are found in the soft core of the bones called the marrow and some say red blood also comes from the spleen. Healthy bone marrow and healthy spleen are full of fat.

Scott's Emulsion makes new blood by feeding the bone marrow and the spleen with the richest of all fats, the pure cod liver oil.

For pale school girls and invalids and for all whose blood is thin and pale, Scott's Emulsion is a pleasant and rich blood food. It not only feeds the blood-making organs but gives them strength to do their proper work.

The funeral of Thomas Boyce, who died at the home of his son, John T. Boyce, northe-east of town, was held at the home yesterday afternoon at two o'clock. Mr. Boyce was 77 years of age and leaves six children, Samuel, John T., Albert, Mrs. Frank Rector, Mrs. Chas. Benedict and Mrs. Lester VanDorn. Rev. Scarlett of Macon, assisted by Rev. Jones and Rev. DeSpelder, officiated.

There is a curious coincidence in the appointment of Rev. Eugene Allen from Preston M. E. church to Ypsilanti and of Rev. W. E. Burnett of Monroe, to Preston. It is well known that Rev. Allen succeeds his father, Rev. C. T. Allen, in Ypsilanti, but not so many people know that Rev. Burnett, in assuming charge at Preston, becomes pastor of a church over which his father once ministered. Rev. Burnett was formerly pastor of the Methodist church at Weston. Rev. Allen is a twin brother of Rev. Clarence Allen, who occupied the Presbyterian pulpit last Sunday and is a relative of Dr. M. Allen of this city. —Adrian Times.

Attractive unique features in "Under Southern Skies" are the Jack-o-lantern pumpkin dance and the Hallowe'en tricks. Neither of which had been seen on the stage until Mrs. Parker utilized them in her play. Tonight at the New Bradley.

"Under Southern Skies."

The appearance of Lottie Blair—Parker's delightful play, "Under Southern Skies" is an event that should be looked forward to with interest by our theatregoers.

The company is a large one, numbering 27 people. The scenery is beautiful everything used in the representation, being carried by the company. The costuming is quaint and pretty, the gowns being of airy summery stuffs, made in the fashion of 1875, which is the period of the play. A Hallowe'en celebration during which a pumpkin dance is introduced, is one of the lively features of the performance and never fails to delight an audience. Beautiful southern melodies are introduced throughout the play with great effect. The story of the play is both strong and interesting is relieved with much comedy which is contributed by the darky servants and by their masters and mistresses, who are of the southern aristocracy.

"Under Southern Skies" is one of the big successes of recent years and no one who enjoys a first class play, presented in a first class manner, should fail to see the play at the New Bradley to-night.

Mr. Root was a member of Tecumseh Lodge No. 691 of Tecumseh, Mich., and by request of that lodge Parish Lodge of Buffalo conducted the beautiful and impressive rites at the grave in Forest Lawn. Worshipful Master William H. Ellis led in the Masonic ceremonies and the lodge quartette sang "Lead Kindly Light" and other selections in a sweetly solemn manner. The grave was covered with the many beautiful floral offerings.

The marriage of Miss Lelia Hendershot to Hervey A. Gallaway, of Raisin Center, was performed at the home of the bride's parents in Wellsville Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Leslie Bower of Tecumseh, in the presence of 60 relatives and friends. To the strains of the wedding march executed by Miss Mae Wright, the bridal couple, attended by Lester Isley and Miss Ethel Schreder, preceded by the ring bearer, Marion Ash, took their places under an arch decorated with pink and white asters and green ferns, which added to its beauty. A two course supper was served after congratulations.

The bride was lovely in white silk and carried white china asters, the groom was attired in black.

Mr. and Mrs. Gallaway left for Adrian in the evening, where they took the Wabash train for St. Louis, Mo., expecting to be gone the remainder of the week. They will reside in Wellsville with Mr. and Mrs. Hendershot this winter.

The bride, who is an only child of Mr. Mrs. Sevillian Hendershot, attended school here for a couple of years and is a very charming young lady. She has many friends here, who wish her all happiness in her married life.

The groom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Abner Gallaway, is an upright young man and respected by all who know him. They were the recipients of many useful and pretty presents.

Those from Tecumseh who attended were, Mrs. Josephine Hendershot, Miss Ethel Hendershot, Mrs. Samuel Catlin, Mr. and Mrs. Pocklington and Rev. Leslie Bower.

"Laugh and grow fat."

Life is such a serious business with the average mortal that an opportunity for a hearty laugh is more than welcome to most people. "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine" and so do the humorous features of that great metropolitan daily, The Chicago Record-Herald. The first thing that greets you on the first page of every issue is the humorous cartoon by Ralph Wilder, the well known artist, that frequently tells more at a glance than could be conceived in a column of reading matter. Every issue contains also a small humorous story on the editorial page and the "Alternating currents" column, written by M. E. Kiser, one of the most popular humorous writers in the country. In addition to all these the Sunday issue always includes a comic section, guaranteed to produce laughter.

JUDGE HOWELL

Died at his home at

SAND LAKE

Wednesday morning. Remains were taken to Adrian for burial.

Friends of Judge Andrew Howell, a noted jurist of Michigan, were pained to hear of his death which occurred at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Howell cottage at Sand lake. The immediate cause of his death was paralysis having suffered two strokes since Sunday, but for some time past he had been in very poor health.

Andrew Howell was born in Seneca county, New York, Dec. 18, 1827. He came to Michigan with his father, Dr. Joseph Howell, a few years later and settled in Macon township, being one of the earliest settlers in Lenawee county. The future judge passed his boyhood days on the farm, attending the district school. Later he attended school here in Tecumseh and the Wesleyan Seminary in Albion.

In 1850 he began studying law in the office of the late F. C. Beaman in Adrian. Soon after he entered college at Cincinnati, O. and in 1853 he graduated from the law department at the head of a class of 33. He returned to Adrian and formed a partnership with Judge Beaman. In 1855 he joined in the partnership with the late R. R. Beecher and continued to have a successful practice for years.

He was prominent in politics and served three times as circuit court commissioner and for two terms, 1865 and 1867, represented Lenawee county in the state senate. In 1871 he was appointed by the governor one of the commissioners to supervise and certify to a new compilation of the state laws of the state, then lately ordered by the legislature. This position he soon resigned, however, and was then appointed by the governor a special commissioner to prepare general laws for the incorporation of cities and villages in the state.

In 1879 the legislature again ordered a new compilation of the general statutes of the state and Judge Howell was elected compiler in joint convention of the house and senate, but the measure failing to get the sanction of the governor, nothing further was done. Soon after this he compiled and published, as a work of private enterprise, a complete edition of the general statutes of the state then in force, with copius annotations from the decisions of the supreme court. This work, now known as "Howell's Annotated Statutes of Michigan," was frequently approved and adopted by the legislature as the authorized compilation of the laws, and the same is now in use throughout the state.

While in practice Judge Howell enlarged, revised and published several editions of "Tiffany's Justice Guide" and "Tiffany's Criminal Law," both of which were made standard works of practice in Michigan. In 1881 Judge Howell was nominated by both parties and elected circuit judge in this district and held it until succeeded by Judge Lane, now of the U. of M.

In 1859 Judge Howell was married to Miss Mary Beecher Towen of Rochester, N. Y. Two sons, Robert Beecher Howell, a graduate of the United States Naval Academy, and Lawyer Charles Arthur Howell, of Detroit, were born to them, who with the mother, survive.

The Judge and Mrs. Howell spent the entire winter here last year at the Coller house, coming here from Detroit in early fall. In the spring they spent some time with a brother on the farm in Macon and later went to their cottage at Sand Lake for the summer. Judge Howell was a member of the Presbyterian church and a member of the Adrian lodge of Masons.

Beside his wife and two sons he leaves three brothers, Dr. George Howell of this city, who was with him when death came, Edwin Howell, who resides on the farm in Macon, and Rev. David Howell, a Presbyterian minister of Lansing. Death claimed two brothers, John Howell, when quite young, and Dr. Charles Howell, about two years ago.

The remains were taken to Adrian Wednesday afternoon, where at the home of Judge R. A. Watts on Monroe street, they lie in state. From the Watts home the funeral will take place Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at Oakwood.

FAMILIAR SONGS

As I walked through Tecumseh one fine summer eve,
I heard such sweet music, you could hardly believe
It was playing "Sweeet Home" and "A Home Over There"
And "The Last Rose of Summer" on the cool evening air.
Yes, I stopped and listened and would you believe
"My Old Kentucky Home" floated out on the breeze,
Then the chime bells they echoed this beautiful song,
"The Old Lights of London," so powerful and strong.
I inquired of passer-by, what instrument is this?
They said, it's one of F. E. Rude's phonographs, the best that is,
It played "Rock of Ages," so solemn and sweet,
And the song called "Old Hundred" as the pastor he preached.
Then I listened again, when a dialogue came,
"Won't You Let Me in Hannah" from out of the rain.
Then the old-fashioned farmer, from Squashtown you know,
He set us all laughing till we lost off two toes.
"My Old New Hampshire Home" then entirely got loose,
And the tears from my eyelids dropped into my boots;
When I thought of the days of my childhood once more,
Before the phonograph entered my door.
Three cheers for the phonograph may it ever succeed
In this land and others across the great seas.
Dear friends when your tired, so lonely and sad,
Just purchase a phonograph or talking machine
Of F. E. Rude and make your heart glad.

STOMACH DOSING WILL NOT CURE

Ask any physician if catarrh is a blood disease and he will tell you that it is a diseased condition of the mucous membrane and that it cannot be cured by blood purifiers, pills, tablets, or other forms of stomach dosing. The only sensible and scientific way of curing catarrh is by the use of Hyomei.

Breathed for a few minutes, four or five times a day, through a hard rubber inhaler that is so small that it can be carried in the vest pocket, Hyomei will absolutely destroy all catarrnal germs and cure the disease. Catarrh can never exist where Hyomei is used. It has a two-fold action, destroying the disease germs in the air passages and lungs and soothing and healing the inflamed mucous membrane.

C. A. Wright, one of the most reliable firms in Tecumseh is giving his personal guarantee with every package of Hyomei he sells, that it will effect a cure or he will return the money. He has had scores of reports of remarkable cures of both acute and chronic cases of catarrh by Hyomei.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs $1.00 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime; and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

A HELPING HAND

Is gladly extended by a Tecumseh citizen.

There are many enthusiastic citizens in Tecumseh prepared to tell their experience for the public good. Testimony from such a scource is the best of evidence and will prove a "helping hand" to scores of readers Read the following statement:

Veteran C. Austin, who lives with his son in the northeast section of Tecumseh, says: "I am more than thankful that Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my notice for they did me a great deal of good, in fact they stopped a dull aching pain in my back which annoyed me for years, and also rendered the action of the kidney secretions normal which at times were too frequent and highly colored. I tried a number of so-called kidney cures but I did not receive any benefit, before I learned about Doan's Kidney Pills and I knew people who had used them so I went to C. A. Wright's drug store and got them. To say I entertain a very favorable opinion of them as a kidney medicine is putting it in mild terms. They are all and more than represented to be."

For sale by all dealers: Price 50 cents per box, Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND

On Beach Near South Haven, but No One Can Identify It.

South Haven, Mich., Sept. 22.—A woman who has been foully dealt with or committed suicide was found on the north beach by a carpenter who was passing. Up to this time no one has been able to identify the corpse, although hundreds have looked upon it, and every effort is being made by the police to find people who might have seen her.

The body when found had been in the water only a short time, perhaps five hours. The only evidence which points to foul play is a cut over the left eye and dark coloring about the cut and over the forehead. The coroner's jury has not yet been able to come to a verdict on this account, believing that some evidence will be brought to light before many hours. The only clue on which the police are working is an initial "R" in the corner of her handkerchief, a silver watch and a hair-braided ring with a gold band of foreign make with the letters "R. K." pricked on the inside.

A woman was seen at 4 o'clock the afternoon before going toward the beach by two men who were unloading coal. She attracted their attention by her peculiar actions, but they took no notice of where she went. It is supposed this is the same woman.

Judge Howell Passes Away.

Adrian, Mich., Sept. 22.—Judge Andrew Howell is dead at his Sand Lake cottage. He was 77 years old and had recently suffered several strokes of paralysis. He came to Michigan from Seneca county, New York, when four years old. In the '50s he graduated from the Cincinnati law school. In 1879 the legislature ordered compilation of the general statutes and Mr. Howell was selected as compiler. The measure failed to meet the approval of the governor and Mr. Howell at once compiled and published on his own account a complete edition of the general Michigan statutes. This work is now famous everywhere as Howell's Annotated Statutes of Michigan, and was subsequently approved and adopted by the legislature. He had also revised and published several editions of Tiffany's Justices' Guides and Tiffany's Criminal Law. He was circuit judge of the first judicial district from 1881 to 1886.

Bloody Family Row.

Owosso, Mich., Sept. 22.—At 8:30 last evening two members of the local police force opened the home of Thomas Pietschke, who was barricaded in the house, and who was wanted for a murderous assault upon his wife. During a family row in the evening Pietschke knocked the woman down with a chair and beat her terribly, cutting her scalp open and bruising her head and face. Streaming with blood Mrs. Pietschke escaped to the home of a neighbor and the police were telephoned for.

THREE JURORS CURED

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Clebourne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some souse meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlin's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." Great Danger in Bad Kidneys.

Take No Chances—Kidney Diseases More Fatal Than Any Other.

A POSITIVE, GUARANTEED CURE.

Kidney trouble is a danger signal not to be ignored. One of the worst features of kidney diseases is the fact that they creep on without warning; and the subject is on really dangerous ground before he knows that there is anything wrong. At the very first indication—any ache or pain in the region of the kidneys—the subject should not lose a moment in seeking a reliable and certain cure.

Dr. Colwell's Egyptian Kidney and Bladder Cure cures permanently and absolutely inflammation of the kidneys, congestion, Bright's disease in its early stages, brick dust deposits, cloudy urine, pains in the back, retention and incontinence of urine, diseases of the bladder and urinary tract, sexual weakness in both men and women, restoring to health and imparting to the genito-urinary organs renewed vitality and vigor.

A Chicago business man says: "I was in a bad way with my kidneys. I had constant, severe pains, my urine was cloudy and filled with sediment and the doctors told me that I was threatened with Bright's disease. They succeeded in frightening me thoroughly; but their prescriptions did me no good. I was persuaded to try Dr. Colwell's Egyptian Kidney and Bladder Cure. One bottle did me so much good that I stuck to it till I had taken three bottles which cured me perfectly. I have been well for three years and feel sure I would be in my grave now but for that great remedy."

CHAPTER XI.

“Anything else?”

“Then if Mrs. Jeffrey had returned.”

“To both of which questions you answered”—

“A plain ‘No.’ ”

“Now tell us about the officer.”

“He rang the bell almost immediately after she did. Thinking she would want to slip upstairs before I admitted any one, I waited a minute for her to go, but she did not do so, and when the officer stepped in she”—

“Well?”

“She shrieked.”

“What! Before he spoke?”

“Just at sight of him?”

“Yes, sir.”

“Did he wear his badge in plain view?”

“Yes; on his breast.”

“So that you knew him to be a police officer?”

“Yes.”

“And Miss Tuttle shrieked at seeing a police officer?”

“Yes, and sprang forward.”

“Did she say anything?”

“Not then.”

“What did she do?”

“Waited for him to speak.”

“Which he did?”

“At once and very brutally. He asked if she was Mrs. Jeffrey's sister, and when she nodded and gasped ‘Yes,’ he blurted out that Mrs. Jeffrey was dead; that he had just come from the old house in Waverley avenue, where she had just been found.”

“And Miss Tuttle?”

“Didn't know what to say; just hid her face. She was leaning against the newel post, so it was easy for her to do so. I remember that the man stared at her for taking it so quietly and asking no questions.”

“And did she speak at all?”

“Oh, yes, afterward. Her face was wrapped in the folds of her cloak, but I heard her whisper as if to herself: ‘No, no! That old hearth is not a lodestone. She cannot have fallen there.’ And then she looked up quite wildly and cried: ‘There is something more! Something which you have not told me!’ ‘She shot herself, if that's what you mean.’ Miss Tuttle's arms went straight up over her head. It was awful to see her. ‘Shot herself?’ she gasped. ‘Oh, Veronica, Veronica!’ ‘With a pistol,’ he went on—I suppose he was going to say, ‘tied to her wrist,’ but he never got it out, for Miss Tuttle at the word ‘pistol’ clapped her hands to her ears and for a moment looked quite distracted, so that he thought better of worrying her any more and only demanded to know if Mr. Jeffrey kept any such weapon.

“Miss Tuttle's face grew very strange at this. ‘Mr. Jeffrey! Was he there?’ she asked. The man looked surprised. ‘They are searching for Mr. Jeffrey,’ he replied. ‘Isn't he here?’ ‘No,’ came both from her lips and mine. The man acted very impertinently. ‘You haven't told me whether a pistol was kept here or not,’ said he. Miss Tuttle tried to compose herself, but I saw that I should have to speak if any one did, so I told him that Mr. Jeffrey did have a pistol, which he kept in one of his bureau drawers. But when the officer wanted Miss Tuttle to go up and see if it was there she shook her head and made for the front door, saying that she must be taken directly to her sister.”

“And did no one go up? Was no attempt made to see if the pistol was or was not in the drawer?”

“Yes; the officer went up with me. I pointed out the place where it was kept, and he rummaged all through it, but found no pistol. I didn't expect him to”— Here the witness paused and bit her lip, adding confusedly, “Mr. Jeffrey had taken it, you see.”

The jurors, who sat very much in the shadow, had up to this point attracted but little attention. But now they began to make their presence felt, perhaps because the break in the witness' words had been accompanied by a sly look at Jinny. Possibly warned by this that something lay back of this hitherto timid witness' sudden volubility, one of them now spoke up.

“In what room did you say this pistol was kept?”

“In Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey's bedroom, sir; the room opening out of the sitting room where Mrs. Jeffrey had kept herself shut up all day.”

“Does this bedroom of which you speak communicate with the hall as well as with the sitting room?”

“No, sir; it is the defect of the house. Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey often spoke of it as a great annoyance. You had to pass through the little boudoir in order to reach it.”

The juryman sank back, evidently satisfied with her replies, but we who marked the visible excitement with which the witness had answered this seemingly unimportant question wondered what special interest surrounded that room and the pistol to warrant the heightened color with which the girl answered this new interlocutor. We were not destined to know at this time, for the coroner, when he spoke again, pursued a different subject.

“How long was this before Mr. Jeffrey came in?”

“Only a few minutes. I was terribly frightened at being left there alone and was on my way to ask one of the other girls to come up and stay with me when I heard his key in the lock and came back. He had entered the house and was standing near the door talking to an officer, who had evidently come in with him. It was a different officer from the one who had gone away with Miss Tuttle. Mr. Jeffrey was saying: ‘What's that? My wife hurt!’ ‘Dead, sir!’ blurted out the man. I had expected to see Mr. Jeffrey terribly shocked, but not in so awful a way. It really frightened me to see him and I turned to run, but found that I couldn't and that I had to stand still and look whether I wanted to or not. Yet he didn't say a word or ask a question.”

“What did he do, Loretta?”

“I cannot say. He was on his knees and was white—oh, how white! Yet he looked up when the man described how and where Mrs. Jeffrey had been found and even turned toward me when I said something about his wife having left a message for him when she went out. This message, which I almost hesitated to give after the awful news of her death, was about the ending of some story, as you remember, and it seemed heartless to speak of it at a moment like this, but as she had told me to I didn't dare to disobey her. So, with the man listening to my every word, and Mr. Jeffrey looking as if he would fall to the ground before I could finish, I repeated her words to him and was surprised enough when he suddenly started upright and went flying upstairs. But I was more surprised yet when, at the top of the first flight, he stopped and, looking over the balustrade, asked in a very strange voice where Miss Tuttle was. For he seemed just then to want her more than anything else in the world and looked beaten and wild when I told him that she was already gone to Waverley avenue. But he recovered himself before the man could draw near enough to see his face, and rushed into the sitting room above and shut the door behind him, leaving the officer and me standing down by the front door.

“As I didn't know what to say to a man like him, and he didn't know what to say to me, the time seemed long, but it couldn't have been very many minutes before Mr. Jeffrey came back with a slip of paper in his hand and a very much relieved look on his face. ‘The deed was premeditated!’ he cried. ‘My unfortunate wife has misunderstood my affection for her!’ And from being a very much broken down man he stood up straight and tall and prepared himself very quietly to go to the Moore house. That is all I can tell about the way the news was received by him.”

Were these details necessary? Many appeared to regard them as futile and uncalled for, but Coroner Z. was never known to waste time on trivialities, and if he called for these facts those who knew him best felt certain that they were meant as a preparation for Mr. Jeffrey's testimony, which was now called for.

CHAPTER XII.

WHEN Francis Jeffrey's hand fell from his forehead and he turned to face the assembled people an instinctive compassion arose in every breast at sight of his face, which, if not open in its expression, was at least surcharged with the deepest misery.

I pass over the preliminary examination of this important witness and proceed at once to the point when the coroner, holding out the two or three lines of writing which Mr. Jeffrey had declared to have been left him by his wife, asked:

“Are these words in your wife's handwriting?”

Mr. Jeffrey replied hastily and with just a glance at the paper offered him:

“They are.”

The coroner pressed the slip upon him.

“Look at them carefully,” he urged. “The handwriting shows hurry and in places is scarcely legible. Are you ready to swear that these words were written by your wife and by no other?”

Mr. Jeffrey, with just a slight contraction of his brow expressive of annoyance, did as he was bid. He scanned, or appeared to scan, the small scrap of paper which he now took into his own hand.

“It is my wife's writing,” he impatiently declared; “written, as all can see, under great agitation of mind, but hers without any doubt.”

“Will you read aloud these words for our benefit?” asked the coroner.

The lines he was thus called upon to read may bear repetition:

> I find that I do not love you as I thought. I cannot live knowing this to be so. Pray God you may forgive me!
> VERONICA.

As the last word fell with a little tremble from Mr. Jeffrey's lips the coroner repeated:

“You still think these words were addressed to you by your wife; that in short they contain an explanation of her death?”

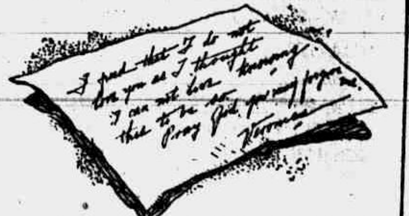
“I do.”

There was sharpness in the tone. Mr. Jeffrey was feeling the prick. There was agitation in it, too; an agitation he was trying hard to keep down.

“You have reason, then,” persisted the coroner, “for accepting this peculiar explanation of your wife's death, a death which, in the judgment of most people, was of a nature to call for the strongest provocation possible?”

“My wife was not herself. My wife was in an overstrained and suffering condition. For one so nervously overwrought many allowances must be made. She may have been conscious of not responding fully to my affection. That this feeling was strong enough to induce her to take her life is a source of unspeakable grief to me, but one for which you must find explanation, as I have so often said, in the terrors caused by the dread event at the Moore house, which recalled old tragedies and emphasized a most unhappy family tradition.”

The disputed writing



The coroner paused a moment to let these words sink into the ears of the jury, then plunged immediately into what might be called the offensive part of his examination.

“Why, if your wife's death caused you such intense grief, did you appear so relieved at receiving this by no means consoling explanation?”

At an implication so unmistakably suggestive of suspicion Mr. Jeffrey showed fire for the first time.

“Whose word have you for that? A servant's, so newly come into my house that her very features are still strange to me. You must acknowledge that a person of such marked inexperience can hardly be thought to know me or to interpret rightly the feelings of my heart by any passing look she may have surprised upon my face.”

This attitude of defiance so suddenly assumed had an effect he little realized. Miss Tuttle stirred for the first time behind her veil, and Uncle David, from looking bored, became suddenly quite attentive. These two but mirrored the feelings of the general crowd, and mine especially.

“We do not depend on her judgment alone,” the coroner now remarked. “The change in you was apparent to many others. This we can prove to the jury if they require it.”

But, no man lifting a voice from that gravely attentive body, the coroner proceeded to inquire if Mr. Jeffrey felt like volunteering any explanations on this head. Receiving no answer from him either, he dropped the suggestive line of inquiry and took up the consideration of facts. The first question he now put was:

“Where did you find the slip of paper containing these last words from your wife?”

“In a book I picked out of the bookshelf in our room upstairs. When Loretta gave me my wife's message I knew that I should find some word from her in the novel we had just been reading. As we had been interested in but one book since our marriage, there was no possibility of my making any mistake as to which one she referred.”

“Will you give us the name of this novel?”

“ ‘Compensation.’ ”

“And you found this book called ‘Compensation’ in your room upstairs?”

“Yes.”

“On the bookshelf?”

“Yes.”

“Where does this bookshelf stand?”

Mr. Jeffrey looked up as much as to say, “Why so many small questions about so simple a matter?” but answered frankly enough:

“At the right of the door leading into the bedroom.”

“Yes.”

“Very good. Now may I ask you to describe the cover of this book?”

“The cover? I never noticed the cover. Why do you— Excuse me, I suppose you have your reasons for asking even these puerile and seemingly unnecessary questions. The cover is a queer one, I believe, partly red and partly green, and that is all I know about it.”

Miss Tuttle and Uncle David listening to the evidence

“Is this the book?”

Mr. Jeffrey glanced at the volume the coroner held up before him.

“I believe so; it looks like it.”

The book had a flaming cover, quite unmistakable in its character.

“The title shows it to be the same,” remarked the coroner. “Is this the only book with a cover of this kind in the house?”

The coroner laid down the book.

“Enough of this, then, for the present; only let the jury remember that the cover of this book is peculiar and that it was kept on a shelf at the right of the opening leading into the adjoining bedroom. And now, Mr. Jeffrey, we must ask you to look at these rings, or, rather, at this one. You have seen it before. It is the one you placed on Mrs. Jeffrey's hand when you were married to her a little over a fortnight ago. You recognize it?”

“Do you also recognize this small mark of blood on it as having been here when it was shown to you by the detective on your return from seeing her dead body at the Moore house?”

“I do; yes.”

“How do you account for that spot and the slight injury made to her finger? Should you not say that the ring had been dragged from her hand?”

“I should.”

“By whom was it dragged? By you?”

“By herself, then?”

“It would seem so.”

“Much passion must have been in that act. Do you think that any ordinary quarrel between husband and wife would account for the display of such fury? Are we not right in supposing a deeper cause for the disturbance between you than the slight one you offer in way of explanation?”

An inaudible answer; then a sudden straightening of Francis Jeffrey's fine figure. And that was all.

“Mr. Jeffrey, in the talk you had with your wife on Tuesday morning was Miss Tuttle's name introduced?”

“It was mentioned; yes, sir.”

“You would not believe me if I said no,” was the unexpected rejoinder.

The coroner, taken aback by this direct attack from one who had hitherto borne all his innuendoes with apparent patience, lost countenance for a moment, but, remembering that in his official capacity he was more than a match for the elegant gentleman, who under other circumstances would have found it only too easy to put him to the blush, he observed with dignity:

“Mr. Jeffrey, you are on oath. We certainly have no reason for not believing you.”

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address:

What's in a name?

Every thing is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago, discovered some years ago how to make a salve from witch hazel that is a specific for piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases, DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. The stomach is the man.

A weak stomach weakens the man, because it cannot transform the food he eats into nourishment. Health and strength cannot be restored to any sick man or weak woman without first restoring health and strength to the stomach. A weak stomach cannot digest enough food to feed the tissues and revive the tired and run down limbs and organs of the body. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat, cleanses and strengthens the glands and membranes of the stomach and cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Sold by C. A. Wright.

One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner, Marion, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says, "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Sold by C. A. Wright.

I tried many advertised remedies but none of them gave me any relief. My druggist recommended Foley's Kidney Cure and it cured me. Before commencing its use I was in such a shape that I could hardly get up when once down."

ROUND ABOUT US.

Fat people sometime reduce their flesh by going without their regular meals. In like manner the man who has too much business can reduce it by stopping advertising.—Ex.

A Chinaman attracted not a little attention on an Ypsi-Ann car last night from the fact that he wore in the lapel of his very American coat in the most approved manner a Masonic button. The man was questioned by the police, and said he was coming here to visit his cousin. He spoke excellent English.—Ypsilanti Evening Press.

A few days ago a nice looking skunk to Adrian city went; no one dared to whisper the critter was broke, nor that it hadn't a cent; a policeman shot it and to the skunk heaven, its soul took its perilous flight; it left many mourners with kerchief in hand who pinched their noses real tight; farewell to the skunk, whom people respected and always gave plenty of room; its perfume remaineth where policeman killed it, its body lies cold in the tomb.—Hudson Post.

A Galesburg woman heard a strange noise that seemed to come from behind the kitchen of her house. Raising the back window she saw her husband and asked, "John, why don't you come in the house?" "I'm comin', dear," he replied in a husky tone, "shoon ax I kin git up zese stairsh." He was trying to climb the woodpile.—Ex.

Jake Hickling lives in Reading and is a man of might, but does not care to be chief push in a real thing bull fight. One recent day, while in a field, he saw a big bull rush and quickly looked for tree or fence or perhaps a pile of brush. With hair on end, he noticed there was no refuge near; no friendly neighbor was in sight, perhaps to interfere, and when the bull rushed up it seemed to irritate his bile, caused him to grasp the critter's horns in gladiator style. They wrestled long, and wrestled hard and then Jake broke away, and sprinted for a nearby fence in hopes to end the fray. The man went over just in time to save his pants from harm. He sings no more of how the bull is lord of all the farm.—Hudson Post.

Sour Stomach.

When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich, sour stomach is likely to follow and especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not to freely of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. A TRIP

Through the rice country has just been made by

and

P. W. A. FITZSIMMONS

With a party of men from other cities.

Capt. Charles R. Miller and Burton D. Hurd of Kansas City, Mo., returned Thursday from a tour through the rice country. Mr. Hurd is president of the American Rice Cereal Co., with a capital stock of $5,000,000 under the laws of the state of Texas. A special car composed of three Pullmans, dining car and baggage car, with a party of fifty, with Mr. Hurd as manager, left on Sept. 12 for a trip through the rice fields of Texas and Louisana.

Among those who were members of Mr. Hurd's party were Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, of Washington, D. C.; Gen. O. H. Howard, of Chicago; and four from Michigan, Capt. C. R. Miller, Adrian; P. W. A. Fitzsimmons, Tecumseh; F. J. Kneeland, St. Louis; and C. R. Sligh, Grand Rapids.

Suitable resolutions on the thoughtful consideration for their comfort on the train, for the entertainment when absent from the train, especially in the rice fields, with Gen. Miles as chairman, were tendered Mr. Hurd and his associates. Capt. Miller reports an excellent trip.

The rice fields in Louisiana have been fully developed and equipped with canals, taking water from the various rivers and bayou. The rice is planted in the early spring, the flood gates are opened and the fields submerged for seventy days, when the land is drained and the crop harvested.

Thomas Boyce.

Friends and relatives gathered in large numbers on Thursday last, Sept. 23, at the Boyce homestead in Macon to bring the last tributes of respect and affection to the memory of Thomas Boyce, who had fallen "asleep in Jesus (blessed sleep)" on Tuesday, Sept. 21, when within one month of completing his 78th birthday. The choir of the Reformed church of Macon village sang appropriate and very comforting songs. Rev. J. A. DeSpelder, a former pastor, gave an appreciative sketch of the life of his deceased friend. Rev. Geo. Scarlett preached earnestly from Acts 11:24, making special and pertinent use of the first clause, "He was a good man" and Rev. W. F. Jones offered prayer. A long procession escorted the remains to Brookside cemetery, Tecumseh.

The deceased was the son of John and Jane (Tilford) Boyce, who were among the pioneers, settling in this vicinity in 1844. Thomas was born in county Antrim, Ireland, Oct. 21, 1826. He came with his parents to Baltimore, Md., in 1847, where he was married to Mary J. Wiley. They came to Michigan in 1855 locating in the township of Tecumseh, where they resided 13 years, thereupon, moving to their farm in Macon. There were born to them seven children, six of whom are living, Mrs. P. V. Woodward having preceded her father to the better land on Nov. 23, 1893. He is survived by his wife, two brothers, one sister and the following children. John T., Samuel W., Albert B., Mrs. Brookwell Rector, Mrs. Leslie VanDoren and Mrs. Chas. W. Benedict. There are also 12 grandchildren.

Early in life Mr. Boyce made a profession of his faith in Christ and became a member of the Third Presbyterian church of Baltimore. On Oct. 6, 1856, he was enrolled among the members of the Presbyterian church of Tecumseh, and in 1875 transfered his membership to the Reformed church of Macon, in whose communion he has caused his light to shine as a member and an officer, by a consistent and faithful life of Chrisrian service, "and by it he being dead, yet speaketh.

UNKNOWN MAN

Was found hanging to a tree in the woods owned by

WARREN JONES

Of Ridgeway. Believed to be a case of suicide.

The body of an unknown man was found hanging to a tree on the farm of Warren Jones in Ridgeway last Saturday morning, by two boys, Leon Wilson and Jay Schofield, who had just started out to gather walnuts. The body was taken to Smith's undertaking rooms and Coroner Stevens impanelled a jury.

The man was dead and had probably been hanging there for several hours. He appeared to be about 35 years of age, well dressed, light complexion and light hair. His hat was bought in Delray, but there was nothing on his person to tell who he was or where he came from. In his pockets were a silver watch, several handkerchiefs and a cigar case.

It looked to be purely a case of suicide. He had thrown a rope over the limb of an oak tree, fastened it, put his neck into the loop and stepped off a stake, which was found leaning against the tree. The remains were buried in Ridgeway to-day at 11 o'clock.

Boy's wild ride for life.

[illegible] around expecting him to die and a son riding for life, 18 miles, to get Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs, and colds, W. Brown of Leesville, Ind., endured death's agonies from asthma, but this wonderful medicine gave instant relief and soon cured him. He writes, "I now sleep soundly every night." Like marvelous cures of consumption, pneumonia, colds bronchitis and grip prove its matchless merit for all throat and lung troubles. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at C. A. Wright's drug store.

LITERARY NOTES.

The picturesque personality of Thomas W. Lawson is well to the fore in the October issue of Everybody's Magazine. Not satisfied with the allowance of space given to his "Frenzied Finance" in the body of the magazine, he has burst the bonds of editorial convention and appropriated several pages in the advertising section, part of which he uses to reply to the scores of letters and inquiries which his remarkable articles have brought him. He deals with his critics in much the same spirit he handles the financiers—without gloves.

* * *

A special feature of the October number of The Metropolitan Magazine is a notable study of the office of the Chief Executive, by Alfred Henry Lewis. Mr. Lewis entitles his paper "The Story of the Presidency." It is a remarkable review of American history as reflected by the successive occupants of the White House. Careful perspective and a freedom from political bias characterize the article, as do also the author's well-known virile style and candor of statement. Mr. Lewis's ability to see clearly the true meaning of things is rivalled only by his knack of stating, so that every one can understand him, the things that he sees and the conclusions he draws.

Karl Edwin Harriman shows the spirit of the new Northwestern in his love-story called "A Lad's Love" in Lippincott's for October. His people are the common fisher-folk of the Great Lakes, adoptive Americans, but they weave out the great problems of life and love as intensely as their more urban kin. It is a story of singular charm.

George Madden Martin brings her charming heroine "The House of Fulfilment of craving" in the October McClure's, which concludes her serial. Here is the climax of the story, the final solution of its problems and the disposition of its real people whom many have grown to know and care for as friends. This successful serial is to be published in book form by McClure, Phillips & Co. this fall and is assured of wide popularity.

The October number of The Smart Set is a veritable mine of brilliant stories and poems. "Moored," by Anna A. Rogers, is the title of the novelette which opens the issue. It is a story full of power and quiet humor, dealing with the temptation which comes to the young wife of a naval officer while he is abroad and she is "moored" at home. The tale leaves a remarkably vivid impression and will attract wide attention.

The Century Magazine has been trying the experiment of omitting the index from the last number of the volume, but it has announced that, beginning with the October number, which ends the current volume, the index will be restored.

Many magazine publishers have found that it is not necessary to print an index for the entire edition, but a small edition only has been printed and copies have been sent to persons who desire to preserve their numbers in bound form. The publishers of The Century have found out that so many readers of that magazine bind the numbers that it has become necessary to include the index, as heretofore, in the entire edition.

There are fashions for everybody in the October Designer, from the pink tot blinking for the first time in the world's sunlight to the dear grandmothers, who will be interested and pleased with the designs shown for their especial benefit in "Growing Old Gracefully." There is good reading, too, for everybody. Even the man of the family, who with artful intent professes scorn for a woman's fashion magazine, will chuckle over "Naming the Birdsall Baby," and may profit by "Fashion Notes for Men."

WHY HE PUSHES IT

C. A. Wright recommends and pushes Mi-o-na, the dyspepsia remedy.

"It's a pleasure to sell a medicine when my customers come in afterwards and tell me how much good it has done them," said C. A. Wright, the popular druggist, to a Herald man, "and that is why I like to sell and recommend Mi-o-na, the dyspepsia remedy.

"I have so much faith in this article that I am going to guarantee it in the future and will return the money to any purchaser of Mi-o-na whom it does not cure. That may seem rash, but my customers have said so many good words in its favor that I do not expect to have many packages returned.

"Anyone who has dyspepsia, whose food does not digest well, who has to take thought as to what he can eat and when, can leave 50 cents deposit at my store and take home a box of Mi-o-na and if the remedy does not regulate his digestion and cure his dyspepsia, he can withdraw his money on returning the empty box.

This shows great faith in the merit of Mi-o-na. It is really a most unusual medicine and the rapid increase in sales since C. A. Wright introduced it in Tecumseh shows that it does all that it claims to do, cures dyspepsia, regulates digestion and enables those who use it to eat just what they want and when they want with no fear of trouble.

The boys at the woolen mill made Ben McCracken a present of a very nice gold ring the first of the week. On account of continued poor health, he has been obliged to give up his position here and leaves next Thursday for Seattle, Washington, where he has a brother. If the climate there does not agree with him, he will go to Los Angeles, California.—Clinton Local.

We are told that there are two young men near town who are liable to get into greater trouble than they anticipate if they do not mend their ways soon. People will not long tolerate having people peep into their windows at night, neither do others raise poultry to have it swiped after dark. The boys (or rather young men) are well known and will be better known soon if their work continues.—Saline Observer.

An exchange says: Just suppose the case for an instant will you? Suppose a newspaper man every time he hears a man criticise him or his paper should retaliate by holding up to the public gaze the faults and shortcomings of said fault finder, what would be the result? The editor may not know all, but he does not live in a community long without knowing a lot more than he publishes.

STOMACH DOSING WILL NOT CURE

Ask any physician if catarrh is a blood disease and he will tell you that it is a diseased condition of the mucous membrane and that it cannot be cured by blood purifiers, pills, tablets, or other forms of stomach dosing. The only sensible and scientific way of curing catarrh is by the use of Hyomei.

Breathed for a few minutes, four or five times a day, through a hard rubber inhaler that is so small that it can be carried in the vest pocket, Hyomei will absolutely destroy all catarrhal germs and cure the disease. Catarrh can never exist where Hyomei is used. It has a two-fold action, destroying the disease germs in the air passages and lungs and soothing and healing the inflamed mucous membrane.

C. A. Wright, one of the most reliable firms in Tecumseh is giving his personal guarantee with every package of Hyomei he sells, that it will effect a cure or he will return the money. He has had scores of reports of remarkable cures of both acute and chronic cases of catarrh by Hyomei.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs $1.00 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime; and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

THE THIEF OF BEAUTY

Is Captured by Bradfield's Regulator.

Thousands of young women are awaking to the fact that inherited comliness has been stolen, and instead of glowing cheeks and bright eyes, the tell-tale wrinkles of pain have taken their place.

These are the warning feelings! Weak and tired in the morning, no life to enter upon their former pleasures, irritable, cross, dull headaches, general dispirited feeling, sleepless nights, cold feet, "bearing down" pains. All these symptoms indicate deranged and weakened organs, and exhausted energies follow the weakened condition of the female organs as surely as night follows day. Save yourself from worse results by taking

BRADFIELD'S Female Regulator

The most invigorating menstrual regulator in the world. It relieves painful, profuse, obstructed or suppressed menstruation, nervousness, headaches, etcetera. Beauty of face and symmetry of form are the results of its use. Of druggists $1. Our book, "Perfect Health for Women." free.

GET INSIDE.

Your friends and neighbors in Tecumseh will show you how.

Rubbing your back won't cure backache.

A liniment may relieve but can't cure
It comes from the inside—the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills get inside—
Curing sick kidneys.
Here is proof that this is so.

Mrs. J. H. Welch, who resided in the southwestern section of Tecumseh says: "I wish to express my gratitude for the benefit derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. My back troubled me for a long time with a constant dull aching pain across my loins and when stooping it became very sharp. If I took cold it always settled in my kidneys and in the morning I was so lame and stiff I could hardly attend to my work. I used several simple household remedies but they did not bring relief. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills recommended so highly, I concluded to test their merits and got a box at C. A Wright's drug store. They took right hold of the cause and in a short time the pain was a thing of the past. I can now straighten after bending without any inconvenience. It is certainly a wonderful remedy."

For sale by all dealers: Price 50 cents per box, Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

The chief end of man depends on whether he is wanted to do brain work or run errands.

Cured of lame back after 15 years of suffering.

"I had been troubled with lame back for fifteen years and I found a complete recovery in the use of Chamberlain's Pain Balm," says John G. Bisher, Gillam, Ind. This liniment is also without an equal for sprains and bruises. It is for sale by all druggists. Tecumseh Mich.

It isn't so much what a man has that makes him happy as what he doesn't want.

Chamberlain's cough remedy aids nature.

Medicines that aid nature are always most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It allays the cough, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by all druggists, Tecumseh, Mich.

After winning a woman's hand a man sometimes finds himself under her thumb.

What is life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in constipation, headache or liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly re-adjusts this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25c at C. A. Wright's drug store.

It is always difficult for a man to understand why a woman doesn't admire him.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

Has world wide fame for marvelous cures. It surpasses any other salve, lotion, ointment or balm for cuts, corns, burns, boils, felons, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, chapped hands, skin eruptions; infalliable for piles. Cure guaranteed. Only 25c at C. A. Wright's, druggist.

Willing to Assist.

There was a worthy Irish member of parliament who was so generous that a request for financial assistance was never refused. But his checks had one little drawback—they were never honored. The shortcoming naturally in time became known, but it did not affect his popularity. A visitor to the district, hearing of the member's peculiarity, asked a leading politician how it was that public faith in the member was not shaken. "Why, sure, it is because he shows his willingness to assist but for lack of funds," was the reply.

A Diplomatic Official.

During the reign of Emperor Napoleon III he and the empress visited Normandy and had arranged to spend a couple of days at Evreux. M. Janvier de la Monte, who was the prefect, learned that the revolutionaries intended to hiss the sovereigns as they passed, and so he summoned the leaders of the movement and told them that he knew of their plot. "If you carry out your plan," said he to them, "you will get six months in prison. If you do not your friends will accuse you of cowardice and treason. As a way out of the difficulty I propose to lock you up at once until the emperor has gone." The conspirators accepted the terms offered them, and so the emperor was greeted only by cheers, as the revolutionaries, frightened at the arrest of their chiefs, had not dared to utter a sound. After the emperor and empress had gone the prefect went in person to release his prisoners, who had had such a pleasant time that they greeted him with cries of "Long live the prefect!" to which M. Janvier de la Monte, who was a man of wit, replied, "My friends, do not overdo it."

New York's "Diamond Rooms."

Only men and women who want to purchase an expensive set of jewels, say $10,000 worth or upward, get a glimpse of the "diamond rooms," as they are called, in the big New York jewelers' shops. Gems worth less than that usually are kept in show cases and examined in trays at the counters. But if a customer wants to make a larger purchase—a diamond necklace with pearl pendant worth from $40,000 to $50,000, for instance—he is shown into a parlor where he can examine the jewels more at his leisure and see the salesman weigh them on the most carefully balanced scales. These parlors as a rule are luxuriously but simply furnished and are convenient to the safes.

It is not an unusual thing during the holiday season for a salesman in a well established store to make three or four sales a day ranging from $12,000 to $30,000.—New York Press.

Soldiers and Weight.

These facts are given by two officers who conducted experiments to determine the effect of weight on soldiers in full marching order. The five men who volunteered as subjects marched a distance of fifteen miles and eighty-two yards. The different weights carried were forty-eight, fifty-nine and sixty-five pounds. With the first weight it was found that a man at a moderate temperature could cover the distance with ease; in hot or close weather slight inconvenience was experienced, which disappeared when the march was over, so that the men could begin the next day as well as ever.

The weight of fifty-nine pounds did no harm in moderate weather, but proved fatiguing when it was hot, and effects were felt the next day. When the men carried the third weight the ill effects were very marked.

Interested Generosity.

"That is very generous of old man Gotrox, paying for the musical education of the girl who lives next door to him."

"Yes, but he has stipulated that she shall learn it all in Europe."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Wakeful?

Sleeplessness Is a Sign of Nerve Trouble and Should Be Looked To.

There are three different manifestations of sleeplessness.

First, hardly to sleep a wink all night, second, to lie awake a long time before falling asleep; third, to fall asleep soon, waking up after several hours and then find it hard to sleep again.

They mean that somewhere in the nerve fibres, somewhere in the brain cells, somewhere in the blood vessels that carry blood to the brain, something is radically wrong, and must be righted, or the end may be worse than death.

To right it, take Dr. Miles' Nervine.

They indicate diseases which may lead to Epilepsy, Fits, St. Vitus' Dance, Nervous Prostration, Paralysis, Insanity.

"My husband had been sick for weeks, could not sit up to have his bed made. With all the medical help we could get he continued to grow worse. He could neither sleep or eat. Our baby girl was sent away, and all callers barred, because he could not stand a bit of talking. I read of a case of nervous prostration cured by Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. We began giving it to him, and in a few days he was able to be dressed. From that time he steadily improved. Nervine saved his life."—MRS. A. G. HASKIN, Freeville, N. Y.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, Sept. 17, 1904.

A large and enthusiastic delegation of Spanish war veterans of the department of the District of Columbia will start for St. Louis in special cars at half past 2 this afternoon, to attend the first annual encampment. Among the matters which will receive the attention of the encampment is the proposition to establish in this city a military museum for which a bill appropriating $250,000 was introduced in the lower house of congress last winter. Another is the proposition to build in this city a home for soldiers to which those who have served in any war shall be eligible. Another measure to be discussed is the Gillett bill, now pending in congress, providing for the discharge of all clerks at the age of seventy years, with the complementary bill to establish a civil pension list giving all superannuated public employes a pension for life. The advocates of this last hold that all public servants who are too old to work have a moral right to a support by the people even though they have had large salaries for many years and have recklessly spent all their money.

The hideous and lamentable war in the east does not in any way divide American parties. But it is quite noticeable that there has been during the last month a change in public sentiment here concerning the merits and probable outcome of the conflict. A good many think that Russia, in retreating, has fallen back before superior numbers and has achieved a strategic victory; it has also become obvious that the Japanese are not the only ones who can fight without flinching and die game. The Russian soldier seems to have met the bayonet onset with the same courage and even stoicism as his tawny enemy. It is doubtless this change of feeling, observable in London, which causes the indignant remonstrance from Tokyo reflected in the papers. It is believed here that the administration will render impartial justice in the case of the Lena imprisoned in the harbor of San Francisco.

Admiral Walker and the Panama Canal Commission have returned from that inflamed ligament, the Isthmus, for the severalth time. They seem to go and come back just as fast as possible. If the canal gets built as rapidly as these official projectors vibrate between New York and Colon, everybody will be satisfied. The Admiral announces that work is "being" commenced; that engineers are "being" employed; that sanitation is "being" established; that mosquitoes and yellow fever and cholera are "being" dealt with; that the filling up of the swamp in which Colon lies seven feet below the sea is "being" considered; that the torrent of the Chagres is "being" measured. He seems to avoid every variation of the past tense and deals only with the continuing present and the indefinite paulo-post future. Some of the commissioners declare the Isthmus a beautiful place, but none of them have, as yet, erected summer villas there, but hurry straight back to Washington, although each would get $15 a day more if they remained in Colon. It is feared it may be several years before the Admiral learns to apply to current conditions the predicates and auxiliaries was, had and did and "done been."

The last of the models that have for generations encumbered the corridors of the great white building on F street occupied by the Patent office have been carted away and stored elsewhere. The Patent examiners needed more room and so 40,000 patent models in cases of glass and steel will no longer be on exhibition. Most people think this is unfortunate and the Patent officials insist, that as their department is the only one in the government that is self supporting, receiving from patentees more money than it spends, it ought to be permitted to build with its surplus a spacious and magnificent building to correspond with the homes of the other departments and to be ample for its needs. Such a movement has been on foot for several years and it is probable that Congress will soon provide for the building.

Our public schools open Monday. The district has appropriated $10,000 to purchase gas stoves and filters to filter all water drunk by the pupils. The Board of Education requested this as the only way to rid the water supply of typhoid fever germs. In each of the 120 schools the janitor will filter 20 gallons a day. But as most of the children drink unfiltered water at home, it can hardly be said that the provision is prophylactic. It is believed that the prevalent typhoid does not result half as much from bad Potomac water as from the fact that many streets are torn up down to the sewers in the extensive work of "improvements" now going on in all parts of the city

Wrong impressions are frequently given to the public by writers, who in their eagerness to be picturesque and original, attempt to describe the social or political atmosphere in Washington, While President Roosevelt in his letter of acceptance says the "public work of the United States has never been conducted with a higher degree of honesty and efficiency than at the present time, and that wrong has been relentlessly stamped out." Mr. White, the Kansas editor who recently wrote up the President for a magazine states that "Washington is the hot house of petty grafting. Of the 34,000 office holders in the town not 500 look upon these offices as sacred trusts of the people." He intimates that most of the government clerks will take or accept anything they can get without giving an equitable equivalent. These two statements are somewhat at variance but a discriminating public will wash the super-abundant color out of both. The author of a recent book pitchforks Congress as follows "There are two classes of Congressmen—fools and rascals and rascals are much the better element. The government is merely the President and a very small coterie of men, the tools of other men more powerful." Of course this is an impressionist picture and not a high work of art.

THREE JURORS CURED

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Clebourne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some souse meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlin's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." CHAPTER XII.

Mr. Jeffrey bowed. He was probably sorry for his momentary loss of self control, and gravely, but with eyes bent downward, answered with the abrupt phrase:

"Well, then, I will say no."

The coroner shifted his ground.

"Will you make the same reply when I ask if the like forbearance was shown toward your wife's name in the conversation you had with Miss Tuttle immediately afterward?"

"Miss Tuttle was Mrs. Jeffrey's half sister. The bond between them was strong. Would she—would I—be apt to speak of my young wife with bitterness?"

"That is not an answer to my question, Mr. Jeffrey. I must request a more positive reply."

"There were no recriminations uttered. Mrs. Jeffrey had displeased me, and I said so, but I did not forget that I was speaking of my wife and to her sister."

As this was in the highest degree noncommittal, the coroner could be excused for persisting.

"The conversation, then, was about your wife?"

"It was."

"In criticism of her conduct?"

"Yes."

"At the ambassador's ball?"

"Yes."

Mr. Jeffrey was a poor hand at lying. That last "yes" came with great effort.

The coroner waited, possibly for the echo of this last "yes" to cease; then he remarked with a coldness which lifted at once the veil from his hitherto well disguised antagonism to this witness:

"If you will recount to us anything which your wife said or did on that evening which, in your mind, was worthy of all this coil, it might help us to understand the situation."

But the witness made no attempt to do so, and while many of us were ready to pardon him this show of delicacy others felt that under the circumstances it would have been better had he been more open.

Among the latter was the coroner himself, who from this moment threw aside all hesitation and urged forward his inquiries in a way to press the witness closer and closer toward the net he was secretly holding out for him. First, he obliged him to say that his conversation with Miss Tuttle had not tended to smooth matters, that no reconciliation with his wife had followed it and that in the thirty-six hours which elapsed before he returned home again he had made no attempt to soothe the feelings of one who, according to his own story, he considered hardly responsible for any extravagances in which she might have indulged.

Then when this inconsistency had been given time to sink into the minds of the jury Coroner Z. increased the effect produced by confronting Jeffrey with witnesses who testified to the friendly, if not loverlike, relations which had existed between himself and Miss Tuttle prior to the appearance of his wife upon the scene, closing with a question which brought out the denial, by no means new, that an engagement had ever taken place between him and Miss Tuttle and hence that a bond had been canceled by his marriage with Miss Moore.

Some hint of what the coroner contemplated had already escaped him in the persistent and seemingly inconsequent questions to which he had subjected this witness. But the time had now come for a more direct attack, and the interest rose correspondingly high when the coroner, lifting again to sight the scrap of paper containing the few piteous lines so often quoted, asked of the now anxious and agitated witness if he had ever noticed any similarity between the handwriting of his wife and that of Miss Tuttle.

An indignant "No!" was about to pass his lips when he suddenly checked himself and said more mildly: "There may have been a similarity. I hardly know. I have seen too little of Miss Tuttle's hand to judge."

This occasioned a diversion. Specimens of Miss Tuttle's handwriting were produced, which, after having been duly proved, were passed down to the jury along with the communication professedly signed by Mrs. Jeffrey. The grunts of astonishment which ensued as the knowing heads drew near over these several papers caused Mr. Jeffrey to flush and finally to cry out with startling emphasis:

"I know that those words were written by my wife."

But when the coroner asked him his reasons for this conviction he could or would not state them.

"I have said," he stolidly repeated, and that was all.

The coroner made no comment, but when after some further inquiry which added little to the general knowledge he dismissed Mr. Jeffrey and recalled Loretta there was that in his tone which warned us that the really serious portion of the day's examination was about to begin.

CHAPTER XIII.

The appearance of this witness had undergone a change since she last stood before us. She was shamefaced still, but her manner showed resolve and a feverish determination to face the situation which could but awaken in the breasts of those who had Mr. Jeffrey's honor and personal welfare at heart a nameless dread, as if they already foresaw the dark shadow which minute by minute was slowly sinking over a household which up to a week ago had been the envy and admiration of all Washington society.

The first answer she made revealed both the cause of her shame and the reason of her firmness. It was in response to the question whether she, Loretta, had seen Miss Tuttle before she went out on the walk she was said to have taken immediately after Mrs. Jeffrey's final departure from the house.

Her words were these:

"I did, sir. I do not think Miss Tuttle knows it, but I saw her in Mrs. Jeffrey's room. I am not especially proud of what I did that night, but I was led into it by degrees, and I am sure I beg the lady's pardon." And then she went on to relate how after she had seen Mrs. Jeffrey leave the house she went into her room with the intention of putting it to rights. As this was no more than her duty, no fault could be found with her, but she owned that when she had finished this task and removed all evidence of Mrs. Jeffrey's frenzied condition she had no business to linger at the table turning over the letters she found lying there.

Her cheeks were burning now, for she had found herself obliged to admit that she had read enough of these letters to be sure that they had no reference to the quarrel then pending between her mistress and Mr. Jeffrey. Her eyes fell and she looked seriously distressed as she went on to say that she was as conscious then as now of having no business with these papers; so conscious, indeed, that when she heard Miss Tuttle's step at the door, her one idea was to hide herself.

That she could stand and face that lady never so much as occurred to her. Her own guilty consciousness made her cheeks too hot for her to wish to meet an eye which had never rested on her any too kindly; so noticing how straight the curtains fell over one of the windows on the opposite side of the room, she dashed toward it and slipped in out of sight just as Miss Tuttle came in. This window was one seldom used, owing to the fact that it overlooked an adjoining wall, so she had no fear of Miss Tuttle approaching it. Consequently, she could stand there quite at her ease, and, as the curtains in falling behind her had not come quite together, she really could not help seeing what that lady did.

Here the witness paused with every appearance of looking for some token of disapprobation from the crowd.

But she encountered nothing there but eager anxiety for her to proceed, so without waiting for the coroner's question, she added in so many words:

"She went first to the bookshelves."

We had expected it; but yet a general movement took place, and a few suppressed exclamations could be heard.

"And what did she do there?"

"Took down a book, after looking carefully up and down the shelves."

"What color of book?"

"A green one with red figures on it. I could see the cover plainly as she took it down."

"Like this one?"

"Exactly like that one."

"And what did she do with this book?"

"Opened it, but not to read it. She was too quick in closing it for that."

"Did she take the book away?"

"No; she put it back on the shelf."

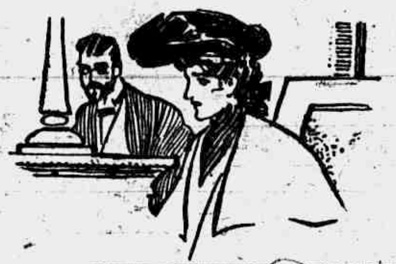
"After opening and closing it?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you see whether she put anything into the book?"

"I cannot swear that she did, but then her back was to me, and I could not have seen it if she had."

The implied suggestion caused some excitement, but the coroner, frowning on this, pressed the girl to continue, asking if Miss Tuttle left the room immediately after turning from the bookshelves. Loretta replied no; that, on the contrary, she stood for some minutes near them, gazing in what seemed like a great distress of mind straight upon the floor, after which she moved in an agitated way and with more than one anxious look behind her into the adjoining room, where she paused before a large bureau. As this bureau was devoted entirely to Mr. Jeffrey's use, Loretta experienced some surprise at seeing his wife's sister approach it in so stealthy a manner. Consequently she was watching with all her might when this young lady opened the upper drawer and with very evident emotion thrust her hand into it.



Loretta's testimony creates a sensation

What she took out or whether she took out anything this spy upon her movements could not say, for when Loretta heard the drawer being pushed back into place she drew the curtains close, perceiving that Miss Tuttle would have to face this window in coming back. However, she ventured upon one other peep through them just as that lady was leaving the room and remembered as if it were yesterday how clay white her face looked and how she held her left hand pressed close against the folds of her dress. It was but a few minutes after that Miss Tuttle left the house.

As we all knew what was kept in that drawer, the conclusion was obvious. She wished to see if his pistol was still there or if it had been taken away by her sister.

The temerity which had made it possible to associate the name of such a man as Francis Jeffrey with an outrageous crime having been thus in a measure explained, the coroner recalled that gentleman and again thoroughly surprised the gaping public.

Had the witness accompanied his wife to the Moore house?

"No."

Had he met her there by any appointment he had made with her or which had been made for them both by some third person?

"No."

Had he been at the Moore house on the night of the 11th at any time previous to the hour when he was brought there by the officials?

"No."

Would he glance at this impression of certain finger tips which had been left in the dust of the southwest chamber mantel?

He had already noted them.

Now would he place his left hand on the paper and see—

"It is not necessary," he burst forth, in great heat. "I own to those marks. That is, I have no doubt they were made by my hand." Here, unconsciously, his eyes flew to the member thus referred to, as if conscious that in some way it had proved a traitor to him; after which his gaze traveled slowly my way, with an indescribable question in it which roused my conscience and made the trick by which I had got the impression of his hand seem less of a triumph than I had heretofore considered it. The next minute he was answering the coroner under oath, very much as he had answered him in the unofficial interview at which I had been present.

"I acknowledge having been in the Moore house and even having been in its southwest chamber, but not at the time supposed. It was on the previous night." He went on to relate how, being in a nervous condition and having the key to this old dwelling in his pocket, he had amused himself by going through its dilapidated interior. All of this made a doubtful impression which was greatly emphasized when, in reply to the inquiry as to where he got the light to see by, he admitted that he had come upon a candle in an upstairs room and made use of that; though he could not remember what he had done with this candle afterward, and looked dazed and quite at sea, till the coroner suggested that he might have carried it into the closet of the room where his fingers had left their impression in the dust of the mantelshelf.

Then he broke down like a man from whom some prop is suddenly snatched and looked around for a seat. This was given him, while a silence, the most dreadful I ever experienced, held every one there in check. But he speedily rallied and, with the remark that he was a little confused in regard to the incidents of that night, waited with a wild look in his averted eye for the coroner's next question.

Unhappily for him, it was in continuation of the same subject. Had he bought candles or not at the grocer's around the corner? Yes, he had. Before visiting the house? Yes. Had he also bought matches? Yes. What kind? Common safety matches. Had he noticed when he got home that the box he had just bought was half empty? No. Nevertheless he had used many matches in going through this old house, had he not? Possibly. To light his way upstairs, perhaps? It might be. Had he not so used them? Yes. Why had he done so if he had candles in his pocket, which were so much easier to hold and so much more lasting than a lighted match? Ah, he could not say; he did not know; his mind was confused. He was awake when he should have been asleep. It was all a dream to him.

The coroner became still more persistent.

"Did you enter the library on your solitary visit to this old house?"

"I believe so."

"What did you do there?"

"Pottered around. I don't remember."

"What light did you use?"

"A candle, I think."

"You must know."

"Well, I had a candle. It was in a candelabrum."

"What candle and what candelabrum?"

"The same I used upstairs, of course."

"And you cannot remember where you left this candle and candelabrum when you finally quitted the house?"

"No. I wasn't thinking about candles."

"What were you thinking about?"

"The rupture with my wife and the bad name of the house I was in."

"Oh! And this was on Tuesday night?"

"Yes, sir."

"How can you prove this to us?"

"I cannot."

"But you swear"—

"I swear that it was Tuesday night, the night immediately preceding the one when—when my wife's death robbed me of all earthly happiness."

It was feelingly uttered, and several faces lightened; but the coroner repeating, "Is there no way you can prove this to our satisfaction?" the shadow settled again, and on no head more perceptibly than on that of the unfortunate witness.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Took Her Part.

"Why, Johnny, I am ashamed of you. How could you take little Ethel's half of the apple away from her?"

"'Cause, ma, I ain't forgot what you told me—to always take sister's part."

A Provident Mind.

He—I think I'll go and speak to your father at once. He can't do more than kick me out.

She—It seems a pity to risk it, dear, in that good suit.—Life.

Unfavorable Conditions For Study.

"Hazel came over tonight to study with me," explained Dorothy.

"And did you do much studying?"

"Well, we would have if there hadn't been so much to talk about."—Chicago Post.

An Impudent Indorsement.

During one of his busy reception hours, when President Lincoln was talking first to one, then to another, of the many who filled the room in the White House, a gentleman asked if any news had been received from John Morgan, whose Confederate cavalry were raiding Kentucky and Ohio.

"We'll catch John some of these days," replied Lincoln. "I admire him, for he is a bold operator. He always goes after the mail trains in order to get information from Washington. On his last raid he opened some mail bags and took possession of the official correspondence.

"One letter was from the war department to a lieutenant in Grant's army. It contained a captain's commission for him. Right under the signature of A. Lincoln the audacious Morgan wrote, 'Approved, John Morgan,' and sent the commission on its way. So there is one officer in our army whose commission bears my signature with the approval of that daredevil rebel raider."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address:

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

What's in a name?

Every thing is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago, discovered some years ago how to make a salve from witch hazel that is a specific for piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases, DeWitt's Salvè has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Sold by C. A. Wright.

If afterthoughts are the best why can't we have them first?

The stomach is the man.

A weak stomach weakens the man, because it cannot transform the food he eats into nourishment. Health and strength cannot be restored to any sick man or weak woman without first restoring health and strength to the stomach. A weak stomach cannot digest enough food to feed the tissues and revive the tired and run down limbs and organs of the body. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat, cleanses and strengthens the glands and membranes of the stomach and cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Sold by C. A. Wright.

Too many nurses make a specialty of nursing trouble.

Fearful odds against him.

Bedridden, alone and destitute. Such in brief was the condition of an old soldier by name of M. J. Havens, Versailles, O. For years he was troubled with kidney disease and neither doctors nor medicines gave him relief. At length he tried Electric Bitters. It put him on his feet in short order and now he testifies. "I'm on the road to complete recovery." Best on earth for liver and kidney troubles and all forms of stomach and bowel complaints. Only 50. Guaranteed by C. A. Wright, druggist.

Wives may be the weaker vessels but husbands go broke first.

A power for good.

The pills that are potent in their action and pleasant in effect are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. W. S. Philpot of Albany, Ga., says: "During a bilious attack I took one. Small as it was it did me more good than calomel, blue mass or any other pill I ever took and at the same time the effect was pleasant. Little Early Risers are certainly an ideal pill." Sold by C. A. Wright.

Men want the earth, but women are satisfied with a honeymoon.

From 148 to 92 pounds.

One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner, Marion, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says, "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Sold by C. A. Wright.

Life is worth living better than most men live it.

When doctors fail, try Burdock Blood Bitters. Cures dyspepsia, constipation: invigorates the whole system.

Sour Stomach.

When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich, sour stomach is likely to follow and especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not to freely of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let five hours elapse between meals and when you feel a fulness and weight in the region of the stomach after eating, take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the sour stomach may be avoided. For sale by all druggists. Tecumseh, Mich.

No one is fatigued after the exercise of forbearance.

Nellie Fuller, Denver—"My face waf full of pimples and blackheads. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea has driven them away. People hardly know me I am looking fine." 35 cents. Tea or tablets. John J. Orr.

A Costly Cure.

The hydrinus, or serpentine, called in Italy ranocchia, or frogskin, from its mottled appearance, a stone of a rich, dark green color, with shades and spots resembling a serpent's skin, is popularly believed to be a specific for rheumatism.

Camillo Leonardo, one of the earliest authorities to describe carefully the virtues of precious stones, thus quaintly speaks of it: "It restores such sufferers to health if they will stand in the sun, holding it in the hand for three hours, as it causes the discharge of all the poisonous moisture in the body." Great care, however, must be taken, he warns us, in using it, as it tends at the same time to abstract the natural moisture of the body.

Ground to a powder and taken inwardly, it is said to cure the stone and venomous bites, and in particular it is a potent charm to drive away serpents of all sorts.

Though soft enough to be easily cut or turned, serpentine admits of a high polish and is much prized for ornamental purposes.

Beauty and the Beast.

There was as much truth as boasting in the statement of John Wilkes, the famous London alderman, "Ugly as I am, if I can have but a quarter of an hour's start I will get the better of any man, however good looking, in the graces of any woman."

Of Wilkes' abnormal ugliness there was never any question. "The children in the street ran away affrighted at the sight of him."

And yet his powers of fascination were so great that women of beauty and fashion vied with each other for his notice, while handsome men of all courtly graces were neglected.

It was said that there were few beauties of the day whose hand Wilkes might not have confidently hoped to win. He married one of the richest and loveliest women of his time.

"Beauty and the beast, they call us." Wilkes once said to a friend, "and I cannot honestly find fault with the description."

Westward the orb of glory takes its way,
Wisconsin is the state, you hear every body say,
It's made itself famous by one great stride;
Rocky Mountain Tea has made its name world wide.

P. M. Duffy of Ashley, Ill., writes, "This is to certify that I have taken two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure and it has helped me more than any other medicine. I tried many advertised remedies but none of them gave me any relief. My druggist recommended Foley's Kidney Cure and it cured me. Before commencing its use I was in such a shape that I could hardly get up when once down."

Closing Out Sale.

In the HERALD of last Tuesday it was announced that the stock of Alva Spayde, both clothing and shoes, would be closed out and that he would go out of the clothing and shoe business.

The HERALD is pained to know that this is a fact for Tecumseh cannot afford to loose a merchant like Alva Spayde. A representative called on Mr. Spayde yesterday and he said, "I have been in business in Tecumseh 17 years and am now going to quit," and what Mr. Spayde says goes.

Every dollar's worth of stock will be sold and the people will get the benefit. The people in and about Tecumseh knew this and yesterday there was a good sale. Sorry, but all will be as he advertises.

"The Holy City."

When advertising "The Holy City" Gordon and Bennett do not announce, "trains of cars and tons of scenery," they assume public interest to be centered on that which is placed upon the stage, its transporting necessities and weight being of little matter. Yet in every theatre occupied by "The Holy City" company, the stage is first cleared of everything the house uses and the paraphernalia of the play furnishes the scenes so extraordinarily beautiful and so universally extolled. The large company seeks its hotels quietly, the theatre is prepared without ostentatious labor; there is no band and no parade, but audiences find that night brings such demonstration of sumptuous preparation as is rarely witnessed. "The Play's the Thing," quotes General Manager Gordon and his plays are the thing. The coming of "The Holy City" is eagerly anticipated; confidence and good will champion it.

Elmer Boyd.

Died, in Raisin, Sept. 26, 1904, Elmer, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Boyd, aged five months.

We have lost our darling baby,
He has bid us all adieu;
He has gone to live in Heaven,
And his form is lost to view;
Oh! that darling how we loved him,
Oh! how hard to give him up.
But an angel came down for him
And removed him from our flock.

CARD OF THANKS.

To the kind friends and neighbors who gave us their sympathy and aid, to the teacher, Miss Butrick, and scholars for their beautiful flowers, also to Rev. Sedweek for his kind words, we desire to tender our sincere thanks, praying that the blessings of him who said, "Bear ye one another's burdens," may rest upon them.

Society's New Game.

"Trail" has taken society by storm. It is something new, something different.

"Trail" as the name implies, is founded on a popular hunting sport, is played with fifth-three fine cards in four colors, representing a fox to be chased and caught, and four packs of hounds of thirteen each.

"Trail" has a constantly recurring interest for players as they perfect their playing from evening to evening, in marked contrast to certain recent boisterous games that bore the players at the end of an hour.

With the one pack six other splendid, new, copyright games can be played. Two Educational games and two games of Fun, making it suitable for all members of a family.

"Trail" can be had of dealers or sent post-paid, 75c gilt edge, plain 50c. Rules for the seven games free.

TECUMSEH BAND

Gave a concert on the streets

WEDNESDAY EVENING

Vincent Elias, an Italian, is their instructor and leader.

Wednesday evening the Tecumseh band gave a free concert on the streets, which they will continue to do every Wednesday night during the fall. The band has just organized, Wednesday evening being their first attempt in public and it was a decided success. It will prove a great benefit to the town and much credit is due Vincent Elias, the leader, for he certainly has met with great success in teaching the class.

Song Recital.

About 75 friends of the Misses Floy Freeman and Mary Mills enjoyed a rare musical treat last night at the recital given at the Universalist church. The selections given were all of the very highest grade of classical music and the liberal applause testified an appreciative audience.

Miss Freeman's voice is clear as a bell and very expressive and her past few years of training have given her a finish and technique unsurpassed by any one in this section. The range is varied as was shown by the ease with which she passed from the deepest religious to grand opera. Her accompanist was her former instructor, Madam Roblyn—McKillop, of London, Ont., who is at present a guest at Mr. Freeman's home. She is an artist at the pianoforte.

Miss Mills' years of study at the Sherwood Institute has given her also a most sympathetic touch, which brought out the melody in a charming fashion in each and all of her selections. Schumann's Romance was a dream of beauty.

We have to thank the young ladies for a most delightful entertainment and hope for a repetition soon. Below is appended a copy of the program:

Piano Solo, "Spring Song"—Grieg.
Songs, "Ninety and Nine"—Champion
"Dainty Dorothea"—DeKoven.
Piano Solo, "Marche Militaire—Schubert-Tausig.
Songs, "Herodiade" ("Il est doux; Il est bon")—Massenet.
"Spinning Song"—Parker.
Song "Summer"—Chaminade.
Piano solo, "Hark, Hark the Lark"—Schubert-Liszt.
Songs, "Ave Marie"—Cherubini.
"Two Little Irish Songs"—Lohr.
Piano solo, "Witches' Dance"—McDowell.
"Romance"—Schumann.
Songs, "With Verdure Clad" (Creation)—Hadyn.
"Heimlicue Grusse" (Secret Greetings)—Fieltz.

The boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. has secured J. R. Boardman, the international secretary, to deliver a stereoptican lecture at the Presbyterian church, Oct. 8. Admission 15 cents.

There will be a union meeting in the Baptist church Sunday evening in the interests of the Y. M. C. A., conducted by the pastors of the several churches. Subject, "Why should we study the Bible?" All are cordially invited.

A News Service without Parallel.

There is ample justification for the claim made by The Chicago Record-Herald that its readers enjoy every day in the week, Sundays included, a news service that is without parallel in range and completeness. In addition to the independent news facilities of The Record-Herald, that paper receives the complete news service of the New York Herald, the New York World and the Associated Press and when it is considered that its news columns are supplemented by all the special features so popular with its thousands of readers, it will be seen that The Record-Herald holds a unique place among the great newspapers of the United States.

ROUND ABOUT US.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Adrian VanCamp of Hudson, on September 15, an eleven pound son. After passing over their home for twenty-two years, the stork has at last deigned to stop and the delighted parents feel mighty proud of the event. Mr. and Mrs. VanCamp have an adopted son, Harry, sixteen years of age. Until a few years ago they were residents of Woodstock and Brooklyn. —Brookly Exponent.

Miss Tekla Farm is a charming vocalist in a grand opera company, that has been in Detroit for a week. A whole lot of young chaps who have never done anything but drag, would like to get hold of that Farm for a life term. They are not farmers, but would like to cultivate the acquaintance of this Farm, which is now devoted principally to voice culture. It is said to be the best Farm in the state, though when corn is raised, it is only a Farm of ten achers.—Adrian Press.

On Thursday of last week D. Evers of Rollin, while at Devils lake took a notion that he would like to try a long distance swim and just to test his staying qualities swam from Allen's landing diagonally across the lake, a distance of at least a mile and a half, without any stop for rest. He experienced no bad effects from his long swim and was not very tired either when he finished. A friend followed the doctor in a boat in order to be ready to render assistance if any was needed but the trip was made without any trouble and Dr. Evers says he is ready to try the same thing over again any time when the water is warm enough so he will not get chilled.—Hudson Gazette.

Battle Creek is to have all to itself at St. Louis. The date has been arranged for Sept. 29 and will be a memorable occasion. Speakers of prominence are to be secured. A large space will be reserved in one of the prominent buildings and in the evening a banquet will be served which will consist entirely of health foods and cereals which are manufactured in Battle Creek. It is said the movement was started by New York papers and is receiving much attention in the east. Dr. Kellogg will be asked to deliver an address as he is mentioned as the founder of health foods as the world knows them today.—Albion Mirror.

LITERARY NOTES.

"The last shall be first" in the October Atlantic, which vindicates its historic leadership in political affairs by two important articles for which it reserves its closing pages; the Democratic Appeal by Edward Shepard and the Republican Point of View stated by Representative McCall in which the writers explain and defend the principles of their respective parties.

Much curious information is embodied in an article entitled, "What the people read in China" which is contributed to the October number of the Review of Reviews by Chang Yow Tong. This article forms one of a series dealing with the current reading habits of foreign nationalities that is now running in the Review of Reviews.

WHY HE PUSHES IT

C. A. Wright recommends and pushes Mi-o-na, the dyspepsia remedy.

"It's a pleasure to sell a medicine when my customers come in afterwards and tell me how much good it has done them," said C. A. Wright, the popular druggist, to a HERALD man, "and that is why I like to sell and recommend Mi-o-na, the dyspepsia remedy.

"I have so much faith in this article that I am going to guarantee it in the future and will return the money to any purchaser of Mi-o-na whom it does not cure. That may seem rash, but my customers have said so many good words in its favor that I do not expect to have many packages returned.

"Anyone who has dyspepsia, whose food does not digest well, who has to take thought as to what he can eat and when, can leave 50 cents deposit at my store and take home a box of Mi-o-na and if the remedy does not regulate his digestion and cure his dyspepsia, he can withdraw his money on returning the empty box.

This shows great faith in the merit of Mi-o-na. It is really a most unusual medicine and the rapid increase in sales since C. A. Wright introduced it in Tecumseh shows that it does all that it claims to do, cures dyspepsia, regulates digestion and enables those who use it to eat just what they want and when they want with no fear of trouble.

Chrysanthemums.

With summer and sun behind you,
With winter and shade before,
You crowd in your regal splendor
Through autumn's closing door.
White as the snow that is coming,
Red as the rose that is gone,
Gold as the heart of the lilies,
Pink as the flush of the dawn,
Confident, winsome, stately,
You throng in the wane of the year,
Trooping an army with banners
When the leafless woods are sere.

Sweet is your breath, as of spices
From a far sea-island blown,
Pure your robes, as of vestals
Trimming their lamps alone,
Strong are your hearts and sturdy,
The life that in root and stem
Moulders and glows, till it sparkles
In each flowery diadem,
Nothing of bloom and fragrance
Have your peerless legions lost,
Marching in fervid beauty
To challenge the death-like frosts.

So, to the eye of sorrow
You bring a gleam of light,
The cheek that was wan with illness,
Smiles at your faces bright,
The children smile in greeting
And the dear old people say,
There are the self-same darlings
We loved in our own young day,
As, summer and sun behind you
And winter and shade before,
You crowd in your regal splendor,
Through the autum's closing door.

STOMACH DOSING WILL NOT CURE

Ask any physician if catarrh is a blood disease and he will tell you that it is a diseased condition of the mucous membrane and that it cannot be cured by blood purifiers, pills, tablets, or other forms of stomach dosing. The only sensible and scientific way of curing catarrh is by the use of Hyomei.

Breathed for a few minutes, four or five times a day, through a hard rubber inhaler that is so small that it can be carried in the vest pocket, Hyomei will absolutely destroy all catarrhal germs and cure the disease. Catarrh can never exist where Hyomei is used. It has a two-fold action, destroying the disease germs in the air passages and lungs and soothing and healing the inflamed mucous membrane.

C. A. Wright, one of the most reliable firms in Tecumseh is giving his personal guarantee with every package of Hyomei he sells, that it will effect a cure or he will return the money. He has had scores of reports of remarkable cures of both acute and chronic cases of catarrh by Hyomei.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs $1.00 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime; and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

GET INSIDE.

Your friends and neighbors in Tecumseh will show you how.

Rubbing your back won't cure backache.

A liniment may relieve but can't cure
It comes from the inside—the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills get inside—
Curing sick kidneys.
Here is proof that this is so.

Mrs. J. H. Welch, who resided in the southwestern section of Tecumseh says: "I wish to express my gratitude for the benefit derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. My back troubled me for a long time with a constant dull aching pain across my loins and when stooping it became very sharp. If I took cold it always settled in my kidneys and in the morning I was so lame and stiff I could hardly attend to my work. I used several simple household remedies but they did not bring relief. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills recommended so highly, I concluded to test their merits and got a box at C. A Wright's drug store. They took right hold of the cause and in a short time the pain was a thing of the past. I can now straighten after bending without any inconvenience. It is certainly a wonderful remedy."

For sale by all dealers: Price 50 cents per box, Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

"There was a Scot," said an Englishman, "who owned a fine orchard surrounded by a hedge. One day as he entered this orchard he saw a neighbor of his creeping on hands and knees through the hedge so as to steal some fruit.

"The discreet Sawney answered:

"'Bock again.'"

Legs and Oratory.

In the "Souvenirs de Mme. Recamier" there is a pleasant description of a scene which took place during her exile at Lyons in 1813. Almost every cultivated or fashionable individual who passed through that city was sure to be attracted to her house. Talma, the tragedian, happened to be giving some representations in the Grand theater and was dining with Mme. Recamier when the bishop of Troyes, better known as the abbe of Boulogne, was announced. This celebrated preacher, though devoted to literature and familiar with the works of the great playwrights, had never seen a play performed.

After dinner Talma was persuaded to recite, to the intense gratification of the abbe, parts from his principal roles. In return Talma begged the ecclesiastic to repeat some passages of his sermons. When he had done so, "It is splendid, monseigneur, as far as this," exclaimed Talma, touching the chest of the preacher, "but the lower part of your body is deplorable! Clearly you have never bestowed a thought upon your legs!"

Stanley as a Fighter.

A thoroughly good man was Henry M. Stanley, whom I first met in the Ashanti expedition. No noise, no danger ruffled his nerve, and he looked as cool and self possessed as if he had been at "target practice." Time after time as I turned in his direction I saw him go down to a kneeling position to steady his rifle as he plied the most daring of the enemy with a never failing aim. It is nearly thirty years ago, and I can still see before me the close shut lips and determined expression of his manly face, which, when he looked in my direction, told plainly I had near me an Englishman in plain clothes whom no danger could appall. Had I felt inclined to run away the cool, firm, unflinching manliness of that face would have given me fresh courage. I had been previously somewhat prejudiced by others against him, but all such feelings were slain and buried at Amoaful.—"Lord Wolseley's Recollections."

Irving Improved.

"Now tell me what you can about Ichabod Crane," said the teacher as she took up the "Legend of Sleepy Hollow."

The little pupil described Ichabod's personal appearance and concluded with, "And he carried home the palm that belonged to the parson."

The teacher gasped. "What are you talking about?" she demanded.

"Well, it said so in the book, and I'll find it for you," said the pupil excitedly, and she turned the pages until she found a certain paragraph which she triumphantly pointed out. And the teacher read, "It was a matter of no little vanity to him on Sundays to take his station in front of the church gallery with a band of chosen singers, where in his own mind he completely carried away the palm from the parson."

Umbrellas and Religious Services.

Umbrellas have always been intimately associated with religious services in Catholic churches. They were introduced in the church services of the Byzantine church, are borne over the host in procession and form part of the pontifical regalia as well as that of a cardinal. It is quite likely that the cardinal's hat is derived from the umbrella.

In Italian heraldry a vermilion umbrella in a field argent signifies dominion. The Harleian manuscripts have at least one drawing of an Anglo-Saxon gentleman whose servant shades him with a sort of umbrella having a curved handle and evidently not meant to close.

The Tone of Machinery.

Engineers judge of the condition of their machinery by the tone it gives out while running. Every engine, whether stationary or locomotive, has a particular tone of its own. The engineer becomes accustomed to that, and any departure from it at once excites a suspicion that all is not right. The engineer may not know what is the matter. He may have no ear for music, but the change in the tone of his machine will be instantly perceptible, will be instantly recognized and will start him on an immediate investigation.

Electricity Among the Japanese.

The Japanese understood electricity as an attractive force, of which they were very secret. The Greeks and Romans also knew something of the magnet as an attractive force known to modern science as an electrical attraction, something like the loadstone of the Chinese. They are supposed to be ignorant of its popularity, though in their secret records there are mentions of sacred forces which none but God knew and must not be tampered with by man.

SUICIDE.

Saturday morning while Leon Wilson and Jay Scofield were looking for hickory nuts in the woods on Warren Jones' farm, they discovered the body of an unknown man hanging from the limb of a tree. The body had evidently been hanging there for several hours as it was perfectly rigid.

Coroner Stevens of Tecumseh, was notified, the body cut down and taken to Smith's undertaking rooms. The following jury was impanelled, H. C. Wilson, J. F. Gilmore, Ed Harrison, C. M. Gove, C. S. Foote and W. L. Jones. The inquest was postponed until Monday afternoon, when the as follows was given:

The deceased came to his death by strangulation caused by his own willful act in placing a rope around the limb of a tree and thence around his neck and stepped off from an elevated position which caused the rope to tighten around his neck, causing strangulation and death.

The man was evidently of a respectable family. His clothing was good and clean. The coat and hat had been purchased at Delray. In the pockets were found a cigar case, knife, pipe and paper of smoking tobacco, purse containing two keys, small silver watch and three handkerchiefs, one a silk one marked with a letter S.

He was given a christian burial Tuesday at 11 a. m., the jurors acting as pall bearers.

He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some souse meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlin's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." CENTRALIZED SCHOOLS

FALL ENCOURAGES ITS ADOPTION

Much of His Annual Report Devoted to Discussing Question—Only Means of Giving Country Youth Advantages Equal to Those Offered in City.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 3.—The sixty-seventh annual report of the department of public instruction, issued by Superintendent Fall, is a most interesting and valuable document, discussing, as it does, a variety of important topics bearing upon the educational system of the state.

Most Important Question.

Prof. Fall says that the most important educational question at the present time is that which seeks to place before the boys and girls of our rural communities the same educational priviliges as are enjoyed by those of our cities and villages. It has long been the boast of Michigan people that any boy or girl in the state has a chance to pass, without hindrance or embarrassment, from the lowest grades of our public schools through the grammar and high schools, and thence into and through our colleges and university; but the report declares that we are at last awakening to the fact that this is true of only about three-fifths of the youth of the state.

Rural Pupil's Difficulties.

During the last school year there were 300,459 pupils in the city and village schools of the state and 251,439 in the rural schools. For any one of the latter to even enter a high school it is necessary that he shall leave his home and go to some neighboring city or village, which in turn involves non-resident tuition fees, board bills and numerous other expenses that are not incurred by the ordinary high school student. It involves also absence from home, with its attendant subjection to severe temptations.

Notwithstanding the fact that it costs more per capita to educate a child in the country than in the city, the country school affords only the rudiments of an education, while the city schools give all the benefits of grammar and high school, with the accompaniments of music, drawing, manual training and domestic science.

Solution of the Problem.

The declaration is made that it can be shown that the centralized school, with the pupils transported to and from the schools at public expense, will not only adequately and fully solve the problem of furnishing to the child in the country improved facilities, with better teachers for the first eight grades, but will also add the benefits and privileges of the high school grades, generally without increased expense.

It is admitted to be true that the rural high school will not afford all the advantages of the city high school, it is insisted that it is equally as true that the rural high school will furnish many advantages which, in the very nature of the case, cannot well be attained by the city school. These advantages lie in the direction of opportunities for nature study.

Prof. Fall takes a strong stand in favor of the centralized rural school. He says that when centralization is an accomplished fact for any community, the high school will invariably be there without extra cost or further effort.

The report deals also with the history of the various educational funds of the state, the development of the normal school system, the evolution of teachers' institutes, school grounds and buildings and the duties of school officers.

Soldiers, Attention.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 1.—The adjutant-general desires application from Michigan soldiers who served in regiments in other states, or in the regular army. The information is wanted for incorporation in a volume giving record of such service.

TRINIDAD IS FLOODED

Colorado's Principal Southern City Suffers Heavy Damages.

LAS ANIMAS RIVER OVERFLOWED

Every Bridge Gone—Electric Lighting, Gas and Telephone Service Knocked Out and Thirty Business Houses Under Water.

Trinidad, Col., Oct. 1.—A terrific flood has struck the city of Trinidad and the whole valley along the Las Animas river, devastating a wide section and causing a loss which will reach several hundred thousand dollars. So far as known, there was no loss of life, but several are reported missing.

Every bridge in the city of Trinidad is cut, the Santa Fe station is demolished, all of the railroads are tied up and the telephone and telegraphic service completely suspended. More than thirty city blocks in the residence and business portions were from two to four feet under water along the river.

The flood was caused by a heavy rain which has been falling for two days. At 8 o'clock Thursday night the storm assumed cloudburst proportions, and at 2 Friday morning the Las Animas river went over its banks. At 3:30 it was impossible to get within a block of the river bed at any point, and Commercial street was flooded for three blocks in the heart of the business district. Meantime the electric light and gas plants had been flooded and the city was in complete darkness. Hundreds of citizens thronged the streets on the edge of the submerged district, carrying lanterns and doing their best to provide for those driven from home, with shelter.

Warning of the flood was given when the river left its banks, by revolver shots and the ringing of the fire alarm, followed by the blowing of all the locomotive and shop whistles in town. Citizens upon rafts made of sections of sidewalks paddled through the streets, rescuing families which were in danger. The new Bacca hotel, a two-story structure just nearing completion at a cost of $20,000, on the river bank, was destroyed. The water then ate its way through fifty feet of ground to the Santa Fe depot, which was carried away. The Cardenas hotel, adjoining, barely escaped a similar fate, an acre of ground being washed away near it. The Rio Grande bridge at El Moro is out and the Santa Fe right of way in many places has been washed out. Railroad traffic is entirely suspended and business here is paralyzed.

The city is divided by the Las Animas river, which is spanned by six wagon bridges. All of the bridges were washed out and many residents were unable to reach their homes or communicate with their families because the telephone service had been wrecked.

No Breastplates to Be Used.

Rome, Oct. 3.—Some time ago the Russian government ordered 100,000 bullet-proof breastplates of the type invented by Signor Benedetti. The latter recently started for St. Petersburg to supervise the manufacture of the breastplates, but was stopped at Munich by the Italian firm to which he had sold the rights to manufacture and which objected to Signor Benedetti's intervention in the matter, and he returned to Italy. The firm had also undertaken to supply the Japanese government with 200,000 breastplates. Now that the Russian contract has been broken it seems that Japan wishes to back out of its engagement, proposing to pay the losses sustained by the firm through the abrogation of the contract.

"Closed" Sunday in Lexington.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 3.—Lexington yesterday experienced its first Sunday with closed business houses, and the restrictions were probably greater than they will be again. Late in the afternoon the city solicitor discovered that milk wagons and ice wagons are a "necessity" and exempt by law. Only a few milk wagons attempted to run and their drivers were promptly arrested. They were released later on the decision of the city solicitor. About thirty persons were arrested for violating the Sunday closing law.

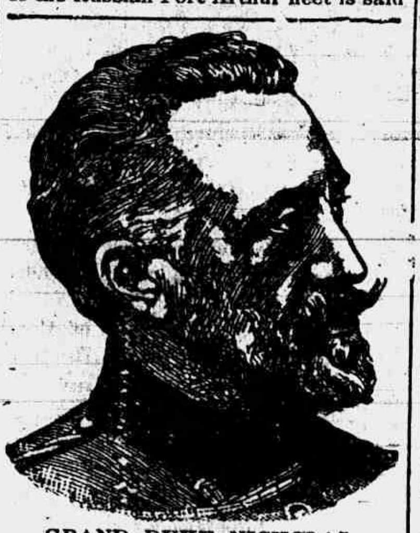
New Japanese Guns in Position to Destroy Fleet in Harbor—Rumored Jap Gunboat Was Sunk by Mine—Chinese Bring News to Chefoo.

Tokio, Oct. 3.—The Russians are reported to be desperately endeavoring to retake their lost positions, including Fort Kuropatkin, in the hope of restoring the water supply of Port Arthur. They are said to have repeatedly assaulted the Japanese, shelling from neighboring forts and batteries. The Japanese continue to hold the positions. Both sides are said to have suffered severely.

The newly mounted heavy Japanese guns are said to command the entire harbor. The position of the remnant of the Russian Port Arthur fleet is said to be precarious, and it is believed the vessels must soon emerge or be destroyed.



GRAND DUKE NICHOLAS.
Who May be Put in Command of all the Czar's Armies in the Far East.

Advices from Manchuria are to the effect that the Japanese and Russian outposts and scouts continue in close contact, south, southeast and east of Mukden. Skirmishes are occurring daily and an aggressive general action is expected soon.

It is believed that the general engagement will take place near Tie pass and that Gen. Kuropatkin is holding Mukden and positions along the Hun river merely to check the Japanese advance temporarily.

It is rumored that a Japanese gunboat struck a mine and sank south of the Liaotung peninsula. A portion of the crew reached an island and were rescued. The name of the gunboat is unknown. The navy department does not deny the report, but says that the department lacks confirmation.

Chefoo, Oct. 3.—Severe fighting, the Russians being the aggressors, occurred on Sept. 28 and 29 on the west shore of Liaoti promontory, near Pigeon bay, according to a report brought by Chinese who left Port Arthur on Sept. 30.

The Russians already apparently are attempting to capture the heavy guns which the Japanese have mounted in that vicinity. The Russians were in considerable force and they made several sorties, dragging field artillery with them. They were unsuccessful, however.

Met Death Under Train's Wheels.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 1.—Stephen Gaffke, living at 548 Garfield avenue, was run down and cut in two by a Lake Shorse passenger train on Dequindre street, between Canfield avenue and Winter street, Friday. The lad was on his way to school and was walking southerly when he stepped out of the way of a Grand Trunk freight going southerly on to another track and was struck down by a Lake Shore passenger train going north. His body was completely severed.

BLOCKED JAIL DELIVERY.

Ionia Officers Caught Prisoners in the Act—One Got Away.

Ionia, Mich., Oct. 3—The sharp hearing of Sheriff Fales and the prompt action of Deputy Sheriff Ed Montgomery prevented a wholesale jail delivery here Sunday afternoon. As it was, one prisoner got away and is still at large.

About 3 o'clock the sheriff was sitting in his office when he heard a peculiar noise in the cell corridor, where five prisoners were confined. He at once summoned Montgomery, who had gone home to dinner, and the two began an investigation. It was found that the bars had been removed from the ventilator shaft and that Gerald Price and Albert Wilson were in the attic. Montgomery, unarmed, went after them and succeeded in getting Wilson back in the jail, but Price ran to the window and jumped out into the alley, scaled a high board fence and ran.

By the time the sheriff could start in pursuit the man was out of sight, and though he was chased for four miles across the country, the trail was finally lost in the darkness, and up to midnight he had not been captured.

It is thought some of the prisoners had confederates on the outside who went into the attic and loosened the bars, as it is practically impossible to get them off from the inside. The plan of the men appears to have been to wait until night and then go quietly out by way of the attic window, making good their escape before their exit was discovered in the morning. Price and Wilson were doubtless in the attic looking over the ground and getting things in readiness for the general exodus when they were discovered.

FIRST VICTIM.

Duck Season Opened With Bad Accident Near Bay City.

Bay City, Mich., Oct. 3.—Edward Sargent, 16 years old, son of William Sargent, 314 Annie street, was the first victim of the opening of the duck shooting season Sunday morning.

With a companion named Woods he went to Wenona Beach and there hired a boat in which they proceeded toward the mouth of the Saginaw river. En route Woods proceeded to load his gun and in some manner both barrels were discharged, the contents striking Sargent in the arm, shattering it so that the member had to be amputated near the shoulder after Sargent was brought to this city. The victim's arm was tightly bandaged yet he was very weak from loss of blood before medical aid reached him.

Other similar accidents are looked for from the same place, as hundreds of hunters have been shooting recklessly in the vicinity.

MESSAGE TO FRATESNAL ORDERS

Interesting news from Cincinnati with local confirmation in Tecumseh.

The thousands of members of fraternal bodies in this state will be interested in the following message from John Theobald, a prominent Forester who lives at 1111 York street, Cincinnati.

Mr. Theobald believes in living up to the motto of his organization, "Fraternal Love and Charity" and believes that he can do no more charitable act than to tell his experience in regaining health after years of suffering.

Mr. Theobald writes, "For five years, I suffered with stomach troubles, having all the distress and misery that afflicts dyspeptics. I could not enjoy eating, thinking of the suffering that would follow. My food did not digest and although I took all kinds of medicines, I found nothing to help me, until I used Mi-o-na. Thanks to this remarkable remedy, I am now a cured man and believe that it made a permanent and complete cure."

C. A. Wright is local agent for Mi-o-na, nature's cure for dyspepsia. It is in the form of small tablets and sells at 50c a box. The remedy has made so many and such remarkable cures amongst his customers, confirming Mr. Theobald's statement, that he will give his personal guarantee with every box he sells to refund the money if it does not cure.

Do not suffer longer. Here is a cure that costs you nothing, unless it restores health. C. A. Wright takes all the risk and you do not have to pay a penny unless you feel that you have received much more than your money's worth.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and till the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies and by failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and the mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade, says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's cough remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. CHAPTER XIII.

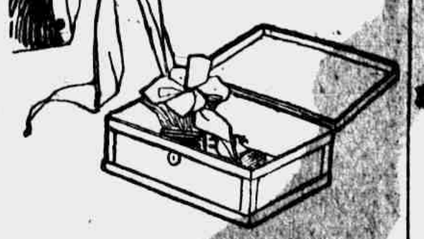
It was now late in the day and the atmosphere of the room had become stifling, but no one seemed to be conscious of any discomfort, and a general gasp of excitement passed through the room when the coroner, taking out a box from under a pile of papers, disclosed to the general gaze the famous white ribbon with its dainty bow, lying on top of the fatal pistol.

That this special feature, the most interesting one of all connected with this tragedy, should have been kept so long in reserve and brought out just at this time, struck many of Mr. Jeffrey's closest friends as unnecessarily dramatic; but when the coroner, lifting out the ribbon, remarked tentatively, "You know this ribbon?" we were more struck by the involuntary cry of surprise which rose from some one in the crowd about the door than by the look with which Mr. Jeffrey eyed it and made the necessary reply. That cry had something more than nervous excitement in it. Identifying the person who had uttered it as a certain busy little woman well known in town, I sent an officer to watch her; then recalled my attention to the point the coroner was attempting to make. He had forced Mr. Jeffrey to recognize the ribbon as the one which had fastened the pistol to his wife's arm. Now he asked whether, in his opinion, a woman could tie such a bow to her own wrist, and when in common justice Mr. Jeffrey was obliged to say no, waited a third time before he put the general suspicion again into words:

The telltale ribbon



"Can you not, by some means or some witness, prove to us that it was on Tuesday night and not on Wednesday you spent the hours you speak of on this scene of your marriage and your wife's death?"

The hopelessness which more than once had marked Mr. Jeffrey's features since the beginning of this inquiry reappeared with renewed force as this suggestive question fell again upon his ears, and he was about to repeat his plea of forgetfulness when the coroner's attention was diverted by a request made in his ear by one of the detectives. In another moment Mr. Jeffrey had been waved aside and a new witness sworn in.

You can imagine every one's surprise, mine most of all, when this witness proved to be Uncle David.

CHAPTER XIV.

I DO not know why the coroner had so long delayed to call this witness. What he said was in the way of confirming the last witness' testimony as to his having been at the Moore house on Tuesday evening. Mr. Moore, who was very particular as to dates and days, admitted that the light which he had seen in a certain window of his ancestral home on the evening when he summoned the police was but the repetition of one he had detected there the evening before. It was this repetition which alarmed him and caused him to break through all his usual habits and leave his home at night to notify the police.

The coroner asked him if he had seen Mr. Jeffrey go in on the night in question; if he had ever seen any one go in there since the wedding, or even if he had seen any one loitering about the steps or sneaking into the rear yard. But the answer was always no; these same noes growing more and more emphatic, and the gentleman more and more impenetrable and dignified as the examination went on. In fact, he was as unassailable a witness as I have ever heard testify before any jury. Beyond the fact already mentioned of his having observed a light in the opposite house on the two evenings in question he admitted nothing. His life in the little cottage was so engrossing, he had his organ, his dog, why should he look out of the window? Had it not been for his usual habit of letting his dog run the pavements for a quarter of an hour before finally locking up for the night he would not have seen as much as he did.

"Have you any stated hour for doing this?" the coroner now asked.

"Yes; half past 9."

"And was this the hour when you saw that light?"

"Yes; both times."

As he had appeared at the station house at a few minutes before 10, he was probably correct in this statement.

He wound up with such a distinct repetition of his former emphatic assertion as to the presence of light in the old house on Tuesday as well as Wednesday evening that Mr. Jeffrey's testimony in this regard received a decided confirmation. I looked to see some open recognition of this, when suddenly and with a persistence understood only by the police the coroner recalled Mr. Jeffrey and asked him what proof he had to offer that his visit of Tuesday had not been repeated the next night and that he was not in the building when that fatal trigger was pulled.

At this leading question a lawyer sitting near me edged himself forward as if he hoped for some sign from Mr. Jeffrey which would warrant him in interfering. But Mr. Jeffrey gave no such sign. I doubt if he even noticed this man's proximity, though he knew him well and had often employed him as his legal adviser in times gone by. He was evidently exerting himself to recall the name which so persistently eluded his memory, putting his hand to his head and showing the utmost confusion.

"I cannot give you one," he finally stammered. "There is a man who could tell if only I could remember his name." Suddenly, with a loud cry which escaped him involuntarily, he gave a gurgling laugh, and we heard the name, "Tallman!" leap from his lips.

The witness had at last remembered whom he had met at the cemetery gate at the hour or near the hour his wife lay dying in the lower part of the city.

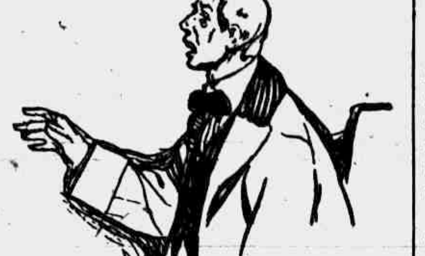
The effect was electrical. One of the spectators—some country boor, no doubt—so far forgot himself as to cry out loud enough for all to hear:

"Tallman! Let us have Tallman!"

Of course he met with an instant rebuke, but I did not wait to hear it or to see order restored, for a glance from the coroner had already sent me to the door in search of this new witness.

My destination was the Cosmos club, for Phil Tallman and his habits and haunts were as well known in Washington as the figure of Liberty on the summit of the capitol dome. When I saw him I did not wonder. Never have I seen a more amiable looking man or one with a more absentminded expression. To my query as to whether he had ever met Mr. Jeffrey at or near the entrance of Rock Creek cemetery he replied with an amazed look and the quick response:

A call for Tallman

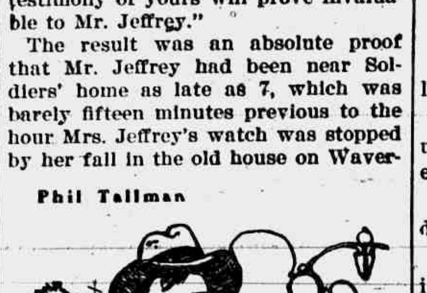


"Of course I did. It was the very night that his wife— But what's up? You look excited for a detective."

"Come to the morgue and see. This testimony of yours will prove invaluable to Mr. Jeffrey."

The result was an absolute proof that Mr. Jeffrey had been near Soldiers' home as late as 7, which was barely fifteen minutes previous to the hour Mrs. Jeffrey's watch was stopped by her fall in the old house on Waverley avenue. As the distance between the two places could not be compassed in that time, Mr. Jeffrey's alibi could be regarded as established.

Phil Tallman



When we were all rising, glad of an adjournment which restored free movement and an open interchange of speech, a sudden check in the general rush called our attention back to Mr. Jeffrey. He was standing facing Miss Tuttle, who had fainted away, sitting upright in her chair.

CHAPTER XV.

MR. JEFFREY'S examination and its triumphant conclusion created a great furore in town. What might be expected next? Something equally bold and reprehensible, of course, but what? It was a question which at the next sitting completely filled the inquest room.

To my great surprise Mr. Jeffrey was recalled to the stand.

Miss Tuttle sat in a less conspicuous position than on the previous day, and Mr. Moore, her uncle, was not there at all.

The testimony called for revived an old point which seemingly had not been settled to the coroner's satisfaction.

Had Mr. Jeffrey placed the small stand holding the candelabrum on the spot where it had been found? No. Had he carried into the house at the time of his acknowledged visit the candles which had been afterward discovered there? No. He had had time to think since his hesitating and unsatisfactory replies of the day before, and he was now in a position to say that, while he distinctly remembered buying candles on his way to the Moore house, he had not found them in his pocket on getting there and had been obliged to make use of the matches he always carried on his person in order to find his way to the upstairs room where he felt positive he would find a candle.

This gave the coroner an opportunity to ask:

"And why did you expect to find a candle there?"

The answer astonished me and, I have no doubt, many others:

"It was the room in which my wife had dressed for the ceremony. It had not been disturbed since that time. My wife had little ways of her own. One was to complete her toilet by using a curling iron on a little lock she wore over her temple. When at home, she heated this curling iron in the gas jet; but, there being no gas in the Moore house, I naturally concluded that she had made use of a candle, as the curl had been noticeable under her veil."

He had accounted for one candle in the house. Could he account for the one found in the tumbler or for the one lying crushed and battered on the closet floor?

He could not.

And now we all observed a change of direction in the inquiry. Witnesses were summoned to corroborate Mr. Jeffrey's statements—statements which it seemed to be the coroner's present wish to establish. First came the grocer who had sold Mr. Jeffrey the candles. He acknowledged, much to Jinny's discomfort, that an hour after Mr. Jeffrey had left the store he had found on the counter the package which that gentleman had forgotten to take. Poor Jinny had not stayed long enough to hear his story out. The grocer finished his testimony by saying that immediately upon his discovery he had sent the candles to Mr. Jeffrey's house.

This the coroner caused to be emphasized to such an extent that we were all convinced of its importance. But as yet his purpose was not evident save to those who were more in his confidence than myself.

The other witnesses were men from Raucher's, who had acted as waiters at the time of the marriage. One of them testified that immediately on Miss Moore's arrival he had been sent for a candle and a box of matches. The other, that he had carried up to her room a large candelabrum from the drawing room mantel. A pair of curling tongs taken from the dressing table of this room was next produced, together with other articles of toilet use which had been allowed to remain there uncared for, though they were of solid silver and of beautiful design.

Lordly Disraeli.

Disraeli once told a lady that two possessions which were indispensable to other people he had always done without. "I made," she said, "every kind of conjecture, but without success, and on my asking him to enlighten me he solemnly answered that they were a watch and an umbrella. 'But how do you manage,' I asked, 'if there happens to be no clock in the room and you want to know the time?' 'I ring for a servant,' was the magniloquent reply. 'Well,' I continued, 'and what about the umbrella? What do you do, for instance, if you are in the park and are caught in a sudden shower?' 'I take refuge,' he replied with a smile of excessive gallantry, 'under the umbrella of the first pretty woman I meet.'"

Michael Angelo.

Michael Angelo, while painting "The Last Judgment," fell from his scaffold and received a painful injury in the leg. He shut himself up and would not see any one. Bacio Rontini, a celebrated physician, came by accident to see him. He found all the doors closed. No one responding, he went into the cellar and came upstairs. He found Michael Angelo in his room, resolved to die. His friend the physician would not leave him. He brought him out of the peculiar frame of mind into which he had fallen.

When will people who can't write a rhyme that could be hauled through a rail fence without catching the slivers even know enough to keep their foolish gush at home and not add insult to injury by putting the poor dead people in verse after they can't help themselves? This pertinent inquiry is advanced by the Britt (Iowa) Tribune.

All that money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, I concluded to try it. Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's cough remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists, Tecumseh, Mich.

The families of Jetty, John, and Dale Peebles of Tecumseh, attended a reunion of the Peebles family, which was held at the home of a member of the family, Mrs. M. J. Merrilat, of Adrian township, on Saturday last. About 50 were present.

Miss Bertha Smeltzer of Tecumseh, had a fine display of hand-painted china at the fair. The collection consisted of 100 pieces. She was awarded first premium on the largest collection. The lady was also awarded 18 first individual premiums and three second premiums. Miss Smeltzer is a fine artist and will reach a high mark in her chosen profession.—Adrian Times.

Two accidents occurred to mar the otherwise perfect sport. Teachout driving Nat Gordon, and Nims, driving Bell Stoopes in the 2:20 trot, came together on the last quarter and both bikes were wrecked though the men were not hurt. In the 2:25 pace Jessie Mace, owned and driven by Kefuss, stumbled and fell throwing her driver fully 50 feet ahead of her upon the track. Ketuss was badly bruised and has a sprained limb, but got up and held down his horse until help arrived. Singularly neither horse nor bike was damaged.

The Detroit Southern excursion train ran off the track last Sunday a mile south of Trenton. No one was hurt but it delayed the train about three hours, giving the excursionists a little less than four hours in Detroit.

The marriage of Samuel White of Onsted, and Miss Anna Everheart of Clinton, occurred at St. John's Episcopal rectory in Clinton, to-day. C. C. Kemp officiating. Mr. and Mrs. White will be at home near Tecumseh until Friday when they leave for Cuba to spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Slayton invited the warehouse force with their wives to help celebrate the 21st birthday of their son, Elmer, last evening. It was a complete surprise to the young man. After refreshments were served, the men through H. S. Waring presented him with a fine chair and all wished him many happy returns of the day.

Chas. Waring, who has been working in Detroit for some time, was quite seriously hurt one day last week. He was riding down town on his wheel when a package which he was carrying on the front of his wheel became loosened and he got off to fix it. An automobile which he did not notice was coming toward him and the machine struck him on the head, cutting a gash on his forehead and loosening his teeth. He is getting along nicely but doesn't care to repeat the experiment.

The announcement of a performance of "The Holy City," is recieved with great satisftction. No play presented this season has made the impression credited to this great Bibical drama produced by Gordon and Bennett in even more sumptous manner than is their other conspicuously successful productions. The corterie of players, trained chorus and monster scenic equipment of this grand dramatic spectacle is everywhere praised for superior combination and in arranging for its appearance here, Manager Bradley has given his patrons a theatrical feast that will be long remembered.

Slayton & Son.

I wish to inform the public that I have taken my son, Elmer, into the business and the firm name will be Slayton & Son.

I take this opportunity to thank all my patrons for the business you have given me in the past and ask your support for the new firm and assure you we will serve you as faithfully as in the past.

I wish to balance up all my accounts now and ask those who now owe to favor me with a settlement by cash or note if not able to pay at present and oblige C. A. Slayton.

New Firm.

J. P. Slayton began business and shipping grain in Tecumseh in 1861. C. A. Slayton began working for his father, J. P., in 1865, in 1876 he was taken into the business, the firm being called Slayton & Son. In 1885 C. A. bought his father's interest.

Now the firm is again Slayton & Son. Elmer Slayton, who has been keeping the books for his father the last year, was 21 years old yesterday and today is a member of the firm of Slayton & Son.

J. E. Waring, "Uncle Joe," has been with the firm 30 years and H. S. Waring 20 years. Both men have all these years been valuable aids to the business and together with the other employes, makes Slayton & Son one of the strongest concerns in Lenawee county.

Barring Lucius Lilley perhaps C. A. Slayton has been more years in business in Tecumseh than any other man. He says Tecumseh is the best town in the state for business and the HERALD says that the reason for it being so good a town is because it is made up of so many men like C. A. Slayton.

The new firm is bound to be successful. Success to it.

SOLEMN SERVICES

Have been held over their Remains.

The remains of Mr. James Johnston, of Drumsaragh, were laid to rest on Tuesday in the family burying ground attached to Kilrea First Presbyterian church. In that crowded resting place there is no more notable occupant than the latest addition, or one who through three-quarters of a century better upheld the high character of his name and family. "Collector" Johnston was a most prominent figure in Kilrea and his intelligence and experience were acknowledged by all. He took a leading part in public affairs and was a shrewd, far-seeing business man. Mr. Johnston met with success in all his dealings, and he had amassed a very considerable fortune, yet it was always known that he assisted the deserving, pecuniarily and otherwise, and never oppressed the poor and needy. He was an old and respected member of the church under the shadow of which he now reposes, and he was a zealous and faithfull advocate of Presbyterism principles. The funeral was largely attended by reprensentives of all classes and creeds, all the clergymen and large numbers of the laity of the parish being present. The body was enclosed in an oak coffin, with solid brass mountings, and the undertaking was satisfactorily performed at the Royal Arcade Warehouse. Mr. Johnston leaves a widow and three children to mourn his lose, with whom widespread sympathy is felt in their bereavement.

Mr. Johnston was an uncle of Mrs. H. Armoi of Macon.

1881—SEPTEMBER 26—1904

The sad death of Miss Cynthia Bailey, who passed away a week ago yesterday in Albuquerque, New Mexico, is lamented by a host of friends. Miss Bailey was born in Manchester, Sept. 25, 1881, and has spent her entire life in Manchester. Since a young girl she has studied music and was quite proficient in the art.

Her graduating from the Manchester high school was delayed on account of ill health and some time after, it was thought necessary for her to spend the remainder of the winter in the south. In the early spring, accompanied by her mother, she left for Albuquerque, New Mexico, where on her 22nd birthday death released her, thus adding another fair flower to His list.

Throughout her long suffering, the same beautiful character was evident and she bore it all uncomplaining. The memory of her will always live in the hearts of those who knew and loved her.

Mrs. Bailey and brother, Mr. Freeman, arrived in Manchester Friday with the remains and the funeral was held from the house Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Miss Bailey was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Bailey, who with one brother, Arthur, are left of the immediate family, beside other relatives and a host of sorrowing friends are left to mourn her early death.

Those from here who attended the funeral were the Misses Florence Brewer, and Rae McKenna, Messrs. Will Hicks, Raynor Brewer, and B. J. Pulver, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Voegele.

ALEXANDER ORR.

Alexander Orr passed away Friday evening, Sept. 30, at the home of his sister, Mrs. Wm. Ross, with whom he had made his home for the past 12 years.

He was born in Ballymena, Ireland, Jan. 1, 1836, and came to Tecumseh when a young man, where he has spent the past 46 years, having lived on a farm which he owned in Raisin township for 12 or 13 years. He was a man of good habits, highly esteemed and will be greatly missed.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. Wm. Ross and family wish to extend their thanks to neighbors and friends for their kindness during the sickness and death of our brother and uncle, Alexander Orr, to the choir for sweet singing and to Rev. Jones for kind words of sympathy.

MRS. THOS. BANGS.

Mrs. Thomas Bangs of Macon, died at the farm home Saturday afternoon of cirvosis of the liver, aged 63 years. The funeral was held this afternoon at one o'clock at the house. Rev. Sedweek officiating. Interment was made in Brookside cemetery. She leaves three children, Brant, who lived on the farm with her, Louis, in Ohio and Miss Jessie, of Adrian, to mourn her death.

MRS. H. M. POMEROY.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mills attended the funeral of the formers sister, Mrs. H. M. Pomeroy, held in Adrian Friday afternoon. Mrs. Pomeroy was a resident of Ann Arbor, and has been in failing health for some time. The remains reached Adrian Friday morning, where they were taken to the home of her sister, Mrs. Leroy Mills. Interment in Oakwood.

MRS. RANSOM MILLS.

Mrs. Ransom Mills died at her home in Tipton Saturday night after two weeks of severe illness. The funeral was held in Tipton this morning at 10 o'clock from the house. The body was brought to Tecumseh and placed in the vault. Beside her husband and two children, she leaves a host of sorrowing friends.

ORME TUNISON.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tunison and family attended the funeral of Orme Tunison, a nephew of the former, which was held in Adrian yesterday afternoon. The little fellow was 8 years of age and died of heart trouble caused by diphtheria, from which he suffered a few weeks ago. Burial toook place at Sand Creek.

Card of Thanks.

I desire to express my deep thanks and gratitude to the kind friends and neighbors for their sincere interest and needed assistance during the illness and death of my husband. I thank especially the moulders, who aided me during my affliction. MRS. HARRY SHUE.

OPENING DAY

Of the

MONDAY CLUB

Guests are taken on a Journey through America, Germany, Italy and Japan.

The Monday club began their year yesterday with four pretty receptions which were called a "Little Journey to Japan." Each station on the journey represented some country studied by the club.

Beginning at Mrs. N. A. Howland's, where America was represented, the stars and stripes were every where in evidence and a real "Uncle Sam" in his familiar costume assisted in receiving the guests and entertaining them. Mrs. W. A. Ross, Mrs. Willis F. Smith, Mrs. Lynne Butrick and Miss Huey were the ladies receiving at America.

The rooms were filled with wild asters, golden rod and other American wild flowers and the dining room decorated with flags and the table with the late President McKinley's favorite carnations. The guests were here given a choice from seven kinds of American pie and some sweet cider and Uncle Sam insisted upon serving some "sweet cake" stars flavored with caraway and red, white and blue frosting.

The whole idea was carried out in American fashion, the guests coming and going from 1:30 to 3:30 and passing on to Mrs. Frank Clarkson's, where everything was German. Mrs. Stacy, Mrs. Albert, Mrs. James McCann and Miss Smeltzer were assisting here to extend German hospitality. Miss McKenna presided at the piano, some school children sang and Miss Mingay recited charmingly a German parody on Barbarie Fritchie and other selections.

There little dutch maidens in wooden shoes and peasant costume served the guests to coffee, bread, pretzels and sweet cake while the ladies of the committee, also in costume, presided at table. The dining room was lighted by candles and pictures of German artists and of German scenes gave beautiful effect of typical German home.

At Mrs. E. C. Brown's Italy was represented and Italian costumes with their bright colors made a gay scene inside, where delightful music rendered by Mr. Elias, assisted by Clarence Witherell and Mrs. Coller, helped to enliven the occasion.

The ladies serving in costume were Mrs. E. C. Brown, Miss Lizzie Smith, Mrs. Garland Gillespie, Mrs. Henry McClure. Mrs. Tefft and Miss Madge Hialey were also of the committee. Mrs. Tefft had the decorations in charge and pretty souvenir cards bearing the Italian flag were given. The flag of Italy also decorated the dining room and hung from the porch. A table of photographs of the places of interest in Rome which had been a subject for club study were also displayed.

The menu consisted of macaroni, cheese, salted wafers, olives and unfermented wine. Mr. Elias kindly furnishing the macaroni for the occasion.

Japan at Mrs. Faron Anderson's was the last station reached. Mrs. Anderson was assisted by Miss Florence Brewer, Mary Mills, Mrs. Chas. Voegele and Mrs. Cleo Hall.

The decorations were beautiful and artistic. The flag of Japan floated from the front porch and Japanese screens, umbrellas, fans and other ornaments of the Orientals were every where. In the dining room, which was lighted by Japanese lanterns, the guests were seated upon mats and cushions on the floor and served with rice and tea and presented with beautiful Japanese souvenirs. The whole effect was very pleasing and artistic.

The ladies were favored with delightful weather and a full attendance and the whole affair was pronounced a decided success and gave the club people and their guests an afternoon to be remembered as thorougly enjoyable.

The regular meetings begin next Monday afternoon at the club room used last year. A good attendance is desired as business matters of importance will be discussed.

"The Holy City."

It was with sagacious courage that Gordon & Bennett choose for their theme of this season's production the intensely dramatic history of the Apostle John. The epoch of early christianity filled as it is with allegory, spectacle and tragic events, naturally furnishing material for theatrical representation that can be relized from no other source. The manner in which the managers of the already celebrated play have taken advantage of their opportunities is fast becoming public praise, no greater play has ever been presented and the performance announced to take place here is eagerly awaited. Thursday, Oct. 6, at the New Bradley.

Saves two from death.

"Our little daughter had an almost fatal attack of whooping cough and branchitis" writes Mrs. W. Haviland, of Armon, N. STRUCK BY A CAR

And Seriously, perhaps Fatally Injured was the Fate of

MRS. JAMES CLARKSON,

Who lives in Macon. Lies in a hospital in Detroit in a Semi Conscious Condition.

Again the deadly practice of walking around the rear end of a car after alighting claimed a victim, when Mrs. James Clarkson, wife of a prominent farmer living in Macon, Lenawee county, was struck by downbound Woodward avenue car No. 1104 at the corner of Palmer and Woodward avenues, Saturday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock and received injuries that may result in her death.

The victim walked around the back platform before the car started and her view of the west side tracks was obstructed. She had no more than stepped from behind the car when she was struck, being hurled for a distance of several feet. The car that struck her came to a stop immediately and the crew moved the prostrate form of the victim to a nearby lawn, where she lay until Grace hospital ambulance took her to that institution.

At the hospital the unfortunate woman lies in a semi-conscious condition, hovering between life and death. She is unable to recognize anybody and keeps continually moaning from her intense pain. Her injuries consist of concussion of the brain, a nasty scalp wound, right side bruised, elbows bruised and internal injuries.

At the time of the sad occurrence Mrs. Clarkson was on her way to the home of her nephew, Eugene S. Clarkson, a well known Detroit attorney, 36 Palmer avenue west. She came to Detroit yesterday for the purpose of purchasing some merchandise and had not seen her nephew, who learned of his aunt's misfortune only late in the afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon word was received from Mr. Clarkson, who left for Detroit Saturday night, that Mrs. Clarkson was still unconscious.

Tuesday Mrs. E. Atkinson spread some strychnine on some cookies and put them in the cellar, the intention being to poison rats. Her young daughter discovered the cookies and ate one. Dr. Walwerth was called and succeeded in saving the little one's life.—Reese Review.

PHYSICIANS'S GOOD LUCK

Dr. Hart's fortunate experience of special interest to many in Tecumseh.

The happiest man in New England today and one who is receiving congratulations from his friends, is Dr. Philip Z. Hart of Laconia, N. H.

Probably no physician is better known in all parts of the United States than Dr. Hart, as he has been a great traveler and knows the best people wherever he has been. For years he has suffered with catarrh in its worst form.

Although he resorted to the latest scientific treatment and consulted many of his brother physicians, Dr. Hart finally said, "I might just as well have thrown my money in the river for I grew worse and worse. It is really due to my wife's good judgment that I tried Hyomei." The Doctor, in his emphatic way added "Thank God that I did, for Hyomei cured me completely. My wife and I will swear that Hyomei cured me of the worst case of catarrh that ever existed. I used to cough constantly at night and had a dropping in the throat, which kept me awake a great deal. I raised thick phlegm and was in a horrible condition. However, I am entirely cured, solely through the use of Hyomei."

C. A. Wright is the local agent for Hyomei, the famous treatment which cures catarrh without stomach dosing. A complete outfit costs but $1.00, extra bottles, 50c. He sells it under guarantee to refund the money if it does not give quick relief. Ask him to show you the strong guarantee under which it is sold.

LOCAL ENTHUSIASM.

On one subject Tecumseh people grow enthusiastic.

The increase of popular enthusiasm on the following subject is almost daily manifested by public expression and local endorsement. Read what this citizen says and discover the cause for the constant showering of praise which follow in the wake of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Henry Keyser, retired farmer and capitalist, residence in the southwestern of Tecumseh, says: "I am thoroughly convinced of the superior merits of this popular remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills. They deserve naught but the highest praise. Before going to C. A. Wright's drug store for a box I had a dull aching pain in my back which had annoyed me for some time and the secretions from the kidneys were unnatural and irregular. To say that I was surprised at the effect is putting it very mildly. In a short time the trouble disappeared. I never knew a medicine that worked so quickly and satisfatorily."

Kidney Diseases Worst of All.

How to Cure These Dangerous and Fatal Maladies.

No one can afford to let a kidney disease continue unchecked a moment after he has discovered its presence. This is especially true of Bright's disease, the most dangerous and fatal of them all. The treacherous manner in which it attacks its victims enables it to become firmly established before its presence is discovered.

Dr. Colwell's Egyptian Kidney and Bladder Cure never fails, and is guaranteed to cure inflammation of the kidneys, congestions, Bright's disease in its early stages, brick dust deposits, cloudy urine, pains in the back and kidneys, retention and incontinence of urine, bed wetting, diseases of the bladder and urinary tract, sexual weakness in both men and women, restoring to health and imparting to the genito-urinary organs renewed vitality and vigor.

"Your Dr. Colwell's Egyptian Kidney and Bladder Cure is a most excellent remedy as I know from my personal experience with it. I have had serious kidney and bladder trouble with considerable pain. This was a repetition of trouble a year back. I tried one bottle, and the relief was so great, I ordered two bottles of you by express, and am glad to say that I am all right now and recommend this medicine fully to any one suffering with these difficulties."

Truly yours, W. F. Black, Cleveland, O.

Disclaims Being Prophetess.

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 3.—Mrs. Ellen G. White, the so-called Adventist prophetess, addressed an audience of 3,000 in the tabernacle. She said she did not claim to be a prophetess, but simply a messenger sent into the world by God with a message God had given her for all people, and at the age of 77 it is still her message. It is reported she has settled the dissensions that have existed for some time among the Adventists here.

He fought the men, despite his injuries, until help arrived. The trio escaped. The fact that the bullet struck his watch before it struck him probably saved his life.

Costly Blaze at Perry.

Perry, Mich., Oct. 1.—The large new house belonging to F. A. Bunline, living two miles south of town, burned to the ground last night about 10 o'clock. The cause of the fire is unknown. The house had just been completed at a cost of $4,000. There was no insurance.

Better than pills.

The question has been asked—In what way are Chamberlain's stomach and liver tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is—They are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle and so agreeable that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then they not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and aid digestion. For sale by all druggists in Tecumseh.

Moreland, former commissioner of public works, charged with converting 1,735 feet of Medina curbstone to the use of Contractor T. J. Kennedy, brought in a verdict of "not guilty." The common council ordered an investigation into Moreland's books on May 12, 1903. BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION CURED BY THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and fevers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.

Thedford's Black-Draught is so successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong and drastic drug, but a mild and healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible harm.

The healthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.

Timely treatment with Thedford's Black-Draught removes the dangers which lurk in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the inroads of Bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c. package of Thedford's Black-Draught.

Original Cole's Hot Blast Stoves Here!

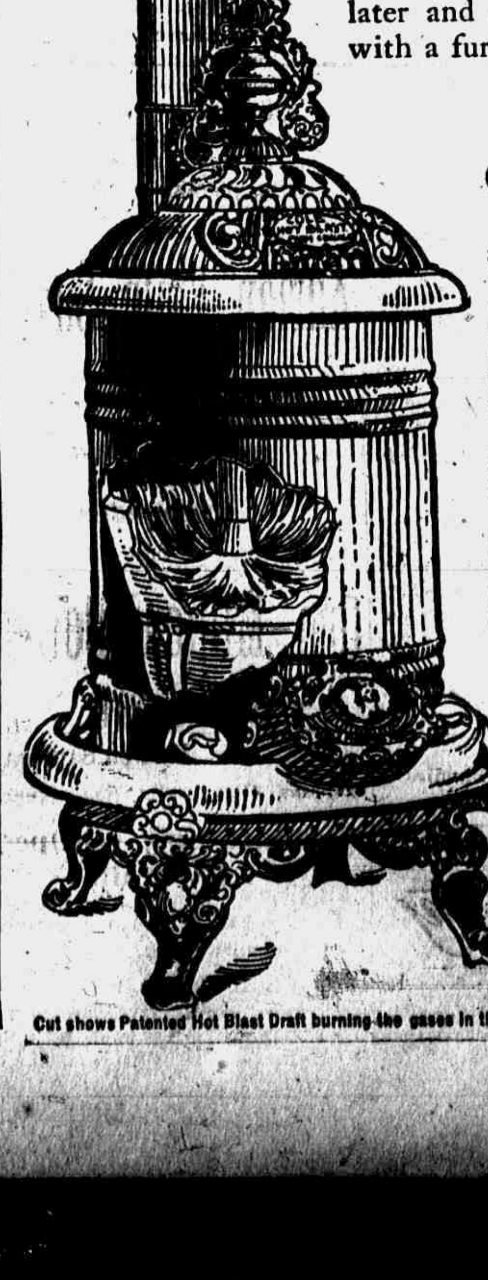
1904 Models of the Original Cole's Hot Blast are ready. This is the stove that burns the gas half of coal and saves the waste chimney heat of other stoves, saving one-half. Burns any kind of fuel without changing the stove in any way. Get one in your house now. There will be many a chilly morning and evening before real cold weather, and Cole's Hot Blast will warm things up and dry up the dampness with a few newspapers, a handful of kindling or a few coals. Read carefully the interesting description of this stove given below. It tells why Cole's Hot Blast Stove makes $5.00 worth of fuel do more work than can be had with $10.00 worth in any other stove.

FURNACE USERS.—By purchasing one of these stoves for use during the early cold weather, you can start your furnace two months later and save from one to five tons of coal. This will also prevent over-heating your house during the early cold weather which is unavoidable with a furnace.



Cut shows Patented Hot Blast Draft burning the gases in the fuel.

For Soft Coal, Hard Coal, Coke and Wood

Cost of Stove Saved in Fuel

In an ordinary coal stove, half of the coal arises in gas and quickly goes up the chimney. When you remember that gas is itself fine fuel, being used in all the large cities for cooking, heating, and lighting, you realize how much is saved if the gas doesn't escape, but is held in the stove and burned.

Your old leaky stove does not give you a warm house at night and is usually out on the coldest morning and your house is cold for half the day.

Notice in this picture of Cole's Hot Blast how the draft burns the gas. It discharges a blast of highly heated air over and through the body of the fuel, thus distilling the gas from the fuel, oxydizing and burning it before its escape up the chimney and saving one half.

Read the Guarantee

Cole's Hot Blast is air-tight and guaranteed to remain so. Imitations open at the seams and leak at the joints. Cole's Hot Blast is so perfect in construction that fire keeps all night. Both the gases and heat lost up the chimney with your old leaky stove are saved, and when the draft is opened in the morning the stove will burn one to three hours with the fuel put in the night before. No other stove does this. Fire, therefore, never goes out, and the rooms are kept at even temperature all the time.

Guarantee

1—We guarantee a saving of one-third in fuel over any lower draft stove of the same size.

2—We guarantee Cole's Hot Blast to use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner with same heating surface.

3—We guarantee that the rooms can be heated from one to two hours each morning, with the soft or hard coal put in the evening before.

4—We guarantee that the stove will hold fire with soft coal thirty-six hours, without attention.

5—We guarantee a uniform heat day and night, with soft coal or hard coal, lignite or slack.

6—We guarantee every stove to remain absolutely air-tight as long as used.

7—We guarantee the feed-door to be smoke proof and dust proof.

The above guarantee is made with the understanding that the stove be operated according to directions, and set up with a good flue.

Scientific Construction

The accompanying cut will give you an idea of the large sensitive radiating surface which responds at once to the fire. The heavy cast iron fire box and the cast iron lining and steel lining extending to the top, protect the stove where other stoves burn out first. The patented steel collar connecting the elbow casting to the jacket, patented compound hinge for the ash door, the patented ball and socket joint for the blast draft, and the patented smoke proof feed door are features which combine to make Cole's Original Hot Blast a success where imitation stoves which cannot use these patented features are failures.

The Cost of the Stove and the Fuel to Run It This Winter will be Less than Your Last Winter's Fuel Bill. BUY NOW.

Even Heat Day and Night. Fire Never Out.

Caution: The name "Cole's Original Hot Blast from Chicago" will be found on the feed door of each stove. Be sure and get the Original Hot Blast.

BRING ABOUT PEACE

Peace Congress Will Appeal to Russian and Japanese Emperors.

POWERS ALSO TO BE URGED

To Appeal to Warring Nations to End Conflict—English Delegate Considers English-Japanese Treaty a Blunder—Hindoo Denounces Christianity.

Boston, Oct. 6.—Resolutions intended to bring about, if possible, an end to the Russo-Japanese war were adopted Wednesday at the meeting of the International Peace Congress. By the terms of these resolutions, the congress will address an appeal to the emperors of Russia and Japan to terminate the struggle, and each of the powers signatory to the Hague convention will be formally requested to press upon Russia and Japan the importance of putting an end to the present war.

It was also voted that the Russians, referring to friendly intervention by the powers, be presented to President Roosevelt by a committee of the congress. The resolutions were passed after a lengthy discussion, in which many of the most prominent foreign delegates participated.

Treaty a Blunder.

During the discussion Delegate W. R. Cremer of England took occasion, while favoring the declarations, to characterize the treaty between England and Japan as a blunder, and to charge that this treaty doubtless had much to do in bringing on the Russo-Japanese war. Thereupon Great Britain's policy of being a party to the treaty was vigorously defended by Col. Bryce Jones, M. P.

The deliberate proceedings of the day took on an added interest from the fact that a leading Hindoo, Baba Bharati, was introduced to speak as the representative of his country. The most intense applause that has been evoked thus far during the convention greeted the Hindoo, who, dressed in the costume of his people, delivered a passionate speech in excellent English, denouncing on the one hand the attempt of christianity to thrust christianity upon India as its religion, and the policy of the English people of India of invading the Thibet.

It was voted during the session to refer the subject of a reconciliation of France and Germany on the Alsace-Lorraine question to the Berne bureau for study by a special committee.

Sells, the Showman, is Dead.

Columbus, O., Oct. 6.—Peter Sells, the well-known showman, died last night at his home here of apoplexy, aged 55 years. He was stricken six weeks ago. He, with his brothers, Allen, Ephriam and Lewis, established the Sells Brothers' shows in 1872, the aggregation traveling across the country in wagons. He had been in the show business continuously since up to the time of his death, retaining his interest when the Sells Brothers show was consolidated with the Forepaugh shows in 1896. Only one of the four brothers, Lewis Sells, survives.

Another Revolution.

Cape Haitien, Haiti, Oct. 6.—Special advices from Monte Cristi, republic of Santo Domingo, announces that Gen. Candelaria de las Rosas, with fifty men, revolted against the government Sept. 26 in favor of Isadoro Jimenes and started for the interior. The Dominican gunboat Presidente, with 150 troops on board, has sailed for Barahona, on the south coast of Santo Domingo. Ramon Cacores, vice-president of Santo Domingo, has resigned.

Mystery at Laporte, Ind.

Laporte, Ind., Oct. 6.—Mystery surrounds the discovery of the partly decomposed body of a well-dressed stranger on a sandbar in the Kankakee river near LaCrosse, Laporte county. A bullet hole in the back of the head indicates murder. The body is that of a middle-aged man, weighing 188 pounds, 5 feet 10 inches tall, and of dark complexion. The authorities are investigating.

Broke into his house.

M. Le Quinn of Cavendish, Vt., was robbed of his customary health by invasion of chronic constipation. When Dr. King's New Life Pills broke into his house, his trouble was arrested and he is entirely cured. They're guaranteed to cure, 25c at C. A. Wright's drug store.

WARSHIPS CAME OUT

Naval Battle Reported as Having Occurred Off Port Arthur.

ST. PETERSBURG IS STIRRED

Much Discussion as to Who Shall Command When Reorganization of Army Takes Place—Kuropatkin's Friends Hope to Save Him.

London, Oct. 6.—A news agency late last night sent out a dispatch, dated Tokio, Oct. 5, saying: "It is reported that the Russian squadron made a sortie from Port Arthur today and that a great naval battle occurred." No details are given.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 6.—A great deal of uncertainty exists over momentous changes, with which the tongues of everybody have been busy in St. Petersburg ever since the formal announcement of the formation of a second Manchurian army. The delay in the announcement of a commander-in-chief of the Manchurian armies, which has been daily expected, is now said to be due to Emperor Nicholas' intention to wait until Viceroy Alexieff shall have started for St. Petersburg.

In the best informed quarters the belief is expressed that Alexieff's return does not mean his effacement, but that on the contrary the emperor will take occasion to bestow upon him unmistakable marks of his royal favor. His friends assert that he will become the emperor's adviser not only on far eastern affairs, but on all questions of foreign policy.

Papers Favor Kuropatkin.

As for the post of commander-in-chief of the Manchurian armies, Gen. Kuropatkin's friends seem more encouraged by the outlook. The Novoe Vremya, the Sviet and the Viedomosti and other papers are conducting a regular and outspoken campaign in his favor, on the general ground that he has acquitted himself splendedly with the forces at his command and therefore deserves well of the emperor and country and that his supercession would shake the confidence of the army and be a virtual rebuke, if not disgrace. These arguments, it is known, have been placed before his majesty, and those who pretend to know say the emperor was impressed and may possibly reconsider his decision to send Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaievitch. It is suggested that a way out of the dilemma may be found by nominating Gen. Kuropatkin as commander-in-chief as soon as Alexieff departs from the far east, postponing the sending of Grand Duke Nicholas until the second army is actually on the ground.

Among many stories afloat, it is stated that the formation of a third army is now contemplated.

WORD FROM STOESSEL.

Says That Russians Make Sorties Occasionally, Driving Back Japs.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 6.—Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel says the Japanese losses were 10,000 during the attacks on Port Arthur from Sept. 19 to Sept. 22. He reports that no incident occurred from Sept. 23 to Sept. 30, excepting outpost skirmishing.

Gen. Stoessel's dispatch, which was dated Sept. 30, says in part:

"We make sorties frequently, driving back the enemy. The spirit of the troops is heroic. Wounded men are every day returning from the hospitals to the ranks. We pray to God for victory and for the health of your majesty."

Gen. Stoessel's report created great rejoicing and revived the hope in his ability to defend the fortress. After the failure of the storming operations, the war office here would not be surprised if the Japanese changed their plan to a regular engineering siege. No fresh news has been received from Mukden. According to the war office's information quiet continues there.

Ran Into Burning Trestle.

Washington, Oct. 6.—A passenger train on the Augusta Southern railroad ran into a burning trestle near Mitchell, Ga., fifty-nine miles from Augusta. One man was killed and eight others injured. The 60-foot trestle was entirely destroyed by fire and the fender, compartment car and two coaches also were burned. The mail and express matter were saved.

BOLTS FLEW THICK

Lightning Burned Score of Buildings in Shiawassee.

OWOSSO ELKS' TEMPLE STRUCK

Barns Innumerable Were Consumed—Fluid Played Tag About Home of Owosso Citizens—Town Was Illuminated.

Owosso, Mich., Oct. 5.—From reports steadily coming in, it is evident that lightning during the storm last evening did at least $50,000 worth of damage in Shiawassee county. It is estimated that fifteen or twenty barns within a radius of ten miles from this city were destroyed by fire. Among them were the barns of William H. Smith of Rush township; Henry Bellott, northeast of Corunna; Frank Alchin of Middlebury; John Carmody of Rush, and James Trumbull of Caledonia. The new Elks' temple in this city and the residence of Rev. C. E. Benson, pastor of the Asbury M. E. church, were both somewhat damaged by the lightning.

At the residence of Frank Seeley a bolt literally played tag through the house. The chimney was knocked down, a large hole was torn in the ceiling of the parlor and in every room in the house articles were knocked from shelves and pictures from the walls. The lightning finally escaped by tearing a hole through the side of the house near the kitchen sink. Mrs. Seeley was standing by the sink and was rendered unconscious, but soon recovered.

At one time the city of Owosso was red with the reflections on the sky from the burning houses and barns.

Bicycles Worse Than Autos.

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 5—At the last session of the common council a resolution was introduced to place plain-clothes policemen about the city to watch for automobile scorchers, but it was laid over for a week. Chief of Police Farrington declared that bicycles are more of a nuisance than autos and did not seem to enthuse over the idea of arresting owners of automobiles. Bicyclists caught riding without lights or scorching in Battle Creek have been promptly fined in the recorder's court, but two autoists who cut didos in the lawn and around the fountain of McCamly park Wednesday have not yet been required to answer the warrants lying on the recorder's table. Instead of passing the resolution a new way to catch the cyclists will probably be introduced.

New Trial Is Ordered.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 5.—The supreme court has reversed the judgment and ordered a new trial in the case of the supreme tent, Knights of the Maccabees of the World, vs. Port Huron Savings bank. The court below gave the supreme tent a judgment for $56,000 on account of the defalcation of Supreme Treasurer Charles D. Thompson, whom it was claimed paid the society's money to the bank in payment of his personal debts.

Died In a Wagon.

Jackson, Mich., Oct. 5.—Last evening while Mrs. John Reynolds, aged 21 years, was driving a blind horse from her home at Summit to this city, and holding a seven-months-old baby in her arms, her grandfather, William Purdy, aged 87 years, who was riding with her, dropped dead in the wagon. In this predicament the young woman drove three miles to her grandfather's home in this city.

Young Woman Disappears.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 5.—Nettie Konoski, a young woman who came to Detroit from Alpena to work, has completely disappeared, so far as her relatives and friends in this city and Alpena are concerned, and they have sought the aid of the police to ascertain her whereabouts. She had quite a sum of money in her purse the day she disappeared.

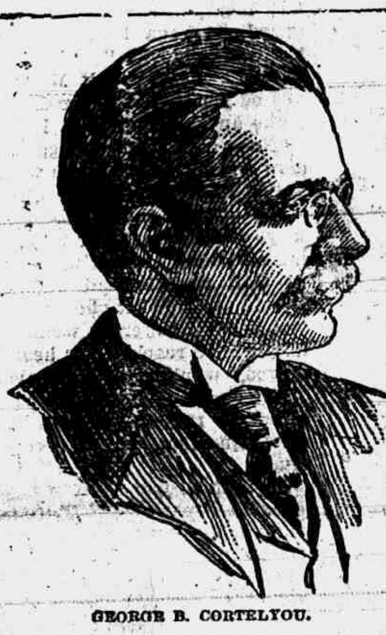
PAYNE'S SUCCESSOR.

Mr. George Cortelyou Will Again Become Member of Cabinet.

Washington, Oct. 5.—In succession to Mr. Payne, George Bruce Cortelyou, former secretary of the department of commerce and labor and now chairman of the Republican national committee, will become postmaster-general.



GEORGE B. CORTELYOU.

Mr. Cortelyou's appointment as head of the postoffice department was determined on several months ago by President Roosevelt, when Mr. Payne indicated to the president his desire to retire from the department on account of the precarious state of his health. Mr. Payne would have resigned the portfolio long ago had it not been for the then pending investigation of the affairs of the department. He felt, however, and said many times to his friends, that he could not relinquish the duties of the office while the investigation was pending, and expressed his determination to carry the investigation to a conclusion. The intense mental and physical strain incident to the direction of the postal inquiry seriously undermined his strength.

It is the understanding now that Mr. Cortelyou will assume the duties of postmaster-general as soon as he conveniently can after the close of the pending campaign.

Many New Ships For Japs.

San Francisco, Oct. 6.—From information received in San Francisco by prominent Japanese, it is stated that the Japanese government has determined to place contracts at once for some twenty warships, to be completed at as early a date as possible. It is further stated that the greater number of these ships are to be constructed in this country and that several will be built in San Francisco.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and till the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies and by failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and the mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

CHAPTER XV.

The next witness was a member of Mr. Jeffrey's own household. Chloe was her name, and her good black face worked dolefully as she admitted that the package of candles which the grocer boy had left on the kitchen table with the rest of the groceries on the morning of that dreadful day when "missis" killed herself was not to be found when she came to put the things away. She had looked and looked for it, but it was not there.

Further inquiry brought out the fact that but one other member of the household was in the kitchen when these groceries were delivered and that this person gave a great start when the boy shouted out, "The candles there were bought by Mr. Jeffrey!" and hurried over to the table and handled the packages, although Chloe did not see her carry any of them away.

"And who was this person?"

"Miss Tuttle."

When the murmur which had hailed this startling turn in the inquiry had subsided the coroner drew a deep breath and, with an uneasy glance at the jury, who, to a man, seemed to wish themselves well out of this job, he dismissed the cook and summoned a fresh witness.

Her name made the people stare.

"Miss Nixon."

Miss Nixon! That was a name well known in Washington; almost as well known as that of Uncle David or even of Mr. Tallman. What could this quaint and characteristic little body have to do with this case of doubtful suicide? A word will explain. She was the person who on the day before had made that loud exclamation when the box containing the ribbon and the pistol had been disclosed to the jury.

As her fussy little figure came forward some nudged and some laughed, possibly because her bonnet was not of this year's style, possibly because her manner was peculiar and as full of oddities as her attire. But they did not laugh long, for the little lady's look was appealing, if not distressed. The fact that she was generally known to possess one of the largest bank accounts in the District made any marked show of disrespect toward her a matter of poor judgment, if not of questionable taste.

The box in the coroner's hand prepared us for what was before us. As he opened it and disclosed again the dainty white bow which, as I have before said, was of rather a fantastic make, the whole roomful of eager spectators craned forward and were startled enough when he asked:

"Did you ever see a bow like this before?"

Her answer came in the faintest of tones.

"Yes; I have one like it, very like it, so like it that yesterday I could not suppress an exclamation on seeing this one."

"Where did you get the one you have? Who fashioned it, I mean, or tied it for you, if that is what I ought to say?"

"It was tied for me by—Miss Tuttle. She is a friend of mine, or was, and a very good one, and one day while watching me struggling with a piece of ribbon which I wanted made into a bow she took it from my hand and tied a knot for which I was very much obliged to her. It was very pretty."

"And like this?"

"Almost exactly, sir."

"Have you that knot with you?"

She had.

"Will you show it to the jury?"

Heaving a sigh which she had much better have suppressed, she opened a little bag she carried at her side and took out a pink satin bow. It had been tied by a deft hand, and more than one pair of eyes fell significantly at sight of it.

Amid a silence which was intense two or three other witnesses were called to prove that Miss Tuttle's skill in bow tying was exceptional and was often made use of not only by members of her household, but, as in Miss Nixon's case, by outsiders, the special style shown in the one under consideration being the favorite.

During all this I kept my eyes on Mr. Jeffrey. When finally several persons of both sexes were brought forward to prove that his attentions to Miss Tuttle had once been sufficiently marked for an announcement of their engagement to be daily looked for, he let his head fall forward on his breast as if the creeping horror which had seized him was too much for his brain if not for his heart. The final blow was struck when the man whom I had myself seen in Alexandria testified to the contretemps which had occurred in Atlantic City, an additional point being given to it by the repetition of some old conversation, raked up for the purpose, by which an effort was made to prove that Miss Tuttle found it hard to forgive injuries even from those nearest and dearest to her. This subject might have been prolonged, but some of the jury objected, and the time being now ripe for the great event of the day the name of the lady herself was called.

After so significant a preamble the mere utterance of Miss Tuttle's name had almost the force of an accusation, but the dignity with which she rose calmed all minds and subdued every expression of feeling. She faltered only when by chance she glanced at the shrinking figure of Francis Jeffrey.

Her name, which she uttered without emphasis and yet in a way to arouse attention, sank into all hearts with more or less disturbance.

"Alice Cora Tuttle!" How in days gone by, and not so long gone by either, those three words had aroused the enthusiasm of many a gallant man and inspired the toast at many a gallant feast! They had their charm yet if the heightened color observable on many a cheek there was a true index to the quickening heart below.

"How are you connected with the deceased Mrs. Jeffrey?"

"I am the child of her mother by a former husband. We were half sisters."

No bitterness in this statement, only an infinite sadness. The coroner continued to question her. He asked for an account of her childhood and forced her to lay bare the nature of her relations with her sister. But little was gained by this, for their relations seemed to have been of a sympathetic character up to the time of Veronica's return from school, when they changed somewhat, but how or why Miss Tuttle was naturally averse to saying. Indeed she almost refused to do so, and the coroner, feeling his point gained more by this refusal than by any admission she might have made, did not press this subject, but passed on to what interested us more—the various unexplained actions on her part which pointed toward crime.

His first inquiry was in reference to the conversation held between her and Mr. Jeffrey at the time he visited her room. We had listened to his account of it, and now we wished to hear hers. But the cue which had been given her by this very account had been invaluable to her, and her testimony naturally coincided with his. We found ourselves not an inch advanced. They had talked of her sister's follies, and she had advised patience, and that was all she could say on the subject—all she would say, as we presently saw.

The coroner introduced a fresh topic.

"What can you tell us about the interview you had with your sister prior to her going out on the night of her death?"

"Very little except that it differed entirely from what is generally supposed. She did not come to my room for conversation, but simply to tell me that she had an engagement. She was in an excited mood, but said nothing to alarm me. She even laughed when she left me, perhaps to put me off my guard, perhaps because she was no longer responsible."

"Did she know that Mr. Jeffrey had visited you earlier in the day? Did she make any allusion to it, I mean?"

"None at all. She shrugged her shoulders when I asked if she was well and anticipated all further questions by running from the room. She was always capricious in her ways and never more so than at that moment. Would to God that it had been different! Would to God that she had shown herself to be a suffering woman! Then I might have reached her heart and this tragedy would have been averted."

"Is that all you have to say concerning this important visit, the last you held with your sister before her death?"

"No, sir; there is something else—something which I should like to relate to this jury. When she came into my room she held in her hand a white ribbon—that is, she held the two ends of a long satin ribbon which seemed to come from her pocket. Handing those two ends to me, she asked me to tie them about her wrist. 'A knot under and a bow on top,' she said, 'so that it cannot slip off.' As this was something I had often been called on to do for her, I showed no hesitation in complying with her request. Indeed I felt none. I thought it was her fan or her bouquet she held concealed in the folds of her dress, but it proved to be—gentlemen, you know what. I pray that you will not oblige me to mention it."

It was such a stroke as no lawyer would have advised her to make. I heard afterward that she had refused the offices of a dozen lawyers who had proffered her their services. But, uttered as it was with a noble air and a certain dignified serenity, it had a great effect upon those about her and turned in a moment the wavering tide of favor in her direction.

The coroner, who doubtless was perfectly acquainted with the explanation with which she had provided herself, but who perhaps did not look for it to antedate his attack, bowed in quiet acknowledgment of her request and then immediately proceeded to ignore it.

"I should be glad to spare you," he said, "but I do not find it possible. You knew that Mr. Jeffrey had a pistol?"

"I did."

"That it was kept in their apartment?"

"Yes."

"In the upper drawer of a certain bureau?"

"Yes."

"Now, Miss Tuttle, will you tell us why you went to that drawer—if you did go to that drawer—immediately after Mrs. Jeffrey left the house?"

She had probably felt this question coming, not only since the coroner began to speak, but ever since the evidence elicited from Loretta proved that her visit to this drawer had been secretly observed. Yet she had no answer ready.

"I did not go for the pistol," she finally declared. But she did not say what she had gone for and the coroner did not press her.

"You had another errand in that room?"

"Alas!" she murmured.

"You went to the bookshelves and took out a book with a peculiar cover, a cover which Mr. Jeffrey has already recognized as that of the book in which he found a certain note."

"You have said it," she faltered.

"Did you take such a book out?"

"I did."

"For what purpose, Miss Tuttle?"

She had meant to answer quickly, but some consideration made her hesitate and the words were long in coming. When she did speak it was to say:

"My sister asked another favor of me after I had tied the ribbon. Pausing in her passage to the door, she informed me in a tone quite in keeping with her whole manner, that she had left a note for her husband in the book they were reading together. Her reason for doing this, she said, was the very natural one of wishing him to come upon it by chance, but as she had placed it in the front of the book, instead of in the back where they were reading, she was afraid that he would fail to find it. Would I be so good as to take it out for her and insert it again somewhere near the end? She was in a hurry or she would return and do it herself. As she and Mr. Jeffrey had parted in anger, I hailed with joy this evidence of her desire for a reconciliation, and it was in obedience to her request, the singularity of which did not strike me as forcibly then as now, that I went to the shelves in her room and took down the book."

Miss Nixon

"And did you find the note where she said?"

"Yes, and put it in toward the end of the story."

"Nothing more? Did you read the note?"

"It was folded," was Miss Tuttle's quiet answer.

"You did not remain before these bookshelves long?" observed the coroner.

"You have a witness who knows more about that than I do," she suggested, and, doubtless aware of the temerity of this reply, waited with unmoved countenance, but with a visibly bounding breast, for what would doubtless prove a fresh attack.

It was a violent one and of a character she was least fitted to meet. Taking up the box I have so often mentioned, the coroner drew away the ribbon lying on top and disclosed the pistol. In a moment her hands were over her ears.

"Why do you do that?" he asked. "Did you think I was going to discharge it?"

She smiled pitifully as she let her hands fall again.

"I have a dread of firearms," she explained. "I always have had. Now they are simply terrible to me, and this one"—

"I understand," said the coroner, with a slight glance in the direction of Durbin. They had evidently planned this test together on the strength of an idea suggested to Durbin by her former action when the memory of this shot was recalled to her.

"Your horror seems to lie in the direction of the noise they make," continued her inexorable interlocutor. "One would say you had heard this pistol discharged."

Instantly a complete breaking up of her hitherto well maintained composure altered her whole aspect, and she vehemently cried:

"I did, I did! I was on Waverley avenue that night, and I heard the shot which in all probability ended my sister's life. I walked farther than I intended. I strolled into the street which had such bitter memories for us, and I heard—no, I was not in search of my sister. I had not associated my sister's going out with any intention of visiting this house. I was merely troubled in mind and anxious and—and"—

"And so under a similar impulse you, as well as Mr. Jeffrey, chose this uncanny place to ramble in. To all appearance that old hearth acted much more like a loadstone upon members of your family than you were willing at one time to acknowledge."

"You say 'ramble through.' Do you for a moment think that I entered that old house?"

"Miss Tuttle," was the grave, almost sad, reply, "did you not know that in some earth, dropped from a flowerpot overturned at the time when a hundred guests flew in terror from this house, there is to be seen the mark of a footstep—a footstep which you are at liberty to measure with your own?"

"Ah!" she murmured, her hands going up to her face.

But in another moment she had dropped them and looked directly at the coroner.

"I walked there—I never said that I did not walk there—when I went later to see my sister and in sight of a number of detectives passed straight through the halls and into the library."

"And that this footstep," inexorably proceeded the coroner, "is not in a line with the main thoroughfare extending from the front to the back of the house, but turned inward toward the wall, as if she who made it had stopped to lean her head against the partition?"

Miss Tuttle's head drooped.

"If I went into the house," she said, "it was not to enter that room. I had too great a dread of it. If I rested my head against the wall it was in terror of that shot. It came so suddenly and was so frightful, so much more frightful than anything you can conceive."

"Then you did enter the house?"

"I did."

"And it was while you were inside, instead of outside, that you heard the shot?"

"I must admit that too. I was at the library door."

"You acknowledge that?"

"I do."

"But you did not enter the library?"

"No, not then; not till I was taken back by the officer who told me of my sister's death."

"We are glad to hear this precise statement from you. It encourages me to ask again the nature of the freak which took you into this house. You say that it was not from any dread on your sister's account. What, then, was it? No evasive answer will satisfy us, Miss Tuttle."

"I cannot answer," she said.

"We will not oblige you to," said the coroner.

Can you eat?

J. B. Taylor, a prominent merchant of Chriesman, Tex., says: "I could not eat because of a weak stomach, I lost all strength and ran down in weight. All that money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, I concluded to try it. The first bottle benefitted me and after taking four bottles, I am fully restored to my usual strength, weight and health." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and cures. Sold by C. A. Wright.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's cough remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists, Tecumseh, Mich.

I used some few bottles of Zoa Phora and that brought me regular and so that I didn't suffer scarcely any and the queer feelings left me."

In Reading a cat stepped on a sheet of fly paper. It would not let go of her paw soon she rolled and was entangled in the mess of stickiness. She yelled, rolled, kicked and plunged and finally managed to get out of the house and it took a week to coax her back. How great is human intelligence. When a Hudson lawyer seated himself gracefully on the same kind of pudding, he simply took off his unmentionables, and with never a frown scrapped off the offending plasters, then calmly resumed his study of the political situation.—Hudson Post.

When you have said what you intended to say, stop; when you have written what you intended to write, stop. A practice of this habit will render many after dinner speakers tolerable and literary persons readable. Verbosity is the ruin of much that might otherwise be endured patiently.—Ex.

Dan Duval lost three children last week, Austin, about 18 years old, Ethel, about 9, and a little boy 3 or 4 years old They died from some throat trouble one after another, in three or four days. This is a severe shock to the family who have the sympathy of the whole community.—Deerfield Times.

The proprietor of the Hotel Lenaweee in Adrian was robbed of $192 in cash last Sunday by someone who entered his room during the day. The landlord was suspicious that the colored porter knew what had become of the cash and caused his arrest on that charge. When the porter's room was searched a number of stolen articles are said to have been found there, but the most diligent search failed to locate the missing money, and as the porter refuses to confess, it begins to look as though a jury will have to determine whether he is guilty or not.—Hudson Gazette.

Wm. Klin, a Niles widower of 45 and well to do, hung himself Monday. The people "nagged" him about a certain lady and he could not stand the "plaguing." He became despondent and brooded over it and the more they joked him, the more he worried. Instead of using the matrimonial noose and marrying the girl he used a rope and went up the "golden stairs." Either he was super sensitive or the woman must have hailed from Oshkosh. The tormentors ought to be prosecuted for murder.—Adrian Press.

Stephen Davey drove up to the grist mill Tuesday morning with a load of grain and left his team standing while he went inside. The team, to get an early start, hiked out for home with Uncle Steve after them afoot. They ran east to Main street and turned north, one horse running so much faster than the other that they were turned and collided with the foot bridge near the depot, where they were caught. The only damage done was a broken bit and one horse scratched up a little. —Onsted News.

At the Croswell, Adrian.

Ward & Vokes will show us the second edition of their fun furnisher "A Pair of Pinks" at the Croswell opera house in Adrian Monday evening, Oct. 10. The announcement that this popular duo of comedians have a new edition of last season's vehicle to carry the always excellent company surrounding them, is a guarantee that a genuine laughing treat will be found when they come. "A Pair of Pinks" requires the services of a company of 55 people for of course the big chorus which always surrounds "Percy and Harold" is a requisite in their style of entertainment. "The Pinks" as is played by Ward & Vokes, are two Pinkerton detectives, who have their own way of how crime should be ferreted out and treated. It is barely possible that these ideas would not be concurred in by some of our famous sleuths, but it promises to be funny to see the unfolding. Seats may be reserved at Sheldon's jewelry store any time after Saturday morning.

A TERRIBLE FALL

Edgar Packard fell

TWENTY-FIVE FEET

From an Electric Light Pole Tuesday Afternoon and is still Unconscious.

Edgar Packard, while working on an electric pole near Seston Anderson's home on Chicago street, slipped on a cross arm in which was a broken bolt and fell 25 feet to the ground striking on his head and shoulder. He sustained a fracture of the collar bone and hip and broke several ribs. It is thought that one of the small bones of the neck is broken and Doctor Bunnell thinks he cannot live yet he is still alive but has not regained consciousness.

Mr. Packard is a hard working man and is much respected by many friends but seems to have been the victim of hard luck during the greater portion of his life.

A number of years ago while working for Philip Snell on the Lake Shore section the handle of the hand car on which he was working broke and let him over backwards, this car and another one right behind it ran over him and he was taken home for dead. Three or four years ago while working for the telephone company he fell off a pole and dropped a distance of 25 feet. This time it was several months before he was able to get to work again.

It almost seems as if this man has had more than his share of hard luck. There is strong hope that he may recover from this accident but is now in a very precarious condition.

Three years ago his son, "Tiawabe" had a run of typhoid fever which left him with an abcess in his side and with absolutely no hair on his head. "Tiawabe" did his first work this last summer since the sickness. Aside from this his wife has been sick for over a year and for the four months she has been quite ill.

"Variety" in Politics.

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 3.—Campaigning with a candidate for governor has variety and "variety is the spice of life." There are also drawbacks that over-season this spice, making it some times unpalatable. There is variety in the hotels. An example: The committee acting as escort to Mr. Warner and several candidates upon the county ticket believed it would be judicious to divide the patronage between two house in a little city, where an evening meeting was to be held. The county candidates were allowed to choose for themselves, but the governor, the congressman and the speakers with them, were taken to one hotel for supper with the intention of lodging them at another. The secretary had the hand baggage carried to the hotel, where the visitors were to sleep; they registered for supper at the other hotel. How the arrangement miscarried is not known, but after the meeting the governor and some of the party found their baggage at the first hotel. The room assigned them was reached by an oddly contrived combination stairway and trunk chute. It was a large room, of dismal appearance and with two beds. It had ancient furnishings, not to be recommended for tidiness. The governor took one of the beds, his companion the other. They may have slept in worse beds—none of them did, at any rate, but it was in Chicago the day after the great fire. Mr. Warner arose early next morning, visited a neighboring creamery, saw the farmers as they drove up with wagon loads of milk, and after that strolled about until breakfast was ready. He had rested well and made no complaint.—Detroit Journal.

The greatest "variety" shown in this instance is the way of writing this notice. The Lilley House, Tecumseh, is the hotel referred to and although it is not the best hotel in Michigan the landlord has many friends who will not enjoy the report in the Journal, beside the committee took thirty people to supper there without notice and they were all pleased with both supper and breakfast and accommodation.

It seems to a man "up a tree" that Mr. Warner's secretary, if his memory is old enough to remember about the Chicago fire, should have had sufficient experience to keep his mouth shut about a trip with the candidate for governor. It seems however that Warner is playing in hard luck this fall, not the least of which is his selection of a secretary.

Panorama of finance and the markets.

As one would expect of a great metropolis newspaper having the facilities of The Chicago Record-Herald that paper always covers the markets and financial and commercial intelligence generally on a scale of exceptional fullness, covering two entire pages of each issue. The quotations on live stock, provisions and grain, stocks and bonds and in fact every commercial and financial market in which the people of the north west are interested, are thoroughly complete and satisfactory.

Special cables tell the story of finance abroad. "Wall street talks" and "Speculative Gossip" are features of The Record-Herald market page that interest speculators from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast. They tell of the undercurrents in the grain and security markets, relate personal gossip of the pits, in its way as important as the hum and routine part of the days story of speculation. The Wall street letter of John Chambers summarizes the daily history of Gotham's money market in a most entertaining and instructive fashion. Examine the market page of any issue and see for yourself.

ROUND ABOUT US.

A small burglary was reported at the sheriff's office this morning as having taken place at Cadmus. The safe in Frank Potts store was blown open, but nothing is missing but a jacknife. It is evidently a case of a lot of work for small plunder and the officers are making an investigation with no clue to speak of on which to work.—Onsted News.

As an esteemed lady of this place was coming from the depot Sunday evening, having arrived on the train from the north, she was followed by a stranger, who accosted her, wishing to walk with her. She ordered him to walk on whereupon he seized her. After a desperate struggle the terrified woman succeeded in freeing herself from the grasp of her assailant and ran, thus making her escape. Officers were out until an early hour Monday morning in quest of the rascal but up to this morning nothing has been accomplished. Rumors have been afloat lately of ladies here being pursued at evening by strangers, but nothing definite has leaked out until the present.—Milan Leader.

PHYSICIAN'S GOOD LUCK

Dr. Hart's fortunate experience of special interest to many in Tecumseh.

Probably no physician is better known in all parts of the United States than Dr. Hart, as he has been a great traveler and knows the best people wherever he has been. For years he has suffered with catarrh in its worst form.

Although he resorted to the latest scientific treatment and consulted many of his brother physicians, Dr. Hart finally said, "I might just as well have thrown my money in the river for I grew worse and worse. It is really due to my wife's good judgment that I tried Hyomei." The Doctor, in his emphatic way added "Thank God that I did, for Hyomei cured me completely. My wife and I will swear that Hyomei cured me of the worst case of catarrh that ever existed. I used to cough constantly at night and had a dropping in the throat, which kept me awake a great deal. I raised thick phlegm and was in a horrible condition. However, I am entirely cured, solely through the use of Hyomei."

C. A. Wright is the local agent for Hyomei, the famous treatment which cures catarrh without stomach dosing. A complete outfit costs but $1.00, extra bottles, 50c. He sells it under guarantee to refund the money if it does not give quick relief. Ask him to show you the strong guarantee under which it is sold.

REASONS

Why our Vinol is the Greatest Health Restorer and Strength Creator Known to Medicine.

Because Vinol contains in a concentrated form ALL of the medicinal curative elements found in cod liver oil, but without a drop of oil to nauseate and upset the stomach; therefore, wherever old-fashioned cod liver oil or emulsions will do good, Vinol will do far more good.

Because we have never sold anything in our store equal to Vinol to restore health and create strength for old people, weak, sickly women and children, nursing mothers, and after a severe sickness.

A prominent physician writes: "Vinol is the most palatable and valuable preparation of cod liver oil ever compounded. I now use it entirely in all cases where I formerly depended upon old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions."

Try Vinol on our guarantee to return your money if you are not satisfied.

LOCAL ENTHUSIASM.

On one subject Tecumseh people grow enthusiastic.

The increase of popular enthusiasm on the following subject is almost daily manifested by public expression and local endorsement. Read what this citizen says and discover the cause for the constant showering of praise which follow in the wake of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Henry Keyser, retired farmer and capitalist, residence in the southwestern of Tecumseh, says: "I am thoroughly convinced of the superior merits of this popular remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills. They deserve naught but the highest praise. Before going to C. A. Wright's drug store for a box I had a dull aching pain in my back which had annoyed me for some time and the secretions from the kidneys were unnatural and irregular. To say that I was surprised at the effect is putting it very mildly. In a short time the trouble disappeared. I never knew a medicine that worked so quickly and satisfatorily."

For sale by all dealers: Price 50 cents per box, Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

Lugged Off P. O. Safe.

Cadillac, Mich., Oct. 6.—The safe in the postoffice at Boon was cracked early in the morning. Before doing the job the robbers took the safe on a railway truck about twenty rods beyond the outskirts of the village. Wagon tracks of a one-horse wagon were found near the spot. About $75 in money and stamps, partly Postmaster Fessenden's, who conducts a general store, and the remainder postoffice funds, were taken.

Fell Into an Abandoned Well.

Romulus, Mich., Oct. 6.—The 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rounsifer was drowned in an abandoned open well here. The little one had wandered away in company with a neighbor's child, and got as far as the vacated property formerly occupied by a Polish shoemaker, when it fell into the well. The little girl with him ran for help, but he was rescued too late to save his life.

Better than pills.

The question has been asked—In what way are Chamberlain's stomach and liver tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is—They are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle and so agreeable that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then they not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and aid digestion. For sale by all druggists in Tecumseh.

BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION CURED BY THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and fevers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.

Thedford's Black-Draught is so successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong and drastic drug, but a mild and healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible harm.

The healthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.

Timely treatment with Thedford's Black-Draught removes the dangers which lurk in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the inroads of Bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c. package of Thedford's Black-Draught.

Kidney Diseases Worst of All.

No one can afford to let a kidney disease continue unchecked a moment after he has discovered its presence. This is especially true of Bright's disease, the most dangerous and fatal of them all. The treacherous manner in which it attacks its victims enables it to become firmly established before its presence is discovered.

Dr. Colwell's Egyptian Kidney and Bladder Cure never fails, and is guaranteed to cure inflammation of the kidneys, congestions, Bright's disease in its early stages, brick dust deposits, cloudy urine, pains in the back and kidneys, retention and incontinence of urine, bed wetting, diseases of the bladder and urinary tract, sexual weakness in both men and women, restoring to health and imparting to the genito-urinary organs renewed vitality and vigor.

"Your Dr. Colwell's Egyptian Kidney and Bladder Cure is a most excellent remedy as I know from my personal experience with it. I have had serious kidney and bladder trouble with considerable pain. This was a repetition of trouble a year back. I tried one bottle, and the relief was so great, I ordered two bottles of you by express, and am glad to say that I am all right now and recommend this medicine fully to any one suffering with these difficulties."

Truly yours, W. F. Black, Cleveland, O.

SIX DEAD IN TUNNEL

DEADLY GAS FUMES SUFFOCATE FREIGHT TRAINMEN.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT HAPPENS IN PORT HURON TUNNEL.

ONE DIED WHILE ATTEMPTING TO RESCUE OTHERS.

Port Huron, Mich., Oct. 10.—By the breaking in two of a coal train in the Grand Trunk tunnel, under the St. Clair river, between this city and Sarnia, Ont., during a heavy fog about 5 o'clock Sunday morning, Superintendent of Terminals A. S. Begg and five other men were suffocated by coal gas and one man is in the hospital at Sarnia in a serious condition.

The dead: A. S. Begg, Port Huron, superintendent of western division terminals; John Coleman, Port Huron, engineer; J. B. Simpson, Sarnia, conductor; Richard T. Tinsley, Sarnia, conductor; Thomas McGrath, Sarnia, brakeman; Daniel A. Gillis, Sarnia, brakeman.

At the hospital in Sarnia: George Forester, Sarnia, fireman, is in a serious condition but may recover. The ill-fated train started east from this city through a thick fog and had gotten almost through the tunnel when the coupling broke between the third car and the rest of the train, leaving Brakeman Gillis and the conductors in the gas-filled tunnel, where there is practically no ventilation at all.

The first intimation the people at the American end of the tunnel had of the accident was when Brakeman James Short rushed out at the American end and announced that the train which had started through only a few minutes before, had broken in two and that part of it was still in the big hole, which is a mile and a half long. Superintendent Begg was at once summoned and accompanied by Tunnel Engineer William A. Morden and Pumpman George Mellon, started to assist in the rescue of the imprisoned trainmen.

Rescurers Overcome.

The men had gone but a short distance when Mr. Begg was overcome by the smoke and gas from the engine and fell over backward. He was hurried to the outside air and a physician summoned, but he was pronounced dead a few minutes after reaching the exit. Engineer Merden was also overcome, but revived soon after being carried out by his companions. Pumpman Mellon reached the open air before the deadly fumes took effect on him.

By this time it was seen that an attempt to reach the imprisoned trainmen from this end of the tunnel meant certain death and the rescurers abandoned the task.

Engineer Coleman, who was in charge of the train that broke in two, proceeded immediately after the brake to the Canadian side with his locomotive and three cars. Leaving the cars on a siding, he and his fireman went back into the tunnel with the engine, intending to bring out the remainder of the train. They had gone but a short distance when Coleman lapsed into unconsciousness, never to revive. His fireman, George Forester, jumped into the water tank on the tender and succeeded in escaping death, though he breathed enough of the gas to seriously endanger his life.

Came Upon Body.

When the engine failed to emerge from the mouth of the tunnel a rescuing party consisting of Yardmaster McKee, Conductor Fisher, Switchman John Blake and Brakemen Hamilton Hawn, McGrath and Cameron, all residents of Sarnia, started in to assist the crew. They had not proceeded far when they came upon the body of Trackwalker Haley of Sarnia, who was lying prostrate alongside the track. He was carried outside and in a short time recovered.

Returning the rescuers made another effort to reach Coleman's engine, when all were met by the gas, which appeared to be growing thicker every minute. Realizing that it would mean the death of the whole party if they proceeded, the men turned and started out. All arrived at the terminal except McGrath, who was overcome and died a few yards from safety. It was 10:30 o'clock when the rescurers finally succeeded in getting the train out and clearing the tunnel.

This is the second accident of the kind that has occurred in the Port Huron-Sarnia tunnel within seven years.

Ex-Senator Johnson Dead.

Flint, Mich., Oct. 10.—Ransome C. Johnson, who is dead at his home here, was a well-known resident of this county, having been born in Mundy township. In 1871 he was admitted to the Genesee county bar and in 1894 was chosen state senator for the thirteenth district. He had served the city as an alderman and a member of the board of health.

Child Accidently Killed.

Munising, Mich., Oct. 10.—Margaret, the 3-year-old daughter of Dr. G. A. Trueman, was shot and instantly killed by the accidental discharge of a gun.

BY ROADSIDE.

Body of Farmer Was Found Near Sanilac Center.

Sanilac Center, Mich., October 10.—Appleton Connors, a farmer living near Juhl, in Elmer township, ten miles southwest of here, was found dead by the roadside, two and a half miles south of this village, Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, by persons on their way to church. He was lying face downward and his neck appeared to be dislocated.

It was first thought that an investigation would reveal a vial or weapon with which he had taken his own life, but a search by the coroner brought out nothing of this nature, and the people are in doubt as to whether or not he met with foul play. This is thefirst occurrence of this sort ever known in this community and the people are horror-stricken.

Connors was a married man and was about 52 years old. For some time past there have been family complications and his wife had not been living at home since spring. It is alleged that about a week ago he broke into his daughter's room and tried to assault her, after which he attempted to commit suicide by severing an artery in his left wrist. Saturday he came to Sanilac Center to adjust property matters and divided his real estate between his absent wife, who is supposed to be either in Grand Rapids or Coopersville, and her daughter.

An inquest and post morter examination will be held. In the meantime Sheriff Proctor and Prosecuting Attorney Farr are collecting every bit of evidence in connection with the matter.

Fears For Potato Crop.

Howard City, Mich., Oct. 7.—Considerable apprehension is felt here in the center of Michigan's potato belt over this year's crop since the recent rains and warm weather. On all the lowlands farmers report white spots appearing on the tubers, which foreordains rot. The crop up to this time has promised to be big and of good quality. Shipping has been given a temporary layoff on account of the price being "off" in eastern and southern markets.

TAKE THE OFFENSIVE

RUSSIANS DO SO AND BREAK JAPANESE LINE.

OUTPOSTS DRIVEN BACK AND OWNS REOCCUPIED.

RUSSIAN CAUSALITIES REPORTED TO BE INCONSIDERABLE.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 10. 2:55 a. m.—Gen. Kuropatkin's order of the day, announcing his determination to take the offensive, has just been supplemented by the news that an offensive movement has already been begun and that the Japanese line has been broken at Bentsiaputze.

The Japanese occupied a front of about 52 miles, stretching from Bentsiaputze on the east through Yentai and across the railway to the banks of the Hun river on the west. The Russian force had been moving south in close touch with the Japanese advance since Oct. 4. The Japanese outposts were driven back in a series of skirmishes and on Oct. 6 the Russians re-occupied the station of Shakhe, 15 miles south of Mukden, the railway battalion restoring the bridge across the Shakhe river the next day, in order to facilitate the advance.

Meanwhile Gen. Mistchenko's Cossacks pushed southwestward as far as the Yentai mines, defeating the Japanese in a series of warm skirmishes. The most important action, however, occurred on the Japanese right at Bentsiaputze. Here the Japanese held a strong and important position, but it seems they made the inexplicable omission to fortify a commanding hill, which was the key to the whole situation.

A portion of Gen. Kuropatkin's force made a strong attack on Bentsiaputze and, taking a leaf out of the Japanese book, occupied the hill from the east and flanked the Japanese out of town causing a serious loss in a rear guard fight. The Russian casualties are reported to have been inconsiderable.

While these operations are progressing south of Mukden, it is reported that two Japanese divisions under Gen. Fugi are marching west up the Liao river and are now twenty-two miles south of Sinmintin. Gen. Kuroki is expected to make a similar move eastward. This statement, if accurate, leaves the two armies in the anomalous position of threatening each other's lines of communication, the Japanese by a wide turning movement, while the Russians, pushing south, have already inflicted a blow on the Japanese right and are crowding back their center along the railway.

OUR Sack Suits, designed according to advanced fashion's predictions for Fall and Winter, are here. The accompanying drawing is a faithful illustration of three styles of particular cut and elegance made by Crouse & Brandegee. Notice the length of coat—the distinctive cut of the three-button Newport—also in our Normandie the same regard to detail of style and finish. We keep in mind the fact that a tall man cannot wear a suit that a short man should wear. This is the satisfactory feature of both the Newport and Normandie. They are absolutely correct in every and all requirements. But the man who is not over six feet tall is not overlooked; the same careful attention has been given him. The result is our Arvon, which also has much elegance of make and gives the short man extra inches in appearance. We have these styles in the NEW BROWNS—in beautiful and choice materials, those new patterns of slight over-plaids almost indistinct. These cost what you would expect, $10.00 to $35.00.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and till the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies and by failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and the mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade, says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's cough remedy. CHAPTER XV.

"However," he now went on with suddenly assumed severity, "you may answer this: Was the house dark or light when you entered it? And how did you get in?"

"The house was dark, and I got in through the front door, which I found ajar."

"You are more courageous than most women! I fear there are few of your sex who could be induced to enter it in broad daylight and under every suitable protection."

"Miss Tuttle, you have heard Chloe say that you were in the kitchen of Mr. Jeffrey's house when the grocer boy delivered the candles which had been left by your brother-in-law on the counter of the store where he bought them. Is this true?"

"Yes, sir, it is true."

"Did you see those candles?"

"No, sir."

"You did not see them?"

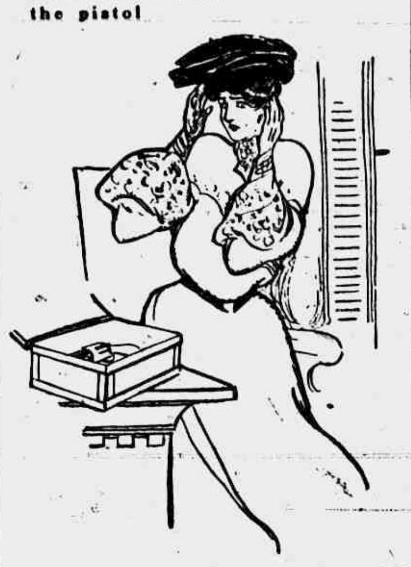
"No, sir."

"Yet you went over to the table?"

"Yes, sir, but I did not meddle with the packages. I had really no business with them."

The coroner, surveying her sadly, went quickly on, as if anxious to terminate this painful examination.

Miss Tuttle sees the pistol



"You have not told us what you did when you heard that pistol shot."

"I ran away as soon as I could move; I ran madly from the house."

"Where?"

"Home."

"But it was half past 10 when you got home."

"Was it?"

"It was half past 10 when the man came to tell you of your sister's death."

"It may have been."

"Your sister is supposed to have died in a few minutes. Where were you in the interim?"

"God knows. I do not."

A wild look was creeping into her face, and her figure was swaying, but she soon steadied it. I have never seen a more admirable presence maintained in the face of a dreadful humiliation.

"Perhaps I can help you," rejoined the coroner not unkindly. "Were you not in the Congressional library looking up at the lunettes and gorgeously painted walls?"

"I?" Her eyes opened wide in wondering doubt. "If I was I did not know it. I have no remembrance of it."

"Your condition of mind and that of Mr. Jeffrey seem to have been strangely alike," remarked the coroner.

"No, no!" she protested.

"Arguing a like source."

"No, no," she cried again, this time with positive agony. Then, with an effort which awakened respect for her powers of mind, if for nothing else, she desperately added: "I cannot say what was in his heart that night, but I know what was in mine—dread of that old house, to which I had been drawn in spite of myself, possibly by the force of the tragedy going on inside it, culminating in a delirium of terror which sent me flying in an opposite direction from my home and into places I had been accustomed to visit when my heart was light and untroubled."

"Another question, Miss Tuttle. When you heard a pistol shot sounding from the depths of that dark library, what did you think it meant?"

"Something dreadful; something superstitious. It was night, you remember, and at night one has such horrible thoughts."

"Yet an hour or two later you declared that the hearth was no loadstone. You forgot its horrors and your superstition upon returning to your own house."

"It might be," she murmured, "but, if so, they soon returned. I had reason for my horror, if not for my superstition, as the event showed."

The coroner did not attempt to controvert this. He was about to launch a final inquiry.

"Miss Tuttle, upon the return of yourself and Mr. Jeffrey to your home after your final visit to the Moore house, did you have any interview that was without witnesses?"

"No."

"Did you exchange any words?"

"I think we did exchange some words; it would be only natural."

"Are you willing to state what words?"

She looked dazed and appeared to search her memory.

"I don't think I can," she objected.

"But something was said by you and some answer was made by him?"

"I believe so."

"Cannot you say definitely?"

"We did speak."

"In English?"

"No, in French."

"Cannot you translate that French for us?"

"Pardon me, sir; it was so long ago my memory fails me."

"Is it any better for the second and longer interview between you the next day?"

"No—sir."

"You cannot give us any phrase or word that was uttered there?"

"No."

"Is this your final reply on this subject?"

"It is."

Simultaneously with her withdrawal the gleam of sensibility left the faces of the jury and the dark and brooding look which had marked their countenances from the beginning returned, and returned to stay.

The celerity with which that jury arrived at its verdict was a shock to us all. It had been a quiet body, offering but little assistance to the coroner in his questioning, but when it fell to these men to act, the precision with which they did so was astonishing. In a half hour they returned from the room into which they had adjourned, and the foreman gave warning that he was prepared to render a verdict.

Mr. Jeffrey and Miss Tuttle both clinched their hands; then Miss Tuttle pulled down her veil.

"We find," said the solemn foreman, "that Veronica Moore Jeffrey, who on the night of May 11 was discovered lying dead on the floor of her own unoccupied house in Waverley avenue, came to her death by means of a bullet, shot from a pistol connected to her wrist by a length of white satin ribbon.

"That the first conclusion of suicide is not fully sustained by the facts.

"And that attempt should be made to identify the hand that fired this pistol."

It was as near an accusation of Miss Tuttle as was possible without mentioning her name. A groan passed through the assemblage, and Mr. Jeffrey, bounding to his feet, showed an inclination to shout aloud in his violent indignation, but Miss Tuttle, turning toward him, lifted her hand with a commanding gesture and held it so till he sat down again.

It was both a majestic and an utterly incomprehensible movement on her part, giving to the close of these remarkable proceedings a dramatic climax which set all hearts beating and, I am bound to say, all tongues wagging till the room cleared.

CHAPTER XVI.

MEANWHILE, and before any of us had left this room, one fact had become apparent—Mr. Jeffrey was not going to volunteer any fresh statement in face of the distinct disapproval of his sister-in-law. As his eye fell upon the district attorney, who had lingered near, possibly in the hope of getting something more from this depressed and almost insensible man, he made one remark, but it was an automatic one, calculated to produce but little effect on the discriminating ears of this experienced official.

"I do not believe that my wife was murdered." This was what he said. "It was a wicked verdict. My wife killed herself. Wasn't the pistol found tied to her?"

Meanwhile a fact which all had noted and commented on had recurred to my mind and caused me to ask a brother officer who was walking out beside me what he thought of Mr. Moore's absence from an inquiry presumably of such importance to all members of his family.

The fellow laughed and said:

"Old Dave has lost none of his peculiarities in walking into his fortune. This is his day at the cemetery. Didn't you know that? He will let nothing on earth get in the way of his pilgrimage to that spot on the 23d of May, much less so trivial an occurrence as an inquest over the remains of his nearest relative."

I felt my gorge rise; then a thought struck me and I asked how long the old gentleman kept up his watch.

"From sunrise to sundown, the boys say. I never saw him there myself. My beat lies in an opposite direction."

I left him and started for Rock Creek cemetery. There were two good hours yet before sundown and I resolved to come upon Uncle David at his post.

It took just one hour and a quarter to get there by the most direct route I could take, five minutes more to penetrate the grounds to where a superb vehicle stood, drawn by two of the finest horses I had seen in Washington for many a long day. As I was making my way around this equipage I came upon a plot in a condition of upheaval preparatory to new sodding and the planting of several choice shrubs. In the midst of the sand thus exposed a single headstone rose. On his knees beside this simple monument I saw the figure of Uncle David, dressed in his finest clothes and showing in his oddly contorted face the satisfaction of great prosperity battling with the dissatisfaction of knowing that one he had so loved had not lived to share his elevation. He was rubbing away the mold from the name which, by his own confession, was the only one to which his memory clung in sympathy or endearment. At his feet lay an open basket, in which I detected the remains of what must have been a rather sumptuous cold repast. To all appearance he had foregone none of his ancient customs; only those customs had taken on elegance with his rise in fortune. The carriage and the horses and, most of all, the imperturbable driver seemed to awaken some awe in the boys. They were still in evidence, but they hung back sheepishly and eyed the basket of neglected food as if they hoped he would forget to take it away. Meanwhile the clattering of chains against the harness, the pawing of the horses and the low exclamations of the driver caused me the queerest feelings. Advancing quite unceremoniously upon the watcher by the grave, I remarked aloud:

COUNTY FAIR

Held at Adrian was good.

TECUMSEH'S EXHIBITS

Were Few. Large Crowds visited the Fair this year.

Lenawee county fair this year was the best in years both in regard to quantity and quality of exhibit. The grounds have been extended since last year, new buildings added and a general improvement made everywhere. Most of the exhibitors were from other parts of the county and state, very few being from Tecumseh. The Anthony Fence Co., Tecumseh Range Co. and the Hayden Milling Co. were exceptions and each made a good showing of their wares.

At the Anthony Fence exhibit a fine display of fence was made and a sign of coiled wire, the invention designed by C. D. Anthony attracted much attention. Tecumseh Range Co. showed some fine stoves and ranges in three sizes with all steel furnace using hard or soft coal. Hayden Milling Co. made an exhibit of their premiums only and not of the flour manufactured. In the same building given to merchant's displays the Swift display of bric-a-brac was unusually fine, some tiger ebony toilet articles especially attracting attention. Sheldon showed some beautiful diamonds and the Blissfield tannery some very nice Galloway robes, prepared by them. There was an easy running U. S. cream seperator, which had taken gold medals at Paris and Buffalo that attracted a crowd of butter makers and dairy men.

The W. C. T. U. held forth with tracts and admonitions to "be good," which were distributed gratis and then thrown away as freely as given but the patient missionarys held the fort and distributed their literature as smilingly as if every seed sown was expected to sprout and bring forth a hundred fold. A card conspicuous in this booth was a a notice of the meeting of the Adrian Humane society. Either Adrian is one ahead of us or we are less cruel to our children and animals than our neighboring city for n such organization has arizen here.

A new and commodious building has been provided for the poultry exhibit through the efforts of C. A. Waldron in this direction and the display of fowls filled all the new coops provided, which were perhaps 200 and other cages were improvised to supplement the exhibit. The poultry people have for some time been importuning the "powers that be" at the fair for an expert judge of poultry and this year their prayers were answered and they feel particularly well pleased even to be shut out from premiums if the judgement is just. The judge this year is a poultry man well posted on this subject and the result was more satisfactory. Tecumseh exhibitors in this department were Mrs. A. K. Waldron's enteries of White Rocks for which first prize on old fowls and first and second on young ones were given and James Waldron's Buff Leghorns for which he received first and second premiums.

The last year's poultry building this year contained a miscellaneous exhibit of dogs, Belgian hares, cage of cats and many varieties of pigeons. Among the Grange exhibits Tipton and Raisin led.

The vegetable and fruit this year were exceptionally fine, the display of grapes was exceedingly good. Mrs. A. K. Waldron in this department took first premium on two varieties of peaches and plums and Miles Baldwin's apples made fine showing. Mr. Baldwin had a large space given to him especially and it was well filled and attracted much attention. He took a large number of first premiums both on his exhibit as a collection and as single exhibits. Our veteran exhibitor, who wishes it understood that he is eighty-two years old, is not too old to make a vigorous protest against being awarded second premiums on his twenty-five varieties of corn. He has won blue cards for so many years that he despises red ones, claiming perhaps justly, that as a gardener he is second to none.

The art and needle work department this year seemed not at all up to what it has usually been. Miss Bertha Smeltzer was judging in the picture exhibit and this seems like a step in the right direction, to select for judges in this as in any other department, people who are familiar with the articles to be judged. There were very few good pictures. The work was mostly amateur, professional workers having become disgusted with having their work passed upon by good natured women who are better judges of canned fruit and tissue paper flowers than of works of art and who do not know a Madonna from the pictures of dancing girls on a cigarette case.

There were a few exhibits of photography and three cases of china of which Miss Smeltzer showed two and St. Joseph's Academy the other. The china exhibit was good, more pieces being shown than we some times see and a wider range of entries. Miss Smeltzer secured first premium on largest collection and twenty-one individual premiums of which only three were second.

Continuing the contemplation of Lenawee county art we passed on to the educational building and here the children of the Adrian schools from the eighth grade down put to shame the more pretentious exhibit of artists (?) in the other building. The drawing and coloring from objects was excellent and the basket, mat and hammock weaving quite wonderful. If we could have a good instructor in this branch in our schools and objects to draw from we might certainly vie with Adrian college in a knowledge of art.

A collection in oil done by their instructor in the college was shown also some water color and pastels which were superior to the Adrian school exhibit only in amount of color used. Many other towns and country districts made exhibits of art and industrial work which were a credit to their instructors and to the talent of the pupils. Here too, Tecumseh was absent.

Is not this sort of emulation worth while, are we doing nothing to cultivate this refining branch of public education or are our teachers not generously equipped with the materials to carry on this instruction. Let us inquire where the defect arises and make an effort to remedy it. Can we not do what they can at Blissfield, Hudson and even at Jasper? When we cultivate a love of the beautiful in form and color and an appreciation of art by the children of the public schools we are doing much toward refining the tastes and improving the home life and the morals of the generation that come after.

The day of blue dogs laboriously worked into burlaps rugs and pink water lillies embroidered in green felt seas is almost over. Let it pass and in its place let the school children who make the homes of the future have a little every day knowledge of art which shall make such atrocitus an impossibility.

Pill Pleasure.

If you ever took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness or constipation you know what pill pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. They do not gripe, sicken or weaken, but pleasantly give tone and strength to the tissues and organs of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold by C. A. Wright.

Good for children.

The pleasant to take and harmless One Minute Cough Cure gives instant relief in all cases of cough, croup and lagrippe because it does not pass immediately into the stomach, but takes effect right at the seat of the trouble. It draws out the inflammation, heals and soothes and cures permanently by enabling the lungs to contribute pure life-giving and life-sustaining oxygen to the blood and tissues. Sold by C. A. Wright.

Girls who are always harping on the rights of women are apt to get left in the matrimonial deal.

Can you eat?

J. B. Taylor, a prominent merchant of Chriesman, Tex., says: "I could not eat because of a weak stomach, I lost all strength and ran down in weight. All that money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, I concluded to try it. The first bottle benefitted me and after taking four bottles, I am fully restored to my usual strength, weight and health." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and cures. Sold by C. A. Wright.

Keep the inside machinery clean. No man can hope to be in health who is clogged or stagnated. Waste matter and broken down material should be expelled easily and naturally. Greene's Little Laxative Beans will do this work perfectly and safely. Thousands will approve this statement. Does this interest you? B. J. Pulver.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's cough remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists, Tecumseh, Mich.

An Easy Time For Mothers.

Zoa Phora Relieves All Pain and Suffering and Makes the Road for Mothers Smooth.

Trial Bottle Free to Every Woman.

The freedom and relief from pain and suffering that Zoa Phora has brought to women during childbirth alone is enough to render it the greatest blessing of the age to women. In addition to this it cures all irregularities of the sex, misplacements, suppressed and painful periods, leucorrhea, piles, kidney, bladder and liver troubles and regulates the change of life.

Zoa Phora makes the change from maidenhood to womanhood safe and easy and is a matchless remedy for young girls during this critical period of their lives.

The women of America endorse and praise Zoa Phora. All women can secure perfect health and happiness who will use Zoa Phora. All who have used it are now rejoicing in these blessings as their words of praise and gratitude prove. The following letter is only one of thousands which we receive:

Mrs. O. H. Clark, Box 265, Lake View, Mich., says: "I wish to say a few words of praise for Zoa Phora, as it is certainly the best medicine I have ever used for women's troubles. I have suffered with leucorrhea for seven years, and I also fell causing misplacement, from which I suffered for five years. I had a six months birth, which nearly caused death, and ever since I have been sickly.

"Last Christmas one of Dr. Pengelly's books 'Advice to Women,' came within my reach, and so highly recommended Zoa Phora, that I decided to try a bottle, and have found the very best of results. February 23d I gave birth to a little girl, and she is strong and smart, and I am in the best of health I have had for over seven years, all from the use of Zoa Phora. I will say to anyone who is troubled in like manner or expecting confinement should take Zoa Phora, and it will certainly be of great benefit to them. I know it makes childbirth much easier than without it."

Write the Zoa Phora Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., for a free trial bottle and copy of their illustrated medical book, "Dr. Pengelly's Advice to Women." The doctor will give gladly free special advice when needed. Zoa Phora for sale at $1.00 a bottle by —Detroit Tribune: Charles Waring a Tecumseh man, unused to the strenuous ways of the state metropolis, came over to get aquainted and brought along his bicycle. A package which he carried, becoming loosened, he dismounted to fix it, and in the most confiding manner was at work in a bent position when one of those queer things called an automobile came along and hit him, the driver being unable to see such small objects as a man and a wheel. The autoist needed a magnifying glass, and Waring could have done better than to fumble a loose package in the street, forgetting that the world has pranced ahead since Musgrove Evans and Austin E. Wing, dining under the spreading branches of an oak for want of better accomodation, named the beautiful village by the Raisin, and called it Tecumseh.

The story of "Lights of Home" deals with farm life, pure and simple. The party given at the home of Deacon Appleby's presents a scene of activity and realism, the singing of old songs, playing of games, eating of popcorn and apples, and the old fashioned dance are reminders of olden times to many. The murder and the robbery are brought about in a way most satisfactory to the villan, who is foiled by Seth the hired man. The supper at the farmer's home looking through the album, the races, the quarrel, the accident, the exposure, the ravings of the suspected murderer, and Seth's devotion to the baby all go towards making "Lights of Home," a rural comedy of much interest and true to life. The characters are not overdrawn or burlesqued, but are made to represent farm life in its truest sense. For benefit of band Oct. 21.

"A Country Kid."

While problem plays and cynical society comedians are having their usual place in the production of the current theatrical season, pieces of the more wholesome type continue to receive the unqualified endorsement of the public; nearly all of the greatest successes on the American stage have been chiefly made by their purity and by the dominance of what stage-folks are pleased to call "heart interest." Among these successes "A Country Kid" stands prominent playing all the past season to immense business, and giving universal satisfaction. The production is complete in every particular, the band and orchestra being second to none on the road. At the New Bradley Saturday. Get your seats at Orr,s drug store. Prices 25, 35 and 50.

SAD ACCIDENT

Occurred this morning and takes the Life of Little

BABY MOORE,

Infant Child of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore.

A sad and terrible accident occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore about 8:30 this morning in which their five weeks old baby was burned to death. Mrs. Moore had just dressed the little one and left it in the basket in front of the grate in which a fire was burning. Attracted into the room by smell of smoke, Mrs. Moore was horrified to find the baby in flames.

The face and chest of the tiny one were burned black and the robe which was thrown over it was burned to ashes. Dr. Bunnell was called in immediately, but the little one lived only a few moments.

The people are all horrified over this shocking accident, word's of sympathy being too feeble to express their feeling. Mr. Moore was telegraphed and is expected this afternoon by the Wabash. Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed.

Mrs. Ransom Mills.

Mrs. Louisa M. Bunting was born in Franklin township, Lenawee county, Mich., July 23, 1841. She was married to Ransom W. Mills, of the same place, in February 13, 1866. The home thus founded has remained in our community since that time. In that home our sister has been these many years a most devoted wife and mother, a kind companion, a tender counselor and a worthy example of Christian life, not only in the home but in a great circle of friends, her influence has been for good and the betterment of all with whom she came in contact. She, with her husband, became a member of the Tipton M. E. church in 1868, thus giving her best years to the service of her God, as a follower of whom she was true to duty and the deepest convictions of her heart. Prompt in service, willing in labor and efficient in zeal, her place will long be vacant in the house of God. She was a great, but patient sufferer during her later years, but departed this life at peace with her maker, Oct. 1, 1904.

She leaves to mourn her loss besides many friends, a husband, Ransom W. Mills, two sons, Philo T. and John E. Mills, and a daughter, Mrs. Myrtie L. Campbell. The funeral was held at her late home Oct. 4, Rev. E. R. Rice, assisted by Rev. C. G. Rose, officiating. Interment in Tipton cemetery.

Mrs. Helen Bangs.

Mrs. Helen Amelia Bangs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merritt, was born in Macon, Mich., Dec. 11, 1841 and died in Macon Sept. 30, 1904. She was married Aug. 3, 1859 to Thomas J. Bangs of Macon, afterwards moving to Tecumseh and living in Brownville twenty years, where Mr. Bangs died Sept. 18, 1900. Ever since her husband's death, Mrs. Bang's health has been failing, though she has kept around much of the time until three days before her death.

Four children were born to the couple three of whom are living to mourn the loss of a dear mother. Of her family three brothers and five sisters survive with the aged mother, who is 85 years old. Mrs. Bangs was of a warm hearted and kindly disposition and will be greatly missed by her family and many friends.

The funeral was largely attended from the house Monday afternoon, Rev. Scarlett speaking beautiful words of consolation and sympathy. She was laid to rest in Brookside cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank the neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us in our bereavement, the choir and those who expressed their sympathy with gifts of lovely flowers.

Theatrical.

"A Country Kid" is a lesson without being a dogmatic sermon. It's teachings are forced on none who witness it. The play is typically of the West and is full of merriment. It is rural in theme, full of country folk, homely clothes and provincial conversation but it has the scent of flowers, the atmosphere of the fields and the charm of a western village. Although pastoral in theme, it is not without sensational features including the thrilling leap for life on a bicycle, being the first time this feat was ever attempted in a theatrical production. At the New Bradley Saturday, Oct. 15. Prices 25, 35 and 50 cents.

WITHERELL CEMENT BLOCK

Has just been completed and

WITHERELL & SONS

Have opened. Dance hall and I. O. O. F. Temple will be ready soon.

The Witherell block, which is just being completed, is one of the finest cement buildings in the state. The building designed by Geo. Kempf and put up by Pocklington Bros. of Ridgeway, is 100 by 40 feet in size and three stories high. The cement blocks were made by Geo. H. Tansley, who used the Tiffany's No. 2 mixer and the Rapid block machine. The building is finished inside with Georgia pine and the metal ceiling which presents a handsome room. The hard maple floors are used throughout.

The first floor will be used by Witherell & Sons for a carriage repository and carriage furnishings of all descriptions may also be procured there. Beside this they carry a full line of hunters supplies and fishing tackle.

The second floor will be used for dancing parties and entertainments. This hall when entirely finished and prepared for use, will be one of the best in Michigan. Tecumseh has long needed a good hall and Mr. Witerell expects to have the hall ready for a Thanksgiving party.

The third floor or the I. O. O. F. Temple is finished as well as the others and will of course be furnished and used exclusively by the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs. Witherell & Sons moved in the building about Oct. 1st and advertized their fall opening for Friday, Oct. 7. They displayed a full line of carriages and have received a number since then. They also served a lunch to a large number of visitors.

A FATAL ACCIDENT

Occurred near Ridgeway Saturday when

ROY FRANCIS

Received Injuries which resulted in Death Sunday Evening.

Roy Francis, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Francis of Ridgeway, was fatally hurt while driving his horse and cart last Saturday afternoon. He was driving quite fast to catch up with the rig of a playmate and the two rigs collided. Roy's rig was over turned and the lad thrown against a tree.

He was conveyed to his home south of Ridgeway, where examinations revealed a broken leg and internal injuries, from which he died Sunday evening at nine o'clock. He was nine years of age and was a bright little fellow. Beside his parents he leaves a younger brother.

The funeral was held from the home yesterday afternoon at two o'clock. Interment at Ridgeway.

Insurance News.

Insurance men of the West who read the daily columns of insurance information in The Chicago Record Herald keep pace with the times and are prepared for all emergencies and contingencies that have grown into the insurance business. A column "With Insurance Men" gives in compact form all the latest doings in the insurance world and is conceded by insurance men everywhere to be the best and most up-to-date report published by any newspaper in the United States. It does not copy its information from insurance journals, but secures it first hand from managers, agents and companies and by telegraph from its own special correspondents, by telephone and in special cable dispatches from abroad. The New York service of The Record-Herald's insurance department is equaled by no other paper. In fact it is the only daily newspaper that gives insurance men the first information daily on every important event in the insurance business.

Last Sunday night H. C Hoeft, of Adrian, went to bed, leaving the door open so that his son might enter when he returned on a late train from Detroit. But before the young man arrived a thief crept in, and managed to take a pocketbook containing $150 from under the pillow upon which Mr. H. was sleeping. It was a slick job, but the officers are hopeful that they will find the thief. —Ex.

Wednesday night a freight train broke in two, between Hudson and Pittsford. The crew did not observe it, as it was about midnight. The rear part came down the grade and crashed into the front cars which stood on the track near Hudson. Several cars were destroyed, and the debris received six hours' work by the wrecking car. Merchandise was strewn in all directions, and a tramp stealing a ride was willing to get out and walk.—Adrian Press.

A. M. Morrison had the fingers of his right hand evened up with the planer Wednesday morning. He was cleaning out clogged shavings from the pipe and while working at this the second finger of his right hand came a little too close to the revolving knives and was clipped off so that now three of the fingers of his right hand are the same length. One more clip and he will need only one mit during cold weather. Quite a saving.—Deerfield Times Journal.

The rise of ground north of the Lake Shore freight house where the grain car used to be let down, is being leveled down preparatory to putting in another sidetrack. The new track will be on the west side of the freight house and extend south of that building. It will be a great convenience to the shippers in loading, especially the large amount of coal that is shipped here for the woolen mill and other firms.—Clinton Local.

PERILS OF LAND AND SEA

For many years, Captain Willnef, says the Times of Gloucester, Mass., was one of the best known seamen in the Gloucester Fleet. The sea and its dangers had no terror for him, but the catarrhal troubles with which he suffered for fifteen years made him dread the nights at sea, for he had to walk the cabin floor, being unable to lie down and sleep on account of the constant catarrhal dropping.

Captain Willnef went to two different hospitals for treatment, but could get no lasting benefit. He constantly raised yellow and green phlegm and his trouble became so unbearable and nauseating that he was ashamed to go out in company. When despairing of ever getting relief, his wife purchased a Hyomei outfit for him and trying it before going to bed, he enjoyed the first whole night's sleep for ten years. Captain Willnef says, "I have used less than two bottles of Hyomei and have been cured by the remedy. My friends ask me what is responsible for my improvement and I tell them Hyomei, which has given me full and complete recovery."

Captain Willnef's experience shows our readers what to do in time of catarrhal trouble,—use Hyomei. This remarkable treatment kills the germs of catarrh and makes lasting and permanent cures. C. A. Wright sells Hyomei under his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not give quick relief.

Beautiful Thoughts

A mother's yearning for children is inseparable from a love of the beautiful, and it behooves every woman to bring the sweetest and best influence to bear on the subject of her maternity.

To relieve pain and make easy that period when life is born again, is popularly used. It is a liniment easily administered and for external use only.

Mother's Friend

Pregnant women should try this remedy, it being undeniably a friend to her during nature's term of suspense and anticipation.

Mother's Friend, if used throughout gestation, will soften the breasts, thereby preventing cracked and sore nipples. All muscles straining with the burden will relax, become supple and elastic from its continued application.

All fibres in the abdominal region will respond readily to the expanding cover containing the embryo if Mother's Friend is applied externally during pregnancy. Of all reliable druggists $1.00 per bottle. Write for free book on "Motherhood."

WHY IT SUCCEEDS.

Because It's for one thing only and Tecumseh is learning this.

Nothing can be sold for everything.
One thing done well brings success.
Doan's Kidney Pills do one thing only.
Cure backache, every kidney ill.
Here is Tecumseh evidence to prove it.

C. Patterson, the well known sexton, residing in the southeastern section of Tecumseh, says: "For over a year I had a soreness and pain in the small of my back at times quite severe, more so if I did a hard days work or took cold, for it always settled in my kidneys. The secretions were discolored and irregular and I had all symptoms of kidney complaint. I heard several people praising Doan's Kidney Pills so concluding to try them I got a box at C. A. Wright's drug store and commenced the treatment. I found it just suited my case for it helped me right from the start. It stopped the pain in my back and regulated and cleared up the kidney secretions. I do not hesitate to recommend them to anyone suffering with this complaint."

For sale by all dealers: Price 50 cents per box, Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute

COLLEGE GIRLS FOUGHT.

A Midnight Spread Brought About a Lively Conflict.

Alma, Mich., October 10.—What turned out to be a very bitter struggle occurred late in the evening when the girls on the second floor of Wright hall succeeded in breaking up a spread among the third floor girls. Having learned that a banquet was on, the second floor girls donned their gymnasium suits and 25 in number made a spirited attack upon the third floorites just as they were about to begin their feast.

Up and down from basement to the third floor the struggle raged. All dignity and reserve was laid aside and a genuine rough and tumble hairpulling contest was kept up until utter exhaustion ended the strife. The lady members of the faculty sought in vain to stop the contest. When quiet was finally restored, torn dresses, bruises and black eyes bore ample testimony to the strenuous nature of the conflict. Hard feeling still exists and a renewal of hostilities is looked for at any time.

Prisoner Cut His Throat.

Flint, Mich., Oct. 7.—William Ouberkirk, a prisoner confined in the county jail here, attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a razor. Six stitches were taken in the wound, and it is thought that he will recover. He was convicted of larceny and was sentenced to Marquette for ten years, and it is thought that despondency caused the deed.

Constipation, Its Cause and Cure.

A person in order to be healthy must get rid of the waste products (or poisons) of the body. Nature has provided four ways to get rid of them: The Bowels, the Kidneys, the Bladder and the pores of the Skin.

If the bowels become inactive, that portion of the food which should be thrown off lies in the intestines and decomposes, causing blood, nerve, liver and kidney trouble, and closes the pores of the skin, thus creating disease in the entire system.

You can immediately relieve and permanently cure yourself of stubborn constipation or distressing stomach trouble and perfectly regulate your kidneys and liver by taking one dose a day of DRAKE'S PALMETTO WINE. Any reader of this paper can secure absolutely free a bottle by writing to Drake Formula Co., Drake Building, Chicago.

A FREE trial bottle alone has brought health and vigor to many, so you owe it to yourself to prove what it will do in your case.

Better than pills.

The question has been asked—In what way are Chamberlain's stomach and liver tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is—They are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle and so agreeable that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then they not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and aid digestion. For sale by all druggists in Tecumseh.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

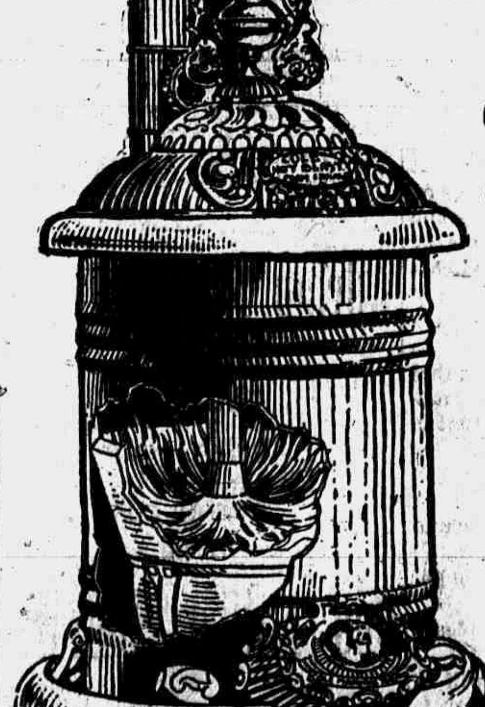
Original Cole's Hot Blast Stoves Here!!

BETTER THAN LAST YEAR. SAVE $25 IN FUEL EVERY WINTER. BUY NOW.

1904 Models of the Original Cole's Hot Blast are ready. This is the stove that burns the gas half of coal and saves the waste chimney heat of other stoves, saving one-half. Burns any kind of fuel without changing the stove in any way. Get one in your house now. There will be many a chilly morning and evening before real cold weather, and Cole's Hot Blast will warm things up and dry up the dampness with a few newspapers, a handful of kindling or a few cobs. Read carefully the interesting description of this stove given below. It tells why Cole's Hot Blast Stove makes $5.00 worth of fuel do more work than can be had with $10.00 worth in any other stove.

FURNACE USERS.—By purchasing one of these stoves for use during the early cold weather, you can start your furnace two months later and save from one to five tons of coal. This will also prevent over-heating your house during the early cold weather which is unavoidable with a furnace.



Cut shows Patented Hot Blast Draft burning the gases in the fuel.

Cost of Stove Saved in Fuel

In an ordinary coal stove, half of the coal arises in gas and quickly goes up the chimney. When you remember that gas is itself fine fuel, being used in all the large cities for cooking, heating, and lighting, you realize how much is saved if the gas doesn't escape, but is held in the stove and burned.

Your old leaky stove does not give you a warm house at night and is usually out on the coldest morning and your house is cold for half the day.

Notice in this picture of Cole's Hot Blast how the draft burns the gas. It discharges a blast of highly heated air over and through the body of the fuel, thus distilling the gas from the fuel, oxydizing and burning it before its escape up the chimney and saving one half.

Read the Guarantee

Cole's Hot Blast is air-tight and guaranteed to remain so. Imitations open at the seams and leak at the joints. Cole's Hot Blast is so perfect in construction that fire keeps all night. Both the gases and heat lost up the chimney with your old leaky stove are saved, and when the draft is opened in the morning the stove will burn one to three hours with the fuel put in the night before. No other stove does this. Fire, therefore, never goes out, and the rooms are kept at even temperature all the time.

Guarantee

1—We guarantee a saving of one-third in fuel over any lower draft stove of the same size.

2—We guarantee Cole's Hot Blast to use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner with same heating surface.

3—We guarantee that the rooms can be heated from one to two hours each morning, with the soft or hard coal put in the evening before.

4—We guarantee that the stove will hold fire with soft coal thirty-six hours, without attention.

5—We guarantee a uniform heat day and night, with soft coal or hard coal, lignite or slack.

6—We guarantee every stove to remain absolutely air-tight as long as used.

7—We guarantee the feed-door to be smoke proof and dust proof.

The above guarantee is made with the understanding that the stove be operated according to directions, and set up with a good flue.

Scientific Construction

The accompanying cut will give you an idea of the large sensitive radiating surface which responds at once to the fire. The heavy cast iron fire box and the cast iron lining and steel lining extending to the top, protect the stove where other stoves burn out first. The patented steel collar connecting the elbow casting to the jacket, patented compound hinge for the ash door, the patented ball and socket joint for the blast draft, and the patented smoke proof feed door are features which combine to make Cole's Original Hot Blast a success where imitation stoves which cannot use these patented features are failures.

The Cost of the Stove and the Fuel to Run It This Winter will be Less than Your Last Winter's Fuel Bill. BUY NOW.

Even Heat Day and Night. Fire Never Out.

MICHIGAN HAD A DAY

Important Gathering at Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

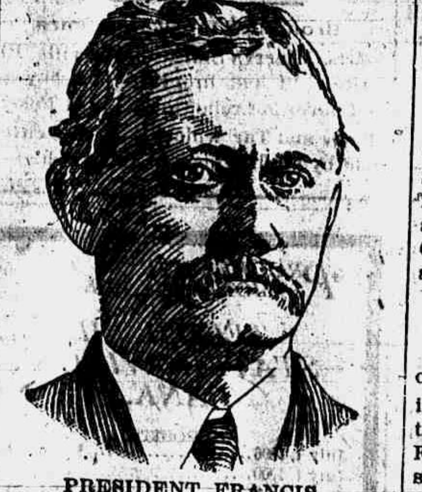
TO CELEBRATE MICHIGAN DAY.

State Building Elaborately Decorated For the Occasion—Governor Bliss and President Francis Spoke—Mayor Bible of Ionia Gave Interesting Facts.

World's Fair Grounds, St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 13.—The Wolverine state had its day at the exposition Wednesday and many hundreds of patriotic Michiganders helped celebrate, and quantities of yellow "Michigan" ribbons were distributed.

Gay bunting without, and palms and flowers within, the Michigan building announced that Michigan was hostess and ceremonies were touched off at 11 o'clock by a military parade, escorting President Francis, Gov. Bliss and the Michigan commission.

President Frederick B. Smith gave a brief sketch of the work of the Michigan commission, and introduced Gov. Bliss as chairman. The response of President Francis to the governor was graceful and showed close knowledge of Michigan's resources He was warmly applauded.



PRESIDENT FRANCIS.

In the opening remarks of his forceful address on Michigan, Justice Montgomery provoked amusement by his statement that his appearance was necessitated because all the state's orators had pressing political engagements which kept them at home. He presented a strong historical sketch, and paid glowing tribute to sturdy men, who have brought honor to their native state.

J. F. Bible, of Ionia, representing the Michigan Manufacturers' association and speaking of "Michigan from a manufacturer's standpoint," was a mine of interesting facts.

Hal H. Smith, secretary of the Michigan commission, spoke on the relations of the exposition and states.

At the close of the program, Gov. Bliss, the Michigan commissioners, Mayor Mabury and Police Commissioner Fowle, of Detroit; President J. L. Hudson, of the Detroit Board of Commerce, and others lunched together.

Hobo Stole $200 Worth of Silver.

Ludington, Mich., Oct. 13.—A tramp walked into the Stearns hotel here and boldly took away with him a valise containing $200 worth of sterling silverware. Later in the day officers found the man with two companions overhauling the spoils in a box car in the railroad yard. About $100 worth of the goods are missing. The three hoboes are in custody.

Another Miner Killed.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 13.—The falling in of the roof of the twenty-seventh elevator of No. 2 shaft of the Tamarack mine killed Mike Lamuthe, a trammer.

Senator Hoar's Successor.

Boston, Oct. 13.—Governor Bates has appointed former Governor W. Murray Crane, of Dalton, United States Senator to fill the unexpired term of George F. Hoar, recently deceased.

UNIVERSALISTS.

Convene in Annual Session at the State Capital.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 12.—The sixty-first annual meeting of the Michigan convention of universalist churches was opened at the Church of Our Father Tuesday morning with devotional exercises, led by Rev. Franklin Varney of Decatur. The sessions are presided over by the president of the convention, Rev. H. B. Bard of this city. There were 75 delegates present at the opening session, and the number under the direction of Rev. Bard, as was increased to 100 last evening. Holy Communion was celebrated sisted by Rev. Lee S. McCollister of Detroit.

The latter, who is secretary of the convention, reported that there are now twenty-six parishes in the state and that these parishes own twenty-three church buildings. Twenty ministers are in fellowship with the state convention.

At the afternoon session of the convention a paper on "Prison Work" was read by Rev. Frank McAlpine, chaplain of the Michigan state prison. Last evening addresses were made by Rev. W. L. Gibbs of Concord and National Field Secretary Nash.

WOMAN'S FEDERATED CLUBS.

Opened a Three-Days' Session at Bay City.

Bay City, Oct. 12.—The Woman's Federated clubs opened a three days' sesion here Tuesday. Addresses of welcome were made by Mayor Woodworth and Mrs. May S. Knaggs which were responded to by the state president, Mrs. Josephine M. Gould.

Presbyterian Synod Meets

Saginaw, Mich., Oct. 12.—Twenty-one years ago the state synod of Michigan met in Saginaw, and last night the seventeenth session opened in the First Presbyterian church on the west side. Rev. Wm. F. Jones, moderator, delivered a sermon and Lord's Supper was partaken of Rev. David M. Cooper of Detroit, first pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, presided, assisted by Rev. E. A. Hoffman and Rev. David McAllister. Rev. William C. Covert presented the report of the committee on arrangements. At 9:15 John W. Baer of New York, addressed a largely attended meeting of Christian Endeavorers. He is national secretary and his address was an inspiring one, relating principally to missionary work, which is a special province of the synod. There are about 150 to 175 delegates in attendance.

Michigan Railroad Earnings.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 12.—The report of Railroad Commissioner Atwood shows that the total Michigan earnings of railroad companies for the month of August were $4,614,796.69, and increase of $98,826.86 over the same month last year. The aggregate earnings of the railroads in Michigans the first eight months of the present year were $31,080,619.68. This is a decrease of $1,996,828.15, or 6.42 per cent, as compared with the same period of 1903.

May Be Work of Fire Bugs.

Waterford, Mich., Oct. 12.—Fire destroyed a residence belonging to Mrs. N. R. Ganing and formerly occupied by a Mr. Cole, at about 4 o'clock in the morning. The fire is supposed to have been caused by incendiarism. Twice before with in a week fires have been discovered in the house. In one instance burning cobs were found on the carpet of one of the rooms.

'Twas An Alma Woman.

Jackson, Mich., Oct. 12.—It now turns out that the woman who died suddenly on Michigan Central train No. 17, and from cards in her pocketbook was supposed to be Mrs. I. N. Goff, 822 Howard street, South Bend, Ind., is Mrs. H. F. Goff, of Alma, Mich. Her husband was notified and came to the city, returning with his wife's remains to Alma.

Smallpox Patient at Large.

Flint, Mich., Oct. 12.—George Gillett, a smallpox patient at the contagious disease hospital here, escaped at night and is still at large. He came here from Ludington. Efforts are being made to catch the man, whose face still bears marks of the disease

NO RESULT REPORTED

Fighting Continues Between Great Armies South of Mukden.

KUROPATKIN'S MAIN ATTACK

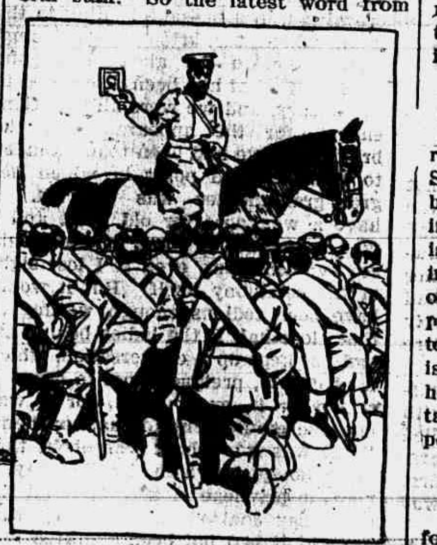
Mukden, Oct. 13.—Stubborn fighting is still in progress. It is impossible at this time to say what has been accomplished.

Hospital trains are continually arriving from the south. The wounded are being sent further north. A dressing station has been established on the railway platform here, where nurses and surgeons give prompt attention to the most urgent cases before the trains proceed.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 13.—(3:20 a. m.)—No official news of the result of Wednesday's battle south of Mukden is available at this hour. General Kuropatkin doubtless has communicated his regular report to Emperor Nicholas at Tsarkoe Selo, but the despatch was not sent back to the general staff. So the latest word from Russian sources is contained in the Associated Press despatch from Mukden.



THE CZAR BLESSING THE ALEXANDER III. REGIMENT.

The frontal attack on the Yentai mines developed a desperate battle in which probably 100,000 men are engaged; but though the despatches so far deal almost exclusively with this feature of the battle it is pointed out that there is a much wider field involved. A fight on the Russian left flank has not yet developed and probably here General Kuropatkin intends to deliver his main blow.

Tokio, Oct. 13.—Field Marshal Oyama has met General Kuropatkin's advance with a general advance of the min strength of his force along a broad front.

The opposing forces are in touch and it is believed that a great battle south of the Hun river is inevitable.

A considerbale force of Russians which was sent across the Taitse river, 35 miles east of Liaoyang, has apparently been isolated by the Japanese cutting its rear, and the report of its defeat or capture is expected.

Great Accident Narrowly Averted.

Bennington, Vt., Oct. 13.—The Montreal express southbound on the Rutland railroad with 380 passengers on board was wrecked this afternoon at Arlington, fourteen miles north of here. No one was injured but the train had a narrow escape from being precipitated down a 20-foot embankment. The rails spread letting the entire train down on the ties. Scudding along the ties for a short distance the locomotive and coaches toppled over against a "dead" freight that stood on the opposite track. The engine was badly damaged. In the absence of the freight cars the passenger train must have plunged over a 20-foot embankment

A love letter.

Would not interest you if you're looking for a guaranteed salve for sores, burns, or piles. Otto Dodd, of Ponder, Mo., writes: "I suffered with an ugly sore for a year but, a box of Bucklen's Arnica salve cured me. It's the best salve on earth. 25c at C. A. Wright's drug store.

Many New Monuments.

Washington, Oct. 13.—The war department has just received the report of the Chickamauga and Chattanooga national park commission submitted for the commission by General H. V. Boynton, chairman. The commissioners state that during the year monuments were erected and dedicated by the states of Maryland, Ohio and Pennsylvania. The state of Ohio also has placed seventy bronze tablets on Missionary Ridge to make the ground of action of its regimental organizations and three large bronze tablets to preserve general Ohio history in the battle and that of thirten batteries. The commissioners add that work is progressing very rapidly on the great New York monument on Lookout Montain. The commission recommends for the next fiscal year increased provision for maintenance of roads; also for rebuilding the Peavine Creek bridge and that the Alexander bridge, which is of wood, be replaced with one of metal.

Headless Bodies in Wreck.

San Francisco, Oct. 13.—The schooner Gotoma, which has just arrived here from Kurile island, reports that on August 4, when forty miles southwest of Cape Curat, she sighted a mass of floating wreckage. Captain Macomber established the fact that it was from the Japanese troop ship Kinshiu Maru, which was sunk by the Russians last April, when 200 perished. Entangled in the wreckage were a number of headless trunks. How those who perished were beheaded is a mystery.

Lord Milner Resigns.

London, Oct. 13.—Lord Milner has resigned the high commissionership of South Africa on account of ill-health, brought about by the prolonged strain in grappling with the situation, which is daily becoming more difficult, owing to the financial and racial troubles of the country. Lord Milner had twice previously resigned, but was induced to reconsider his decision, which now is irrevocable. Lord Milner comes home at Christmas and after consultation with his successor will be appointed.

St. Louis Boodlers Sentenced.

St. Louis, Oct. 13.—Chas. F. Kelly, formerly speaker of the lower house of the municipal asembly, and Chas. A. Gutke, a former member of that body, have been sentenced to terms in the penitentiary for connection with the suburban bribery deal. Kelly was given two years for perjury and Gutke five years for bribery.

Farmer Took Morphine.

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 13.—Elias M. Wheelock, belonging to one of the wealthiest families in this section of the state, committed suicide at his home, six miles from this city. It is said that straitened finances was the cause. Wheelock came to Battle Creek and bought morphine and was seen by a neighbor to enter his barn. The body was found near the barn.

Fair Was a Failure.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 13.—The recent county fair was a financial failure to the amount of $300, and the citizens who put up the guarantee fund will be called upon for a 25 per cent assesment to make up the deficit.

Ames Again On Trial.

Minneapolis, Oct. 13.—A jury having been secured aftdr two days' work, the third trial of former Mayor A. A. Ames, for bribery and corruption, beban in earnest Wednesday.

University Gets $70,000.

Washington, Oct. 13.—By a decision rendered by Chief Justice Alvey of the district court of appeals, Georgetown university will ultimately receive the greater portion of the estate of $70,000, left by Dr. E. Carroll Morgan, who died some years ago. Bequests to the college were attacked by the immediate beneficiaries who contended that the university had not been properly named in th will.

How to cure corns and bunions.

First, soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it; then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's pain balm twice daily, rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn a few days to protect it from the shoe. As a general liniment for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism, pain balm is unequaled. OUR Sack Suits, designed according to advanced fashion's predictions for Fall and Winter, are here. The accompanying drawing is a faithful illustration of three styles of particular cut and elegance made by Crouse & Brandegee. Notice the length of coat—the distinctive cut of the three-button Newport—also in our Normandie the same regard to detail of style and finish. We keep in mind the fact that a tall man cannot wear a suit that a short man should wear. This is the satisfactory feature on both the Newport and Normandie. They are absolutely correct in every and all requirements. But the man who is not over six feet tall is not overlooked; the same careful attention has been given him. The result is our Arvon, which also has much elegance of make and gives the short man extra inches in appearance. We have these styles in the NEW BROWNS—in beautiful and choice materials, those new patterns of slight over-plaids almost indistinct. These cost what you would expect, $10.00 to $35.00.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and till the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies and by failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and the mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

A Judicious Inpuriry.

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade, says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's cough remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. CHAPTER XVI.

"The setting sun will soon release you, Mr. Moore. Are you going immediately into town?"

He paused in his rubbing, which was being done with a very tender hand, and as if he really loved the name he was endeavoring to bring into plainer view. Scowling a little, he turned and met me point blank with a look which had a good deal of inquiry in it.

"I am not usually interrupted here," he emphasized—"except by the boys," he added more mildly. "They sometimes approach too closely, but I am used to the imps and scarcely notice them. Ah, there are some of my old friends now! Well, it is time they knew that a change has taken place in my fortunes. Hi, there! Hands up and catch this and this and this!" he shouted. "But keep quiet about it, or next year you will get pennies again."

And, flinging quarters right and left, he smiled in such a pompous, self satisfied way at the hurrah and scramble which ensued, that it was well worth my journey there just to see this exhibition of combined vanity and good humor.

"Now go!" he vociferated; and the urchins, black and white, flew away, flinging up their heels in delight and shouting: "Bully for you, Uncle David! We'll come again next year, not for twenty-fives, but fifties!"

"I will make it dollars if I only live so long," he muttered. And deigning now to remember the question I had put to him, he grandly remarked:

"I am going straight into town. Can I do anything for you?"

"Nothing. I thought you might like to know what awaits you there. The city is greatly stirred up. The coroner's jury in the Jeffrey-Moore case has just brought in a verdict to the effect that suicide has not been proved. Naturally, this is equivalent to one of murder."

"Ah!" he ejaculated, slightly taken aback for one so invariably impassive.

"And to whom is the guilt of this crime ascribed?" he presently ventured.

"There was mention of no name, but the opprobrium naturally falls on Miss Tuttle."

"Miss Tuttle? Ah!"

"Since Mr. Jeffrey is proved to have been too far away at the time to have fired that shot, while she"—

"I am following you"—

"Was in the very house—at the door of the library in fact—and heard the pistol discharged, if she did not discharge it herself—which some believe, notably the district attorney. You should have been there, Mr. Moore."

He looked surprised at this suggestion.

"I never am anywhere but here on the 23d of May," he declared.

"Miss Tuttle needed some adviser."

"Ah, probably."

"You would have been a good one."

"And a welcome one, eh?"

I hardly thought he would have been a welcome one, but I did not admit the fact. Nevertheless he seized on the advantage he evidently thought he had gained and added, mildly enough, or, rather, without any display of feeling:

"Miss Tuttle likes me even less than Veronica did. I do not think she would have accepted, certainly she would not have desired, my presence in her counsels. But of one thing I wish her to be assured, her and the world in general. Any money she may need at this—at this unhappy crisis in her life, she will find amply supplied. She has no claims on me, but that makes little difference where the family honor is concerned. Her mother's husband was my brother—the girl shall have all she needs. I will write her so."

He was moving toward his carriage

"Fine turnout?" he interrogatively remarked.

I assented with all the surprise—with all the wonder even—which his sublime egotism seemed to invite.

"It is the best that Downey could raise in the time I allotted him. When I really finger the money, we shall see, we shall see."

His foot was on the carriage step. He looked up at the west. The sun was almost down, but not quite. "Have you any special business with me?" he asked, lingering with what I thought a surprising display of consciousness till the last ray of the sunlight had disappeared.

I glanced up at the coachman sitting on his box as rigid as any stone.

"You may speak," said he; "Cæsar neither hears nor sees anything but his horses when he drives me."

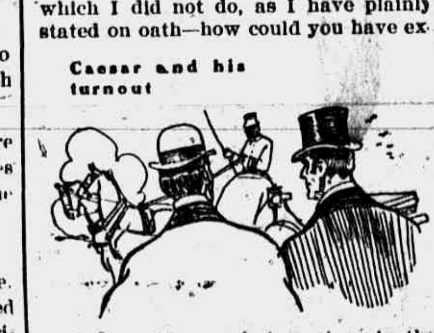
The black did not wink. He was as completely at home on the box and as quiet and composed in his service as if he had driven this man for years.

"He understands his duty," finished the master, but with no outward appearance of pride. "What have you to say to me?"

I hesitated no longer.

"Miss Tuttle is supposed to have secretly entered the Moore house on the night you summoned us. She even says she did. I know that you have sworn to having seen no one go into that house, but notwithstanding this, haven't you some means at your disposal for proving to the police and to the world at large that she never fired that fatal shot? Public opinion is so cruel. She will be ruined, whether innocent or guilty, unless it can be very plainly shown that she did not enter the library prior to going there with the police."

"And how can you suppose me to be in a position to prove that? Say that I had sat in my front window all the evening and watched with uninterrupted assiduity the door through which so many are said to have passed between sunset and midnight—something which I did not do, as I have plainly stated on oath—how could you have expected me to see what went on in the black interior of a house whose exterior is barely discernible at night across the street?"



Caesar and his turnout

"Then you cannot aid her?" I asked.

With a light bound he leaped into the carriage. As he took his seat he politely remarked:

"I should be glad to, since, though not a Moore, she is near enough the family to affect its honor. But, not having even seen her enter the house, I cannot testify in any way in regard to her. Home, Cæsar, and drive quickly I do not thrive under these evening damps."

And, leaning back with an inexpressible air of contentment with himself, his equipage and the prospect of an indefinite enjoyment of the same, the last representative of the great Moore family was quietly driven away.

CHAPTER XVII.

I MUST admit that it was not entirely owing to disinterested motives that I now took the secret stand I did in Miss Tuttle's favor. I clung to my convictions with an almost insensate persistence, inwardly declaring her the victim of circumstances and hoping against hope that some clew would offer itself by means of which I might yet prove her so.

Had Mr. Jeffrey's alibi been less complete he could not have stood up against the suspicions which now ran riot. But there was no possibility of shifting the actual crime back to him after the testimony of so frank and trustworthy a man as Tallman. If the stopping of Mrs. Jeffrey's watch fixed the moment of her death as accurately as was supposed—and I never heard the least doubt thrown out in this regard—he could not by any means of transit then known in Washington have reached Waverley avenue in time to fire that shot. The gates of the cemetery were closed at sundown. Sundown took place that night at one minute past 7, and the distance into town is considerable. His alibi could not be gainsaid. So his name failed to be publicly broached in connection with the shooting, though his influence over Miss Tuttle could not be forgotten, suggesting to some that she had acted as his hand in the deed which robbed him of an undesirable wife. But this I would not believe. I preferred to accept the statement that she had stopped short of the library door in her suspicious visit there and that the ribbon tying, which went for so much, had been done at home.

Finding myself, with every new consideration of the tantalizing subject, deeper and deeper in the quagmire of doubt and uncertainty, I sought enlightenment by making a memorandum of the special points which must have influenced the jury in their verdict, as witness:

Second.—The possibility, disclosed by the similarity between the sisters' handwriting, of this same communication being a forgery substituted for the one really written by Mrs. Jeffrey.

Third.—The fact that, previous to Mr. Jeffrey's handling of the book in which this communication was said to have been hidden, it had been seen in Miss Tuttle's hands.

Fourth.—That immediately after this she had passed to the drawer where Mr. Jeffrey's pistol was kept.

Fifth.—That while this pistol had not been observed in her hand, there was as yet no evidence to prove that it had been previously taken from the drawer, save such as was afforded by her own acknowledgment that she had tied some unknown object, presumably the pistol, to her sister's wrist before that sister left the house.

Sixth.—That if this was so, the pistol and the ribbon connecting it with Mrs. Jeffrey's wrist had been handled again before the former was discharged, and by fingers which had first touched dust, of which there was plenty in the old library.

Seventh.—That Miss Tuttle had admitted, though not till after much prevarication and apparent subterfuge, that she had extended her walk on that fatal night not only as far as the Moore house, but that she had entered it and penetrated as far as the library door at the very moment the shot was fired within.

Eighth.—That in acknowledging this she had emphatically denied having associated the firing of this shot with any idea of harm to her sister; yet was known to have gone from this house in a condition of mind so serious that she failed to recollect the places she visited or the streets she passed through till she found herself again in her sister's house face to face with an officer.

Nine.—That her first greeting of this officer was a shriek, betraying a knowledge of his errand before he had given utterance to a word.

Ten.—That the candles found in the Moore house were similar to those bought by Mr. Jeffrey and afterward delivered at his kitchen door.

Eleven.—That she was the only member of the household besides the cook who was in the kitchen at the time, and that it was immediately after her departure from the room that the package containing the candles had been missed.

Twelve.—That opportunities of coming to an understanding with Mr. Jeffrey after his wife's death had not been lacking, and it was not until after such opportunities had occurred that any serious inquiry into this matter had been begun by the police. To which must be added, not in way of proof, but as an important factor in the case, that her manner, never open, was such throughout her whole public examination as to make it evident to all that only half of what had occurred in the Jeffreys' house since the wedding had been given out by her or by the man for whose release from a disappointing matrimonial entanglement she was supposed to have worked, and this though the suspicion hanging over them both called for the utmost candor.

Verily a serious list, and opposed to this I had as yet little to offer but my own belief in her innocence and the fact, but little dwelt on and yet not without its value, that the money which had come to Mr. Jeffrey and the home which had been given her had both been forfeited by Mrs. Jeffrey's death.

As I mused and mused over this impromptu synopsis in my vain attempt to reach some fresh clew to a proper understanding of the inconsistencies in Miss Tuttle's conduct by means of my theory of her strong but mistaken devotion to Mr. Jeffrey, a light suddenly broke upon me from an entirely unexpected quarter. It was a faint one, but any glimmer was welcome. Remembering a remark made by Mr. Jeffrey in his examination that Mrs. Jeffrey had not been the same since crossing the fatal doorstep of the Moore house, I asked myself if we had paid enough attention to the mental condition and conduct of the bride prior to the alarm which threw a pall or horror over her marriage, and, caught by the idea, I sought for a fuller account of the events of that day than had hitherto been supplied by newspaper or witness.

Hunting up my friend the reporter, I begged him to tell me where he had obtained the facts from which he made that leading article in the Star which had so startled all Washington on the evening of the Jeffrey wedding. That they had come from some eyewitness I had no doubt, but who was the eyewitness? Himself? No. Who then? At first he declined to tell me, but after a fuller understanding of my motives he mentioned the name of a young lady who, while a frequent guest at the most fashionable functions, was not above supplying the papers with such little items of current gossip as came under her own observation.

The reporter

How I managed to approach this lady and by what means I succeeded in gaining her confidence are details quite unnecessary to this narrative. Enough that I did obtain access to her and that she talked quite frankly to me and in so doing supplied me with a clew which ultimately opened up to me an entirely new field of inquiry.

We had been discussing Mr. Jeffrey and Miss Tuttle when suddenly and with no apparent motive beyond the natural love of gossip, which was her weakness, she launched out into remarks about the bride. The ceremony had been late. Did I know it? A half hour or three-quarters past the time set for it. And why? Because Miss Moore was not ready. She had chosen to array herself in the house and had come early enough for the purpose, but she would not accept any assistance, not even that of her maid, and of course she kept every one waiting. "Oh, there was no more uneasy soul in the whole party that morning than the bride!" Let other people remark upon the high look in Cora Tuttle's face or gossip about the anxious manner of the bridegroom, she (the speaker) could tell things about the bride which would go to show that she was not all right even before that ominous death's head reared itself into view at her marriage festival. Why, the fact that she came downstairs and was married without her bridal bouquet was enough. Had there not been so much else to talk about, people would have talked about that. But the big event had so effectually swallowed up the little that only herself and possibly two other ladies she might name seemed to retain any memory of the matter.

"What ladies?" I asked.

"Oh, it doesn't matter what ladies. Two of the very best sort. I know they noticed it, because I heard them talking about it. We were all standing in the upper hall and were all crowded into a passage leading to the room where the bride was dressing. It was before the alarm had gone around of what had been discovered in the library, and we were all impatient enough for the appearance of the bride, who, we had been told, intended to wear the old point in which her great-grandmother was married. I have a weakness for old point and I was determined to stand where I could see her come out, even if I lost sight of the ceremony itself. But it would have been tedious enough waiting in that close hall if the ladies behind me had not kept up a conversation, which I, of course, pretended not to hear. I remember it, every word, for it was my sole amusement for half an hour. What was it? Oh, it was about that same bouquet, which, by the way, I had the privilege of staring at all the time they chatted. For the boy who brought it had not been admitted into Miss Moore's room, and, not knowing what else to do with it, was lingering before her door, with the great streamers falling from his hands, and the lilies making the whole place heavy with a sickening perfume. From what I heard the ladies say, he had been standing there an hour, and the timid knock he gave from time to time produced in me an odd feeling which those ladies behind me seemed to share.

"'It's a shame!' I heard one of them cry. 'Veronica Moore has no excuse for such thoughtlessness. It is an hour now that she has been shut up in her room alone. She won't have even her maid in. She prefers to dress alone, she says. Peculiar in a bride, isn't it? But one thing is certain—she cannot put on her veil without help. She will have to call some one in for that.' At which the other volunteered that the Moores were all queer, and that she didn't envy Francis Jeffrey. 'What! not with fifty thousand a year to lighten her oddities?' returned her companion with a shrug which communicated itself to me, so closely were we packed together. 'I have a son who could bear with them under such circumstances.' Indeed she has, and all Washington knows it, but the remark passed without comment, for they had not yet exhausted the main event, and the person they now attacked was Miss Tuttle. 'Why doesn't she come and see that that bouquet is taken in? I declare it's not decent. Mr. Jeffrey would not feel complimented if he knew the fate of those magnificent lilies and roses. I presume he furnished the bouquet.'

Obtained Judgment Against Priest.

St. Paul, Oct. 13.—A special from Des Moines, Ia., says: Mrs. Veronica Burda has obtained a judgment of $10,000 in the Hancock county district court against John Brose, a Roman Catholic priest. A few months ago the priest made a visit to the little town of Duncan and while in a store at that place exhibited a bottle of carbolic acid and some other ingredients which he said he was going to use on his horse. Burda in a spirit of bravado took the bottle and drank most of the contents and died in a few minutes. His widow then brought suit against the priest. It is given out that that verdict was returned on the ground of criminal carelessness. A motion for a new trial will be argued.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's cough remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists, Tecumseh, Mich.

C. A. WRIGHT SIGNS THE BOND

Mi-o-na, Nature's cure for dyspepsia costs nothing if it fails.

The guarantee given with Mi-o-na is no ordinary promise. It is a guarantee bond signed by your own druggist, a reliable firm right in this town. Read the following guarantee bond and see how simple and plain it is!

GUARANTEE BOND.

I hereby agree to refund the money paid for Mi-o-na on return of empty box if the purchaser tells him that it has failed to cure dyspepsia or stomach troubles. This guarantee covers two boxes, or a month's treatment. Price 50c per box.

(Signed)..............

It does not always happen that two boxes of Mi-o-na will cure a case of stomach trouble that has been present for years, but they will certainly give more than enough benefit to prove that the remedy will cure. In ordinary cases one or two boxes will restore perfect health.

A few doses of Mi-o-na will strengthen the nerves of the stomach so that the appetite will return and you will be started on the right road to health.

Ninety-three per cent of chronic diseases begin with dyspepsia. Cure the dyspeptic troubles, regulate the digestion and avoid the fate of chronic invalidism.

Remember you run no risk in using Mi-o-na. C. A. Wright warrants it and it costs you nothing unless it cures.

A Correction.

In the HERALD of Tuesday an item was made that Cleo Hall had made an assignment to Dr. North. This is not so and neither does he intend to make an assignment. The HERALD got the news from current report on the street, attempted to verify it but as Cleo is the hardest man in town to find, being on the ice wagon all the time and Dr. North was in Adrian, the item slipped in by mistake without verification creating a great injustice to Cleo Hall.

I alone am to blame and hasten to make it right as soon as possible. GEO. N. STACY.

I am sorry for the false rumors and publication of an assignment supposed to have been made by me as stated in Tuesday's issue of the HERALD. I take this opportunity for an absolute denial of the existence of such a condition of affairs.

Next year I will be in the ice business with much improved facilities, the best of help and a square deal for everybody. Assign me your business and I will do the rest. C. W. HALL.

Auction.

Having decided to leave the farm, I will sell at public auction, on the premises, one mile north-west of Tecumseh, on Thursday, Oct. 20, 1904, at one o'clock p. m. sharp, the following described property:

One Milburn wagon, 1 stock rack, 1 set dump-boards, 1 cutter, 1 pair bobs, 3 buggy poles, 1 set heavy harness, 1 light double harness, 1 single harness, 1 new Hawkeye hay loader, 1 new McCormick mower, 1 Wood-mower, 1 Thomas tedder, 1 hay rake, 1 two-horse cultivator, 1 Planet cultivator, 1 seed sower, 1 roller, 1 plow, 2 drags, 1 set new 3-horse whiffletrees, 1 drill, 1 set Howe scales. 200 feet of pipe, 1 corn sheller, 1 grindstone, 1 feed cooker, quantity of old corn, 10 tons of timothy hay, 20 acres corn in shock, and many small articles too numerous to mention. M. E. CONKLIN.

Frank Davidson, Auc.

Saves two from death.

"Our little daughter had an almost fatal attack of whooping cough and branchitis" writes Mrs. W. Haviland, of Armon, N. Y., "but when all other remedies failed we saved her life with Dr. King's New Discovery. Our neice, who had consumption in an advanced stage, also used this wonderful medicine and today she is perfectly well." Lung and throat diseases yield to Dr. King's New Discovery as to no other medicine on earth. Infallible for coughs and colds. 50c and $1 bottles guaranteed by C. A. Wright, trial bottles free.

Crop Report.

The temperature during September was not favorable for crops since warm, dry weather was needed to ripen corn, beans, and potatoes.

Considerable damage was done by the frost to crops on low land where they kept growing, instead of maturing. However, pastures were improved so that now all kinds of live stock are in a healthy and thriving condition.

DEATHS

Which have occurred since our last issue.

JOHN R. HIALEY,

A Prominent Business Man of this Village is dead.

J. R. Hialey died Wednesday noon, Oct. 12, of gastric fever, aged 71 years, 2 months and 12 days. Mr. Hialey was one of the oldest business men in Tecumseh, having for many years successfully conducted a carriage factory on South Pearl street. He will be greatly missed by every one.

The funeral was held today at two o'clock, Rev. DeSpelder officiating. The Masons had charge of the burial.

JAMES BRADNER.

James Bradner of Clinton, a retired farmer, died at his home in that village Tuesday evening from brights disease, aged 83 years. He had been ill for about a year. Mr. Bradner was for a number of years a member of the board of supervisors.

Besides a wife he leaves seven children to mourn his loss.

CHARLOTTE MOORE.

The funeral of Charlotte, infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore, was held from the home on Chicago street Wednesday morning at ten o'clock, Rev. Bower officiating. The remains of the sweet little one were laid away at Brookside.

RUSSEL A. BROSAMELE.

Russel A., the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brosamele, died Thursday morning at 7:30 a. m., aged 11 months and 11 days. Mr. and Mrs. Brosamele leave tomorrow morning for Waterloo, Ind., their old home, with the remains.

PETITION GRANTED

Supervisors are willing for this village to expand and

TECUMSEH

Is a mile by 74 rods larger today.

Yesterday morning in Adrian Tecumseh was granted the petition to annex a strip one mile by 74 rods at the south side of this village. Fred B. Wood appeared for this village and George Keyser for those who remonstrated. It took the supervisors but a few minutes to decide, all of them voting in favor of it.

Mr Keyser's objections were that if they pay the taxes they should be entitled to receive the benefits of the fire protection and water. Attorney Wood said that the village intended to extend the water mains as soon as possible, if allowed to annex that district.

ROUND ABOUT US.

A very fine bed of coal has been struck on the Mulraney farm just east of the city, by Thos. Johns. The shaft is now through the coal, which is found at a depth of fifty feet. The vein is four feet thick and the quality is the best that has been minded in Jackson for many years. Work of opening up will be pushed at once and within a short time a large daily tonnage will be placed upon the market. The mine will be connected with the Michigan Central railroad.—Jackson Partriot.

"Two sisters attended Washtenaw county institute fifteen years. They came eighteen miles every day and were not tardy once. They got up at 4 o'clock each morning, harnessed horse drove part way, put out horse, took trolley to place of institute, and went home every night. Who'd think it? Right here in old Washtenaw? Why, that's a regular out-west record." The preceding item was clipped from the latest issue of Moderator Topics, the school publication. The young ladies referred to are the Misses Hattie and Alice Corwin.—Times.

Dog fashion, a canine sniffed the breeze and decided to go out for a little jaunt Friday. It belonged to W. D. Spencer, and it got up on the platform of a passenger train on the Michigan Central and the train moved off for the south. The baggageman noticed the dog and called it into the baggage car. When the train pulled up at Vassar the dog closely followed the baggageman and was with him, when he unloaded trunks and performed other things. On the return trip as soon as Reese was reached the baggageman opened the door of the car, the dog jumped out waved his tail to the kind friend, and returned to his home in the best of condition.—Reese Review.

A story is going the rounds of the papers to the effect that in 1902 Walter Hoagland and Ethel Gardner of Chicago and Austin, Ill., were secretly married in Coldwater, and that when they returned to Chicago the same day they parted and had only seen each other two or three times since. The affair had escaped the memory of the lady, and she was engaged to another man; but on the eve of the wedding Hoagland, the first husband, telephoned the would-be groom that he was the rightful husband. Then the lady dimly recollected that once upon a time she was married, and the second affair was off. The story is vouched for, although it sounds fishy; but there is no telling how great a lapse of memory a Chicago girl may be blessed with, nor does there seem to any limit to her marrying capacity.—Hudson Post.

FEEDING THE ARMY.

Total Cost Was $8,281,750 During the Past Year.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The annual report of Brig.-Gen. J. F. Weston, commissary-general of the army, says the total cost of feeding the army during the past fiscal year was $8,281,750. During the year the losses were $418,650 in the Philippines, $7,467 on the transports and $129,853 in the United States, Alaska, Porto Rico and elsewhere. From the total amount of losses is to be deducted $85,980, the proceeds of sales at auction of damaged and deteriorated stores, etc.

General Weston says it is difficult and often impossible to prevent losses on perishable stores. Losses are due principally to long and difficult water and inland transportation and to trying climatic conditions. The rapid abandonment of posts also resulted in large losses, particularly in the Philippines.

General Weston urgently recommends the passage of a bill by congress to give authority to all officers entrusted with the disbursement of subsistence funds in their personal possession. He says the exigencies of the public service require an open disregard of the restrictions of the existing law in cities where the treasurer or assistant treasurer is located. He urges legislation authorizing the sale at public auction of accumulated subsistence stores in good condition which cannot advantageously or economically be transported to other points for issue or sale to troops. He recommends the enlistment of bakers in the army, or in the alternative, an increase in the pay of men hired to perform that service.

Stole Baggage From Piers.

New York, Oct. 13.—Disclosures following the arrest of two young men in Hoboken, N. J., lead the city authorities to believe that thefts of baggage from ocean steamship piers there may involve losses running up into the thousands. The youths are Emil Wacher and Harry Schmidt. According to Wacher they conspired to steal baggage, taking trunks as well as valises and other hand baggage. The two prisoners were held to await the action of the grand jury.

PERILS OF LAND AND SEA

For many years, Captain Willnef, says the Times of Gloucester, Mass., was one of the best known seamen in the Gloucester Fleet. The sea and its dangers had no terror for him, but the catarrhal troubles with which he suffered for fifteen years made him dread the nights at sea, for he had to walk the cabin floor, being unable to lie down and sleep on account of the constant catarrhal dropping.

Captain Willnef went to two different hospitals for treatment, but could get no lasting benefit. He constantly raised yellow and green phlegm and his trouble became so unbearable and nauseating that he was ashamed to go out in company. When despairing of ever getting relief, his wife purchased a Hyomei outfit for him and trying it before going to bed, he enjoyed the first whole night's sleep for ten years. Captain Willnef says, "I have used less than two bottles of Hyomei and have been cured by the remedy. My friends ask me what is responsible for my improvement and I tell them Hyomei, which has given me full and complete recovery."

Captain Willnef's experience shows our readers what to do in time of catarrhal trouble,—use Hyomei. This remarkable treatment kills the germs of catarrh and makes lasting and permanent cures. C. A. Wright sells Hyomei under his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not give quick relief.

An Open Letter to the Public
FROM A WELL-KNOWN DRUGGIST

To Whom It May Concern:

Of late there has been a good deal of discussion in regard to advertised medicines and their value. We want to say to every man, woman and child in this vicinity that the most valuable preparation of cod liver oil,—the best tonic reconstructor, health restorer and strength-creator we have ever sold in our store is Vinol.

Vinol is not a patent medicine; it contains no injurious drugs, and it actually does contain all of the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil, taken from fresh cods' livers, but without a drop of oil, and is delicious to the taste.

Vinol is recognized throughout the world as the greatest strength-creator for old people, weak, sickly women, children, nursing mothers, and after a severe sickness.

Vinol cures hacking coughs, chronic colds, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Unequalled to create an appetite, and make those who are too thin, fat, rosy and healthy.

Vinol is sold on a positive guarantee. Call and get a Vinol booklet.

WHY IT SUCCEEDS.

Because It's for one thing only and Tecumseh is learning this.

Nothing can be sold for everything.
One thing done well brings success.
Doan's Kidney Pills do one thing only.
Cure backache, every kidney ill.
Here is Tecumseh evidence to prove it.

C. Patterson, the well known sexton, residing in the southeastern section of Tecumseh, says: "For over a year I had a soreness and pain in the small of my back at times quite severe, more so if I did a hard days work or took cold, for it always settled in my kidneys. The secretions were discolored and irregular and I had all symptoms of kidney complaint. I heard several people praising Doan's Kidney Pills, so concluding to try them I got a box at C. A. Wright's drug store and commenced the treatment. I found it just suited my case for it helped me right from the start. It stopped the pain in my back and regulated and cleared up the kidney secretions. I do not hesitate to recommend them to anyone suffering with this complaint."

For sale by all dealers: Price 50 cents per box, Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

Says His Name Is John Cook.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 13.—The strange creature who lived for a week near the village of Delhi, eating apples and nuts and sleeping in a nest of bark, broke his silence this morning in the justice court and said that his name is John Cook. He was asked if he understood English and answered, "Not much." This phrase and the name of John Cook were the only words he could be induced to utter. The justice is of the opinion that the man recently passed through some severe shock and as a result his mental faculties were paralyzed. He thinks that gradually the past will come back to him and that finally he will tell all about himself and how he came to be in such a predicament.

Mud On Their Clothes.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 13.—Lawrence Madden, of Lansing, and William Brennen, of Detroit, employed in a restaurant here, are under arrest, charged with highway robbery. Of late there has been an epidemic of hold-ups in this city, and the other night, on his way home, E. A. Bullock was held up by two men. In the engagement that folowed the atack all three fell in the mud, but Bullock escaped and made complaint. Madden and Brennen coming into the restaurant covered with mud led to their arrest.

Better than pills.

The question has been asked—In what way are Chamberlain's stomach and liver tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is—They are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle and so agreeable that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then they not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and aid digestion. For sale by all druggists in Tecumseh.

WOMEN'S CLUBS' WORK.

Practical Work Done In Many Fields Discussed.

Bay City, Mich., Oct. 13.—The state federation of Women's clubs Wednesday listened to reports and papers. The federation clubs to the number of twelve now own club houses, while Buchanan is preparing to erect a home. Thirty clubs have libraries, aggragating nearly 69,000 volumes. The report of the recording secretary showed more practical work done during the past year than at any previous time in the federation's history. This work ranges from the distribution of flower seeds free among school children, Detroit being given special mention this matter, to the securing of city ordinances prohibiting expectorating on sidewalks, teaching working girls cooking free and fighting the smoke nuisance successfully, as in Grand Rapids.

Caroline H. Wright, of Grand Rapids, in a paper on shopping ethics, strongly condemned the moral conditions which are forced on young girls working for small wages, stating that women could practically control the situation as the big department and other stores depend on their patronage. The federation decided to continue its long unsuccessful attempt to secure women members on the board of control of state institutions.

Constipation, Its Cause and Cure.

A person in order to be healthy must get rid of the waste products (or poisons) of the body. Nature has provided four ways to get rid of them: The Bowels, the Kidneys, the Bladder and the pores of the Skin.

If the bowels become inactive, that portion of the food which should be thrown off lies in the intestines and decomposes, causing blood, nerve, liver and kidney trouble, and closes the pores of the skin, thus creating disease in the entire system.

You can immediately relieve and permanently cure yourself of stubborn constipation or distressing stomach trouble and perfectly regulate your kidneys and liver by taking one dose a day of DRAKE'S PALMETTO WINE. Any reader of this paper can secure absolutely free a bottle by writing to Drake Formula Co., Drake Building, Chicago.

A FREE trial bottle alone has brought health and vigor to many, so you owe it to yourself to prove what it will do in your case.

Write the company this very day.

GOLDEN NUGGETS FOR SALLOW PEOPLE

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Mr. D. Kauble, of Nevada, O., says: I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me.

OVER THE PRISON WALL

Four Jackson Convicts Took Leave When Guard Retired.

WORKING WITHOUT A KEEPER

Jackson, Mich., Oct. 17.—Jealous of the reputation of Michigan's noted state prison, four more convicts left there last evening without being paroled by the governor or set at liberty by the warden.

They are: James McGee, sentenced from Cass county Dec. 26, 1898, for eight years for burglary; Mont Harding, from Kalamazoo, about a year ago, nine years for burglary; Robin Terry, Ingham county, Oct. 31, 1903, six years for attempted criminal assault, and Harry A. Gilbert, Calhoun county, a recent arrival, on a two to three years' sentence for forgery. Terry is the pitcher of the crack Michigan state prison baseball team.

The men have for several Sundays been painting the smokestacks of the various factories, this work being impossible on week days because of the heat from the furnaces. Sunday they were working as usual without a keeper, the officials being of the opinion that the outer walls, with their guards, were sufficient to insure the prisoners remaining at the institution.

But the men apparently did not appreciate the fact that all Jackson prisoners are honest, and would rather stay there with Warden Vincent than live at home. As soon as the guard went off the walls at 6 oclock, leaving no watch over their movements, the four malcontents hunted up a ladder and made for the open country, wearing their painters' suits and taking their pails and brushes with them.

The men are all young and are said to be smooth characters. They are thought to have gone north and a posse is after them. No one has reported seeing them, and it is thought they are hiding somewhere near the prison, waiting for a favorable opportunity to leave the country.

FROM MASON JAIL

Three More Prisoners Take Leave Without Permission.

Mason, Mich., Oct. 17.—Mason jail is becoming almost as noted at Jackson prison on account of the way its inmates have of taking French leave. Within the last six weeks no less than eight prisoners have escaped from its confines, the last three getting away about 7 o'clock last evening.

The men who skipped are: Thomas Mowe, sentenced to Jackson prison for from one to fourteen years for forgery; William Brenner, awaiting trial on a charge of highway robbery, and William Sewell, colored, awaiting trial for burglary.

The sheriff was giving the men their suppers and had allowed them the liberty of the corridor outside of the cage. The three who escaped took off their shoes and stockings and climbed up on top of the cage. The sheriff thinking they were just exercising, paid little attention to their movements and soon stepped inside the cage on some errand. While he was there the three men skipped out the front door. They were seen by several persons as they went away from the jail, but no notice was taken of them. Later one was seen west of town and the other two east. A party of deputies is scouring the country, but so far without success.

Fair Paid Another Installment.

St. Louis, Oct. 17.—The Louisiana Purchase exposition has made the seventh of the stipulated $500,000 payments on the government loan of $4,600,000, which was advanced by the federal authorities a few weeks previous to the opening of the world's fair. This payment, together with the percentage payments made previous to the first stipulated payment, leaves a balance of $69 850.45 due the United States government.

WILL RUSSIANS WIN?

Latest Report Says Japs Show Signs of Weakening.

AND POSITIONS ARE RETAKEN

Thirty Thousand of Czar's Men Slain—Tokio Even Shocked at Terrible Slaughter—Does Not Glory Over Victory Reports.

Mukden, Oct. 17.—Shakhe is again in the hands of the Russians. After the last evacuation of the village by the Russians the Japanese failed in an attempt to re-occupy it, and now the village is held by Russian infantry. There is every indication that the Russian right flank is about to resume the offensive and re-occupy the positions held by them on Oct. 10 and 11. The Japanese resistance is growing weaker and they are apparently preparing to evacuate. Towards the east and center the Japanese are more stubborn and are showing more resistance. Some of the positions on the fighting line have already changed hands ten times.

It is impossible to say how long the contest will continue before one side or the other is worn out.

As this dispatch is being finished the sound of increasing cannonade from the center indicates that something unusual is happening. The correspondent is leaving for the front to ascertain the cause.

Mukden, Oct. 17.—The battle was renewed and continued throughout Sunday night, being especially heavy at midnight. The Russians retain their position along the Shakhe river and have made frequent attacks upon the Japanese, capturing six of the latter's guns. The eastern army is helping the western forces. There has been very heavy artillery fire today. The fighting is now centered on the plain.

Mukden, Oct. 17.—There was a lull in the battle Saturday, but fighting was continued Sunday on the right.

The army is southwest of here ten miles. It is certain that the army will be able to extricate itself. The losses amount to 30,000. It has been a bigger battle than Liao Yang.

The Russians are attacking on the right now.

The men are tired out and food has been insufficient. Every available gun and man are being used.

The troops have behaved gallantly, hurling themselves repeatedly against impregnable positions.

Shrapnel fell near Gen. Kuropatkin. He showed desperate energy and even in the darkest hour remained hopeful. The Japanese must feel the strain.

Manchuria Is Forgotten.

The Russians are now fighting as a matter of pride; Manchuria is forgotten. They feel that they cannot stop; that they must win one battle. The Japanese seem no nearer.

Tokio, Oct. 17.—In the reports of the great battle which continue to arrive from the front the most striking feature is the terrible record of the Russian dead. Applying the usual calculation and making reasonable allowance for the fighting of the 14th and 15th, the Russian losses will exceed 40,000.

Fragmentary reports of Japanese casualties are coming in. Gen. Oku up to and including Oct. 14 lost 3,500 men. Estimates of the total Japanese losses are not possible but they are small in comparison with the frightful losses of the Russians.

A telegram received from the Manchurian headquarters late Sunday reports that the fighting has ceased on the front of the right and the center armies, but that it continues before the left army.

Appeal For Peace.

There is a strong appeal for peace in the appalling tragedy which is now under enactment in Manchuria. Both armies have fought ferociously for a week, and desperate fighting still continues. It is probable that the death roll will be largely increased before the final shot is fired.

The preliminary reports indicate that about 60,000 men of both sides have been either killed or wounded, the larger portion of them being Russians, since the armies of the two belligerents closed in combat.

Even the Japanese, to whom the great victory is of paramount importance, seem to be shocked by the slaughter of their enemies. The Japanese people are receiving the news from the field of battle calmly, and there can be heard no shouts in the streets proclaiming the victory of their nation. Few flags are displayed. Probably later on there will be a procession with the consequent jollification, but there are heard many expressions of opinion that no demonstration of any kind should be held.

REVOLUTION IN ITALY.

It Is Evident Extremists Are Trying to Bring It About.

Genoa, Oct. 17.—The following dispatch from Rome, evidently mutilated by the censor, has been received here:

"The minister of war has addressed a circular to the military authorities, saying that in the recent rioting the Extreme party tried to induce soldiers to disregard discipline and rebel. Subversive hymns were distributed to some of the soldiers, who destroyed the copies handed them or gave them to their superiors. The subversive propaganda in the army is seen, but it is powerless against the sense of duty strongly rooted in the Italian army, still there is at present a grave danger which must be fought. Beside the ordinary confiscation of all subversive publications the minister of war advises that officers undertake a propaganda to show the fallacy of certain theories and for the observance of laws as a guarantee of liberty.

"At Milan the escutcheons of a foreign consulate were defaced and the balliard burned by an exiled Russian anarchist."

Rome, Oct. 17.—There was a meeting Sunday of members of the Extreme Left of the chamber of deputies, comprised of radical republicans and socialists, to consider the proposal of a general resignation of seats as a protest against the government. Only forty-six deputies, or about one-half of the Extreme Left, participated in the meeting. The discussion developed such disorder that it was impossible to reach any decision.

FOR VALUABLE PAPERS

Detroit Girl Searched River Bottom In Diver's Suit.

New York, Oct. 17.—Miss Frances L. Baker of Detroit, Mich., donned a diver's suit Sunday and searched the bottom of the East river for a box of valuable papers which her uncle, A. P. Baker of Port Huron, threw overboard from the burning excursion steamer General Slocum last summer. Miss Baker was accompanied to the bottom of the river by a professional diver. They went down twice, but found no trace of the missing box.

A. P. Baker was a passenger on the Slocum the day of the disaster and has since died. Before his death he told his relatives that he threw the box containing valuable family papers into the river while the Slocum was burning.

An Important Conference.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Arrangements have been completed for the twenty-first annual session of the Lake Mohonk Indian conference which opens here on Wednesday next. Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore will preside. More attention will be paid than usual this year to the consideration and needs of the native races in the new dependencies of the United States, including the Porto Ricans, the Hawaiians and the Filipinos and well-known men and public officials familiar with existing conditions among these people will be present to address the conference.

Preacher Has Boxing Class.

New York, Oct. 17.—Rev. John L. Scudder, pastor of the First Congregational church, Jersey City, and head of the People's college, has created a panic among his parishoners by forming a boxing class and hiring a professional teacher, who is not only an expugilist but a saloonkeeper.

Punished His Collector.

Flint, Mich., Oct. 14.—A fierce fist fight was indulged in on South Saginaw street here during the evening by City Attorney Warren S. Rundell and Ellis Burr, a collector, the former appearing to have the best of the battle. It is alleged that some weeks ago Burr went into a questionable resort and represented himself to be Rundell. He is said to have been in the company of a colored man who let the story out. Rundell heard of the affair and has been looking ever since for Burr, who went out of the city. Burr returned and Rundell met him and proceeded to settle matters at once. He knocked Burr off the sidewalk and under a passing carriage. The police were acquainted with the circumstances in the case and [illegible]. Public opinion is wi[illegible].

Killed In Beet Factory.

Bay City, Mich., Oct. 17.—The remains of John Engle, who died as the result of an accident at Chippewa Falls, Wis., were brought here Sunday for interment in the family lot. He misstepped into a beet flume where he was employed by the Kilby Manufacturing Co., and fell in such a manner as to fracture three ribs, also sustaining internal injuries, which caused death. He was 39 years old and leaves a widow and one daughter.

We keep in mind the fact that a tall man cannot wear a suit that a short man should wear. This is the satisfactory feature on both the Newport and Normandie. They are absolutely correct in every and all requirements. But the man who is not over six feet tall is not overlooked; the same careful attention has been given him. The result is our Arvon, which also has much elegance of make and gives the short man extra inches in appearance. There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and till the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies and by failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and the mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

A Judicious Inpuriry.

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade, says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's cough remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. CHAPTER XVII

"'Miss Tuttle has looked out of her room once,' I heard the other reply. 'She is in splendid beauty today, but pale. But she never could control Veronica.' 'Hush! You speak louder than you think.' This amused me, and I do believe that in another moment I should have laughed outright if another boy had not appeared in the hall before us, who, shoving aside the first, rapped on the door with a spirit which called for answer. But he was no more successful than the other boy had been. So, being a brisk fellow, with no time for nonsense, he called out: 'Your bouquet, miss, and a message which I am to give you before you go downstairs! The gentleman is quite particular about it!' These words were literally shouted at the door, but in the hubbub of voices about us I don't believe any one heard them but ourselves and the bride. I know that she heard them, for she opened the door a very little way—such a very little way that the boy had to put his lips to the crack when he spoke and then turn and place his ear where his lips had been in order to catch her reply. This, for some reason, seemed a long time in coming, and the fellow grew so impatient that he amused himself by snatching the bouquet from the other boy and thrusting it in through the crack, to the very great detriment of its roses and lilies. When she took it he bawled for his answer, and when he got it he stared and muttered doubtfully to himself as he worked his way out again through the crowd, which by this time was beginning to choke up all the halls and stairways.

"But why have I told you all this nonsense?" she asked quite suddenly. "It isn't of the least consequence that Veronica Moore kept a boy waiting at her door while she dressed herself for her wedding, but it shows that she was queer even then, and I for one believe in the theory of suicide, and in that alone, and in the excuse she gave for it, too; for if she had really loved Francis Jeffrey she would not have been so slow to take in the magnificent bouquet he had provided for her."

But comment even from those who had known these people well was not what I wanted at this moment, but facts; so, without much attention to these words, I said:

"You will excuse me if I suggest that you are going on too fast. The door of the bride's room has just been shut upon the boy who brought her a message. When was it opened again?"

"Not for a good half hour; not till every one had grown nervous and Miss Tuttle and one or two of her most intimate friends had gone more than once to her door; not, in fact, till the hour for the ceremony had come and gone and Mr. Jeffrey had crossed the hall twice under the impression that she was ready for him. Then, when weariness was general and people were asking what kept the bride and how much longer they were to be kept waiting, her door suddenly opened and I caught a glimpse of her face and heard her ask at last for her maid. Oh, I repeat that Veronica Moore was not all right that day, and, though I have heard no one comment on the fact, it has been a mystery to me ever since why she gave that sudden recoil when Francis Jeffrey took her hand after the benediction. It was not timidity, nor was it fear, for she did not know till a minute afterward what had happened in the house. Did some sudden realization of what she had done in marrying a man whom she herself declared she did not love come when it was too late? What do you think?"

Miss Freeman had forgotten herself; but the impetuosity which had led her into asking my opinion made her forget in another moment that she had done so. And when in my turn I propounded a question and inquired whether she ever again saw the boy who besieged the bride's door with a message, she graciously replied:

"The boy; let me see. Yes, I saw him twice—once in a back hall talking earnestly to Mr. Jeffrey, and secondly at the carriage door just before the bridal party rode away. It was Mrs. Jeffrey who was talking to him then, and I wondered to see him look so pleased when everybody in and about the house was pale as ashes."

Miss Freeman

"Do you know the name of that boy?" I carelessly inquired.

"His name? Oh, no. He is one of Raucher's waiters—the curly haired one. You see him everywhere, but I don't know his name. Do you flatter yourself that he can tell you anything that other people don't know? Why, if he knew the least thing that wasn't in everybody's mouth you would have heard from him long ago. Those men are the greatest gossips in town"—I wonder what she thought of herself—"and so proud to be of any importance." This was true enough, though I did not admit it at the time, and when the interview was closed and I went away I have no doubt she considered me quite the most heavy person she had ever met. But this did not disturb me. The little facts she had stated were new to me, and, repeating my former method, I was already busy arranging them in my mind. Witness the result:

First.—The ceremony of marriage between Francis Jeffrey and Veronica Moore was fully three-quarters of an hour late.

Second.—This was owing to the caprice of the bride, who would not have any one in the room with her, not even her maid.

Third.—The bridal bouquet did not figure in the ceremony. In the flurry of the moment it was forgotten or purposely left behind by the bride. As this bouquet was undoubtedly the gift of Mr. Jeffrey, the fact may be significant.

Fourth.—She received a message of a somewhat peremptory character before going below. From whom? Her bridegroom? It would so appear from the character of the message.

Fifth.—The messenger showed great astonishment at the reply he was given to carry back. Yet he has not been known to mention the matter. Why? When every one talked he was silent. Through whose influence? This was something to find out.

Sixth.—Though at the time the benediction was pronounced every one was in a state of alarm except the bride, it was noticed that she gave an involuntary recoil when her bridegroom stooped for the customary kiss. Why? Were the lines of her last farewell true then, and did she experience at that moment a sudden realization of her lack of love?

Seventh.—She did not go again upstairs, but very soon fled from the house with the rest of the bridal party.

Petty facts all, but possibly more significant than appeared. I made up my mind to find the boy who brought the bouquet and also the one who carried back her message.

But here a surprise, if not a check, awaited me. The florist's boy had left his place, and no one could tell where he had gone. Neither could I find the curly haired waiter at Raucher's. He had left also, but it was to join the volunteers at San Antonio.

Was there meaning in this coincidence? I resolved to know. Visiting the former haunts of both boys, I failed to come upon any evidence of an understanding between them or of their having shown any special interest in the Jeffrey tragedy. Both seemed to have been strangely reticent in regard to it, the florist's boy showing stupidity and the waiter such satisfaction in his prospective soldiering that no other topic was deemed worthy his attention. The latter had a sister, and she could not say enough of the delight her brother had shown at the prospect of riding a horse again and of fighting in such good company. He had had some experience as a cowboy before coming to Washington, and from the moment war was declared had expressed his intention of joining the recruits for Cuba as soon as he could see her so provided for that his death would not rob her of proper support. How this had come about she did not know. Three weeks before he had been in despair over the faint prospect of doing what he wished. Then, suddenly and without any explanation of how the change had come about, he had rushed in upon her with the news that he was going to enlist in a company made up of broncho busters and rough riders from the west, that she need not worry about herself or about him, for he had just put $500 to her account in bank, and that as for himself he possessed a charmed life and was immune, as she well knew, and need fear bullets no more than the fever. By this he meant that he had had yellow fever years before in Louisiana and that a ball which had once been fired at him had gone clean through his body without taking his life.

"What was the date of the evening on which he told you he had placed money in bank for you?"

"April 29."

Two days after the Jeffrey-Moore wedding!

Convinced now that his departure from town was something more than a coincidence, I pursued my inquiries and found that he had been received, just as she had said, into the First volunteer corps under Colonel Wood. This required influence. Whose was the influence? It took me some time to find out, but after many and various attempts, most of which ended in failure, I succeeded in learning that the man who had worked and obtained for him a place in this favored corps was Francis Jeffrey.

CHAPTER XVIII.

I DID some tall thinking that night. I remembered that this man had held some conversation with the Jeffreys at their carriage door previous to their departure from the Moore house, and found myself compelled to believe that only a matter of importance to themselves as well as to him would have detained them at such a minute. Oh, that Tampa were not so far off or that I had happened on this clew earlier! But Tampa was at that moment a far prospect for me, and I could only reason from such facts as I had been able to collect in Washington.

Fixing my mind now on Mrs. Jeffrey, I asked the cause of the many caprices which had marked her conduct on her wedding morning. Why had she persisted in dressing alone, and what occasioned the absorption which led to her ignoring all appeals at her door at a time when a woman is supposed to be more than usually gracious? But one answer suggested itself. Her heart was not in her marriage and that last hour of her maidenhood had been an hour of anguish and struggle. Perhaps she not only failed to love Francis Jeffrey, but loved some other man. This seemed improbable, but things as strange as this have happened in our complex society, and no reckoning can be made with a woman's fancy. If this was so—and what other theory would better or even so well account for her peculiar behavior both then and afterward?

The hour usually given by brides to dress and gladsome expectation was with her one of farewell to past hopes and an unfortunate if not passionate attachment. No wonder that she wished to be alone. No wonder that interruption angered her. Perhaps it had found her on her knees. Perhaps—Here I felt myself seized by a strong and sudden excitement. I remembered the filings I had gathered up from the small stand by the window, filings which had glittered and which must have been of gold. What was the conclusion? In this last hour of her maiden life she had sought to rid herself of some article of jewelry which she found it undesirable to carry into her new life. What article of jewelry? In consideration of the circumstances and the hour I could think of but one—a ring, the symbol of some old attachment.

The slight abrasion at the base of her third finger, which had been looked upon as the result of too rough and speedy a withdrawing of the wedding ring on the evening of her death, was much more likely to have been occasioned by the reopening of some little wound made two weeks before by the file. If Durbin and the rest had taken into account these filings, they must have come to very much the same conclusion, but either they had overlooked them in their search about the place or, having noted them, regarded them as a clew leading nowhere.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, Oct. 15, 1904.

It seldom happens that a people enjoy the inauguration of an entirely new economic system, instituted by officials who have all the advantages of 200 years experience in shaping a progressive nation, at their command, but that is the advantage which the Filipinos are now enjoying and the results promise to prove of the utmost value to them. A striking instance of this advantage is furnished by reports on the work of the Philippine Bureau of Forestry which have just been received by the war department. Instead of the reckless, extravagant and short sighted policy which has resulted in the devastaition of the forests of this country and the grave enhancement of the price of lumber to the consumers of the present day, the American administrators of the Philippines have adopted a policy, which warrants the belief that the vast forest resources of the Philippines will prove a perpetual, and constantly increasing source of revenue to the islands and will, incidentally, contribute to the development of the archipelago in other directions.

No forest land is sold in the Philippines but twenty year leases are granted to lumber men convrying the right to cut, not all the timber in sight, but only those trees which have reached maturity and have been marked by the expert foresters employed by the government. The forest lands are divided into classes according to their proximity to market and the trees are divided into groups according to the value of the wood, the tax varying from 5 pesos per cubic meter for the more valuable woods in close proximity to market, to one-half peso for the least valuable group in the most inaccessible locality. The lease-holders are constructing roads and developing hitherto neglected sections of the archipelago, the productivity of the forests is being steadily increased and a perpetual source of revenue of no mean proportions is afforded the government. This is but a single instance of those things which seem to warrant the reflection, "We do things better in these days."

The poisoning of twelve persons with bad whiskey, which occurred in New York last week has resulted in Dr. Wiley's, the chief of the bureau of chemistry, giving out some of the results of his investigations which should cause liquor drinkers to pause. According to this eminent chemist, 85 per cent of the whiskey sold in the saloons, hotels and clubs of this country is not the genuine article but a cheap imitation. Although the greater part of this stuff will not produce death, as did the New York whiskey, it is seriously injurious to health and where used constantly is at least a predisposing cause to serious diseases. "If the pure food bill which passed the House last session and is now awaiting the action of the senate, becomes a law we will have a legal method of condemning this stuff," said Dr. Wiley today, "but at present there is no way in which the government can reach it. Most of the Scotch whiskey sold in this country is adulterated with creosote and most of the American whiskey is seriously adulterated after it is removed from bond." Thus far the influence of the whiskey trade and the disinclination of some temperance advocates who condemn all use of whiskey have proved an insurmountable obstacle to legislation which would authorize the condemnation of adulterated liquor and the punishment of those who sell it.

Sir William White, retired admiral of the British navy, has been a guest in Washington this week and at a dinner given for him by Admiral Dewey he called attention to the necessity of proper military power to the nation that would remain neutral in time of war. He cited the case of China, which is most anxious to refrain from participating in the existing hostilities between Russia and Japan. Because of China's lack of a navy she has been unable to enforce the neutrality agreement entered into by all non-belligerent nations. Russia, in time of stress, has used Chinese harbors as places of refuge, as in the case of the Russian vessel which sought refuge in the harbor of Shanghai and refused to disarm within the required time and in the case of the Japanese seizure of the Russian ship in the harbor of Cheefoo, in spite of the grave violation of the neutrality laws involved, China being utterly powerless to maintain them. Sir William, who has visited the navy yards of this country, declared the present type of battleships, now building, to be the finest in the world.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's cough remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists, Tecumseh, Mich.

MESSAGE TO FRATERNAL ORDERS

Interesting news from Cincinnati with local confirmation in Tecumseh.

The thousands of members of fraternal bodies in this state will be interested in the following message from John Theobald, a prominent Forester who lives at 1111 York street, Cincinnati.

Mr. Theobald believes in living up to the motto of his organization, "Fraternal Love and Charity" and believes that he can do no more charitable act than to tell his experience in regaining health after years of suffering.

Mr. Theobald writes, "For five years, I suffered with stomach troubles, having all the distress and misery that afflicts dyspeptics. I could not enjoy eating, thinking of the suffering that would follow. My food did not digest and although I took all kinds of medicines I found nothing to help me, until I used Mi-o-na. Thanks to this remarkable remedy, I am now a cured man and believe that it made a permanent and complete cure."

C. A. Wright is local agent for Mi-o-na, nature's cure for dyspepsia. It is in the form of small tablets and sells at 50c a box. The remedy has made so many and such remarkable cures amongst his customers, confirming Mr. Theobald's statement, that he will give his personal guarantee with every box he sells to refund the money if it does not cure.

Do not suffer longer. Here is a cure that costs you nothing, unless it restores health. C. A. Wright takes all the risk and you do not have to pay a penny unless you feel that you have received much more than your money's worth.

HAND OF DEATH

Reaps a Large Harvest.

BOTH YOUNG AND OLD

Must Yield to the Call.

On Wednesday, Oct. 12, Mr. John R. Hialey died of nervous prostration at his residence in Tecumseh.

He was born in Toronto, Ont., Aug. 1, 1833. At the age of fourteen he went to Rochester. N. Y., where he learned the trade of carriage building. At the age of twenty, on the 5th of October, 1853, he was married to Lucinda Young, of Hamilton, Ont. They then removed to Cleveland, O., and after about two years came to Adrian. In 1858 they moved to Tecumseh, where the wife died in 1862, leaving three children, John Franklin, Lavern R., and an infant, whose death occurred soon afterward.

On the 12th of December, 1863, Mr Hialey was married to Mary A. Porter. To them were born five children, Louise A., Anna D., Gertrude M., Louis Porter and Madge, four of whom are living, Louis having died Jan. 5, 1882, at the age of nine months.

Since the fall of 1869 Mr. Hialey has been engaged in the carriage manufacturing business at Tecumseh, which he developed into an extensive enterprise, his work being known throughout a wide region as honest work and his dealings and character such as corresponded with the well known quality of his work. Such men are of inestimable value in business circles and throughout the community and when taken away, are greatly missed and mourned.

The funeral at the family residence on Friday, Oct. 14, was well attended, Rev. J. A. DeShelder officiating. Though her sweet life was short, she leaves behind her a large number of sorrowing friends. The parents have the sincere sympathy of many relatives and a large circle of warm friends in their bereavement.

The funeral was held from the house yesterday afternoon, Rev. W. F. Jones officiating. The white casket was carried from the house by four little girls, the Misses Ella Titus, Anna Ferguson, Vera Tunnison and Judith Crane, and the little form was laid at rest at Brookside cemetery, amidst a wealth of floral offerings.

BURGLARS

Got a Small Haul in Ridgeway Sunday Night, the stores of

CULBERTSON AND HARRISON

Being Ransacked this Time. Loss Valued at $25.

Last Sunday night burglars entered C. W. Culbertson's store in Ridgeway, securing about 5 pounds of tobacco. They entered the store through an east window breaking the glass and pulling a box off the safe, out of the window thus enabling them to enter. It is thought that they were frightened away as no money was taken and there was plenty lying around.

They went across the street and broke into Ed Harrison's store, taking clothing shoes and rubber boots. Mr. Harrison's loss was valued at $20. John Smith of Tecumseh, went down there yesterday to look the matter over but it is doubtful if they are ever found.

The seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Sanford, of Woodstock township, was kicked in the face by a horse last Friday evening and knocked unconscious from the terrible blow. The boy was in a field where some horses were grazing when one of the animals became frightened, turned and kicked, striking the child squarely in the face. Dr. Coffin was called. Chances are now good for speedy recovery.—Addison Courier.

PHYSICIAN'S GOOD LUCK

Dr. Hart's fortunate experience of special interest to many in Tecumseh.

Probably no physician is better known in all parts of the United States than Dr. Hart, as he has been a great traveler and knows the best people wherever he has been. For years he has suffered with catarrh in its worst form.

Although he resorted to the latest scientific treatment and consulted many of his brother physicians, Dr. Hart finally said, "I might just as well have thrown my money in the river for I grew worse and worse. It is really due to my wife's good judgment that I tried Hyomei." The Doctor, in his emphatic way added "Thank God that I did, for Hyomei cured me completely. My wife and I will swear that Hyomei cured me of the worst case of catarrh that ever existed. I used to cough constantly at night and had a dropping in the throat, which kept me awake a great deal. I raised thick phlegm and was in a horrible condition. However, I am entirely cured, solely through the use of Hyomei."

C. A. Wright is the local agent for Hyomei, the famous treatment which cures catarrh without stomach dosing. A complete outfit costs but $1.00, extra bottles, 50c. He sells it under guarantee to refund the money if it does not give quick relief. Ask him to show you the strong guarantee under which it is sold.

WHAT A FEMALE REGULATOR IS

A vegetable liquid for governing or equalizing the flow of women's menses which occur once in every lunar month.

BRADFIELD'S Female Regulator

is the essential quality of powerful herbs. It is a concentrated essence best adapted for women's delicate organism, and put in such form that it is always properly assimilated and taken into the system.

Stoppages, suppression, painful or other irregularity of the menses and sickly flows are corrected and cured by the regular use of this superior emmenagogue.

Menstruation, or periodic flows, necessitate a breaking down of cells lining the mucous membrane and a reconstruction after every sickness, which is accompanied with marked congestion and loss of blood. Such changes are very apt to produce chronic catarrh. Leucorrhea or Whites is the result of these irritating discharges. Regulator cures these troubles and restores to perfect health the patient who suffered the debilitating losses.

UNCOMMON WISDOM.

Some Tecumseh people profit by neighbors experience.

It's a wise man who profits by the experience of his friends and neighbors. Here is a chance to do it and every man, woman or child in Tecumseh who knows the misery of a bad back, the nervousness and restlessness caused by kidney complaint or the annoyance of urinary disorders, will show uncommon wisdom to profit by this citizen's advice.

Ex-Postmaster J. W. Wightman, well known to every reader of this statement says: "I have no hesitation in endorsing Doan's Kidney Pills procured at C. A. Wright's drug store. They have been used in my family and the most satisfactory results followed the treatment. They proved to be a remedy of merit. You can use my name to that effect if you think proper."

For sale by all dealers: Price 50 cents per box, Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

Better than pills.

The question has been asked—In what way are Chamberlain's stomach and liver tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is—They are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle and so agreeable that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then they not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and aid digestion. For sale by all druggists in Tecumseh.

All we can do is give advice.
Of course that's easy.

But our advice is really worth a little more to you than most people's, for we offer to give you the first bottle of our medicine free, if it fails to help you

We could not afford to do this unless our medicine was good. Such an offer, on the wrong kind of medicine, would put a merchant prince in the poor house.

Dr. Miles' Nervine, however, as years of experience have proved, is a medicine that cures the sick.

Those whom it cannot benefit—less than one in ten thousand—we prefer to refund their money.

All we ask of you is to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for your complaint. If you suffer from sleeplessness, nervous exhaustion, dizziness, headache, muscular twitchings, melancholy, loss of memory, weak stomach, poor blood, bilious troubles, epilepsy, St. Vitus' Dance, etc., we will guarantee to benefit you or refund your money.

Inspectors, Owners and Crew For Slocum Disaster.

COMMISSION'S REPORT PUBLIC

President Orders Discharge of Three Steamboat Inspectors—Commission Declare There Are Many Other Boats In Like Condition In Service.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The report of the United States commission of investigation upon the disaster of the steamer General Slocum, appointed June 23 last by the then Secretary of Commerce and Labor George B. Cortelyou, has just been made public.

In connection with the important findings of the commission, presented in the report, President Roosevelt, to whom the report was submitted, has written a letter to Secretary Victor H. Metcalf of the department of commerce and labor, briefly summarizing the report and directing him to carry into effect the recommendations of the commission. He also directs that Robert S. Rodie, supervising inspector of the second district, steamboat inspection service, and James A. Dumont and Thomas H. Barrett, local inspectors in charge of the port of New York, be discharged from the service, the commission holding them directly responsible for the laxity of the steamboat inspection to which the Slocum disaster was directly attributable.

Appended to the report is a report from the department of justice on the criminal proceedings connected with the disaster and the life-preserver cases.

Highly Inflammable.

In describing the Slocum the report says that it was constructed entirely of wood; that the upper works were in a highly inflammable condition and that there were no fireproof hatches or bulkheads. The commission states that there are many similar vessels doing service in the United States, the construction of which is quite as dangerous.

Continuing, the report says: "An essential fact of negligence is the utter failure of the master to fight the fire or aid the passengers. In a less degree the pilots, in the same manner after beaching the boat and while there were still many passengers on board, failed in their duty to assist and rescue the said passengers."

The commission expresses the opinion that the men in the pilot house had knowledge of the fire in time to have beached the vessel instead of pursuing a course which drove the flames aft and delayed beaching longer than necessary. The commission sharply criticises the fire fighting apparatus, saying:

"There is a strong probability that the fire would have been controlled had the fire hose been of required statutory strength."

Deck Crew Blamed.

Many of the life preservers, it is stated, were bad, and further that only a small percentage of the passengers used them. "The inefficiency and poor quality of the deck crew of the vessel, doubtless typical of the majority of the crews of excursion steamers," says the report, "is one of the essential facts that caused the loss of so many lives."

The commission is of opinion that the owners of the Slocum are censurable in a high degree for the inadequate and improper conditions prevailing on board the vessel, and that, whatever may be their technical legal liability, they and their executive agents share largely in the moral responsibility for the awful results of the disaster.

The commission recommends thorough reorganization of the force of assistant inspectors, with a view to the elimination of all who have demonstrated incompetency. The commission also makes many recommendations for laws regulating the construction of vessels and to give adequate authority to the department of commerce and labor and to increase its power to enforce regulations as to safety appliances, etc.

Murdered In His Rooms.

Boston, Oct. 17.—Larkin Hall, aged 35 years, proprietor of a millinery establishment at 47 Winter street, was murdered at his lodgings in the Back Bay district some time during the night. The police arrested Fred Watson and Eugene Sennott, both about 21 years of age, and privates in the coast artillery, stationed at Fort Warren. They are held pending an investigation of the crime. Hall was killed by a knife wound in the neck, which had been made with a Japanese sword, one of the curios with which the room was decorated.

Dr. Allen Buried.

Ypsilanti, Mich., Oct. 15.—The funeral of Rev. C. T. Allen, D. D., Friday afternoon, was one of the largest ever seen in this city, and attested the great love and esteem everyone here felt for him, regardless of creed. In compliance with a proclamation by the mayor all the business houses and public schools were closed during the hours of the funeral. Addresses were made by the local clergy, Justice C. B. Grant of the supreme court, and Byron M. Cutcheon, of Grand Rapids, the latter two being members of his regiment, the Twentieth Michigan Infantry, during the civil war. About 50 of Dr. Allen's old comrades of the regiment attended the funeral.

Big Grading Plans.

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 15.—Plans are on foot for one of the biggest grading jobs ever undertaken here. The country road extending from Battle Creek to the Post farm, four and a half miles out on the main street, west, is to be graded. This highway lies between Battle Creek and Kalamazoo and is a favorite one for automobiles and bicycle riders. The work to be done by Dec. 1.

Kazoo Elks Hustling.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 15.—Kalamazoo Elks will dedicate their handsome new temple Feb. 11 of next year. The stuctrure is well under way at the present time, and will be one of the finest buildings in the city. There are nearly 500 Elks in Kalamazoo. The building is being erected at an expense of over $60,000.

Take No Chances With Your Kidneys.

Diseases of the kidneys are very, very dangerous. Being once firmly established, their work is more deadly and certain than any other malady—consumption itself not excepted. Of all kidney affections, Bright's disease easily leads in fatal effects and results. Its worst feature is that it sounds no warning to put its victims on their guard, but steals on unawares and is nearly always firmly imbedded before the patient is conscious of his danger. It is highly important to life that no time should be lost in checking its ravages at the very first indication or symptom of its presence.

Dr. Colwell's Egyptian Kidney and Bladder Cure is certain and sure in curing Bright's disease in its early stages and all other affections of the kidney and bladder. It is guaranteed to cure inflammation of the kindeys, congestion, brick dust deposits, cloudy urine, pains in back and kidneys, retention and incontinence of urine, bed wetting, diseases of the bladder and urinary tract, sexual weakness in both men and women, restoring to health and imparting to the genito-urinary organs renewed vitality and vigor.

Dr. Colwell's Egyptian Kidney and Bladder Cure is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money will be refunded. It is for sale at $1.00 a bottle by

This Testimony

Will surely interest many readers of this paper.

James G. Gray, Gibson, Mo., writes about Drake's Palmetto Wine as follows: I live in the Missouri Swamps in Dunklin County and have been sick with Malarial fever and for fifteen months a walking skeleton. One bottle of Drake's Palmetto Wine has done me more good than all the medicine I have taken in that fifteen months. I am buying two more bottles to stay cured. Drake's Palmetto Wine is the best medicine and tonic for Malaria, Kidney and Liver ailments I ever used or heard of. I feel well now after using one bottle.

A. A. Folding, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: I had a bad case of sour Stomach and Indigestion. I could eat so little that I was "falling to bones" and could not sleep nor attend to my business. I used the trial bottle and two large seventy-five cent bottles and can truthfully say I am entirely cured. I have advised many to write for a free trial bottle.

J. W. Moore, Monticello, Minn., makes the following statement about himself and a neighbor. He says: Four bottles of Drake's Palmetto Wine has cured me of catarrh of Bladder and Kidney trouble. I suffered ten years and spent hundreds of dollars with best doctors and specialists without benefit. Drake's Palmetto Wine has made me a well man. A young woman here was given up to die by a Minneapolis specialist and he and our local doctor said they could do no more for her. She has been taking Drake's Palmetto Wine one week and is rapidly recovering.

The Drake Formula Company, Drake Bldg., Chicago, Ill., will send a trial bottle of Drake's Palmetto Wine free and prepaid to any reader of this paper. A letter or postal card is your only expense to get this free bottle.

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 17.—Charles Whiting, a bright appearing lad 18 years old, is in jail charged with robbing an old German farmer of between $30 and $50 in the saloon of John Lloyd. He acknowledges the crime and says he did it while both himself and the German were drunk. He then spent most of the money on a woman.

How Lanphere Got Even.

Owosso, Mich., Oct. 17.—Shortly before midnight Mrs. Hiram Lanphere created a sensation by rushing into Goodwin's grocery store shrieking at the top of her voice that her husband had taken poison. A hurry call was sent to several physicians in the neighborhood and dozens of people rushed to the Lanphere home, where they found the man of the house lying on a sofa groaning and apparently in great agony, while a strong odor of carbolic acid filled the room. After an exhaustive examination by the doctors, Lanphere confessed that he had taken not a drop of poison, but had spilled some of the acid to create a smell and then simulated great suffering to punish his wife, with whom he had quarreled.

Fatally Hurt by Dynamite.

Owosso, Mich., Oct. 17.—By the explosion of a dynamite cap, William Haley, Jr., and Edward Merrifield were probably fatally injured. The caps were on copper wire, which the boys found and intended to sell for old junk. They first must needs throw it in the fire, however, with the above result. Merrifield's face was literally cut to pieces and Haley's skull penetrated at the temple by a flying piece of the wire. Merrifield will lose the sight of his left eye and lockjaw is feared.

CURES STOMACH TROUBLES

THE body gets its life from food properly digested. Healthy digestion means pure blood for the body, but stomach troubles arise from carelessness in eating and stomach disorders upset the entire system. Improperly masticated food sours on the stomach, causing distressing pains, belching and nausea. When over-eating is persisted in the stomach becomes weakened and worn out and dyspepsia claims the victim.

Thedford's Black-Draught cures dyspepsia. It frees the stomach and bowels of congested matter and gives the stomach new life. The stomach is quickly invigorated and the natural stimulation results in a good appetite, with the power to thoroughly digest food.

You can build up your stomach with this mild and natural remedy. Try Thedford's Black-Draught today. You can buy a package from your dealer for 25c. If he does not keep it, send the money to The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., and a package will be mailed you.

COLE'S HOT BLAST

Wonderful Heater and Fuel Saver

Cost of Stove Saved in Fuel

As you know over one-half of the available heat in hard coal and soft coal is lost with the ordinary stove. The extent of unburned gases in hard coal is shown by opening the magazine cover of a base burner when the extra oxygen supplied fills the entire stove with flaming gas. The entire gas supply for both fuel and illumination in many cities and towns is made from ordinary soft coal. Other stoves allow this gas half of the fuel to pass up the chimney unburned thus wasting it as a heat producer, because they are not gas tight and do not furnish superheated oxygen above the fuel where the gas is wasting.

The Original Cole's Hot Blast Stove

by means of the Patented Hot Blast Draft used in connection with other patented features, distills this gas from the upper surface of the coal, utilizing it as a heat producer along with the fixed carbon in the coal, thus making $5.00 worth of hard coal, soft coal or lignite or a $2.00 ton of slack or coal siftings do the work of twice the amount of fuel in other stoves.

For Soft Coal or Hard Coal

Cole's Hot Blast is Air-Tight and guaranteed to remain so. Imitations open at the seams and leak at the joints, making them fuel eaters rather than fuel savers. Cole's Hot Blast is so perfect in construction that fire keeps all night, and when the draft is opened in the morning will burn two or three hours with the fuel put in the night before. No other stove does this. Fire, therefore, never goes out, and the rooms are kept at an even temperature all the time.

Guarantee

1—We guarantee a saving of one-third in fuel over any lower draft stove of the same size.

2—We guarantee Cole's Hot Blast to use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner with the same heating surface.

3—We guarantee that the rooms can be heated from one to three hours each morning, with the soft coal or hard coal put in the stove the evening before.

4—We guarantee that the stove will hold fire with soft coal thirty-six hours, without attention.

5—We guarantee a uniform heat day and night, with soft coal, hard coal or lignite.

6—We guarantee every stove to remain absolutely air tight as long as used.

The above guarantee is made with the understanding that the stove be operated according to directions, and set up with a good flue.

With Your Old Stove the fire is always out the coldest morning and your plants are often frozen. Even when it does keep fire over night the house is cold in the morning and you go to breakfast shivering with cold. Besides the unsatisfactory result it gives it is eating up the price of a new stove every winter.

You can enjoy the luxury of getting up in warm rooms every morning and only kindle one fire a year by purchasing a Cole's Original Hot Blast. The Cost of the Stove is Saved in the Fuel. Read carefully the guarantee which is one that cannot be made on any other stove manufactured in the world.

NOTE—Cole's Hot Blast has many imitations. But they all lack these special features because our stoves are fully patented and protected. The name, "Cole's Hot Blast from Chicago" will be found on the feed door of each stove. Be sure that you get the "Original Hot Blast."

IN BLOODY STRUGGLE

Russians Succeed In Capturing an Important Position.

LONE TREE HILL IS TAKEN

Fighting Continues Along Entire Front—Rains Interfere—St. Petersburg Rejoices Because Kuropatkin Has Again Taken Offensive.

Mukden, Oct. 19.—Lone Tree hill, won by the Russians after a desperate struggle, was the object of a gallant but unsuccessful attempt at recapture by the Japanese. In spite of the awful slaughter with which they had been driven from the hill, the Japanese returned to the charge during the night of Oct. 17, recognizing that the hill was the key to the position on the southwest front. Nine regiments participated, creeping up through the night and delivering a furious assault at dawn.

But the hill had been bought too dearly by the Russians to relinquish it, and the Japanese were driven back with terrible slaughter.

Fidyatun (six miles east of Shankhe), Oct. 19.—Fighting still continues along almost the whole front. The Japanese have made an unsuccessful attempt to recapture Lone Tree hill. The Russian infantry met several attacks and repulsed them all.

Heavy rains continue. Every one is terribly exhausted but full of fight.

Awful Spectacle.

The battlefield of Lone Tree hill presents the most awful spectacle that can be conceived. Russian and Japanese dead are mingled in heaps in inextricable confusion. The ground is strewn with broken rifles that had been smashed in hand-to-hand fighting. Everything seems to have been utilized as weapons. The Russian doctors are working heroically on the slopes of the hill in the attempt to save those of the wounded who still survive, but the Japanese keep up a sniping fire and render the work of relief difficult and dangerous.

The fighting Tuesday slackened considerably, owing to rain and the impassable condition of the roads.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 19.—There is jubilation throughout the city over the news that Gen. Kuropatkin has resumed the offensive, and the holiday Tuesday, which began with little heart, closed brighter. The crowds in the streets and the illuminations in honor of the czarevitch's name-day gave a tinge of brilliancy to an evening otherwise depressing, through a constant drizzle of rain. Newsboys up to midnight raced through the thoroughfares with evening extras, shouting "Great Russian victory," and crowds bought the papers.

Hints of an Advance.

Correspondents at the front the past forty-eight hours had been hinting that the Russian army was on the eve of another advance; but it was thought here that the troops were too exhausted by more than a week of Titanic struggle to engage in an immediate advance movement. In the best informed circles, however, it is already accepted as true. It is believed that Gen. Kuropatkin intended to signalize the czarevitch's fete by a victory just as the Grand Duke Nicholas did at Plevna.

The Associated Press hears on good authority that the emperor has received a telegram from Gen. Kuropatkin, reporting that the Russians are moving forward.

Young Men Robbed Postoffice.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 20.—Charles Swartout and Joseph Karns, about 20 years of age, have confessed to stealing from the sub-postoffice station at Caulkins' drug store, and Swartout is in the county jail, while Karns is under arrest in Toledo. Swartout at first confessed to taking money from the store, but upon being subjected to a close examination admitted that he also took money from the postoffice station. He claims that the amount taken was $75, but it is shown from the station that considerably more than this amount is missing.

Broke into his house.

M. Le Quinn of Cavendish, Vt., was robbed of his customary health by invasion of chronic constipation. When Dr. King's New Life Pills broke into his house, his trouble was arrested and he is entirely cured. They're guaranteed so cure, 25c at C. A. Wright's drug store.

A VISIT TO PANAMA

To Be Made by Secretary Taft and Congressional Committees.

PRESIDENT AUTHORIZES TRIP

People of Isthmus to Be Assured of Uncle Sam's Good Intentions—Other Officials of Government Will Go Along—Will Leave Soon.

Washington, Oct. 20.—After a conference with the secretary of state and secretary of war, the president has sent a letter to Secretary of War Taft, authorizing him to visit the isthmus of Panama in person, taking with him such persons as he may desire who may aid him with their counsel. The letter says:

"You will advise the president of the republic what the policy of this government is to be, and assure him that it is not the purpose of the United States to take advantage of the rights conferred upon it by the treaty to interfere with the welfare and prosperity of the state of Panama, or of the cities of Colon and Panama. You will make due report of the result of your visit on your return."

Who'll Be the Party.

While definite arrangements have not yet been made for Secretary Taft's trip it is his purpose to go to Panama on the army transport Sumter from New York. In the party representing Panama will be Minister Obaldia. Admiral John Walker will go as a representative of the canal commission. Judge Charles Magoon, the law officer of the commission and of the bureau of insular affairs, who has been of such assistance in framing orders and regulations for the canal strip, also will be of the party.

The members of the senate and house committees dealing with isthmian affairs will be invited, and as the entire trip it is expected can be made inside of a month, and little legislation is expected within the first two weeks of the approaching session of congress, it is believed the committeemen will find time to make the trip.

One reason why Secretary Taft desires the committees' attendance is because he feels that as they must legislate for the next ten years concerning the canal strip they will be better qualified for this important work by a personal knowledge of conditions on the isthmus.

OVER THEIR HEADS

Fire Blazed While Audience Witnessed a Play.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 20.—An audience that crowded the Bastable theater to the doors sat through the performance last night unconscious of the fact that half the city's fire department was fighting what promised to be a stubborn blaze two floors above. So perfect were the precautions taken by the theater management, the police and fire officials that, although the streets outside were jammed with excited people, no one in the big audience knew anything was wrong until water began to drip from the ceilings. Then the audience was told that a pipe had burst and no trouble was experienced.

The fire was in an office on the fifth floor of the building and directly above the theater. The damage amounted to less than $1,000.

His Mind Is Shattered.

Port Huron, Mich., Oct. 20.—When Fred Forester, the Port Huron fireman who was taken from the St. Clair tunnel at the recent disaster in an unconscious and precarious condition, leaves the Sarnia hospital, where he is now receiving treatment, he will be a complete wreck. Although ten days have elapsed since the tunnel accident, Forester has not fully recovered consciousness, but during occasional conscious moments he sings, whistles and talks, but what he says means nothing.

H. M. Loud Very Ill.

Au Sable, Mich., Oct. 20.—Henry M. Loud, one of Michigan's prominent lumbermen and closely identified with the development of northern Michigan interests, is failing rapidly in health. Mr. Loud was a trustee of Albion college for many years and endowed that institution with a $30,000 chair of history. He also endowed the Wesleyan guild at Ann Arbor with a $15,000 lectureship. Congressman G. A. Loud is his son.

RAIN ENDS FIGHTING

Conflict In Manchuria Is Temporarily Suspended.

ARMIES ARE SHIFTING ABOUT

Taking Up New Positions That Battle May Be Continued When Weather Permits—Last Fight Practically Considered Victory For Japanese.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 20.—For the moment heavy rains and impassable roads have compelled a suspension of operations in Manchuria. There was practically no fight yesterday and none whatever last night. There is evidence of a new disposition of the forces on both sides. Gen. Kuropatkin is extending his right, whether with a view to a turning movement for the safety of Lone Tree hill, the importance of which points fully realized by the Japanese, who have attempted to retake it in two night attacks, or whether to meet and thwart a Japanese turning movement from the west, has not yet developed. The Japanese also appear to be shifting weight to the westward.

Veiled hints continue to arrive that the Russians have recovered from the blow inflicted last week by Field Marshal Oyama and that Gen. Kuropatkin is preparing to renew the struggle as soon as the roads become dry.

May Spring Surprise.

Two Associated Press dispatches from Mukden last night mention reports that the Japanese are already preparing to retire, and the war office admits that Kuropatkin's left has again moved slightly forward; but there is no light upon the movements of the Japanese. There is, indeed, an utter lack of late news from Tokio and an enemy so resourceful may really be preparing a surprise movement instead of a retreat, relieving the pressure on the front with a view to accomplishing something on the flank.

Many critics here continue to believe that Gen. Kuropatkin intends to return to the line of the Hun river.

The enforced cessation of operations by the bad weather, if the Japanese offensive had really exhausted itself, gives both armies a chance to breathe and pull themselves together, and would seem to ensure as much benefit to one side as to the other for practical purposes. When operations recommence they will assume an entirely new phase, with new dispositions and objectives. Practically last week's battle has ended, and it goes into history as a Russian defeat. When operations are resumed a new battle will begin.

Frontier Troops Removed.

The movement of troops on the Russian western frontier and the preparations to further reduce garrisons in this region revive talk of a complete understanding with Germany, under which the frontier will be protected so as to permit of the dispatch to Manchuria of troops stationed in Poland. There are about six hundred thousand soldiers in Poland, comprising some of the best troops in the empire.

Cornerstone Laid.

Belding, Mich., Oct. 20.—The cornerstone of Belding's new $15,000 M. E. church was laid today, Rev. Louis Delamarter of Lansing, presiding elder of this district, having charge of the ceremonies, and many ministers of the denomination throughout the country being present. The new church will be unique in that it is to be constructed entirely of cement blocks.

Supreme Court Proceedings.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 20.—The following cases were submitted Wednesday in the supreme court: Morgan vs. Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway Co. (15); Butler vs. Detroit, Ypsilanti & Ann Arbor Railway (52); Stowell vs. Standard Oil Co. (53); Turner vs. Burr (55). Call for today: 56, 58, 61, 62, 63, 64, 66, 67, 68, 69, 71, 72. After this week no more cases will be heard until Nov. 15.

The organization has missionaries among the Mormons in Utah, among the Chinese in California, among the Indians in Oklahoma, the Indian Territory and New Mexico, and among the colored people of Virginia, besides seven in Michigan and others in Alaska and Nebraska.

Drove Off Would-Be Robbers.

Niles, Mich., Oct. 20.—John Cait, a farmer, was assaulted last night by two young men whom he claims he recognized as Harry and Guy Webber, residing near his home. Cait had marketed a load of potatoes and was en route home when he was attacked. One man held the farmer's horses while the other jumped into the wagon and struck him over the head with a shovel. Cait put up a fight and drove off his assailants, whom he will prosecute.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and till the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies and by failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. CHAPTER XVIII.

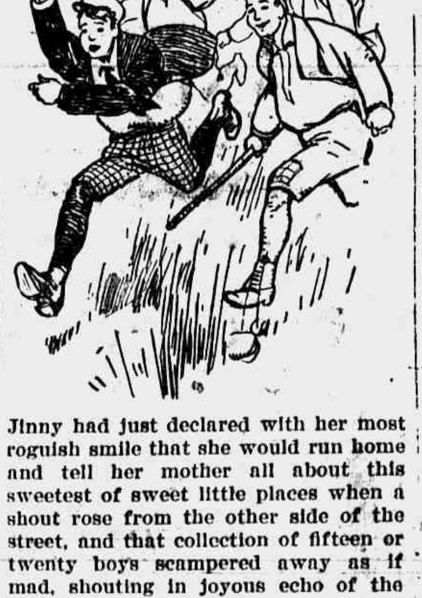
But for me they led the way to a very definite inquiry. Again to see the rings Mrs. Jeffrey had left behind her on the night she went for the last time to the Moore house, I looked them carefully over and found that none of them showed the least mark of the file. This strengthened my theory, and I proceeded to take my next step with increased confidence. It seemed an easy one, but proved unexpectedly difficult. My desire was to ascertain whether she had worn previous to her marriage any rings which had not been seen on her finger since, and it took me one whole week to establish the fact that she had.

But that fact once learned, the way cleared before me. Allowing my fancy full rein, I pictured to myself her anxious figure standing alone in that ancient and ghostly room filing off this old ring from her dainty finger. Then I asked myself what she would be likely to do with this ring after disengaging it from her hand? Would she keep it? Perhaps. But, if so, why could it not be found? None such had been discovered among her effects. Or had she thrown it away, and if so, where? The vision of her which I had just seen in my mind's eye came out with a clearness at this, which struck me as providential. I could discern as plainly as if I had been a part of the scene the white clad form of the bride bending toward the light which came in sparsely through the half open shutter she had loosened for this task. This was the shutter which had never again been fastened and whose restless blowing to and fro had first led attention to this house and the crime it might otherwise have concealed indefinitely. Had some glimpse of the rank grass growing underneath this window lured her eye and led her to cast away the ring which she had no longer any right to keep? It would be like a woman to yield to such an impulse, and on the strength of the possibility I decided to search this small plot for what it might very reasonably conceal.

Calling together a posse of street urchins, I organized them into a band, with the promise of a good supper all around if one of them brought me the pieces of a broken ring which I had lost in the grass plot of a house where I had been called upon to stay all night. That they might win the supper in the shortest possible time and before the owner of this house, who lived opposite, could interfere, I advised them to start at the fence in a long line and, proceeding on their knees, to search, each one, the ground before him to the width of his own body. The fortunate one was to have the privilege of saying what the supper should consist of. To give a plausible excuse for this search a ball was to be tossed up and down the street till it lighted in the Moore house inclosure.

I did not accompany them. Jinny, who has such an innocent air on the street, took my place and promenaded up and down the block just to see that Mr. Moore did not make too much trouble. And it was well she did so, for though he was not at home—I had chosen the hour of his afternoon ride—his new manservant was, and he no sooner perceived this crowd of urchins making for the opposite house than he rushed at them and would have scattered them far and wide in a twinkling if the demure dimples of my little ally had not come into play and distracted his attention so completely as to make him forget the throng of unkempt hoodlums who seemed bound to invade his master's property. She was looking for Mr. Moore's house, she told him. Did he know Mr. Moore and his house, which was somewhere near, not his new, great, big house, where the horrible things took place of which she had read in the papers, but his little old house, which she had heard was soon to be for rent and which she thought would be just the right size for herself and mother. Was that it? That dear little place all smothered in vines? How lovely! And what would the rent be, did he think, and had it a back yard with garden room enough for her to raise pinks and nasturtiums, and so on, and so on, while he stared with delighted eyes and tried to put in a word edgewise, and the boys—well, they went through that strip of grass in just ten minutes. My brave little

The finding of the ring



Jinny had just declared with her most roguish smile that she would run home and tell her mother all about this sweetest of sweet little places when a shout rose from the other side of the street, and that collection of fifteen or twenty boys scampered away as if mad, shouting in joyous echo of the boy at their head:

"It's to be chicken, heaping plates of ice cream and sponge cake."

By which token she knew that the ring had been found.

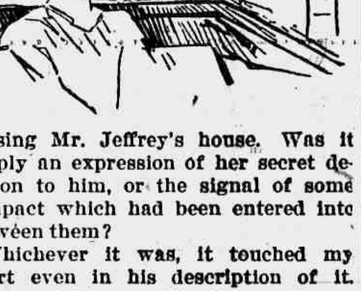
* * * * * * * *

When they brought this ring to me I would not have exchanged places with any man on earth. As Jinny herself was curious enough to stroll along about this time, I held it out where we both could see it and draw our conclusions.

It was a plain gold circlet set with a single small ruby. It was cut through and twisted out of shape just as I had anticipated. How could I learn the story of that ring and the possible connection between it and Mr. Jeffrey's professed jealousy of his wife and the disappointing honeymoon which had followed their marriage? That this feeling on his part had antedated the ambassador's ball no one could question, but that it had started as far back as the wedding day was a new idea to me, and, one which suggested many possibilities. Could this idea be established, and if so how? But one avenue of inquiry offered itself. The waiter, who had been spirited away so curiously immediately after the wedding, might be able to give us some information on this interesting point. He had been the medium of the messages which had passed between her and Mr. Jeffrey just prior to the ceremony afterward he had been seen talking earnestly to that gentleman and later with her. Certainly it would add to our understanding of the situation to know what reply she had sent to the peremptory demand made upon her at so critical a time—an understanding so desirable that the very prospect of it was almost enough to warrant a journey to Tampa. Yet, say that the results were disappointing, how much time lost and what a sum of money! I felt the need of advice in this crisis, yet hesitated to ask it. My cursed pride and my no less cursed jealousy of Durbin stood very much in my way at this time.

A week had now passed since the inquest, and while Miss Tuttle still remained at liberty it was a circumscribed liberty which must have been very galling to one of her temperament and habits. She rode and she walked, but she entered no house unattended nor was she allowed any communication with Mr. Jeffrey. Nevertheless she saw him or at least gave him the opportunity of seeing her. Each day at 3 o'clock she rode through K street and the detective who watched Mr. Jeffrey's house said that she never passed it without turning her face to the second story window, where he invariably stood. No signs passed between them—indeed they scarcely nodded—but her face, as she lifted it to meet his eye showed so marked a serenity and was so altogether beautiful that this same detective had a desire to see if it maintained like characteristics when she was not within reach of her brother-in-law. Accordingly the next day he delegated his place to another and took his stand farther down the street. Alas, it was not the same woman's face he saw, but a far different and sadder one. She wore that look of courage and brave hope only in passing Mr. Jeffrey's house. Was it simply an expression of her secret devotion to him, or the signal of some compact which had been entered into between them?

Jeffrey sees Miss Tuttle from his window



Whichever it was, it touched my heart even in his description of it. After advising with Jinny, I approached the superintendent, to whom without further reserve I opened my heart.

The next day I found myself on the train bound for Tampa, with full authority to follow Curly Jim until I found him.

CHAPTER XIX.

When I started on this desperate search after a witness, war had been declared, but no advance as yet ordered on Cuba. I wandered from one end of the camp to the other till I finally encountered a petty officer who gave signs of being a rough rider. Him I stopped and, with some hint of my business, asked where James Calvert could be found.

His answer was a stare and a gesture toward the hospital tents.

Nothing could have astonished me more.

"Sick?" I cried.

"Dying," was his answer.

Dying! Curly Jim! Impossible! I had misled my informant as to the exact man I wanted, or else there were two James Calverts in Tampa. Curly Jim, the former cowboy, was not the fellow to succumb in camp before he had ever smelt powder.

"It is James Calvert of the First volunteer corps I am after," said I. "A sturdy fellow"—

"No doubt, no doubt. Many sturdy fellows are down. He's down to stay. Typhoid, you know. Bad case. No hope from the start. Pity, but"—

I heard no more. Dying! Curly Jim! He who was considered to be immune. He who held the secret—

"Let me see him," I demanded. "It is important—a police matter. A word from him may save a life. He is still breathing?"

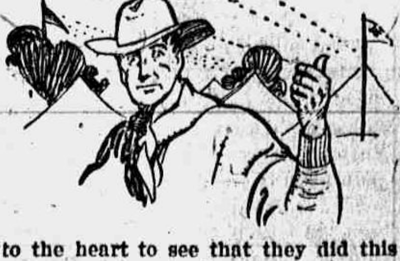
"Yes, but I do not think there is any chance of his speaking. He did not recognize his nurse five minutes ago."

As bad as that! But I did not despair. I did not dare to. I had staked everything on this interview, and I was not going to lose its promised results from any lack of effort on my own part.

"Let me see him," I repeated.

I was taken in. The few persons I saw clustered about a narrow cot in one corner gave way, and I was cut to the heart to see that they did this not so much out of consideration for me or my errand there as from the consciousness that their business at the bedside of this dying man was over. He was on the point of breathing his last. I pressed forward, and after one quick scrutiny of the closed eyes and pale face I knelt at his side and whispered a name into his ear. It was that of Veronica Moore.

The petty officer



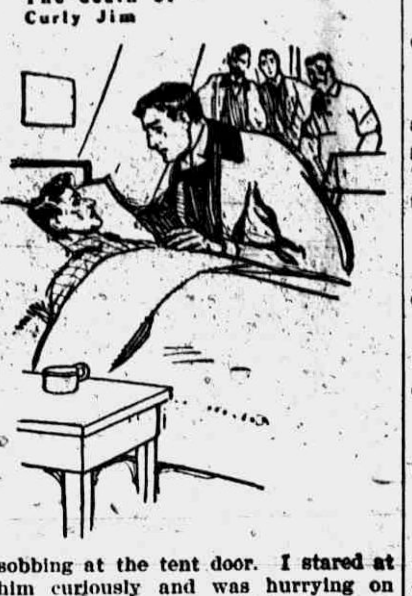
He started. They all saw it. On the threshold of death, some emotion—we never knew what one—drew him back for an instant, and the pale cheek showed a suspicion of color. Though the eyes did not open, the lips moved, and I caught these words:

"Kept word—told no one—she was so"—

And that was all. He died the next instant.

Bending under this stroke of Providence, I passed out. A little boy was sobbing at the tent door. I stared at him curiously and was hurrying on when I felt myself caught by the hand.

The death of Curly Jim



"Take me with you," cried a choked and frightened voice in my ear. "I have no friend here now he is gone. Take me back to Washington."

MRS. POLLANY DENEEN, Marine City, Mich.

Mrs. Pollany Deneen, Marine City, Mich., says: "I humbly thank you for the good your medicine has done for me, after suffering for four years with nervous and heart trouble. I would have spells when I would drop down anywhere and would remain unconscious for as long as 24 hours at a time. The doctor said it was a hard case of dropsy and something that could not be cured. I heard of your remedy and took it according to directions and found relief with the first bottle, so I continued it until I had used six bottles and now I am well and able to do a good day's washing, which I could not do before. I can't thank you enough for what your remedy has done for me, and I recommend it to all who suffer, as it is worth its weight in gold to sick women."

Elder Sowles of Onsted, picketed his horse out last Friday night with a light chain thirty feet long, but found him loose in the morning. On examination it was found that every link of the chain was opened and it was all in separate links, supposed to have been struck by lightning, as some links were partially melted. The horse was uninjured.—Adrian Telegram.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's cough remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists, Tecumseh, Mich.

Pill Pleasure.

If you ever took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness or constipation you know what pill pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. They do not gripe, sicken or weaken, but pleasantly give tone and strength to the tissues and organs of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold by C. A. Wright.

Standing upright and lying on its face—A tombstone.

Good for Children.

The pleasant to take and harmless One Minute Cough Cure gives instant relief in all cases of cough, croup and lagrippe because it does not pass immediately into the stomach, but takes effect right at the seat of the trouble. It draws out the inflammation, heals and soothes and cures permanently by enabling the lungs to contribute pure life-giving and life-sustaining oxygen to the blood and tissues. Sold by C. A. Wright.

Girls who are always harping on the rights of women are apt to get left in the matrimonial deal.

Can you eat?

J. B. Taylor, a prominent merchant of Chriesman, Tex., says: "I could not eat because of a weak stomach, I lost all strength and ran down in weight. All that money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, I concluded to try it. The first bottle benefitted me and after taking four bottles, I am fully restored to my usual strength, weight and health." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and cures. Sold by C. A. Wright.

Keep the inside machinery clean. No man can hope to be in health who is clogged or stagnated. Waste matter and broken down material should be expelled easily and naturally. BONE FOOD

Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food, blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment for soft bones in children. Little doses every day give the stiffness and shape that healthy bones should have.

Bow legs become straighter, loose joints grow stronger and firmness comes to the soft heads.

In thousands of cases Scott's Emulsion has proven to be the right food for soft bones in childhood.

MESSAGE TO FRATERNAL ORDERS

Interesting news from Cincinnati with local confirmation in Tecumseh.

The thousands of members of fraternal bodies in this state will be interested in the following message from John Theobald, a prominent Forester who lives at 1111 York street, Cincinnati.

Mr. Theobald believes in living up to the motto of his organization, "Fraternal Love and Charity" and believes that he can do no more charitable act than to tell his experience in regaining health after years of suffering.

Mr. Theobald writes: "For five years, I suffered with stomach troubles, having all the distress and misery that afflicts dyspeptics. I could not enjoy eating, thinking of the suffering that would follow. My food did not digest and although I took all kinds of medicines, I found nothing to help me, until I used Mi-o-na. Thanks to this remarkable remedy, I am now a cured man and believe that it made a permanent and complete cure."

C. A. Wright is local agent for Mi-o-na, nature's cure for dyspepsia. It is in the form of small tablets and sells at 50c a box. The remedy has made so many and such remarkable cures amongst his customers, confirming Mr. Theobald's statement, that he will give his personal guarantee with every box he sells to refund the money if it does not cure.

Do not suffer longer. Here is a cure that costs you nothing, unless it restores health. C. A. Wright takes all the risk and you do not have to pay a penny unless you feel that you have received much more than your money's worth.

Cairns—Billington.

Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Cairns occurred the marriage of their daughter, Lora, to Floyd Billington of Tipton. Promptly at 8 o'clock to the strains of Strauss' "Fond Hearts," executed by Mrs. Harry Van Doren, the bride and groom entered the parlor preceded by Miss Beth Hunter, who carried the ring imbedded in the petals of a white American beauty rose. Rev. Rose performed the marriage ceremony beneath a canopy of green and white, formed of lace, ferns and smilax. The guests, 95 in number, were received by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whelan, friends of both the bride and groom.

Miss Cairns was lovely in white Tamese cloth trimmed with lace, pearls and chiffon. She carried white roses. The groom was attired in the conventional black.

After congratulations, a delightful three course supper was served with Mrs. Jolly as caterer.

The bride's table was prettily trimmed with ropes of smilax, yellow and pink dahlias Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whelan served at the bride's table, while the Misses Jessie and Bonnie Billington Lula Aylesworth and Messrs. Willard Clapp, Howard Matthews and Lloyd Whelan assisted the others.

Over in Novi there should be less prosperity or more banks. Everyone seems to be laying up money. Someone seems to be on to the fact and is also accumulating a fortune. Mr. Atkinson missed $30 from his earnings that he deposited in the house. Mrs. Mary Cogsdill went home to a quilting bee leaving her pocketbook in the house and the bank funds were missing when she returned. They steal everything up around Novi but religion and it is said to be the only Warner town in the country.—Ex.

PHYSICIAN'S GOOD LUCK

Dr. Hart's fortunate experience of special interest to many in Tecumseh.

The happiest man in New England today and one who is receiving congratulations from his friends, is Dr. Philip Z. Hart of Laconia, N. H.

Probably no physician is better known in all parts of the United States than Dr. Hart, as he has been a great traveler and knows the best people wherever he has been. For years he has suffered with catarrh in its worst form.

Although he resorted to the latest scientific treatment and consulted many of his brother physicians, Dr. Hart finally said, "I might just as well have thrown my money in the river for I grew worse and worse. It is really due to my wife's good judgment that I tried Hyomei." The Doctor, in his emphatic way added "Thank God that I did, for Hyomei cured me completely. My wife and I will swear that Hyomei cured me of the worst case of catarrh that ever existed. I used to cough constantly at night and had dropping in the throat, which kept me awake a great deal. I raised thick phlegm and was in a horrible condition. However, I am entirely cured, solely through the use of Hyomei."

C. A. Wright is the local agent for Hyomei, the famous treatment which cures catarrh without stomach dosing. A complete outfit costs but $1.00, extra bottles, 50c. He sells it under guarantee to refund the money if it does not give quick relief. Ask him to show you the strong guarantee under which it is sold.

It makes health and strength for old people, weak, sickly women and children, nursing mothers, and after a severe sickness.

UNCOMMON WISDOM.

Some Tecumseh people profit by neighbors experience.

It's a wise man who profits by the experience of his friends and neighbors. Here is a chance to do it and every man, woman or child in Tecumseh who knows the misery of a bad back, the nervousness and restlessness caused by kidney complaint or the annoyance of urinary disorders, will show uncommon wisdom to profit by this citizen's advice.

Ex-Postmaster J. W. Wightman, well known to every reader of this statement says: "I have no hesitation in endorsing Doan's Kidney Pills procured at C. A. Wright's drug store. They have been used in my family and the most satisfactory results followed the treatment. They proved to be a remedy of merit. You can use my name to that effect if you think proper."

For sale by all dealers: Price 50 cents per box, Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

This Testimony

Will surely interest many readers of this paper.

James G. Gray, Gibson, Mo., writes about Drake's Palmetto Wine as follows: I live in the Missouri Swamps in Dunklin County and have been sick with Malarial fever and for fifteen months a walking skeleton. One bottle of Drake's Palmetto Wine has done me more good than all the medicine I have taken in that fifteen months. I am buying two more bottles to stay cured. Drake's Palmetto Wine is the best medicine and tonic for Malaria, Kidney and Liver ailments I ever used or heard of. I feel well now after using one bottle.

A. A. Felding, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: I had a bad case of sour Stomach and Indigestion. I could eat so little that I was "falling to bones" and could not sleep nor attend to my business. I used the trial bottle and two large seventy-five cent bottles and can truthfully say I am entirely cured. I have advised many to write for a free trial bottle.

J. W. Moore, Monticello, Minn., makes the following statement about himself and a neighbor. He says: Four bottles of Drake's Palmetto Wine has cured me of catarrh of Bladder and Kidney trouble. I suffered ten years and spent hundreds of dollars with best doctors and specialists without benefit. Drake's Palmetto Wine has made me a well man. A young woman here was given up to die by a Minneapolis specialist and he and our local doctor said they could do no more for her. She has been taking Drake's Palmetto Wine one week and is rapidly recovering.

The Drake Formula Company, Drake Bldg., Chicago, Ill., will send a trial bottle of Drake's Palmetto Wine free and prepaid to any reader of this paper. A letter or postal card is your only expense to get this free bottle.

Better than pills.

The question has been asked—In what way are Chamberlain's stomach and liver tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is—They are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle and so agreeable that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then they not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and aid digestion. For sale by all druggists in Tecumseh.

Take No Chances With Your Kidneys.

Diseases of the kidneys are very, very dangerous. Being once firmly established, their work is more deadly and certain than any other malady—consumption itself not excepted. Of all kidney affections, Bright's disease easily leads in fatal effects and results. Its worst feature is that it sounds no warning to put its victims on their guard, but steals on unawares and is nearly always firmly imbedded before the patient is conscious of his danger. It is highly important to life that no time should be lost in checking its ravages at the very first indication or symptom of its presence.

Dr. Colwell's Egyptian Kidney and Bladder Cure is certain and sure in curing Bright's disease in its early stages and all other affections of the kidney and bladder. It is guaranteed to cure inflammation of the kindeys, congestion, brick dust deposits, cloudy urine, pains in back and kidneys, retention and incontinence of urine, bed wetting, diseases of the bladder and urinary tract, sexual weakness in both men and women, restoring to health and imparting to the genito-urinary organs renewed vitality and vigor.

Dr. Colwell's Egyptian Kidney and Bladder Cure is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money will be refunded. It is for sale at $1.00 a bottle by

CURES STOMACH TROUBLES

THE body gets its life from food properly digested. Healthy digestion means pure blood for the body, but stomach troubles arise from carelessness in eating and stomach disorders upset the entire system. Improperly masticated food sours on the stomach, causing distressing pains, belching and nausea. When over-eating is persisted in the stomach becomes weakened and worn out and dyspepsia claims the victim.

Thedford's Black-Draught cures dyspepsia. It frees the stomach and bowels of congested matter and gives the stomach new life. The stomach is quickly invigorated and the natural stimulation results in a good appetite, with the power to thoroughly digest food.

You can build up your stomach with this mild and natural remedy. Try Thedford's Black-Draught today. You can buy a package from your dealer for 25c. If he does not keep it, send the money to The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., and a package will be mailed you.

FELL WHILE FIGHTING

Conductor on Detroit Street Car Died of Injuries.

ROLLED OFF HIS STREET CAR

While Clinched With Passenger—Struck Pavement With Terrible Force—Two Men Placed Under Arrest Charged With Manslaughter.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 24.—James J. Donnelly, aged 33, conductor on the Michigan avenue car line, died shortly after 5 o'clock last night as a result of a fight on his car at Twenty-fourth street and Michigan avenue yesterday afternoon. John Budjaik, 293 Wesson avenue; Mike and Fred Kessifi, 118 Otis street, with who Donnelly is said to have had the trouble, are locked up at the Vinewood street police station charged with manslaughter.

It seems that Budjaik and Donnelly had some words and a fight ensued, during which both men rolled from the car, which was moving rapidly out Michigan avenue. Donnelly fell beneath Budjaik, striking his head on the pavement.

The car did not stop immediately, but a lady passenger pulled the bell cord, bringing it to a stop. The motorman then for the first time became aware of the trouble. Leaving his car accompanied by several passengers, he returned to where Donnelly was found lying on the pavement, unconscious, with Budjaik standing beside him.

The ambulance from Harper hospital was called and the injured man taken there, where, despite the attention of the house physicians, he failed to regain consciousness and expired forty minutes after his arrival. At the same time the ambulance was called a telephone message was sent to the Vinewood police station and Sergt. Lewis and Patrolman Hayes arrived shortly after and placed Budjaik and his two companions under arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct. After learning of Donnelly's death the charge was changed to manslaughter.

After Donnelly's death Coroner Hoffman was notified and decided to hold an inquest to determine the exact cause of death.

Candidates Ask For Recount.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 24.—Nine of the defeated candidates for nominations in the representative contest in the primary elections which took place in Wayne county last week are about to file a petition for a recount of votes. The principal point which they bring forth why a recount should be made is that owing to the extremely long time which it took to count the votes, those who were counting them were necessarily greatly exhausted. The law requires that they shall not leave the booths until the count is completed, and because of fatigue it was impossible for a correct count to be made. The candidates also contend that inspectors did not observe the law in counting.

Killed In His Saloon.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—While resisting an attempt to rob him as he sat in his place of business last night, William H. Kneiering, a saloonkeeper at 3200 Princeton avenue, was shot in the abdomen by one of four highwaymen and killed almost instantly. The robbers escaped, but not before one of them was shot and wounded, leaving a trail of blood as he staggered from the saloon. Several arrests have been made, but none of the suspects has been positively identified.

FISHERMEN ATTACKED

Russian Squadron Fired on British Fishing Boats.

ONE SUNK AND POSSIBLY MORE

Damaged Ships and Dead and Wounded Seamen Arrive at Hull—Strange Act of Russians Cannot Be Explained.

Hull, Eng., Oct. 24.—A. M. Jackson & Co., solicitors for the owners of fifty Hull fishing boats, have notified the foreign office and admiralty of an attack on the Hull fishing fleet by the Russian second Pacific squadron (commanded by Vice Admiral Rojestvensky).

The official information is that shortly after midnight Friday the Russian squadron fell in with the Hull fishing fleet in the North sea. The first portion of the fishing fleet passed safely. Then the Russian ships turned their searchlights on the British vessels for some time and a little later opened fire. The steam trawler Crale was sunk and the decapitated bodies of her skipper and mate have been brought to Hull. The boatswain and other members of the crew, who are understood to be seriously injured, are on board a mission ship.

The steamer trawlers Moulmein and Mino have arrived at Hull seriously damaged by shots, the latter having sixteen holes in her hull. It is feared that other damage was done to trawlers and that at least one more was lost, with all hands.

Eigteen injured men are here under treatment.

One trawler, the Wren, is missing, and it is feared she has been sunk. There were many distressing scenes at Hull during the day and night, relatives inquiring after friends.

There is a rumor that the "Great Northern fishing fleet" was also chased by the Russians. This report has not yet been confirmed.

The news has created an intense sensation and indignation in Hull. The Moulmein arrived with her flag at half mast. Her skipper states that the trawlers were fishing about 200 miles east by north of Spurn Head at 1 o'clock Saturday morning, the weather being hazy, when the outlines of several vessels, apparently warships sailing in a line, were dimly seen. Whilst the crew were watching the warships searchlights were flashed upon them, in the glare of which the Moulmien's crew observed what they took to be torpedo boats approaching, apparently with the intention of boarding the Moulmien. They steamed away, however, and soon the fishermen were horrified to find they were being fired upon. First one and then another trawler was struck by flying shot.

What seemed to be a round shot went through the Moulmien's galley. The Mino, lying near by, also was struck with many shots, but fortunately the damage was above her water line and none of her crew was struck. The bombardment lasted about twenty minutes. When it had ceased the fleet sailed southward.

Representatives of the fishing fleet have started for London to consult with the authorities there.

LONDON ASTONISHED.

Does Not Comprehend Queer Actions of Russian Fleet.

London, Oct. 24.—The Russian Pacific (Baltic) fleet, comprising seven battleships and four cruisers, passed Dover in three sections between 6 o'clock Sunday morning and 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

All the government offices in London were closed, as usual on Sunday; therefore no official view could be gleaned of the firing by Russian war vessels upon a British fishing fleet in the North sea. London is astonished and wonders what possible motive could have led Russian officers into such an extraordinary and inexplicable course of action, which, unless a satisfactory explanation is immediately forthcoming, could only be regarded as an act of war. The worst feature of the story, as viewed here, is the heartlessness displayed by the Russian fleet in steaming away without taking the trouble to ascertain even whether their fire had inflicted any damage and without any effort to rescue the victims.

It is held that the omission of the fleet to stay its course down the channel to offer any explanation makes the case look exceedingly grave; and the only possible solution of the mystery that has been suggested is that, excited by rumors recently spread of Japan's intentions on the Pacific squadron in the event of its sailing, the Russian gunners yielded to panic and supposed that the trawlers' rockets were the signals of an enemy's fleet.

Killed by Horse's Kick.

Marie, has been authorized by the commissioner of insurance to transact business in Michigan, and the Postal Accident Insurance Co. of South Bend has been licensed.

Battle Creek's New Postoffice.

Battle Creek, Oct. 24.—Plans have arrived for Battle Creek's $125,000 postoffice, as prepared with corrections by Architect Albert Kahn of Detroit. They show an unusually elaborate building, with a lobby of white and green Vermont marble, a cut stone front and pressed brick panels on sides and rear, liberally flanked with cut stone. The building will be surrounded by a small park, with granolithic pavement and sidewalks.

Eighteen Persons Injured.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 24.—In a rear end collision between two trolley cars on the Westboro and Marlboro street railway, two and a half miles west of Westboro Sunday, eighteen people were injured. It is thought all of the injured will recover. Slippery rails are accountable for the accident. A Worcester street railway car was being sent to Worcester for repairs, and when on a hill the car kicked. Before the motorman could get control of it the car ran backward down the hill. At the foot of the hill on a curve it was met by a car from Marlboro to Worcester, which was making good speed to climb the hill. The cars crashed together with terrific force.

The Old, Old Story.

Saginaw, Mich., Oct. 24.—Nora Johnson, a domestic at the home of Floyd Nevins, three and a half miles from Alma, was shot and instantly killed by Frank Jameson, employed on the farm. A charge of buckshot entered her neck and almost severed her head. Jameson is held to await the result of the coroner's inquest. He says he did not know the gun was loaded and fired in fun.

Woman and Son Murdered.

Athens, La., Oct. 22.—Mrs. Isaac A. Magee, wife of a farmer, and her 10-year-old son Ham, were killed by an unknown person, who cut their throats. Forces of men are out hunting for a negro who is supposed to have committed the crime. The sheriff has arrested a man named Craighead, a half brother of Magee, who was on the place at the time. Craighead is in the parish jail at Homer. Violence is feared.

FOUGHT IN STREET

Two St. Louis Detectives Killed by Alleged Train Robbers.

AND TWO MORTALLY WOUNDED

One of Suspects Was Also Killed and Two Others Badly Wounded—Detectives Surprised Them While They Sat About a Table.

St. Louis, Oct. 22.—In a desperate battle Friday between five detectives and three suspects, whom they were endeavoring to arrest, two detectives were killed and two seriously injured and one of the suspects was killed and two others badly wounded.

The dead: John J. Shea, Thomas Dwyer, detectives; Albert Rose, suspect.

The wounded: J. McCluskey, detective, shot through stomach, critical; C. C. Blair, fugitive, shot four times through the head; Harry Vaughn, fugitive, badly beaten about the head by detectives when he sought to aid his friends in the battle.

The fight occurred in the front room of a house on Pine street, and the men whom the detectives sought to arrest are suspected of being implicated in a train robbery at Centralia, Ill., a few weeks ago.

The house had been under police surveillance for several days, but yesterday was the first time that any of the suspects were seen to enter or leave it.

Blair made a statement that he, Rose and others had been seated in the room when the door was opened and the detectives entered.

Blair, noting the fact that Detective Shea had his revolver drawn, pulled his own gun and emptied it into the faces of the invaders.

He shot six times without a pause. There were no missfires, and so close were the suspects and detectives that the powder from Blair's gun burned their clothes.

Tortured His Wife.

Elmira, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Joseph G. Riley, a lather, has been arrested here charged with murderously assaulting his wife at their home in this city. The woman is in a hospital and not expected to live. In his cell Riley talked freely of the assault. He said that he had had a dispute with his wife over money matters. He first attacked her with his firsts, knocking her down. Then he stripped off her clothes and whipped her with the butt end of a heavy whip into insensibility. The flesh was horribly cut. He then thrust a hot iron into her mouth, burning away part of the tongue. Riley also applied the iron to her body and kicked the unconscious woman. He then left the house. Recovering consciousness, the woman made her way to the home of a neighbor, who cared for her. Riley is held to await the result of his wife's injuries. The couple have been married ten years.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 24.—In a collision between an ice wagon and a street car at Jefferson and Fischer avenues, John E. Mayea, 38 Lorman avenue, was fatally injured and William G. Wider, 33 Beaman avenue, was badly hurt. Mayea's neck was broken, his pelvis crushed, his shoulder and right arm fractured. His death occurred at midnight.

Shot His Thumbs Off.

Lapeer, Mich., Oct. 24.—Walter Weston, aged 15 years, accidentally shot off both of his thumbs. He was hunting with a companion about his own age and while sitting on a fence with his hands over the muzzles of a double-barreled shotgun, the gun was discharged. He was otherwise uninjured.

First, soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it; then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's pain balm twice daily, rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and till the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies and by failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and the mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

A Judicious Inpuriry.

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade, says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's cough remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. CHAPTER XIX.

Washington! I turned and looked at the lad, who, kneeling in the hot sand at the door of the tent, was clutching me with imploring hands.

"Who are you?" I asked, "and how came you here? Do you belong to the army?"

"I helped care for his horse," he whispered. "He found me smuggled on board the train—for I was bound to go to war—and he was sorry for me and used to give me bits of his own rations, but—but now no one will give me anything. Take me back; she won't care. She's dead, they say. Besides, I wouldn't stay here now if she was alive and breathing. I have had enough of war since he— Oh, he was good to me—I never cared for any one so much."

I looked at the boy with an odd sensation for which I have no name.

"Whom are you talking about?" I asked. "Your mother—your sister?"

"Oh, no!" The tone was simplicity itself. "Never had no mother. I mean the lady at the big house; the one that was married. She gave me money to go out of Washington, and, wanting to be a soldier, I followed Curly Jim. I didn't think he'd die; he looked so strong— What's the matter, sir? Have I said anything I shouldn't?"

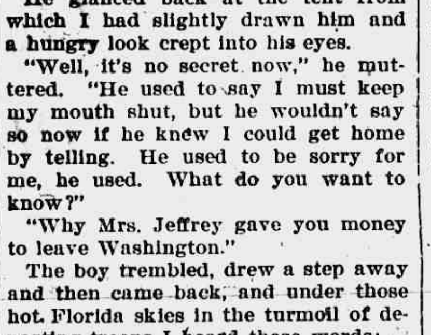
I had him by the arm. I fear that I was shaking him.

"The lady!" I repeated. "She who was married—who gave you money. Wasn't it Mrs. Jeffrey?"

"Yes, I believe that was the name of the man she married. I didn't know him, but I saw her"—

"Where? And why did she give you money? I will take you home with me if you tell me the truth about it."

The boy who ran away from the florist's



He glanced back at the tent from which I had slightly drawn him and a hungry look crept into his eyes.

"Well, it's no secret now," he muttered. "He used to say I must keep my mouth shut, but he wouldn't say so now if he knew I could get home by telling. He used to be sorry for me, he used. What do you want to know?"

"Why Mrs. Jeffrey gave you money to leave Washington."

The boy trembled, drew a step away and then came back, and under those hot Florida skies in the turmoil of departing troops I heard these words:

"Because I heard what she said to Jim."

I felt my heart go down, then up, up, beyond anything I had ever experienced in my whole life. The way before me was not closed then. A witness yet remained, though Jim was dead. The boy was oblivious of my emotion. He was staring with great mournfulness at the tent.

"And what was that?" said I.

His attention, which had been wandering, came back, and it was with some surprise he said:

"It was not much. She told him to take the gentleman into the library. But it was the library where men died, and he just went and died there, too, you remember, and Jim said he wasn't ever going to speak of it, and so I promised not to neither, but—but—when do you think you will be starting, sir?"

I did not answer him. I was feeling very queer, as men feel, I suppose, who in some crisis or event recognize an unexpected interposition of Providence.

"Are you the boy who ran away from the florist's in Washington?" I inquired when ready to speak. "The boy who delivered Miss Moore's bridal bouquet?"

"Yes, sir."

I let go of his hand and sat down. Surely there was a power greater than chance governing this matter. Through what devious ways and from what unexpected sources had I come upon this knowledge?

"Mrs. Jeffrey, or Miss Moore, as she was then, told Jim to seat the gentleman in the library," I now said. "Why?"

"I do not know. He told her the gentleman's name, and then she whispered him that. I heard her, and that was why I got money too. But it's all gone now. Oh, sir, when are you going back?"

I started to my feet. Was it in answer to this appeal or because I realized that I had come at last upon a clew calling for immediate action?

"I am going now," said I, "and you are going with me. Run, for the train we take leaves inside of ten minutes. My business here is over."

CHAPTER XX.

THE peremptory demand for an interview which had been delivered to Miss Moore during the half hour preceding her marriage had come not from the bridegroom, as I had supposed, but from the so called stranger, Mr. Pfeiffer.

For all this proof that Mr. Pfeiffer was well known to her, if not to the rest of the bridal party, no acknowledgment of this was made by any of them then or afterward, nor any contradiction given either by husband or wife to the accepted theory that this seeming stranger from the west had gone into this fatal room of the Moores to gratify his own morbid curiosity.

On the contrary, an extraordinary effort was immediately made by Mr. Jeffrey to rid himself of the only witnesses who could tell the truth concerning those fatal ten minutes, but this brought no peace to the miserable wife, who never again saw a really happy moment.

Extraordinary efforts at concealment argue extraordinary causes for fear. Fully to understand the circumstances of Mrs. Jeffrey's death, it would be necessary first to know what had happened in the Moore house when Mr. Jeffrey learned from Curly Jim that the man, whose hold upon his bride had been such that he dared to demand an interview with her just as she was on the point of descending to her nuptials, had been seated, or was about to be seated, in the room where death had once held its court and might easily be persuaded to hold court again.

The encouragement afforded me by my late discoveries was such that I felt confident that nothing could hinder my success save the necessity of completely pulling down the house. Besides, all investigation had hitherto started, if it had not ended, in the library. I was resolved to begin work in quite a different spot. I had not forgotten the sensations I had experienced in the southwest chamber.

During my absence this house had been released from surveillance. But the major still held the keys, and I had no difficulty in obtaining them. The next thing was to escape its owner's vigilance. This I managed to do through the assistance of Jinny, and when midnight came and all lights went out in the opposite cottage I entered boldly upon the scene. As before, I went first of all to the library.

I wished to make certain that I had exhausted every suspected as well as every known clew to the information I sought. In my long journey home and the hours of thought it had forced upon me I had more than once been visited by flitting visions of things seen in this old house and afterward nearly forgotten. Among these was the book which on that first night of hurried search had given proofs of being in some one's hand within a very short period. The attention I had given it at a moment of such haste was necessarily cursory, and when later a second opportunity was granted me of looking into it again I had allowed a very slight obstacle to deter me. This was a mistake I was anxious to rectify. Anything which had been touched with purpose at or near the time of so mysterious a tragedy—and the position of this book on a shelf so high that a chair was needed to reach it proved that it had been sought and touched with purpose—held out the promise of a clew which one on so blind a trail as myself could not afford to ignore.

But when I had taken the book down and read again its totally uninteresting and unsuggestive title and by another reference to its dim and faded leaves found that my memory had not played me false and that it contained nothing but stupid and wholly irrelevant statistics, my confidence in it as a possible aid in the work I had in hand departed just as it had on the previous occasion. I was about to put it back on the shelf, when I bethought me of running my hand in behind the two books between which it had stood. Ah, that was it! Another book lay flat against the wall at the back of the shelf; by the removal of those in front I was enabled to draw this book out, I soon saw why it had been relegated to such a remote place of concealment on the shelves of the Moore library.

It was a collection of obscure memoirs written by an Englishwoman, but an Englishwoman who had been in America during the early part of the century and who had been brought more or less into contact with the mysteries connected with the Moore house in Washington. Several passages were marked, one particularly, by a heavy pencil line running the length of the margin. As the name of Moore was freely scattered through these passages as well as through two or three faded newspaper clippings which I discovered pasted on the inside cover, I lost no time in setting about their perusal.

The following extracts are from the book itself, taken in the order in which I found them marked:

"It was about this time that I spent a week in the Moore house, that grand and historic structure concerning which and its occupants so many curious rumors are afloat. I knew nothing then of its discreditable fame, but from the first moment of my entrance into its ample and well lighted halls I experienced a sensation which I will not call dread, but which certainly was far from being the impulse of pure delight which the graciousness of my hostess and the imposing character of the place itself were calculated to produce. This emotion was but transitory, vanishing, as was natural in the excitement of my welcome and the extraordinary interest I took in Callista Moore, who in those days was a most fascinating little body. Small to the point of appearing diminutive and lacking all assertion in manner and bearing, she was nevertheless such a lady that she easily dominated all who approached her and produced, quite against her will, I am sure, an impression of aloofness, seasoned with kindness, which made her a most surprising and entertaining study to the analytic observer. Her position as nominal mistress of an establishment already accounted one of the finest in Washington—the real owner, Reuben Moore, preferring to live abroad with his French wife—gave to her least action an importance which her shy if not appealing looks, and a certain strained expression most difficult to characterize, vainly attempted to contradict. I could not understand her and soon gave up the attempt, but my admiration held firm, and by the time the evening was half over I was her obedient slave. I think from what I know of her now that she would have preferred to be mine.

"I was put to sleep in a great chamber which I afterward heard called 'The Colonel's Own.' It was very grand and had a great bed in it almost royal in its size and splendor. I believe that I shrank quite unaccountably from this imposing piece of furniture when I first looked at it, it seemed so big and so out of proportion to my slim little body. But, admonished by the look which I surprised on Mistress Callista's high bred face, I quickly recalled an expression so unsuited to my position as guest and, with a gush of well simulated rapture, began to expatiate upon the interesting characteristics of the room and express myself as delighted at the prospect of sleeping there.

"Instantly the nervous look left her, and, with the quiet remark, 'It was my father's room,' she set down the candles with which both her hands were burdened and gave me a kiss so warm and surcharged with feeling that it sufficed to keep me happy and comfortable for a half hour or more after she passed out.

No matter how many doctors have tried and failed; no matter how many remedies you have used without results, Zoa Phora will cure you and your cure will mean something. It will be complete and perfect and permanent. It always has done this and always will. All the women who have suffered from any of the diseases peculiar to their sex and who have used Zoa Phora are to-day rejoicing in the security of perfect health and all the happiness it brings.

Zoa Phora cures all diseases and irregularities of women, misplacements, leucorrhea, suppressed and painful periods, flooding, piles, kidney, bladder and liver troubles and regulates the change of life. Not a mail arrives that does not bring letters from women who have been cured of some of these terrible diseases and whose lives have been made happy by the noble and wonderful work of Zoa Phora.

Mrs. George Sidle, McClure, Ohio, R. F. D. No. 1, says: "I was so nervous and broken down that I could not do my work. I doctored with two of our home doctors, and they said I had heart trouble. I had spells with my heart when it would beat so hard and then I would faint away. I received a sample bottle of Zoa Phora, which I took according to directions, and thought it was just what I needed, so I threw the doctor's medicine away and got a large bottle of Zoa Phora. It helped me so much that I bought two more bottles, and now I am well and strong. I do not have the spells with my heart since I took Zoa Phora and I am regular now, where before I took Zoa Phora I was very irregular and had severe pain at monthly periods. I have found it to be truly a 'Woman's Friend.'

"If anyone calls in person or writes to me, I will give them the particulars in my case. I hope this will help induce some suffering woman to try Zoa Phora."

Write the Zoa Phora Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., for a free trial bottle and copy of their illustrated medical book, "Dr. Pengelly's Advice to Women." The doctor will gladly give free medical advice when needed. Zoa Phora is for sale at $1.00 a bottle by

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's cough remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists, Tecumseh, Mich.

Pill Pleasure.

If you ever took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness or constipation you know what pill pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. They do not gripe, sicken or weaken, but pleasantly give tone and strength to the tissues and organs of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold by C. A. Wright.

Girls who are always harping on the rights of women are apt to get left in the matrimonial deal.

Can you eat?

J. B. Taylor, a prominent merchant of Chriesman, Tex., says: "I could not eat because of a weak stomach, I lost all strength and ran down in weight. All that money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, I concluded to try it. The first bottle benefitted me and after taking four bottles, I am fully restored to my usual strength, weight and health." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and cures. Sold by C. A. Wright.

THE FAMOUS OPTICIAN of Detroit,

The eye, when properly cared for affords the keenest delight because of the pleasures we are able to enjoy through its medium. When not cared for and its warnings are unheeded, it becomes an intrument of torture. Headaches, eye pains, burning, itching, sensation, strained vision, nervous troubles and many bodily ills are the results accruing from over worked eyes, eyes that need help. My examination reveals all hidden troubles, and it is my province to fit the right glasses to any and all defects of vision. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED BY

C. A. WRIGHT SIGNS THE BOND

Mi-o-na—Nature's cure for dyspepsia costs nothing if it fails.

The guarantee given with Mi-o-na is no ordinary promise. It is a guarantee bond signed by your own druggist, a reliable firm right in this town. Read the following guarantee bond and see how simple and plain it is:

GUARANTEE BOND.

I hereby agree to refund the money paid for Mi-o-na on return of empty box, if the purchaser tells him that it has failed to cure dyspepsia or stomach troubles. This guarantee covers two boxes, or a month's treatment. Price 50c per box.

(Signed),.................

It does not always happen that two boxes of Mi-o-na will cure a case of stomach trouble that has been present for years, but they will certainly give more than enough benefit to prove that the remedy will cure. In ordinary cases one or two boxes will restore perfect health.

A few doses of Mi-o-na will strengthen the nerves of the stomach so that the appetite will return and you will be started on the right road to health.

Ninety-three per cent of chronic diseases begin with dyspepsia. Cure the dyspeptic troubles, regulate the digestion and avoid the fate of chronic invalidism.

Remember you run no risk in using Mi-o-na. C. A. Wright warrants it and it costs you nothing unless it cures.

"The Missouri Girl."

Did you see "Zeke Dobson" in "The Missouri Girl" yesterday afternoon or evening? Well, if you didn't you certainly missed a treat. The production was advertised the greatest fun maker of modern comedy dramas and if such be the case or not we can but say that the large audience at both performances all but split their sides open from hearty laughter whenever the gawky country boy made his appearance. His clodhopper dance was as comical a feature as one would ever want to witness. The balance of the cast are well chosen and deserve credit for their share of the entertainment. "The Missouri Girl" has enjoyed a run now of nearly ten years, the writer having witnessed an engagement some six years ago and yesterday's production was as good, if not better than at that time and still as popular as ever.—Battle Creek Morning Inquirer.

Albert McIntyre.

Albert, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard McIntyre, was born Feb. 10, 1904, died Oct. 12, 1904, aged 8 months and 2 days.

IN MEMORY OF LITTLE ALBERT.

Our little home is broken up,
That once was bright and fair,
You'll miss me, parents, when I am gone,
There will be a vacant chair.

Weep not for me parents dear,
Or shed for me the silent tear,
For, I've a mansion bright and fair,
And soon I'll walk the golden stairs.

We little dreamed eight months ago,
When like a rose in bloom,
So soon he'd fade and sink to rest
Within the silent tomb.

He walks the streets now paved in gold,
He's reached the shining shore,
And Jesus tells us in his word
There's room for thousands more.

Great God, we bow low in the dust
And all our sorrows tell,
Thou knowest what is best for us
And doeth all things well.

BAND BENEFIT

At the New Bradley last Friday Night

HOME TALENT

Presented to a Crowded House "The Lights of Home," written by Hal Burton.

A good house greeted the home talent play, "Lights of Home," given for the benefit of the band at the New Bradley Friday night and seldom has an audience been better pleased. The cast consisted of nine of our young people, well known to all of us, and Hal Burton, the author of the play. The scene was entirely farm life and seemed real.

Deacon Appleby, whom we recognized as Floyd Waring, was good, as was both his son and daughter, who were Leon Williamson and Miss Minnie Miller. The part of the villan, played by Vincent Elias and his friend, Carl Keysor an officer, were both hard parts to play and although the villian seemed to take al the accusations as a matter of course and without a wince, he did well. Had he changed places with his friend, Mr. Smith, he would possibly have made a better officer than villian.

Seth Simpkins, the hired man played by Hal Burton, author of the play, and Amanda Porter, "not married but willing to be," by Edith Magers, kept the audience laughing most of the time. Amanda was still an old maid when the curtain dropped and Seth as slow as ever.

Samantha Willis, the deacon's housekeeper, is certainly worthy of mention. She spoke distinctly and if her voice had not been recognized as that of Anna Darling, many would not have known her. Frank Mosher, from down the road, by Boyd Belcher and Nettie Keysor as Mamie Howley, a neighbor, were both worthy of mention. The audience felt sorry for Frank, as he never received a satisfactory answer from Sadie.

The specialties were introduced by Miss Rae McKenna, who in a pleasing manner rendered a solo. Miss Bessie Poole sweetly sang, "Dear Old Girl." She was obliged to respond to encores twice. Miss Nellie Mingay gave a reading entitled "A Cure for Rheumatism." Solos were rendered by Gladys Burton, Johnie Pennington and Earl Coller and were all very good.

Vincent Elias gave an imitation of an Italian love song in the native tongue with guitar accompaniment. The ladies quartette consisting of Anna Darling, Edith Magers, Nettie Keysor and Minnie Miller sang and the Tecumseh band for whose benefit the show was given, gave one selection.

Folders with the program and synopsis of the play were given each one as a souvenir of the occasion.

Senator

CHAS. W. FAIRBANKS

Arrived in Tecumseh on a SPECIAL TRAIN

This Morning exactly at 10:15.

Last Friday it was announced in the HERALD that Senator Chas. W. Fairbanks, the republican nominee for vice president would arrive in Tecumseh this morning at 10:15 o'clock on a special train over the Lake Shore. Exactly at 10:15 the train arrived and the Honorable gentleman spoke to a very interested audience of 200 people about five minutes.

He was introduced by our Congressman the Hon C. E. Townsend, who received more applause than Fairbanks. In fact more than half of Fairbank's talk was in praise of Townsend and nothing could have pleased a Tecumseh audience better. Townsend has proven himself to be a clean cut, honest, progressive man and for the time he has been there, a power in Congress.

Every man in Tecumseh but one is delighted with him as a man and republican. Senator Fairbanks made a pleasant talk from the car platform, very pleasing to his audience.

Saves two from death.

"Our little daughter had an almost fatal attack of whooping cough and branchitis" writes Mrs. W. Haviland, of Armon, N. Y., "but when all other remedies failed we saved her life with Dr. King's New Discovery. Our neice, who had consumption in an advanced stage, also used this wonderful medicine and today she is perfectly well." Lung and throat diseases yield to Dr. King's New Discovery as to no other medicine on earth. Infallible for coughs and colds. 50c and $1 bottles guaranteed by C. A Wright, trial bottles free.

PERILS OF LAND AND SEA

For many years, Captain Willnef, says the Times of Gloucester, Mass., was one of the best known seamen in the Gloucester Fleet. The sea and its dangers had no terror for him, but the catarrhal troubles with which he suffered for fifteen years made him dread the nights at sea, for he had to walk the cabin floor, being unable to lie down and sleep on account of the constant catarrhal dropping.

Captain Willnef went to two different hospitals for treatment, but could get no lasting benefit. He constantly raised yellow and green phlegm and his trouble became so unbearable and nauseating that he was ashamed to go out in company. When despairing of ever getting relief, his wife purchased a Hyomei outfit for him and trying it before going to bed, he enjoyed the first whole night's sleep for ten years. Captain Willnef says, "I have used less than two bottles of Hyomei and have been cured by the remedy. My friends ask me what is responsible for my improvement and I tell them Hyomei, which has given me full and complete recovery."

Captain Willnef's experience shows our readers what to do in time of catarrhal trouble,—use Hyomei. This remarkable treatment kills the germs of catarrh and makes lasting and permanent cures. C. A. Wright sells Hyomei under his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not give quick relief.

WHEN BABY IS COMING USE Mother's Friend

Woman's greatest dream of beauty and glory is when nature has chosen her to become a mother. Every faculty is keenly alert as she foresees the joy, ambition, success and the life-long satisfaction coming nearer, day by day, in the dear and innocent being so soon to see light, and the uncertainty whether she shall see a sweet girl or a brave boy face beside her on the pillow adds zest to her expectancy.

Mother's Friend applied externally throughout pregnancy will relieve the pain of parturition, and no mother and child can fail to be healthy, hearty, strong, clear complexioned, pure blooded and cheerful in disposition, who are mutually influenced by the continued use of this great liniment, MOTHER'S FRIEND.

MUST BELIEVE IT.

When well-known Tecumseh people tell it so plainly.

When public endorsement is made by a representative citizen of Tecumseh the proof is positive. You must believe it. Read this testimony. Every backache sufferer, every man, woman or child with any kidney trouble will find profit in the reading.

George Merritt, the well known proprietor of the cigar manufactory, says: "I can testify to the honesty and worth of Doan's Kidney Pills. There is no humbug about them. I was annoyed for some time with a dull aching pain in my back at times quite severe. I heard so much about Doan's Kidney Pills that I procured a box at C. A. Wright's drug store. Finally the pain in my back disappeared entirely. Doan's Kidney Pills are a splendid remedy for all kidney ailments."

For sale by all dealers: Price 50 cents per box, Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

A woman's idea of a congenial husband is one who lets her have her own way in everything.

Scald head is an eczema of the scalp—very severe sometimes, but it can be cured. Doan's Ointment, quick and permanent in its results. Any drug store, 50 cents.

The oftener people lose their temper, the more they seem to have.

No one would ever be bothered with constipation if everyone knew how naturally and quickly Burdock Blood Bitters regulate the stomach and bowels.

PETOSKEY AROUSED.

Mystery In Death of French Woman Named Campbell.

Petoskey, Mich., Oct. 22.—This city is considerably worked up over the death of Mrs. Mary Campbell, a young woman who was found dead in her bed at the residence of her parents. It is claimed that she spent the night previous to her death with a bartender for a local saloon, and an investigation has been demanded by the public. The woman was buried Friday under a certificate alleging peritonitis. The bartender has left town.

Mrs. Campbell was a French girl named Gonyeau. A year ago she married a tight-rope walker, who soon deserted her. She and her sister have worked in various restaurants and cafes since that time.

Robbers Maltreated Her.

Belding, Mich., Oct. 22.—The other night Mrs. William Lessiter, a widow, 60 years of age, opened her door to two men who said they had a telegram from Pontiac for her. As soon as the door was opened the men seized the woman and bound and gagged her, and proceeded to search the house, securing in all $4 in cash, a watch and some other jewelry. Before leaving the robbers laid Mrs. Lessiter on a couch, still gagged, and covered her with a quilt. She succeeded in releasing herself about midnight and aroused the neighbors. Local talent is thought to be responsible for the job.

She Again Wants a Divorce.

Owosso, Mich., Oct. 22.—Mrs. Violet Huff of Durand has brought suit for divorce against her husband, Nicholas J. Huff, charging unfaithfulness. Besides this, she claims the man nearly smothered her with a pillow in order to secure a letter showing his relations with another woman, which she had abstracted from his pocket. The couple have been married four years and the woman secured a divorce about two years ago when Huff was sent to Ionia on a criminal charge. On his release six months ago she married him again, but claims he has not been reformed by prison discipline.

Fewer Girls at U. of M.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 22.—Are girls losing their taste for professional careers? This question seems to be answered in the affirmative by Michigan university, as up to date there are only forty-six girls who are enrolled in the professional departments. This is 100 less than the total for last year, and although there will undoubtedly be new comers the second semester, these recruits will not make up the deficiency.

Fatal Runaway Accident.

Constantine, Mich., Oct. 22.—The other night about 10 o'clock M. Wineberg and his son, accompanied by Tony Stork left here to go to the sawmill a few miles from town, where they were employed. By their shouting they caused the team to run away, throwing out and seriously injuring Wineberg and his son and killing Stork instantly. The men lived in Three Rivers. It is reported that the men had been drinking.

Cigar May Cost an Arm.

Alpena, Mich., Oct. 22.—John La Fave may lose his arm as the result of a peculiar accident. La Fave went to sleep on a sofa after putting a lighted cigar in his inside pocket by mistake, and awoke up with his coat blazing. Before the fire was smothered the arm was badly burned and may have to be amputated.

What Col. Bates Says.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 22.—Col. Robert J. Bates has heard the rumble of revolt caused by his letter and now makes denial that he tried to use his official position in favor of Warner. He says the matter was purely personal and that no officer has been dictated to. All are free to do as they like.

TRIED THREE TIMES.

Young Man Near Port Huron a Would-Be Suicide.

Port Huron, Mich., Oct. 22.—Word has reached here of three unsuccessful attempts at suicide by Sidney Chase, aged 21 years, the son of Eugene Chase, a prosperous farmer at Gardendale, a few miles north of Port Huron. Chase has been a subject of peculiar fits of insanity, said by his physician to be caused from rheumatism, for three years. During the morning he tried to stab himself, but the knife blade inflicted only a flesh wound over his heart. While working in the fields in the afternoon with his brother. Chase took his pocket, saying: "I am going to kill myself this time," drank the contents. He was taken to a physician three miles away and his life saved, although the poison had caused unconsciousness.

Chase was then confined in the county jail and tried to beat his brains out on the hard walls of the cell. He did not succeed in injuring himself to any extent, but his wails kept the inmates of the jail awake all night. He will probably be sent to an insane asylum.

"I was afflicted with heart trouble for three years. I would be apparently all right, and without a moment's warning would fall as though shot. The attacks were frequent, and a terrible dread possessed me, as I never knew when or where, nor under what conditions I would be attacked, and whether I would survive them. I consulted and was treated by some of the most eminent physicians of the state. Not finding relief from this source, I began taking Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and began to improve at once. I used ten bottles, which entirely cured me, as I have not had an attack for five years."—MRS. JOHN DRESBACK, Leipsic, O.

Wine of Cardui Cured Her.

213 South Prior Street,
ATLANTA, GA., March 21, 1903.

I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite I became weak and lost my vitality. In three weeks I lost fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must find speedy relief to regain my health. Having heard Wine of Cardui praised by several of my friends, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.

Better than pills.

The question has been asked—In what way are Chamberlain's stomach and liver tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is—They are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle and so agreeable that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then they not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and aid digestion. For sale by all druggists in Tecumseh.

VALUABLE FURS

Stolen From E. S. George's Store In Detroit In Early Morning.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 24.—Fur thieves declared another "special" dividend on the stocks carried by Detroit furriers yesterday morning, when E. S. George's store, 146 Jefferson avenue, was broken into sometime before 3 o'clock and from $3,000 to $3,600 worth of booty was carried away. Patrolman Isham, who was making his rounds at 3 o'clock, made the discovery.

That a well-organized band of robbers is making this particular line of robberies their specialty is proven by the police records for the past few years. Big hauls are generally made and some of the very best of furs are carried off each time, leading to the suspicion that the robbers are experienced in the fur business.

The robbery of Sunday morning bears this out and no clue is left as to the perpetrators or their booty. Ten or twelve coats valued at $300 were carried away.

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflames the mucous membranes lining the stomach and exposes the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete mucin instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

relieves all inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the stomach, protects the nerves, and cures bad breath, sour risings, a sense of fullness after eating, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles.

HE WAS THE ROBBER

Ohio Grand Jury Brings Charge Against County Treasurer.

FOUND LOCKED IN HIS SAFE

Says Thieves Entered, Took Money and Imprisoned Him in Vault—Jury Says He Embezzled $14,500 of the County's Money.

Pomeroy, O., Oct. 27.—After investigating for a month, a grand jury has indicted County Treasurer Thomas J. Chase, charging the embezzlement of $14,500 from the Meiggs county treasury Sept. 9, when he said the treasury was looted in daylight by two masked robbers, who locked him in a vault. Chase's bond was fixed at $10,000. He was unable to furnish bail and was sent to jail.

The arrest of Chase caused no surprise in Meiggs county, but there is much excitement over the indictments that are expected at once against other persons. The name of one of these other persons is on the lips of all, as this person has been suspected as much as Chase himself for a month

Daughter Found Him.

Chase was found locked up on Sept 9 by his daughter, who rushed to a bank and thence to the fair grounds for someone who could open the vault. It was shown to the grand jury that at least half a dozen men were sitting in front of the courthouse all forenoon on Sept. 9 and that none of these men saw the robbers.

If Chase is convicted the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. of Baltimore will refuse, it is said, to pay the county $10,000 insurance against daylight robbery, as the indictment is for embezzlement. The burden then would fall on Chase's twenty-six individual bondsmen, who were accepted by the county commissioners for $200,000. As about half of them are said to be insolvent, the others will have about $1,000 each to pay.

Chase comes of good family, is 50 years old has a wife, two sons and one daughter, the younger son, Guy being deputy treasurer. Chase is a member of the Methodist church and was never before suspected of wrong doing.

As Prosecutor Fish is one of Chase's bondsmen, the investigation under the appointment of Judge Wright has been conducted by O. L. Bradbury, who examined more than 100 witnesses before the grand jury.

FOR TORPEDO BOATS

Russians Mistook English Fishing Trawlers in North Sea.

AN EXPLANATION AT LAST

Secured From Admiral Rojestvensky at Spanish Port, Where Portion of His Fleet Seeks to Get Coal—Must Observe Neutrality Laws.

Vigo, Spain Oct. 27.—Four Russian battleships, the Emperor Alexander III, Borodino Orel and Kniag Souvaroff, a portion of the fleet which fired upon the English fleet of fishing boats at Dogger Bank on Oct. 21, have anchored in this port. Their arrival has caused great excitement.

Just why Admiral Rojestvensky opened fire upon this harmless fleet is an explanation for which the world has been anxiously waiting, and the admiral was interviewed at the earliest possible moment

Purely Accidental.

Admiral Rojestvensky expressed great regret over the North sea incident and stated that the unfortunate occurrence was purely accidental. The weather on the night in question was rather hazy. About 1 a. m. two torpedo boats, which the Russians supposed was Japenese craft, suddenly appeared between the two divisions of the squadron and seemed to discharge torpedoes. The Russians immediately opened fire. They saw no fishermen, and were not aware that any damage had been done. Evidently, the admiral said, the fishermen had shown no lights. The admiral repeated that he greatly regretted that any injury had been done fishermen, and added that he had no doubt the Russian government would make ample compensation

Could Not Coal There.

Upon the arrival of the battleships the commander of the port immediately boarded the Russian flagship and informed Admiral Rojestvensky that the Spanish government could not permit the warships to coal within the port. Admiral Rojestvensky replied that his vessels needed repairs, and that for that reason he had separated from the remainder of the squadron.

The commander of the port promised to inform the Spanish government of the admiral's statement and communicate the government's reply as soon as it was received. In spite of this, five German colliers anchored in port alongside the battleships, whereupon the commander of the port sent an aide-de-camp to beg Admiral Rojestvensky not to violate Spanish neutrality, and he also ordered the commanding officer of the Spanish cruiser Estramadura to notify the colliers that they must obey the port authorities. Eventually Admiral Rojestvensky promised that he would not coal in Spanish waters, at the same time begging the commander of the port to obtain the government's permission for each warship to take on 400 tons of coal with which to reach Tangier. Shortly afterwards these colliers sailed for Tangier, but two remained alongside the Russian warships.

Cleared For Action.

As far as can be seen, the crews of the battleships are very uneasy Sentinels are closely watching every movement within the harbor. All four of the warships seem to be cleared for action.

It is rumored that the object of the Spanish government in requesting the Russians to remain the shortest possible time at Vigo is to prevent the possibility of attack by Japanese agents whose presence in the province of Galicia is suspected.

RETOLD HIS STORY

Salsbury Appears as Witness Against Ex-Mayor Perry.

IN THE BIG WATER SCANDAL

Ex-Mayor Was One of First Whom Salsbury Approached — Says Perry Was Given $3,333 as His Share of First Bribe.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 27.—Ex-City Attorney Lant K. Salsbury, convicted of bribery in the water deal case in December, 1901, and awaiting sentence, was the first witness Wednesday produced by the prosecution against ex-Mayor Perry, charged with accepting a bribe from Salsbury in the so-called water deal scandal.

The witness told of the inception of the so-called water deal, as told in former trials, of parties indicted for alleged connection with the deal. He said that soon after he had made an arrangement with R. A. Cameron of New York, a promoter, he conferred with city officials, one of the first being Mayor Perry. He spoke to Perry one evening after a council meeting, told him of the agreement and asked him if he wanted to go into the deal.

Perry Was Backward.

Witness stated that Mayor Perry was reluctant because he said the people back of the deal had no money, but said he would go in if they had money. It was understood from then on that Perry was to push the deal The witness fixed July 7, 1900, as the day on which he paid Perry the alleged bribe.

Salsbury detailed at length how he parceled out the first installment money alleged to have been received from Cameron and stated that Perry's share was $3,333.

Salsbury then told of the Detroit conference, at which representatives of the hydraulic company met local men with money. Also of the payment of alleged bribes to state legislators for promoting changes needed in the charter of the city. Then came the story of the Bartons of Omaha who put up $80,000 in Chicago as a promotion fund to secure a local water contract.

Salsbury Planned Suicide.

Of that $50,000 he said he gave Perry $10,000, McGarry $10,000, Sproat $10,000 and $10,000 in a defense fund and kept $10,000. Salsbury was on the stand when the court adjourned.

The trial of ex-Mayor Perry began in the morning with the opening statements by Prosecutor Ward for the state and by Attorney A. A. Ellis for the respondent. The prosecutor repeated the story of Perry's receiving $3,333 as a bribe. Attorney Ellis stated that Perry did not receive a cent on the water deal and declared that at the time the $25,000 was sent Salsbury was so far behind because of indebtedness that he was contemplating suicide He had the poison in his desk, so Mr. Ellis said, and was dissuaded by Judge Newnham from using it. A man in such straits, according to Mr. Ellis, would not be handing money out.

Choked to Death.

Greenville, Mich., Oct. 27.—John Golaher, a farmer living near Turk lake, six miles north was visiting his brother at Harvard and while seated at the supper table was seen to be choking on a piece of beef he had partly swallowed. Everything was done to relieve him of the obstruction in his throat but he died in fifteen minutes.

Shah Bestowed Honors on Him.

St. Louis, Oct. 27.—By special mandate of Muzafer ed Din, shah of Persia, President Francis of the exposition has just been decorated with the order of the Lion and the Sun, which is the highest in the kingdom of Persia. The decoration, which was presented by Dikran Khan Gelekion, commissioner-general to the world's fair, is the first of so high a grade presented to a citizen of the United States, it is said. Director of Exhibits Skiff received a decoration of the same order, but less in degree.

His Visit a Paying One.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 26.—Deputy Attorney-General Chase has returned from Washington, whither he went to present to the war department the balance of the Michigan Spanish war claims, amounting to something like $90,000 Some of these claims, it was conceded, the state could not be reimbursed for, under the law, but a claim of $56,000 was presented, which was allowed at $46,000. It is possible that an appeal will be made to the comptroller of the war department asking for payment of the remaining $10,000. Some of the items that the state could not be reimbursed for were hospital trains for bringing home the troops.

Salsbury For First Witness.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 23.—A jury has been obtained in the trial of ex-Mayor George R. Perry, accused of accepting a bribe from Lant K. Salsbury in the water deal, after sixty-one men had been examined and numerous pre-emptory challenges exercised by counsel. The court then adjourned. Lant K. Salsbury will be called as the first witness. The trial began Oct. 6 but owing to alleged irregularity in the drawing of jurors adjournment was taken till Oct. 24 in order for the jury commission to draw a new list. Two days were covered in obtaining a jury.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and till the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies and by failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and the mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Education is an ornament in prosperity and a refuge in adversity.

Spent more than $1000.

Wm. W. Baker of Plainview, Neb., writes: "My wife suffered from lung trouble for 15 years, tried a number of doctors and spent over $1,000 without relief. She became very low and lost all hope. A friend recommended Foley's Honey and Tar and thanks to this great remedy it saved her life and she enjoys better health than she has known in 10 years." Sold by all druggists in Tecumseh.

Confessions of a Priest.

Rev. M. Cox, of Wake, Ark., writes, "I suffered from yellow jaundice for 12 years. I consulted a number of physicians and tried all sorts of medicines, but got no relief. I began the use of Electric Bitters and feel that I am now cured of a disease that had me in its grasp for 12 years." If you want a reliable medicine for liver and kidney troule stomach disorders or general debility, get Electric Bitters. It's guaranteed by C. A. Wright. Only 50c.

A Judicious Inpuriry.

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade, says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's cough remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by all druggists, Tecumseh, Mich.

Spinster is often the flirt's punishment for contempt of court.

One of many.

H. A. Tisdale of Summerton, S. C., suffered for twenty years with the piles. Specialists were employed and many remedies used but relief and permanent good was found only in the use of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. This is only one of the many, many cures that have been effected by this wonderful remedy. In buying Witch Hazel Salve it is only necessary to see that you get the genuine DeWitt's, made by E. C. DeWitt & Co. in Chicago, and a cure is certain. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures all kinds of piles, cuts, burns, bruises, eczema, tetter, ring-worm, skin diseases, etc. Sold by C. A. Wright.

The pleasant to take and harmless One Minute Cough Cure gives instant relief in all cases of cough, croup and lagrippe because it does not pass immediately into the stomach, but takes effect right at the seat of the trouble. It draws out the inflammation, heals and soothes and cures permanently by enabling the lungs to contribute pure life giving and life-sustaining oxygen to the blood and tissues. Sold by C. A. Wright.

CHAPTER XIX

"I had thought myself a very sleepy girl, but when, after a somewhat lengthened brooding over the dying embers in the open fireplace, I lay down behind the curtains of the huge bed, I found myself as far from sleep as I had ever been in my whole life.

"And I did not recover from this condition for the entire night. For hours I tossed from one side of the bed to the other in my efforts to avoid the persistent eyes of a scarcely to be perceived drawing facing me from the opposite wall. It had no merit as a picture, this drawing, but seen as it was under the rays of a gibbous moon looking in through the half open shutter it exercised upon me a spell such as I cannot describe and hope never again to experience. Finally I rose and pulled the curtains violently together across the foot of the bed. This shut out the picture, but I found it worse to imagine it there with its haunting eyes peering at me through the intervening folds of heavy damask than to confront it openly; so I pushed the curtains back again, only to rise a half hour later and twitch them desperately together once more.

"I fidgeted and worried so that night that I must have looked quite pale when my attentive hostess met me at the head of the stairs the next morning, for her hand shook quite perceptibly as she grasped mine, and her voice was pitched in no natural key as she inquired how I had slept. I replied as truth if not courtesy demanded, 'Not as well as usual,' whereupon her eyes fell, and she remarked quite hurriedly, 'I am so sorry; you shall have another room tonight,' adding in what appeared to be an unconscious whisper, 'There is no use; all feel it; even the young and the gay;' then aloud and with irrepressible anxiety, 'You didn't see anything, dear?'

"'No!' I protested in suddenly awakened dismay. "Only the strange eyes of that queer drawing peering at me through the curtains of my bed. Is it—is it a haunted room?'

"Her look was a shocked one, her protest quite vehement. 'Oh, no! No one has ever witnessed anything like a ghost there, but every one finds it impossible to sleep in that bed or even in the room. I do not know why unless it is that my father spent so many years of incessant wakefulness inside its walls.'

"'And did he die in that bed?' I asked.

"She gave a startled shiver and drew me hurriedly downstairs. As we paused at the foot she pressed my hand and whispered:

"'Yes; at night, with the full of the moon upon him.'

"I answered her look with one she probably understood as little as I did hers. I had heard of this father of hers. He had been a terrible old man and had left a terrible memory behind him.

"The next day my room was changed according to her promise, but in the light of the charges I have since heard uttered against that house and the family who inhabit it I am glad that I spent one night in what, if it was not a haunted chamber, had certainly a very thrilling effect upon its occupants."

Second passage, the italics showing where it was most heavily marked:

"The house contained another room as interesting as the one I have already mentioned. It went by the name of the library, and its walls were heavily lined with books; but the family never sat there, nor was I ever fortunate enough to see it with its doors unclosed except on the occasion of the grand reception Miss Callista gave in my honor. I have a fancy for big rooms and more than once urged my hostess to tell me why this one stood neglected. But the lady was not communicative on this topic, and it was from another member of the household I learned that its precincts had been forever clouded by the unexpected death within them of one of her father's friends, a noted army officer.

"Why this should have occasioned a permanent disuse of the spot I could not understand, and as every one who conversed on this topic invariably gave the impression of saying less than the subject demanded, my curiosity soon became too much for me, and I attacked Miss Callista once again in regard to it. She gave me a quick smile, for she was always amiable, but shook her head and introduced another topic. But one night when the wind was howling in the chimneys and the sense of loneliness was even greater than usual in the great house, we drew together on the rug in front of my bedroom fire, and as the embers burned down to ashes before us Miss Callista became more communicative.

"Her heart was heavy, she told me; had been heavy for years. Perhaps some ray of comfort would reach her if she took a friend into her confidence. God knew that she needed one, especially on nights like this, when the wind woke echoes all over the house and it was hard to tell which most to fear, the sounds which came from no one knew where, or the silence which settled after.

"She trembled as she said this and instinctively drew nearer to my side so that our heads almost touched over the flickering flame from whose heat and light we sought courage. She seemed to feel grateful for this contact, and the next minute, flinging all her scruples to the wind, she began a relation of events which more or less answered my late unwelcome queries.

"The death in the library, about which her most perplexing memory hung, took place when she was a child and her father held that high governmental position which has reflected so much credit upon the family. Her father and the man who thus perished had been intimate friends. They had fought together in the war of 1812 and received the same distinguished marks of presidential approval afterward. They were both members of an important commission which brought them into diplomatic relations with England. It was while serving on this commission that the sudden break occurred which ended all intimate relations between them and created a change in her father that was equally remarked at home and abroad. What occasioned this break no one knew. Whether his great ambition had received some check through the jealousy of this so called friend—a supposition which did not seem possible, as he rose rapidly after this—or on account of other causes darkly hinted at by his contemporaries, but never breaking into open gossip, he was never the same man afterward. His children, who used to rush with effusion to greet him, now shrank into corners at his step or slid behind half open doors, whence they peered with fearful interest at his tall figure, pacing in moody silence the halls of his ancestral home or sitting with frowning brows over the embers dying away on the great hearthstone of his famous library.

"Their mother, who was an invalid, did not share these terrors. The father was ever tender of her, and the only smile they ever saw on his face came with his entrance into her darkened room.

"Such were Callista Moore's first memories. Those which followed were more definite and much more startling. President Jackson, who had a high opinion of her father's ability, advanced him rapidly. Finally a position was given him which raised him into national prominence. As this had been the goal of his ambition for years, he was much gratified by this appointment, and, though his smiles came no more frequently, his frowns lightened and from being positively threatening became simply morose.

"Why this moroseness should have sharpened into menace after an unexpected visit from his once dear but long estranged companion in arms, his daughter, even after long years of constant brooding upon this subject, dares not decide. If she could she might be happier.

"The general was a kindly man, sharp of face and of a tall, thin figure, but with an eye to draw children and make them happy with a look. But his effect on the father was different. From the moment the two met in the great hall below the temper of the host betrayed how little he welcomed this guest. He did not fail in courtesy—the Moores are always gentlemen—but it was a hard courtesy, which cut while it flattered. The two children, shrinking from its edge without knowing what it was that hurt them, slunk to covert and from behind the two pillars which marked the entrance to the library watched the two men as they walked up and down the halls discussing the merits of this and that detail of the freshly furnished mansion. These two innocent but eager spies, whom fear rather than curiosity held in hiding, even caught some of the sentences which passed between the so called friends, and, though these necessarily conveyed but little meaning to their childish minds, the words forming them were never forgotten, as witness these phrases confided to me by Mistress Callista twenty-five years afterward.

"'You have much that most men lack,' remarked the general as they paused to admire some little specimen of Italian art which had been lately received from Genoa. 'You have money—too much money, Moore, by an amount I might easily name—a home which some might call palatial, a lovely if not altogether healthy wife, two fine children and all the honor which a man in a commonwealth like this should ask for. Drop politics.'

"'Politics is my life,' was the cold response. 'To bid me drop it is to bid me commit suicide.' Then, as an afterthought to which a moment of intervening silence added emphasis, 'And for you to drive me from it would be an act little short of murder.'

"'Justice dealt upon a traitor is not murder,' was the stern and unyielding reply. 'By one black deed of treacherous barter and sale, of which none of your countrymen is cognizant but myself, you have forfeited the confidence of this government. Were I, who so unhappily surprised your secret, to allow you to continue in your present place of trust, I myself would be a traitor to the republic for which I have fought and for which I am ready to die. That is why I ask you to resign before'—

"The two children did not catch the threat latent in that last word, but they realized the force of it from their father's look and were surprised when he quietly said:

"'You declare yourself to be the only man on the commission who is acquainted with the facts you are pleased to style traitorous?'

"The general's lips curled. 'Have I not said?' he asked.

"Something in this stern honesty seemed to affect the father. His face turned away, and it was the other's voice which was next heard. A change had taken place in it, and it sounded almost mellow as it gave form to these words:

"'Alpheus, we have been friends. You shall have two weeks in which to think over my demand and decide. If at the end of that time you have not returned to domestic life, you may expect another visit from me which cannot fail of consequences. You know my temper when roused. Do not force me into a position which will cause us both endless regret.'

"Perhaps the father answered; perhaps he did not. The children heard nothing further, but they witnessed the gloom with which he rode away to the White House the next day. Remembering the general's threat, they imagined in their childish hearts that their father had gone to give up his post and newly acquired honors. But he returned at night without having done so and from that day on carried his head higher and showed himself more and more the master both at home and abroad.

"But he was restless, very restless, and, possibly to allay a great mental uneasiness, he began having some changes made in the house, changes which occupied much of his time and with which he never seemed satisfied. Men working one day were dismissed the next and others called in until this work and everything else was interrupted by the return of his late unwelcome guest, who kept his appointment to a day.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Bewildered freshie:—Who et cetera?

Oh, why is everybody so sleepy Monday morning?

Some of the pupils have a mania for "painting the school room red" by the use of red ink.

The 9th grade music class is preparing some special music for the debate to be held one week from today.

The 9a Latin class had better take up a collection to get a pane of glass and a microscope for Miss Mingay's future use.

To quote one of the high school teachers, "The melancholy days are here, the saddest of the month"—this is test week.

A senior boy recently became so interested studying the park that someone removed one of his shoes without his knowledge. "An ambulance conveyed him to the school house, where a search for the missing article was started. No one had seen anything of it but it was finally found on a hall window sill.

An enthusiastic sophomore class meeting held in their room resulted in the election of the following officers:

Pres.—Beth Satterthwaite.
Vice Pres.—Vernor Crane.
Sec.—Ruth Daniels.
Treas.—Athol Brainard.
Yell master—Harold Chambers.
Editor-in-chief—Mary Snedicor.

LITERARY NOTES.

The Designer for November presents advance styles for winter for adults and little folks. Those who have a winter wedding in prospect will appreciate the "Holiday Bride" offering bridal toilettes, going away gown, traveling coat and costumes for the attendants at the ceremony; "Catering for the home wedding" giving a dainty and inexpensive menu; and illustrating the latest in wedding invitations. "Points on dressmaking" follows in line with suggestions for the arrangement of the veil, wreath and other accessories regarding which the prospective bride is usually uncertain.

Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn's paper on "The Evolution of the Horse in America," which is the opening article in the November Century, would give distinction to any magazine. It is the second in his group on "Fossil Wonders of the West," the first, on the Bone Cabin Quarry of Wyoming," having appeared in September. This is the first complete account of the explorations of the American Museum of Natural History under the William C. Whitney Fund and presents very striking results in the direction of solving many problems in the fossil horse. The paper is fully illustrated.

The November Atlantic opens with a valuable and most interesting article by Alleyne Ireland on The United States in the Phillippines Mr. Ireland has spent over two years in the Far East in the especial study of the colonization question, and his article contains the ripe fruitage of his investigations. He holds, among other things, that the United States was compelled to acquire the Islands (could not possibly have done otherwise), but that it has badly managed them since their acquisition, largely from a failure to profit by the experience already gained by other nations in dealing with Oriental races.

There are thirty-eight signed contributions in the November Smart Set and no magazine can offer a greater variety of stories and poems, certainly no standard is higher. The novelette which opens the issue is called "The Surrender" and is written by Jas. Twells, Jr. It is a powerful study of divorce, presented with great insight and feeling. The scenes are dramatic in the extreme, are laid in Paris, and the author reveals an intimate knowledge of the French capital

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's cough remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists, Tecumseh, Mich.

Some men go to war because they can't get married, and some because they can't get a divorce.

The guarantee given with Mi-o-na is no ordinary promise. It is a guarantee bond signed by your own druggist, a reliable firm right in this town. Read the following guarantee bond and see how simple and plain it is:

QUARANTEE BOND,

I hereby agree to refund the money paid for Mi-o-na on return of empty box, if the purchaser tells him that it has failed to cure dyspepsia or stomach troubles. This guarantee covers two boxes, or a month's treatment. Price 50c per box.

(Signed).................

It does not always happen that two boxes of Mi-o-no will cure a case of stomach trouble that has been present for years, but they will certainly give more than enough benefit to prove that the remedy will cure. In ordinary cases one or two boxes will restore perfect health.

A few doses of Mi-o-na will strengthen the nerves of the stomach so that the appetite will return and you will be started on the right road to health.

Ninety-three per cent of chronic diseases begin with dyspepsia. Cure the dyspeptic troubles, regulate the digestion and avoid the fate of chronic invalidism.

Remember you run no risk in using Mi-o-na. C. A. Wright warrants it and it costs you nothing unless it cures.

CUPID'S WAYS.

Autumn Weddings of Considerable Importance occur

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 26.

Three Young Couple nave been Joined in Holy Wedlock and start ont on Life's Journey.

An interesting wedding of Wednesday was that of Miss Elsie Zimmerman and Louis Jinks, which took place at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Zimmerman. It was a chrysanthemum wedding and that beautiful autumn flower in yellow and white, combined with greenery and white bunting, lent additional attractiveness to the several rooms.

At the appointed hour the bridal party entered to the strains of the wedding hymn, "O, Promise Me," sung by Miss Edith Magers, who was accompanied at the piano by Miss Ethel Doke before and during the ceremony. The bridal party consisted of Miss Minnie Jinks of Jackson, sister of the groom, Miss Minnie Miller of Three Rivers, cousin of the bride, both gowned in white mull, Miss Marie Wilson gowned in gray crepe cloth and Miss Sadie Lowry in white silk mull. The former two entered the room carrying white ribbons wound with smilax, forming an isle from the stairway to the parlor, Miss Wilson and Miss Lowry following the bride and groom and gathering the ribbons. Miss Ina Blessing, as maid of honor and Charles Chapman, as best man, preceded the bride and groom through the isle of ribbon and smilax to a bank of palms and ferns, where Rev. Leslie Bower spoke the words which joined them in holy matrimony.

The guests 90 in number were received by the Misses Edna and Alice Gaston, Anna Darling, Nina McClure, Mabel Church and Anna Wilson.

The bride was becomingly attired in silk voile, champagne color, with silk trimmings. She carried a large bouquet of white chrysanthemums. Her bridesmaids carried pink and white carnations as did also her maid of honor, who wore a pretty dress of silk mull, champagne color. The groom wore the conventional black and the best man wore a dark suit.

After congratulations the bride threw her bouquet which was caught by Marie Wilson. A three course supper was served, the small tables being used. The bride's table was handsomely decorated with ferns, white roses were used for favors and white carnations at the bridesmaid's table.

The guests were served by the Misses Edna and Alice Gaston, Anna Wilson, Anna Darling, Nina McClure and Mabel Church.

As Tecumseh has always been the home of the bride, she naturally has a wide acquaintance here. A young lady of sterling worth, loved by all who know her. While the groom's stay here has been much briefer he has been very popular and the two begin their life journey under bright auspices. He is employed by the Lake Shore people and is fireman on the Dundee train. The esteem in which this young couple are held was testified by the beautiful array of presents from their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Jinks left for Chicago Thursday morning, where after a brief visit with relatives, they will return to Tecumseh and reside with Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman for this winter. The bride's traveling gown was of brown broadcloth.

Among the guests from out of town were, Mr. and Mrs. E. Chapman, Charles Chapman, of Marshall; Minnie Jinks, of Jackson; Ethel Doty, of Evans lake; Mrs. Fred Bierman and daughters, of Birdsall; Mrs. Frank Bierman and daughter, of Monroe; Miss Minnie Miller, of Three Rivers.

MIZE—MONTGOMERY.

On the evening of Oct. 26, 1904, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Mize was the scene of a very charming wedding, the contracting parties being Florence Gertrude, their daughter and Allen James Montgomery.

The wedding march from Mendelssohn followed by the bridal chorus was rendered by Miss Mary Mills as the bridal party took their places under a canopy of white lace and green vines banked by palms. The bride was lovely in a dress of mousseline de soie trimmed with mechlin lace. She carried white roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Gertrude Raymond, of Mason, was dressed in white china silk, her bouquet being pink roses. Ernest Albaugh of Hillsdale, was best man.

Rev. DeSpelder performed the double ring cremony, the ring bearers being Zella and Zorah Dickinson, twin nieces of the bridegroom. They were daintily dressed in white and carried the rings on the stems of a pink and white rose.

After congratulations a four course supper was served. The bride's table was decorated in white chrysanthemums and smilax. The other tables had smilax and pink carnations. Mrs. Karcher catered. The presents were beautiful and showed the high esteem in which the bride is held. Telegrams of congratulations were received from Detroit and Lansing.

There were about sixty guests present. Those from abroad were, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Raymond and daughters, Mable and Gertrude, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Raymond, Mr. Albert Bell, of Mason; Miss Abbie Mize, of Ypsilanti; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mize, of Wheeling, West Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Lane, of Holloway; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Neely, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Neely, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Neely, Miss Florence Neely, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Boyd, of Clinton.

The store of Anderson & Rosacrans was closed and the whole force were present to do honor to one who had been with them for nearly three years. It is understood that the newly wedded couple are to take in the fair at St. Louis but with the usual perversity of people under like circumstances, they would give no information on their destination.

We wish them a happy journey through life and hope it may be a long one.

TAYLOR—KNIFFEN.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor in Britton Wednesday occurred the marriage of their daughter, Ruby, to Leon Kniffen. At 12 o'clock the service was read by Rev. Bolton, using the ring service, the bridal couple standing beneath an arch of white chrysanthemums and ferns. Lohengrin's wedding march was rendered by Miss Madge Kniffen. The couple were attended by Earl Taylor, a brother of the bride, and Mabel Kniffen, a sister of the groom.

The bride was gowned in a beautiful dress of white silk with valenciennes lace trimmings and carried a shower bouquet of pink carnations. Her maid was gowned in a castor crepe cloth and carried pink carnations. The house was trimmed with white and yellow bunting. A two course dinner was served to 125 guests after congratulations.

Miss Taylor is quite well known in Tecumseh, having attended school here. They have the best wishes of their many friends in Tecumseh. They were the recipients of many beautiful presents. They will reside in Britton.

A PLEASANT RECEPTION.

The spacious home of Mrs. A. W. Mills was the scene of a very pretty reception Tuesday afternoon when the Research circle held their first open meeting of the season, the subject of the afternoon being, "A Day in Japan."

The rooms were very chamingly decorated with Japanese lanterns, fans and umbrellas, while a large Japanese flag was draped in the archway between the two parlors. In another archway ropes of small lanterns served as portieres, while larger ones were festooned around the walls of the various rooms. An immense umbrella filled one corner of the parlor and a smaller one was suspended in a doorway. Mrs. Ora Finch and Miss Mary Mills were in Japanese costume, Mrs. Finch receiving the guests, while Miss Mills presided over the table in a bower of autumn leaves in the reception hall and dispensed tea and macaroons to the guests.

At 3 'oclock the assembly was called to order by the President, Mrs. Joseph Crosby and Miss Mills opened the program with a piano solo, "The National Air of Japan." Mrs. Hurrey then read an intensely interesting and very instructive paper, the subject being, "Japan since 1854." The paper was extremely well written and well read. The secretary then called the roll to which several responded with interesting items about the war in the far east.

Miss Floy Freeman then very sweetly sang a delightful Japanese song, after which Mrs. Belcher told some interesting facts about Japan poetry and read several very pleasing little jingles, which were considered their best efforts in that line.

Following the program was a very enjoyable social hour during which the refreshment committee served an extremely dainty two course supper. The committee consisted of Mrs. May Keyser, as chairman, with Mrs. Woodward, Mrs. E. B. Wood, Mrs. Joseph VanNess, Mrs. James McKinney, Mrs. A. J. Bryan, Mrs. Paul Bowen, Mrs. Ora Finch and the Misses Helen Wilson and Jennie Gillespie. Although not a large affair, the reception was none the less a most enjoyable occasion.

PERILS OF LAND AND SEA

For many years, Captain Willnef, says the Times of Gloucester, Mass., was one of the best known seamen in the Gloucester Fleet. The sea and its dangers had no terror for him, but the catarrhal troubles with which he suffered for fifteen years made him dread the nights at sea, for he had to walk the cabin floor, being unable to lie down and sleep on account of the constant catarrhal dropping.

Captain Willnef went to two different hospitals for treatment, but could get no lasting benefit. He constantly raised yellow and green phlegm and his trouble became so unbearable and nauseating that he was ashamed to go out in company. When despairing of ever getting relief, his wife purchased a Hyomei outfit for him and trying it before going to bed, he enjoyed the first whole night's sleep for ten years. Captain Willnef says, "I have used less than two bottles of Hyomei and have been cured by the remedy. My friends ask me what is responsible for my improvement and I tell them Hyomei, which has given me full and complete recovery."

Captain Willnef's experience shows our readers what to do in time of catarrhal trouble,—use Hyomei. This remarkable treatment kills the germs of catarrh and makes lasting and permanent cures. C. A. Wright sells Hyomei under his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not give quick relief.

The woman of the hour is the one who promises to be ready in a second.

MUST BELIEVE IT.

When well-known Tecumseh people tell it so plainly.

When public endorsement is made by a representative citizen of Tecumseh the proof is positive. You must believe it. Read this testimony. Every backache sufferer, every man, woman or child with any kidney trouble will find profit in the reading.

George Merritt, the well known proprietor of the cigar manufactory, says: "I can testify to the honesty and worth of Doan's Kidney Pills. There is no humbug about them. I was annoyed for some time with a dull aching pain in my back at times quite severe. I heard so much about Doan's Kidney Pills that I procured a box at C. A. Wright's drug store. Finally the pain in my back disappeared entirely. Doan's Kidney Pills are a splendid remedy for all kidney ailments."

For sale by all dealers: Price 50 cents per box, Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

A woman's idea of a congenial husband is one who lets her have her own way in everything.

ROUND ABOUT US.

Dr. A. J. Porter is quite an extensive raiser of ginseng whom we failed to mention in our write up of the industry last week. The doctor says he does not anticipate making a fortune out of the plant but that its culture is most interesting and that he will not be a heavy loser even if the bottom drops entirely out of the ginseng market in a few years.—Brooklyn Exponent.

The idea that Japs are all patriotic and just itching to die for their country was exploded at the Hillsdale fair where a Jap juggler was entertaining the people. He was asked why he did not go home and help whip the Russians, and replied that he would rather be an American hobo than a dead Japanese hero.—Hudson Post.

A number of the patrons of the creamery thought the weather was so cool, they would not bring milk to the creamery last Sunday and saved the same till Monday. A sudden rise in temperature did not make things come their way, and Monday they found the milk was sour. There was a considerable loss in consequence.—Hudson Post.

A lad by the name of Sewell, of Clinton, was arrested charged with larceny of a pair of rubber boots from the Clinton Clothing Co. Saturday night. He was arraigned before Justice VanTuyle this afternoon. Prosecuting Attorney Joslin was present conducting the case for the people.—Adrian Times.

A flock of bees took possession of the ceiling in the first floor of the residence of Robert Beem in Hemlock some time ago. After several months' work Mr. Beem decided that the bees were a nuisance, tore down the ceiling and took out 160 pounds of honey. Bees and persons do not get along very well together.—Reese Review.

Peter Fitzsimmons residing on the East side planted some squash seeds of the Mammoth Mountain variety this season and last week harvested his crop. The smallest one he raised of this variety, he placed on exhibition in Colvin & Buck's window at the Palace market and the squash tipped the scales at exactly 70 pounds. He thought this was pretty good for a small one and says he is going to try and have some large ones to exhibit next year.—Hudson Gazette.

A farmer near Union City amazes his neighbors by keeping apples, pears, peaches, grapes, etc., in their natural state for several years. He now has apples and grapes grown in 1901 which can hardly be distinguished from this year's product. He now gives out his method of preservation, which is very simple, as he merely selects well developed fruit with good stems, picks it carefully and sears the end of the stem with a lighted match. Then he wipes the fruit perfectly dry, places it in a piece of dry wrapping paper and lays it away in a moderately dry and cool cellar.—Albion Mirror.

There is one town that has solved the the tramp question. The city council had a 1000 meal tickets printed, good for one meal when signed by the city marshal. They were then distributed among the women of the town, when a tramp calls he is given one. When the tramp goes to the marshal the latter promptly puts him to work on the street for a couple of hours to pay for his meal.—Ex.

An editor work 365¼ days per year to get out fifty-two issues of his paper—that's labor. Once in a while somebody pays him a year's subscription—that's capital, and once in a while some dead beat takes the paper a year or two without paying for it, that's anarchy. But later on, justice will overtake the last named creature, for there is a place where he will get his just deserts—that's hell.—Ex.

Sunday night a large touring car went through the city, westward bound. It was loaded with passengers, who were evidently rather cold and uncomfortable. It had a large searchlight in front and behind was hung a red lantern, but from the rate of speed it hardly needed a danger signal at the rear, for it would have been hard to catch. If this thing continues, it will be necessary for the city fathers to pass an ordinance regulating the speed of autos.—Hudson Post.

It might be good politics for every family to provide itself with ample and sufficient firearms for the protection of their property. Chicken thieving is getting almost as common as dandelions in springtime and of late house thieves are becoming more than numerous. To penetrate the skin of a lot of these fellows with good sized bullets would be a blessing to the country generally and the sooner somebody gets at it the better.—Saline Observer.

A woman was in a trance in Indiana for 18 hours, and she avers she was in heaven, where she saw her grandparents and a number of relatives. Her home is in Ohio, but she was hiding from her husband. Strange to say she was in heaven, too, all the while, but she didn't know it. Most Ohio married women are in heaven the moment they get out of the state without the husband, and don't have to be in a trance either. They don't always see their granddad, however, unless they eat mince pie just before retiring. Then they are liable to see both grandparents and their mother-in-law.—Adrian Press.

Better than pills.

The question has been asked—In what way are Chamberlain's stomach and liver tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is—They are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle and so agreeable that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then they not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and aid digestion. For sale by all druggists in Tecumseh.
